Poetry.

For the Patriot.

Washing Day.

It was washing day, so dreadful!
Surely everybody knows,
Who has had any experience
With tubs and dirty clothes;
A woman promised to help me,
But, alas! their promises fail;
I had to row the boat alone,
And also hoist the sail.

I washed till I grew weary,
I washed till ready to faint,
But didn't quite, I believe;
Though sad was my complaint.
'Twas eleven, by my little clock,
When I thought of dinner to get.
I broke nothing in my hurry,
Though a few things I upset.

'Twas nearly five when I finished.
Then I lay me down to rest;
Indeed, I was all exhausted,
My mind was much depressed.
I slept a little while and dreamed,
But I'll not relate it here;
The door bell rung and awoke me—
I knew that a caller was near.

I opened the door: 'twas a sunbeam;
I was happy to greet its smile;
It followed me to the sitting-room,
There we chatted awhile.
Of course you must know, by this time,
By the sunbeam, I mean a friend,
Who by her smiles and warm heart
Brightens the hours I spend.

Now can't we all be a sunbeam,
Ever shining in some one's way;
To brighten the path of our neighbor,
Help to make it a sunny day.
Were it not for the smiles of friends,
To me this world would be dreary;
Thank God, he has given them to me,
To comfort me when I am weary.

And though washing day comes often,
With all its trials severe,
I'll try to be patient and thankful
For the blessings I do have so dear.
Soon there is rest for the weary,
A crown for the faithful and true,
No more washing days will disturb us,
We shall a happier course pursue.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

To Can Pears. To every four pounds of fruit add one of sugar; dissolve the sugar in enough boiling water to melt it; simmer slowly for fifteen minutes, carefully removing all the scum which rises. Now put on the pears, boil for twenty or thirty minutes; skim out and put in the jars boiling hot; boil the syrup briskly for ten minutes; then turn into the jars and seal at once.

Tea Cake. One cup of sour milk; one cup raisins; one cup of sugar; one egg: one-half cup of butter; one teaspoon of soda; two and one-half cups of flour; dark spices.

Cup Cake. One cup of butter; four eggs; two cups of milk; two teaspoons of cream tartar; three cups of sugar; one teaspoon of soda; five cups of flour.

Miscellany.

An Angel in a Saloon.

One afternoon in the month of June, 1870, a lady in deep mourning, followed by a little child, entered one of the fashionable saloons in the city of N——. The writer happened to be passing at the time, and prompted by curiosity, followed her in to see what would ensue. Stepping up to the bar, and addressing the proprietor, she said:

"Sir, can you assist me? I have no home, no friends, and am not able to work."

He glanced at her, and then at the child, with a mingled look of curiosity and pity. Evidently he was much surprised to see a woman in such a place, begging; but, without asking any questions, gave her some change, and turning to those present, he said:

"Gentlemen, here is a lady in distress. Can't some of you help her a little?"

They cheerfully acceded to the request, and soon a purse of two dollars was made up and put in her hand.

"Madam," said the gentleman who gave her the money, "why do you come to a saloon? It isn't a proper place for a lady, and why are you driven to such a step?"

"Sir," said the lady, "I know it isn't a proper place for a lady to be in, and you ask me why I am driven to such a step? I will tell you in one short word," pointing to a bottle behind the counter labeled "whiskey"—"that is what brought me here—whiskey. I was once happy, and surrounded with all the luxuries wealth could procure, with a fond, indulgent husband. But in an evil hour he was tempted, and not possessing the will to resist the temptation, fell, and in one short year my dream of happiness was over, my home was forever desolate and the kind husband and the wealth that some called mine, lost—lost never to return, and all by the accursed wine-cup. You see before you only the wreck of my former self, homeless and friendless, with nothing left me in this world but this little child;" and, weeping bitterly, she affectionately caressed the golden curls that shaded a face of exquisite loveliness. Regaining her composure, and turning to the proprietor of the saloon, she continued:

"Sir, the reason why I occasionally enter a place like this is to implore those who deal in the deadly poison to desist, to stop a business that spreads desolation, ruin, poverty and starvation. Think one moment of your own loved ones, and then imagine them in the situation I am in.—I appeal to your better nature, I appeal to your heart, for I know you possess a kind one, to retire from a business so ruinous to your patrons.

"Do you know the money you take across the bar is the same thing as the bread out of the mouths of the famished wives and children of your customers? That it strips the clothing from their backs, deprives them of all the comforts of this life, and throws unhappiness, misery, crime and desolation into their once happy homes? Oh! sir, I implore, beseech, and pray you to retire from a business you blush to own you are engaged in before your fellow-men, and enter one that will not only be profitable to yourself, but your fellow-creatures also. You will excuse me if I have spoken too plainly, but I could not help it when I thought of the misery, the unhappiness, and the suffering it has caused me."

"Madam, I am not offended," he answered, in a voice husky with emotion, "but I thank you from the bottom of my heart for what you have said."

"Mamma," said the little girl who, meantime, had been spoken to by some of the gentlemen present, taking hold of her mother's hand, "these gentlemen want me to sing, 'Little Bessie' for them. Shall I do so?"

They all joined in the request, and placing her in a chair, she sang, in a sweet, childish voice, the following beautiful song:

"Out in the gloomy night, sadly I roam,
I have no mother dear, no pleasant home;
No one cares for me, no one would cry
Even if poor little Bessie would die.
Weary and tired I've been wandering all day,
Asking for work, but I'm too small, they say;
On the damp ground I must now lay my head;
Father's a drunkard and mother is dead.

We were so happy till father drank rum,
Then all our sorrows and trouble begun;
Mother grew pale, and wept every day;
Baby and I were to hungry too play;
Slowly they faded, till one summer night
Found their dead faces all silent and white;
Then, with big tears slowly dropping, I said,
Father's a drunkard and mother is dead.

"O! if the temperance men only could find
Poor, wretched father, and talk very kind;
If they would stop him from drinking, then
I should be so very happy again.
Is it too late temperance men? Please try,
Or poor little Bessie must soon starve and die.
All the day long I've been begging for bread;
Father's a drunkard and mother is dead."

The game of billiards was left unfinished, the cards thrown aside, and the unemptied glass remained on the counter; all had pressed near, some with pity beaming eyes entranced with the musical voice and beauty of the child, who seemed better fitted to be with angels above than in such a place.

The scene I shall never forget to my dying day, and the sweet cadence of her musical voice still rings in my ears, and every word of the song as it dropped from her lips sank deep into the hearts of those gathered around her.

With her golden hair falling carelessly around her shoulders, and looking so trustingly and confidingly upon the gentlemen around her, her beautiful eyes illuminated with a light that seemed not of this earth, she formed a picture of purity and innocence worthy the genius of a poet or painter.

At the close of the song many were weeping; men who had not shed a tear for years now wept like children. One young man who had resisted with scorn the pleadings of a loving mother and the entreaties of friends to strive to lead a better life, to desist from a course that was wasting his fortune and ruining his health, now approached the child, and taking both hands in his, while tears streamed down his cheeks, exclaimed, with deep emotion:

"God bless you, my little angel. You have saved me from ruin and disgrace, from poverty and a drunkard's grave.—If there are angels on earth, you are one! God bless you! God bless you!" and putting a note into the hands of the mother, said:

"Please accept this trifle as a token of my regard and esteem, for your little girl has done me a kindness I can never repay; and remember, whenever you are in want, you will find me a true friend," at the same time giving her his name and address.

Taking her child by the hand she turned to go, but pausing at the door, said:

"God bless you gentlemen! Accept the heartfelt thanks of a poor, friendless woman for the kindness and courtesy you have shown her." Before any one could reply she was gone.

A silence of several minutes ensued, which was broken by the proprietor, who exclaimed:

"Gentlemen, that lady was right, and I have sold my last glass of whiskey; if any of you want more you will have to go elsewhere."

"And I have drank my last glass of whiskey," said a young man who had long been given up as utterly beyond the reach of those who had a deep interest in his welfare, as sunk too low ever to reform.

Late Remorse.

Have you ever stood by the grave of one dear to you, and been compelled to remember how much happier you might have made that life which has now passed beyond your reach? Has the hasty or unkind word come back to you, and repeated itself over and over till you would gladly have given a year of your own life to recall it and make it as if it had never been? Let us remember that those who are now living may soon be dead, and beware of adding to the things done that ought not to have been done, the things undone that ought to have been done. Many a heart has languished for the tenderness withheld in life, but poured out too late in remorseful and unavailing regret. Let us be tender to our friends while they are with us, nor wait till they are dead to find their good qualities. Let us bring all possible sweetness and truthfulness into all our relations, thus blest and being blest; let us keep our aims high, our hearts warm, our hands ready to do good. So shall we ally ourselves with heavenly legions, who will fight our battles with the powers of darkness. So shall we, amid the changes of our earthly lot, plant ourselves upon the everlasting foundation, and calmly note how the things of this world fade and pass away, knowing that we have laid up a store of things that endure.—Celia Burleigh in Christian Union.

Amusements for the Young.

Touch hundreds at the same time.—Touch your hair.

Place three chairs in the middle of a room; then pull of your shoes and jump over them. Jump over your shoes.

Say nine times without a mistake:—"Three seives of sifted thistles, and three seives of unsifted thistles."

Go out of the room with two legs, and come in with six. Bring in a chair with you.

Place a ruler on the floor of a room so that no one can jump over it. Put it close to the wall.

Lay a handkerchief on the floor so that two persons can stand on it, and yet not be able to touch each other. Lay it under the door and place one person on one side of the door and another on the other side.

Say twice, without a mistake, "Peter Piper's peacock pecked a peck of pepper out of a pewter platter; if Peter Piper's peacock pecked a peck of pepper out of a pewter platter, where's the peck of pepper Peter piper's peacock picked."

Be Cheerful.

Emerson says:—"Do not hang a dismal picture on your wall, and do not deal with sables and gloom in your conversation." Beecher follows with:—"Away with these fellows who go howling through life all the while passing for birds of paradise. He that cannot laugh and be gay should look well to himself. He should fast and pray until his face breaks forth into light." Talmage then takes up the strain: "Some people have an idea that they comfort the afflicted when they groan over them. Don't drive a hearse through a man's soul.—When you bind up a broken bone of the soul, and you want splints, do not make them of cast-iron." After such counselings and admonitions, lay aside your long faces.

Poetical.

One quiet day in leafy June, when bees and birds are all in tune, two lovers walked beneath the moon. The night was fair, so was the maid; they walked and talked beneath the shade, with none to harm or make afraid.

Her name was Sal and his was Jim, and he was fat and she was thin; he took to her, and she to him.

Says Jim to Sal, "By all the smakes that squirm among the brush an' brakes, I love you better'n buckwheat cakes."

Says she to Jim, "Since you've begun it, and been and gone and done it, I love you next to a new bonnet."

Says Jim to Sal, "My heart you've busted, but I have always gals mistrusted."

Says Sal to Jim, "I will be true; if you love me as I love you, no knife could cut our love in two."

Says Jim to Sal, "Through thick and thin, for your true lover count me in. I'll court no other girl agin."

Jim leaned to Sal, Sal leaned to Jim, his nose just touched above her chin;—four lips met—went—ahem—ahem!—And then—and then—and then. O gals beware of men in June, and underneath the silvery moon, when frogs and June bugs are in tune, lest you get your names in the papers soon.

A Valuable Jewel.

A young man of Nuremburg, who had no fortune, requested a lawyer, a friend of his, to recommend him to a family where he was a daily visitor, and where there was a handsome daughter, who was to have a large fortune. He did so. The father inquired his means; the lawyer said he did not know, but he would inquire. The next time he saw his young friend, he asked him if he had any property at all.

"No," replied he.

"Well," replied the lawyer, "would you suffer any one to cut off your nose, if he would give you twenty thousand dollars for it?"

"Not for the world!"

"'Tis well," replied the lawyer; I had a reason for asking."

The next time he saw the girl's father, he said:

"I have enquired about the young man's circumstances. He has indeed, no ready money, but he has a jewel, for which, to my knowledge, he has been offered and refused twenty thousand dollars."

This induced the old father to consent to the marriage, which accordingly took place, though it is said that in the sequel he often shook his head when he thought of the jewel.

Childhood.

Children are but little people, yet they form a very important part of society, expending much of our capital, have considerable influence on the corn-laws, employ a great portion of our population in their service, and occupy half the literati of our day in labors for their instruction and amusement. They cause more trouble and anxiety than the national debt, the loveliest of women in her maturity of charms breaks not so many slumbers nor occasions so many sighs as she did in her cradle; and the handsomest of men with full grown mustache must not flatter himself that he is half so much admired as he was when in petticoats. Without any reference to their being future statesmen, philosophers and magistrates in minature disguise, children form, in their present state of pigmy existence, a most influential class of beings; and the arrival of a mewling infant who can scarcely open its eyes, and only open its mouth, like an unfledged bird, for food, will affect the most extraordinary alteration in a whole household; substitute affection for coldness, duty for dissipation, cheerfulness for gravity, bustle for formality; unite hearts which time has divided, soften feelings which the world had hardened; teach women of fashion to criticise pap, and grave metaphysicians to crawl on all fours.

Glycerine.

Glycerine must be regarded as one of the many useful substances developed by modern chemistry. If pure, its effects are mild and bland, when placed upon tender and broken skin. Sore lips, sore eyelids, chapped hands, etc., are soothed and healed under its application. When mixed with soft water, one part glycerine to two of water, it may be applied to all abrasions of the skin with advantage.

These desirable qualities are only found in pure glycerine. The abominable liquids sold in the shops generally, as glycerine, possess opposite qualities from those belonging to the pure article. They produce burning and inflammatory action, and other disagreeable effects.—They contain oxalates, formates, ammonia, etc., which have not been removed by any process of purification. The only way to arrest the production and sale of impure glycerine and other chemical and medicinal agents, is for physicians and consumers to demand of druggists a true and pure article, and use no substances, especially in medicine, because it is cheap.—Journal of Chemistry

The Journey of Life.

Ten thousand human beings set forth together on their journey. After ten years, one third, at least, have disappeared. At the middle point of the common measure of life, but half are still upon the road. Faster and faster, as the ranks grow thinner, they that remain till now become weary, and lie down, and rise no more. At three score and ten a band of some four hundred yet struggle on. At ninety these have been reduced to a handful ot thirty trembling patriarchs. Year after year they fall in diminishing numbers. One lingers, perhaps, a lonely marvel, till the century is over. We look again, and the work of death is finished.

Popular Errors.

To think that the more a man eats the fatter and stronger he will become. To believe that the more hours children study the faster they learn. To conclude that, if exercise is good, the more violent it is the more good is done. To imagine that every hour taken from sleep is an hour gained. To act on the presumption that the smallest room in the house is large enough to sleep in. To argue that whatever remedy causes one to feel immediately better is good for the system, without regard to more ulterior effect.—To eat without an appetite; or to continue to eat after it has been satisfied, merely to gratify the taste. To eat a hearty supper for the pleasure experienced during the brief time it is passing down the throat at the expense of a whole night of disturbed sleep and a weary waking in the morning.

Happiness.

The idea has been transmitted from generation to generation that happiness is one of large and beautiful precious stones a single gem so rare that all search after it is not vain. Happiness is a Mosaic composed of many small stones. Each taken apart and viewed singly may be of little value, but when all are grouped together and judiciously combined and set, they form a pleasing and graceful whole--a costly jewel. Trample not under foot then the little pleasures which a gracious Providence scatters in the daily path and which in eager search after some great and exciting joy, we are so apt to overlook. Why should we always keep our eyes fixed on the bright, distant horizon, while there are such lovely roses in the garden in which we are permitted to walk? The very ardor of our chase after happiness may be the reason that she so often eludes our grasp. We pantingly strain after her when she has been graciously brought nigh unto us.

Purity of Character.

Over the plum and apricot there grows a bloom more delicate than the fruit itself—a soft, delicate flush spreads its flushing cheeks. Now if you strike your hand over it, it is gone. The flower that hangs in the morning impearled with dew arrayed as no queenly woman was arrayed in jewels—once shake it so that the beads drop off and you may sprinkle it as much as you please, yet it will never be again what it was when the dew fell silently on it from Heaven. So there is in youth a beauty and purity of character, which, when once touched and defiled, can never be restored.

Duck Shooting. Two Titusville, Pa., lawyers entered into a solemn compact not to drink intoxicating liquors for a year except when out duck shooting, under forfeit of $100. One of them quenches his thirst without losing his ducats by keeping a duck in his backyard to fire at when he is dry, and the other has invested in one also.

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

THE FIRE.

On Monday noon last, as the wind was blowing quite hard from the northwest, the cry of fire was sounded in our ears, and the bells soon sent forth peal after peal, and each citizen as he heard the alarm felt no little anxiety as to the result. Fortunately the burning building was situated favorably, and the gale took the sparks and cinders away from the buildings in the vicinity, or there would have been a large fire; there being a scarcity of water.

The fire was discovered in a barn owned and occupied by Geo. W. Brooks, near his residence, on Centre street.—Mr. Brooks and Mr. Thomas Bates had been at work carting out manure, all the forenoon till within a few minutes of twelve o'clock, when Mr. Brooks went into the barn and put his horse into the stall. He then started for his store on Water street, and had been gone but a few minutes before the alarm was sounded. Mr. Bates who was at work about two rods from the stable, noticing smoke coming out of the door went to the barn and found it on fire. His first efforts were to save the horse, but owing to the smoke and flames, in this he failed. The horse jumped and kicked so badly that he was unable to undo or even cut the halter. He succeeded however in saving a wagon and some other articles.

Mr. Brooks estimates his loss at $2,500, which in part consists of a barn, shed, several tons of hay, horse, two pigs, harnesses, robes, &c. Insured at the Quincy Mutual for $950. His house was saved by citizens with Johnson's fire extinguishers, which did good service.—Their value is being more and more appreciated by our citizens. The Fire Department was unable to do much good from the lack of water. The fire is supposed to have been accidental.

A number of boys who visited the fire stole all the fruit that Mr. Brooks had consisting of apples, pears, grapes, &c., adding much to his loss and to the disgrace of the town. There is a set of fellows who make it a practice to steal at fires; if it is not fruit it is something else and we think it would be wise, if the Selectmen would appoint some persons to look out for property at fires and pay them well for doing it.

SEVERE ACCIDENT. On Thursday afternoon, Mr. John F. Hogan of Norton, near Taunton, Mass., was severely if not fatally injured at Wollaston. He was somewhat intoxicated and in trying to get off the train after it had started, was struck on the head by a car knocking him down between the car and platform; the wheels of the rear car passing over his left arm nearly severing it from the body. Dr. Small was summoned who found it necessary to amputate the arm at the shoulder joint. He was carried to City Hospital, Boston. He is a native of Liverpool, England, is about thirty years old, and has a wife and three children at Norton.

SUDDEN DEATH. A young man, named Eugene Lyons, twenty-six years of age, residing near Neponset bridge in this town, was found dead in his bed on Wednesday morning last. He had been engaged in moving household furniture till late in the night preceeding his death. Coroner Lewis Bass viewed the body, and called in Dr. Blanchard of Neponset who gave the opinion that the deceased died in a fit. From this and upon further inquiry, the Coroner deemed an inquest unnecessary.

PERSONAL. We are pleased to invite the readers' attention to the advertisement of Dr. N. Downes, of Hanover, who comes to this place very highly recommended by some of the best physicians of Boston and vicinity. He has had much experience having been in practice the past twenty years.

BOUND FOR EUROPE. Joseph G. Shehan who recently graduated at Harvard College, left home on Wednesday last for Europe, where we believe he intends pursuing his studies for a time. May his future be a grand success.

SOUTH BRAINTREE. We have received a communication from this place in reply to B. on the late Dr. Storrs, which we should be pleased to publish, if the writer would furnish his name.

Communications must always be accompanied with the writer's name to insure insertion.

SAD ACCIDENT. An interesting little child, of Mr. James Gibbs, about fourteen months old, residing in the westerly part of the town, near the Milton line, was drowned on Saturday morning of last week. Its mother left it alone about ten minutes to do some sweeping up stairs, and on her return to her great consternation, she found that her little one had fell head first into a firkin, containing a few quarts of slop water, and was dead.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Rev. Edward Norton begins his labors with this church to-morrow, with a sermon in the morning appropriate to the occasion. Preaching in the afternoon at 2 1-2 o'clock instead of the evening. Social meeting in the evening at 7 o'clock.—This will hereafter be the order of service.

Proposition from H. H. Faxon.

To the Pastors, Superintendents, and Teachers of the Sunday Schools of Quincy.

Wishing to promote the cause of temperance in a moral direction, which all are ready to admit is one of the methods to be adopted to insure success, and at the same time aid the Sunday Schools of the town, I propose to give two thousand dollars in sums from fifty to five hundred dollars as prizes.

The same to be contested for by the delivery of a temperance address by one member from each Society, selected by the Superintendent and Teachers of the Sunday Schools connected therewith.

The largest sum to be received by the Society for the benefit of its Sunday School, that shall give to the public through its member chosen the best address and so on down a scale sufficient to absorb the sum above named.

This proposition is made with the understanding that as many as nine out of the ten Societies shall take part in the contest for the prizes mentioned.

Please consult your friends relative to the subject matter and write me if you are favorably impressed and ready to take bold with zeal, and oblige,

Yours truly,
HENRY H. FAXON.

Quincy, August 5th, 1873.

September 22d, 1873, the ten Societies addressed had been heard from.—Eight had expressed their readiness to accept the proposition; one declined, no reason given; and one because of prizes.

Wishing to encourage those Societies that thought favorably of the enterprise Mr. Faxon called a meeting at his residence on the 26th ult., and the following programme was adopted, viz:

1st. That each Society procure any lecturer it pleases.

2d. That the lectures shall be delivered in the Town Hall.

3d. That the lowest prize awarded shall be one hundred dollars.

4th. That every Society through its members shall do all in its power to have a full attendance at all the lectures.

5th. That at the conclusion of the lectures the sum of two thousand dollars shall be distributed by the donor, among the contesting Societies, for the benefit of their respective Sunday Schools; the same to be expended in any way that the Pastor, Superintendent, and Teachers, of each school represented, may deem advisable.

6th. The amount awarded to each school to be decided by the donor, in proportion to the merits, in the direction of temperance, of each lecture.

7th. That T. B. Emery be a committee to engage singers for each meeting.

8th. Any modification of arrangements, or any other business connected with the matter, to be decided by a majority at any meeting of the delegates called for the purpose.

There were present at the meeting delegates representing seven Sunday Schools. One absent on account of sickness. Several prominent gentlemen have been engaged and the lectures are to commence as soon as possible, of which due notice will be given through the columns of the Patriot.

DELICIOUS GRAPES. Messrs. Waterman and Hussey, agents for the sale of trees, vines, bushes, shrubs, &c., from the large and reliable nursery of Chase Brothers & Stone, Rochester, N. Y., are in town. Although they have been here but a short time they have taken orders from many of the wealthy and prominent citizens of the place, to the amount of several hundred dollars. The firm they are canvassing for is highly recommended, and having the best and choicest kind of trees and shrubs they find but little trouble in taking orders. Among their variety of excellent grapes is the Croton, probably somewhat new to the most of our readers, still highly prized by those acquainted with it, for several reasons, viz:—It is very early, several weeks before the Concord, therefore it is sure to get ripe which is of great importance in this latitude. The vine is hardy, vigorous and productive. The bunches are large, of a light yellowish green color and very beautiful in appearance. The fruit is very sweet and almost entirely dissolves in the mouth.

Any letter or order left at this office for these agents will be promptly attended to.

EAST MILTON. One day last week some thief stole from Mr. Hutchins who is building a house in East Milton for S. F. Littlefield, a full set of carpenters tools. There are some suspicions of the thief but he has not yet been arrested.

Three houses and one store are being built in East Milton this Autumn.

WOODEN WEDDING PARTY. The fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Emory, was made the occasion of a very pleasant party on Wednesday evening, by a large number of their friends, who brought with them some nice presents, useful as well as ornamental. Some of them were handsomely decorated with beautiful flowers.

A HANDSOME SUM. We learn that George H. Locke, Esq., the efficient and energetic Collector of Taxes in Quincy, collected previous to the 15th of Sept. the time allowed for discount on taxes, the large amount of $98,686.37. Nearly the whole of this sum was received in about two weeks.

LECTURES. Dr. B. M. Lawrence and Lady, will deliver two of their very interesting lectures on temperance, in the Methodist Church, Quincy Point, on Sunday and Monday evenings. His lectures are spoken of in a very complimentary manner.

"The right man in the right place." For Register of Deeds, for Norfolk County, Mr. J. H. Burdakin, the present efficient assistant Register.

Letters of Travels, No. 4.

ONEIDA, N. Y., Sept. 25th, 1873.

The last Legislature in this State passed a civil damage law something after the famous Ohio pattern, which is now being tested in several western States.—In many cases it works well, but like all other laws, it has its enemies. One objection is, that sensitive wives and friends of the damaged parties dislike the publicity of the prosecutions; another is, that no amount of money can restore the loss of life, health, or of character.

A case, sad indeed, occurred during our stay in Medina, N. Y. An only son of a wealthy family learned to love liquor in his father's drug store. To break up the habit the father sold out, but he still continued to indulge. Returning home late one Saturday night, after gambling and drinking to excess, his mother conducted him to bed; hardly was the door of his chamber closed before the report of a revolver raised the alarm, and disclosed the terrible fact that he had fired a ball through his brain. Out of respect for the feelings of his many friends perhaps the coroners' jury brought a verdict of "death caused by accident." In cases like this the law does no good. Another objection is that a calamity must occur before it can be executed.

We remained a week and gave a series of lectures in the beautiful city of Rochester. Enforcement of the Sunday Liquor Law was the leading cause of a spasmodic local excitement on the subject of "our specialty." A great mass meeting was held to thank the city officials for enforcing the law, strange that men after having been elected to enforce the laws, after having taken an oath to enforce the laws, and after having been amply paid for enforcing the laws, should ever expect votes of thanks and long resolutions for only, (as the sequel proved having partially performed a sworn duty to the public."

Susan B. Anthony, the irrepressible, and a host of other very intelligent ladies are determined to vote again at the coming election. Perhaps they take some courage from the fact that the judge, who surely overlooked the law and justice by taking the case out of the juries hands and deciding against them has since committed suicide by drowning himself. We were the guests of a Mrs. Ama Posts, a most noble woman. Herself and husband long since kept a station on the underground railroad, and her house is ever the home of the true reformer.—Here Sojourner Truth has spent much of her time, and it is really refreshing to hear of the wonderful career of this remarkable woman.

Until recently this city was the home of Frederick Douglas, whose life although in many respects possessing not more of interest, is better known to the public. One little anecdote in his history is worth relating. During the war Douglas used to speak occasionally at a colored peoples Church. The white folks would come in large numbers to hear him, sometimes crowding out the regular members. They said this was not just if the citizens wanted to hear they ought to procure a place for him to speak. This was done and a great audience gathered in the Corinthian hall. Among those standing for want of seats were some Irishmen, and a class of people then designated as copperheads. After speaking for nearly an hour Douglas paused a moment to take a glass of water or wipe his sweating face, for he spake with a power and eloquence that was irresistible. Perhaps without thinking Pat spoke out in meeting, exclaiming, "well faith bees smart for a nagar anyhow." His copperhead companion coolly replied "he ain't a niger, bees only half niger." "Only half a nagar," said Pat "If he was only a whole nagar faith and by the holy Moses heed bate the Prophet Jeremiah now sure."

The Western New York Fair held in this city revealed a vast amount of enterprise among the people of this section. The nurserymen are becoming widely known and Monroe County is justly celebrated for its great variety of delicious fruits. Wayne County boasts of having given birth to Mormonism and modern Spiritualism. Here it is claimed the Latter Day Saints dug up their wonderful bible, and the Fox girls first attained the raps near Hydeville. Another marvel now makes a strange trio for this section. A number of the most intelligent and respectable people tell us that they have really seen the faces and forms of spirits, exactly like friends they have lost, while sitting in the presence of a Mrs. White, of Alton, Georgia County, N. Y. Not only so but there ghastly visitors are said to materialize themselves, so as to be felt and heard. But it remained for Madison Co., N. Y., to out-Herod all the rest of the world in raising up a a sect, known as the Oneida Community. Rev. J. H. Noyes is the founder. They claim to be bible Christians. Like the Shakers they "hold all things in common." They have a most beautiful place here and a branch place at Wallingford, Conn., at each of which we have repeatedly had pleasant visits. They are remarkable for their industry, their honest dealings, their intellectual and musical culture. They make sewing silks, and steel traps, and raise abundance of the rarest qualities of fruits. They publish a weekly paper, a late copy of which I forward to you.—What will be the fate of these religious enthusiasts after the death of their founder, time alone can reveal. A few words about the great western movement and this too long letter will close. The late elections in California resulted in a defeat of the railroads. Recent conventions in the west show that the Granges are determined to mow down all monopolies.—They have just published the first number of THE SYTHE, a new paper started with fifty thousand copies. From this organ we learn that Iowa has already more than 1700 Granges with not less than 200,000 voting members. These men will sweep everything before them at their coming election, and the railroad rings will be broken: old political parties will be entirely overthrown. Land grants, salary grabs, high tariffs, and all forms of legislation including the national banks, will have to give way before the strong arm of these western farmers, and the coming anti-monopoly party.

With this we terminate our western tour and return to Quincy Point.

B. M. LAWRENCE, M. D.

District Court of East Norfolk.

MONDAY.

James Burke of Randolph, for assault on James Fitzgerald. Case continued till Wednesday morning.

John Alexander, of Quincy, was found guilty and fined $50 and costs, for keeping a liquor nuisance, at the Bellevue house.

The continued case of Mrs. Winship and Mary Jane McLoy, for the larceny of fruit, was ended by their being discharged.

TUESDAY.

There was quite a large number of males and females, before the court for trial this morning; mostly on the liquor question.

Daniel, Cornelius, and Margaret Cohen; Michael and Margaret Cleary; Michael and Mary Griffin and Bridget Morrill all of Weymouth, were complained of by George W. White, Jr., for being common sellers of intoxicating liquors. Margaret and Cornelius Cohen, also Margaret Cleary and Bridget Morrill were found guilty of the offence and were each ordered to pay a fine of $50 and costs.

Michael Griffin was fined $10 and sentenced to the House of Correction for twenty days. Michael Cleary, Daniel Cohen, and Mary Griffin were discharged.

Peter McCornerty of Quincy, was charged with illegally transporting liquors. Owing to a variance in the complaint, he was discharged.

John Jones and William Jones of Quincy, pleaded guilty to being drunk and were each fined $3 and costs.

WEDNESDAY.

James Branon and George Ramsey of Boston, were found guilty of committing an assault, and fined $3 and costs each.

Edward Burke of Randolph, for assault was found guilty and sent to the House of Correction for two months.

THURSDAY.

Andrew Tracey of Weymouth for illegally keeping intoxicating liquors for sale. Found guilty. This being his second offence he was fined $10, and sent to the House of Correction for thirty days.

George Merritt of Weymouth, for illegally keeping intoxicating liquors for sale at the Pine Point House. He plead guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

Four juveniles were tried before Justice Bumpus this morning, charged with stealing fruit. Their names were Frederick Krind, Timothy Healy, Edward McCue and Herbert Hunt. They were from Dorchester and were complained of by Robert M. Todd, of Milton, for stealing his fruit. Some handsome and choice bunches of grapes on which special pains had been taken were among the lot. They were each fined $5 and costs.

FRIDAY.

Eugene F. Langley, of Randolph, was found guilty of committing an assault on Nicholas McMahon. He was fined $10 and costs.

HORSE EPIDEMIC. The horse disease still prevails to some extent in this town. On Sunday last, Mr. Josiah Packard, at the Point, was obliged to have two of his animals shot, that were sick with the infectious disease. Mr. Joseph Fletcher lost one on Sunday valued at $300. A noble Morgan steed, highly prized by his owner, Mr. Gridley Totman, is among the animals that have recently died. He was brought to this town by the late Captain Willie Morton, and had done duty on the battlefield.

☞ The Daily Graphic Balloon, will start on its transatlantic expedition if the weather proves favorable, this afternoon at five o'clock.

☞ Flowers and fruit for the Boston Hospitals may be left on Wednesday afternoon and evening of next week, at the house of Mrs. Francis Williams, Hancock Street.

CHRIST CHURCH. Sunday School tomorrow at 9 30 A. M. Service with the Holy Communion at 10 30 A. M. Service at 4 00 P. M. The public are cordially invited to attend. Seats free.

☞ Who appreciates the fact that there is any great importance attached to such a commodity as a Pill? It is generally supposed that anybody can make them, as all can take them. But visit the laboratory of Dr. J. C. Ayer and you will be disabused of the idea, that it is a trifle to make any medicine and adapt it to the wants of millions of men—to so adjust it to their needs, and so cure their complaints, as to make them its constant customers in all the zones. Physicians find it requires some skill to adapt their doses to a single patient: ask them if it is not an intricate problem to adjust a purgative pill to the necessities of untold numbers, so that it shall benefit them nearly all. Dr. Ayer's laboratory supplies 60,000 doses of his Pills per diem, or 19,000,000 a year. Think of that Esculapius! Well may it whiten the head of any man to administer to that amount of suffering, and especially when as is here evident, everything is done with the extremest nicety and care.—Randolph (Vt.) Statesman.

A BIG SALE. Be sure to read the advertisement of livery stock at auction, as you will find this to be one of the best chances to secure a good team, that has ever been offered in this vicinity. The large and well selected stock in the stables kept by W. M. French will be sold at auction on Thursday the 16th inst.

NEW STORE. Mr. George C. Harris has just opened a dry goods store, next to Veazie's Apothecary shop in this town, where he offers a fine stock of furnishing goods of all descriptions and styles for ladies and gentlemen. He would invite the citizens of this town to visit his establishment and examine his goods, which he is sure will give perfect satisfaction. Read his advertisement.

TO the Heirs-at-Law and others interested in the estate of
CHARLES P. SMITH,
late of Quincy, in said County, deceased,
GREETING:
Whereas, Thomas Faxon, Administrator of the estate of said deceased, has presented to said Court his petition for license to sell the whole of the real estate of said deceased for the payment of debts and charges of administration, and for other reasons set forth in said petition.
You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be holden at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the first Wednesday of November next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.
Witness, GEORGE WHITE, Judge of said Court, this first day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, OCT. 4, 1873.

Single Copies 5 cents.
FOR SALE AT
The Old Colony & Newport Depot, Boston, E. H. Doble & Co.'s Store, West Quincy, Souther's Periodical Store, Quincy, and at THE PATRIOT OFFICE.

RETURNED. Hon. Charles F. Adams, Jr. returned to his home in this town, the present week, after an absence of several months in a foreign land. He was one of the Commissioners from this State, to the Vienna Exposition, and it is said, that his reports will be of a practical character, showing the errors and failures of this country in the present exposition.

☞ Dr. Lawrence and wife formerly of Quincy, whose "Letters of Travel" and "Poems of Progress" are familiar to all our readers, have just returned from a very successful tour of lectures in the far West. The press, pastors and people everywhere unite in commending their entertainment. Their lectures in the Congregational church, this week at North Weymouth, have been given to large audiences and have proved highly satisfactory.

SEVEN DOLLARS AND FIFTY CENTS. The time of the court at Dedham, was taken up an entire day trying a case which amounted financially to the enormous sum of $7.50, owing to an alleged breach of contract in delivering a quantity of boards to Whiting Brothers of Neponset, from Jacob Smith of Norfolk, and in which five lawyers were retained, thirty jurymen and a full court employed, and which finally dwindled down to a sparring match between two of the counsel.

WEYMOUTH. On Monday last the first church of Weymouth, celebrated its 150th anniversary. The interesting exercises were attended by a large assemblage. The services were opened with prayer by a former pastor, Rev. C. J. Warren, followed by an anthem. Appropriate passages of Scripture was then read by Rev. Joshua Emery of North Weymouth. Rev. Geo. F. Stanton delivered the address which was quite historical. After singing and brief addresses the meeting adjourned to partake of a collation. In the afternoon the exercises were resumed and addresses of congratulation were made by the Rev. Jonas Perkins, for forty-five years pastor of the church at Weymouth Landing, the Rev. Mr. Brigham of Plymouth, and the Rev. H. D. Wilkins of Bridgewater. In the evening there was a social reunion.

Marriages.

In this town, on Sept. 14th, by the Rev. F. A. Friguglietti, Mr. Lople Benjamin, to Miss Julia Greenough, both of Braintree.

Deaths.

In this town, Sept. 26th, Charles F. son of Mr. Charles F. and Mrs. Mary R. Lord, aged 2 years and 1 month.

Oh! Mother, why did brother Charlie die,
And leave us all alone?
Last eve he kissed his little sisters "Good Bye;"
Oh, Mother, where has he gone?

Put away those playthings and his little dresses,
Fondly and with care;
For in Heaven our darling will not want them;
And he will ask God's blessing on us there.

On the Landing of sweet Heaven,
Pure and bright he stands,
And with God's beautiful choir of angels,
He gently whispers, "Follow on."

I. E. H.

Sept. 27th, Thomas J., son of Mr. James and Mrs. Mary F. Gibbs, aged 1 year, 2 months and 12 days.

Sept. 28th, Annie I., twin daughter of Mr. Theodore W. and the late Calantie Fowles, aged 17 years and 1 month.

Sept 28th, John A., son of Mr. Daniel and Mrs. Mary Mahoney, aged 17 years, 11 months and 25 days.

Sept. 28th, Ethel daughter of Mr. Wm. H. and Mrs. Isadore L. Faxon, aged 6 months and 14 days.

Sept. 29th, Edith W., daughter of Mr. George H. and Mrs. Laura F. Damon, aged 1 year and 9 months.

Sept. 30th, Eddie A., twin son of Mr. Augustine P. and Mrs. Lucretia A. Hill, aged 10 months and 6 days.

Oct. 1st, Mr. Eugene D. Lyons, aged 26 years.

Special Notices.

A CARD. The Tiger Engine Company No. 2, of Quincy, return their sincere thanks to the Volunteers and Honorary Members for assisting them at the Firemen's Muster at South Weymouth.

Also, to Henry H. Faxon, Esq., for his present to the Company.

Also, to Captain Welsh for his services and present to the Company.

Per order.
R. J. WILLIAMS, Clerk.
Quincy, Oct. 4. 1w

A CARD. The subscriber returns his heartfelt thanks to the Firemen, citizens and neighbors, for their noble and faithful labors in saving his property from fire on Monday last. To those friends and neighbors who heroically saved my dwelling from the flames, my thanks are inadequate. Such acts, kind friends, will be remembered and appreciated.

CONVALESCENT. Mr. Francis W. French who sustained such serious injures about six weeks ago, by being knocked down and run over, is still quite feeble. He is only able to limp around on crutches.

Mr. Joseph W. Robertson we are happy to say has so far recovered from his injuries, as to be able to ride out the present week.

Wyman Abercrombie Esq., is still confined to his house, but we are in hopes soon to hear of his complete restoration to health.

QUINCY SAVINGS' BANK. By advertisement in another column, all persons interested, will observe that the next semi-annual dividend of this Bank, will be payable, according to the By-Laws, on or after the eighth day of October, it being the Wednesday succeeding the first Tuesday of that month. All interest due the several depositors, a above, if not called for, will be added to their account, and thus becomes a part of their deposit, and draw interest, in the same manner as actual deposit of cash, on all accounts less than one thousand dollars.

STEAMER MASSASOIT. This steamer which has discontinued her trips for the season, between Quincy and Boston, we learn has had a most successful summer, stocking more money for its owners than any other excursion boat in the Bay having carried upwards of forty thousand passengers, and not an accident.—This must be attributed to the vigilance and carefulness of Captain French, who as everybody knows is one of the most genial souls that ever trod a steamer's deck.

Poetry.

Thirteen.

Stepping out upon the margin,
Where the child and woman meet;
Leaving now the vale and streamlet,
Where have danced the careless feet.

Sporting with the passing present,
As in days of childish glee;
Looking to the untried future,
And the years so soon to be,—

Years, with romance lightly gilded,
Like the rising morning star,
Ending in decisions reaching—
Ah, we may not know how far.

Sighing, with a glance flung backward,
For the snow drops of past Springs;
Longing with a gaze bent forward,
For the laurels Summer brings.

Not the valley—not the upland,
Walking just half way between,
O may Wisdom guide the footsteps,
Treading now the path of Thirteen.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Use of Manure.

Fisher Ames, one of the most popular and distinguished men of his day, and always regarded as one of the great lights of Massachusetts, said in a letter to Josiah Quincy, in 1806, that "the only sensible economy in farming is to spend money."

It is a fact, but it would read better to write it manure instead of money. Most farmers have a quantity of manure greater or less according to their own diligence and skill, but it isn't every one that has the money to spend.

But this practice or rule of conduct is within the reach of all, to spend or apply manure liberally as far as it will go. We do not mean to suggest that parts of the farm should be robbed of their fair proportion to be able to brag on a premium crop, but that it is best to do well whatever attempted. If there is not enough to do justice to ten acres under cultivation, it may be better to put it upon five this year and give the other five their turn next. In other words, make thorough work of it as far as you go.—Mass. Ploughman.

Grape Vines.

The vine likes an undulating or hilly location with a deep light soil, warm and gravelly. If it is springy or inclined to be wet, draining is the best remedy. A southern exposure is regarded as the best, though an eastern or a western is sometimes adopted when a southern is not to be had. If a few vines are only to be set it is desirable to prepare the soil by deep working, spading or trenching, but for vineyard culture deep ploughing and thorough tillage is often the only preparation the land receives.

Keeping Pears in Winter.

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman gives the following as the process adopted by Hon. M. P. Wilder for keeping pears:

Winter pears are kept in the cellar of his fruit house, which has a dry cemented floor. No ice is used for cooling it.—The fruit is packed in square market boxes holding about a bushel each, and placed in the cellar, one above the other, with slats at the corners, so that the boxes will not press upon the fruit, and will admit a circulation of air between them. On cold October nights, the windows are opened for the admission of cold air, closed at daylight, and kept closed until another cold night ensues. If carried successfully through October in this way, there is no more difficulty about controlling the temperature; and he keeps winter pears, both for market and for home use, with the results already given.

Anecdotes.

Taking a Shower Bath. Doctor—Well, how did your wife manage her shower bath, deacon?

Deacon—She had real good luck. Madam Moody told her how she managed. She had a large oiled silk cap, with a cape to it, like a fisherman's that came all over her shoulders and head.

Doctor—She's a fool for her pains.—That's not the way.

Deacon—So my wife thought.

Doctor—Your wife did nothing of the sort, I hope?

Deacon—O, no; she used an umbrilly.

Out of the Window. A preacher who used notes had the misfortune to deliver a discourse—or rather, as the sequel will show, a portion of a discourse—in a breezy spot, of which rash act the consequence was that "thirdly" was missing. The embarrassed pastor repeated several times:

"Thirdly, my brethren—thirdly."

This lasted several minutes, till at last an excited old lady rose from her seat and exclaimed,

"Thirdly went out of the window."

A six year old seated in a barber's chair the hairdresser says: "Well, my little gentleman, and how would you like your hair cut?"

Charlie, "Oh, like papa's, please—with a little round hole at the top."

Visitor to mamma; "I have some sad news for you, my dear; your doctor, Mr. Crushbone, died this morning."

Jimmy, (one of six;) "Then we shan't have any more babies, ma, shall we?"

"Bridget, go over and see how old Mrs. Bonnet is this morning."

In a few minutes Bridget returned with the news that Mrs. Bonnet was just 69 years, 4 months and 11 days old.

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS,
QUINCY.

Ten Reasons for Selecting Wollaston Heights as a Home.

First. Land suitable for building purposes is cheaper than at any other place an equal distance from Boston.
Second. The quality of the dwellings now built is better than in any village in the Commonwealth, and the restrictions placed upon all will keep them so.
Third. The place can never be marred by cheap structures or ojectionable population, the blot on many an otherwise fair spot.
Fourth. The character of the inhabitants is high in respect to morals and social and intellectual qualities, which renders any place desirable as a residence.
Fifth. The prospect both of land and sea is unsurpassed in any place around Boston.
Sixth. The domain borders on the Railroad nearly a mile and a half, consequently no part is very far away; three-fourths of the dwellings must be within seven minutes of the station.
Seventh Trains run very often and at convenient hours for the accommodation of the people, there being sixteen each way.
Eighth. The Adams Academy, Prof. Dimmock, Principal, has just been opened, and is designed to be one of the best in the country; it is about three-quarters of a mile from Wollaston, and is free to the resident children of the town.
Ninth. It is only about six miles from Boston, and has the advantage of so many trains, both Sabbath and week days. that one can easily attend lectures and religious services in Boston, day and evening, with more convenience and less time than in many parts of Boston itself.
Tenth. The Old Colony R. R. Co. give a Free Pass for Three Years to and from Boston, to every one who buys or builds a house and becomes a resident there.

JOHN HALL.
Quincy, March 19. tf

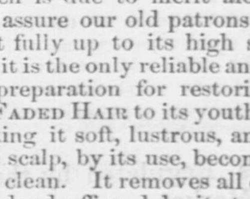

Ayer's
Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

HALL'S
VEGETABLE SICILIAN
HAIR
RENEWER.

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring Gray or Faded Hair to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical Hair Dressing ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D. State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the Best Preparation for its intended purposes."

Sold by all Druggists, and Dealers in Medicines.
Price One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye,
FOR THE WHISKERS.

As our Renewer in many cases requires too long a time, and too much care, to restore gray or faded Whiskers, we have prepared this dye, in one preparation; which will quickly and effectually accomplish this result. It is easily applied, and produces a color which will neither rub nor wash off. Sold by all Druggists. Price Fifty Cents.

HURSELL'S
PURITY!
— IS A —
Splendid Hair Dressing.

NO article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl or remain in any desired position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents an irritated, itching scalp-skin. It affords a beautifully rich lusture. Its effects will outlast any other preparation.

20 State Street, Boston.
Messrs. J. C. Hursell & Co.

Gentlemen: I have analyzed HURSELL'S PURITY for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from Sulphur, Lead, Silver, Acids, Alkalies, and may be used with entire safety.

Respectfully,
(Signed) S. DANA HAYES,
State Assayer for Mass.

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS,
QUINCY.
Ten Reasons for Selecting Wollaston Heights as a Home.
First. Land suitable for building purposes is cheaper than at any other place an equal distance from Boston.
Second. The quality of the dwellings now built is better than in any village in the Commonwealth, and the restrictions placed upon all will keep them so.
Third. The place can never be marred by cheap structures or objectionable population, the blot on many an otherwise fair spot.
Fourth. The character of the inhabitants is high in respect to morals and social and intellectual qualities, which renders any place desirable as a residence.
Fifth. The prospect both of land and sea is unsurpassed in any place around Boston.
Sixth. The domain borders on the Railroad nearly a mile and a half, consequently no part is very far away; three-fourths of the dwellings must be within seven minutes of the station.
Seventh Trains run very often and at convenient hours for the accommodation of the people, there being sixteen each way.
Eighth. The Adams Academy, Prof. Dimmock, Principal, has just been opened, and is designed to be one of the best in the country; it is about three-quarters of a mile from Wollaston, and is free to the resident children of the town.
Ninth. It is only about six miles from Boston, and has the advantage of so many trains, both Sabbath and week days, that one can easily attend lectures and religious services in Boston, day and evening, with more convenience and less time than in many parts of Boston itself.
Tenth. The Old Colony R. R. Co. give a FREE PASS FOR THREE YEARS to and from Boston, to every one who buys or builds a house and becomes a resident there.

Poetry.

For the Patriot.

Modern Washerwoman.

Good morning, ma'm; tubs ready for work,
The clothes been to soak over night;
Water all pumped, clothes line out?
Ah! sure, you've done none of the like.
I tells ye this, ma'm, to begin with,
That pumping I do not enjoy;
Your man must do that 'ere he leaves,
If me you would keep in your employ.

And the clothes, ah! sure, where's ye fluid,
They should have been soaking, ye see.
No fluid! well, I'll do this time;
Next time, surely have it for me.
Have ye a wringer? for it hurts me wrists
To wring the large pieces, ye know;
No wringer! well, if me ye would keep,
Ye must buy ye a wringer, also.

Dear me! keep her for my washerwoman?
I would like to tell her to leave;
But I know not who else I could get,
So her insults I must meekly receive.
Clothes are all ready to go out, ma'm,
And you, had better hang them this time,
'Cause I don't like to go, when it's cold,
But I'll always go when it's fine.

You say ye won't hang them out, ma'm;
Well, I will I 'spose, for this time;
Still, I don't think it would harm ye;
But never mind,—bring on the line.
All done ma'm, and ready for dinner—
Never ye mind about tea;
If ye only have something that's stronger,
It would be all the better for me.

Don't keep it! ah, sure; the next time,
You must have just a little on hand,
For after being in the steam and cold,
I tell ye what ma'm, it is grand.
Good bye to ye, ma'm, I am off,
Next week I shall expect to find
Everything just as I mentioned,
The purchases, sure keep in mind.

Gone; 'tis not always a sad word,
For now, very sweet is the sound;
I shall not have her here again,
If another can possibly be found.
Fluid, and wringer, my lady would have—
Her neck ought to go in it first;
Not quite so fast, though, after all,
For revenge I will not thirst.
She only boldly plead for her rights.
And if another, I cannot obtain,
I must get her wringer, and whiskey
And manager her the best way I can.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

TO REMOVE IRON-RUST OR TOMATO STAIN. Wet the spot with cold water, and place the cloth in the sunshine.—Then mix equal quantities of cream-tartar and table salt, and sprinkle the mixture upon it until the dampness has absorbed a great deal, then lay on enough to hide the spot. Wet the spot with cold water every half hour, and, if the stain is then seen cover it again with the cream tartar and salt. Keep it in the sunshine, and continue these applications till the stain is gone—if recently contracted, two or three applications will remove it.

CANNED QUINCES. Pare and core whole and steam until you can run a straw through. Pack closely in the jar, and fill with hot syrup, allowing one-third pound of sugar for every pound of quince. Seal while hot.

☞ Young Gent.—"Might I ask you, miss—a—"

Miss—"Very sorry, sir, but I am engaged for the next three dances."

Y. G.—"It is not dancing — ah — it is—it's—beg your pardon, miss, you are sitting on my hat?"

☞ A wealthy New York getleman, of an original turn of mind, is going to have stables built upon his grounds after the models of the pyramids of Egypt.—He contends the pyramid is the proper form for dwelling-houses, and has the advantage of putting a stop to the eternal discussion about Mansard and other roofs.

☞ A grocer asked an artist: "Is sculpture difficult?" The artist replied: "Why bless you, no. You have only to take a block of marble and a chisel and and knock off all the marble you don't want."

☞ It takes money to run a newspaper as well as any other business, and no paper succeeds financially that carries on a dead-head system. Any mention of the people's affairs they wish to see in print is worth paying for, and when printed is generally as good as any other investment of this same amount.—East Boston Advocate.

☞ Little Willie F., of Greenfield, was recently presented a toy trumpet, to which he became greatly attached. One night when he was about to be put in his "little bed," and was ready to say his prayers, he handed the trumpet to his grandmother, saying,—"Here, grandma, you blow while I pray."

☞ Do not be over anxious to wipe out every lie that is told about you.—Dirt on the character, (if unjustly thrown) like dirt on the clothes, should be let alone until it dries, then it will rub off easily.

Recollections of Quincy, No. 5.

BY WM. M. CORNELL, LL. D.

JOHN Q. ADAMS, concluded.

Then in a strain of irony and burning sarcasm, he proceeded to tell them how they must modify their resolution of censure. "Nor have I said what the prayer of the petition was. One of the proposed Resolutions says it is for the abolition of slavery. The gentlemen must mend his resolutions; for, if the House should hear this petition, they would find it very much the reverse of what this resolution calls it; and if the other gentleman from Alabama wishes to bring me to the bar of the House for censure, he must alter his resolution for he says it is for attempting to offer a petition for the abolition of slavery; whereas, the petitioners pray that slavery should not be abolished.—Thus, Mr. Speaker, the petition prays for just what the authors of these resolutions wish to accomplish." Thus, never were men more completely foiled, and never was the declaration of Solomon more clearly proved, "He that answereth a matter before he heareth it, is a fool."

During this discussion, Mr. Thompson of South Carolina said, "The conduct of Mr. A. was a proper subject for inquiry by the grand jury of the District of Columbia, and that in a like case, he would be proceeded against in South Carolina."

To this language, Mr. A. replied, "If this is t—if a member is there made amenable to the grand jury for words spoken in debate—I thank God I am not a citizen of South Carolina! Such a threat, when brought before the world, would excite nothing but contempt and amusement." After a debate of four days—one of the sharpest and most exciting ever held in the House of Representative—only twenty votes could be found, indirectly and remotely, to censure. So complete and triumphant was Mr. Adams' vindication of this cause.

The paper was, doubtless, sent to him by some slaveholder to see if he would present it, and he turned the whole force of it against them. Never was more shrewdness manifested by any living man. He knew all those four days what he would do.

We will give one more instance of the wonderful power of Mr. Adams. On the 2d of December, 1839, at the opening of the Twenty-sixth Congress, the Clerk began to call the roll, according to the custom. When he came to New Jersey, he stated that five seats of the members of that State were contested, and that not feeling himself authorized to decide the question, he should pass over those names, and proceed with the call. A violent debate arose. It was declared by one party that, it was a preconcerted plan to exclude these five members from voting in the organization of the House, and by the other that, these members had no right to seats. Three days were spent in the most bitter controversy; and the close of the scene was described as follows by an eye witness:—"Mr. Adams, from the opening of this confusion and anarchy, had maintained a profound silence. He appeared to be engaged the most of the time in writing. To a common observer, he seemed to be reckless of anything around him. But nothing, not the slighest incident, escaped him.

"The fourth day of the struggle had now commenced. Mr. Hugh A. Garland the Clerk, was directed to call the roll again. He commenced with Maine, as usual in those days, and was proceeding with Massachusetts. I turned and saw that Mr. Adams was ready to get the floor at the earliest moment possible.—His eye was riveted on the Clerk; his hands clasped the front edge of his desk, where he always placed them to assist him in rising. He looked, in the language of Otway, like a "fowler waiting for his prey." "New Jersey!" ejaculated Mr. H. A. Garland, and Mr. Adams immediately sprang to the floor. "I rise to interrupt the Clerk," was his first exclamation. "Silence! silence!" resounded through the hall. "Hear him! Hear what he has to say! Hear John Quincy Adams!" was vociferated on all sides.

"In an instant the most profound stillness reigned throughout the hall. You might have heard a leaf of paper fall in any part of it, and every eye was riveted on the venerable Nestor of Massachusetts—the purest of statesmen and the noblest of men! He paused for a moment, and having given Mr. Garland a withering look, he proceeded to address the multitude.

"It was not my intention," said he, "to take any part in these extraordinary proceedings. I had hoped this house would succeed in organizing itself; that a Speaker and Clerk would be elected, and that the ordinary business of legislation would be progressed in. This is not the time, or place to discuss the merits of conflicting claimants from New Jersey. That subject belongs to the House of Representatives, which by the Constitution, is made the ultimate arbiter of the qualifications of its members. But what a spectacle we here present! We degrade and disgrace our constituents and the country. We do not, and cannot organize, and why? Because the Clerk of this House—the mere clerk, whom we employ, and whose existance depends upon our will—usurps the throne, and sets us, the Representatives, the vicegerents of the whole American people, at defiance, and holds us in contempt. And what—this clerk of yours? Is he to suspend, by his mere negative, the function of government, and put an end to this Congress? He refuses to call the roll! It is in your power to compel him to call it, if he will not do it voluntarily." (Here he was interrupted by a member, who said that he was authorized to say that compulsion could not reach the Clerk, who had avowed that he would resign rather than call the State of New Jersey.)—"Well, sir, let him resign," continued Mr. Adams, "and we may possibly discover some way by which we can get along without the aid of his all-powerful talent, learning, and genius! If we cannot organize in any other way—if this clerk of yours will not consent to our discharging the trust confided to us by our constituents—then let us imitate the example of tha Virginia House of Burgesses, which, when the Colonial Governor, Dinwiddie, ordered it to disperse, refused to obey the imperious and insulting mandate, and, like men,—"

The multitude could not contain or repress their enthusiasm any longer, but saluted the eloquent and indignant speaker, and interrupted him with loud and deafening cheers, which seemed to shake the Capitol to its centre. The turmoil, the darkness, the very "chaos of anarchy," which had, for three days, pervaded the American Congress, was dispelled by the single, the talismanic eloquence of a single man, and once more the wheels of government and legislation were put in motion.

Having by his powerful appeal brought the yet unorganized assembly to a perception of its hazardous position, he submitted a motion requiring the acting clerk to call the roll. Mr. Adams was interrupted by a burst of voices demanding "Who will put the question? How shall the question be put?" The voice of Mr. Adams was heard above the tumult, "I intend to put the question myself."—That word brought order out of chaos. There was the master-spirit. As soon as the multitude had recovered itself, Mr. Richard Barnwell Rhett, of South Carolina, leaped upon one of the desks, waved his hand and exclaimed, "I move that the Hon. John Quincy Adams take the chair of the Speaker of the House, and officiate as the presiding officer till the house be organized by the election of its constitutional officers. As many as are agreed to this will say aye, those,"—He had not an opportunity to complete the sentence, —"Those who are not agreed will say no! For one universal deafening, thundering aye responded to the nomination. Hereupon it was moved and ordered that Lewis Williams, of North Carolina, and Richard Barnwell Rhett conduct John Quincy Adams to the chair. Upon this, Henry A. Wise said to Mr. A., "Sir, I regard it as the proudest part of your life; and if, when you shall be gathered to your fathers, I were asked to select the works which, in my judgment, are best calculated to give at once the character of the man, I would inscribe upon your tomb the sentence "I will put the question myself!"

Mr. Adams died under the roof of the Capitol, in the Speaker's room, at 7 o'clock on Wednesday evening, February 23d, 1848, in the eighty-first year of his age. His mental vigor held out to the last, and he died with his armor on. He composed and gave to Miss Edwards, of Springfield, Massachusetts, the following lines the day before his decease:—

"In days of yore, the poet's pen,
From wing of bird was plundered,
Perhaps from goose, but now and then
From Joves' own eagle sundered.
But now metallic pens disclose
Alone the poet's numbers;
In iron inspiration glows,
Or with the poet slumbers.
Fair damsel, could my pen impart,
In prose or lofty rhyme,
The pure emotions of my heart
To speed the flight of time,
What metal from the womb of earth
Could worth intrinsic bear
To stamp with corresponding worth
The blessings thou shouldst share.

An Englishman, it is said, having heard about the Yankee propensity of "Bragging," thought he would make an experiment in the art himself. He walked up to a market woman's stand, and pointing to some large watermelons said: "What! don't you raise any bigger apples than those in America?"

"Apples!" said the woman, disdainfully anybody might know you was an Englishman. Them's huckleberries.

☞ He that would have a wife without a fault, must remain a bachelor.

The Charity Patient.

"Oh, but Dr. Aylescroft, you are too generous! We did not expect such a donation as this from you!"

Miss Mildred Haven was leaning from the door of her chocolate-colored barouche, with its brown satin cushions and coat of arms emblazoned on the side, while the high-stepping horses pawed on the ground impatiently, and shook their silver-plated harness, all eagerness to be gone.

Miss Haven was a fair complexioned girl of about eighteen, with dark blue eyes and glossy brown hair—a girl who would have been considered "nice looking," had she been a poor man's daughter; but as she was Mildred Haven, niece to the wealthiest man in town, she was universally pronounced a beauty. And the smile with which she greeted Dr. Aylescroft's pencilled memoranda on her subscription list, lighted up her oval face, and displayed a very pretty set of small pearly teeth at one and the same time.

"It is of no consequence—none at all, Miss Haven," said the young physician, rubbing his white palms lightly together. "I am delighted to have the privilege of aiding your charitable schemes. The deserving poor have always been a pet hobby of mine, and I am obliged to you for affording me this opportunity."

He bowed low as the carriage rolled away from his office door, and stood watching it for a moment, ere he returned to his cigar and fire.

Joe Nickson, an impecunious young legal friend with no particular practice as yet, except that of patience, greeted him with a smile and a shrug of the shoulders.

"What's the exact amount they victimized you for, eh, old fellow?" he demanded. "Ain't I glad they didn't see me, though!"

Dr. Aylescroft sat down, and complacently viewed the fire.

"I put down twenty-five dollars."

"My dear fellow, are you crazy?" demanded Nickson, dropping his meerschaum.

"Not at all, Joseph my friend. I simply regard it in the light of a good investment."

"Eh?" ejaculated the lawyer. Dr. Aylescroft nodded.

"You—you don't mean to say that you intend to marry the heiress?"

"Why not I as well as another?"

"Well," quoth Nickson, "I've heard of brass before, and I've heard of coming the confidence game; but I do think, Tom Aylescroft you're about the coolest customer! Why, she's rich, and you are poor!"

"All the more reason the financial irregularities should be equalized, my good Joseph."

"And she's a belle, and you are hanging on to the very skirts of society."

"Wait six months, and see how it will be then," said Aylescroft composedly.—"And in the mean time, as I said before, that twenty-five dollars is very well invested. Give us a light will you? My cigar has taken advantage of the opportunity to go out."

"I wish I had some of your confounded assurance, Tom," said Mr. Nickson, as he reached a pink tissue paper spilt down from the mantel.

Dr. Aylescroft inclined his head, as if acknowledging a compliment.

"Just wait and see," said he calmly.

Meanwhile Miss Haven was rolling homeward, very agreeably disappointed in the result of her collecting tour. If she had been more a woman of the world, she would easier have comprehended matters. A plain, middle aged-spinster, who sewed for a livelihood might have trudged through the very soles of her shoes without raising funds for the Grand Central Charitable Fair; but when Miss Haven went out in her chocolate-colored barouche driven by the sober coachman with the black velvet band around his hat, the money flowed into the subscription list as if the streams of Pactolus were let loose.

"Isn't he handsome!" said Mildred, leaning back among the carriage cushions with a little rapturous sigh. "Oh, we must have him for our party next week."

"Humph?" said Miss Plattersley, the elderly companion who rode on the back seat.

"So kind of him to subscribe so generously," said Mildred. "I intend to have Dr. Aylescroft at our next reception."

And as the heiress generally had her way in most things, Miss Plattersley did not contradict the assertion.

* * * * * *

"I know it's some one crying," said Mildred. Do, Plattersley, go and see what is the matter."

"It's only Bridget's little sister with the toothache," said the companion.—"She's been whimpering there all day, cook says."

"Why don't she have it out, poor thing?"

"She's very poor, and tooth-drawing costs money; and besides the girls are all nervous and scary, and won't go with her."

"Horrid things!" said impulsive Mildred. "Can't you go?"

"With this neuralgia in my face?"—And the companion put on an injured air.

"Ring for the coachman."

"He's gone home half an hour ago."

"Stuff and nonsense!" cried Mildred I'll go myself."

"Mildred!"

"Why not? I'll take her round to Dr. Aylescroft's. He's so benevolent and large-hearted he'll never think of charging her a cent. Where's my water-proof cloak and my blue veil? Quick—make haste, before the poor creature sobs her heart out. Not proper? Fiddlestick!—Come along, child."

And Mildred Haven, deaf to the piteous remonstrances of Miss Potentilla Plattersley, boldly sallied forth into the starry, sparking atmosphere of the winter night.

It was late, and Dr. Aylescroft had shut up his office and retired into the snuggery of the back parlor there to spend the rest of the evening with a French play, a cigar, a glass containing a fragrant compound of lemon peel, sugar and spirits, mollified with a little hot water. Into this sanctum came the voice of Maggie, the door girl:

"Plase, docther, there's a poor girrel here crazy entirely with the toothache; an' would ye pull it, for sweet charity's sake?"

"No, I won't!" said Dr. Aylescroft, in a voice as different from his accents of the afternoon as vinegar from honey.—"This isn't the town dispensary. Tell her to go—"

"But, sir—"

"Clear out, I say!" with a stamp of the foot. "I've been bled just about as much to-day as I can stand. Hang this charity business, say I!"

Miss Haven, standing just inside the vestibule doors, with one arm round the poor little Irish girl's neck, heard every word of the colloquy, and her warm impulsive heart boiled within her.

"Come, child," she said quietly, "we will go somewhere else."

"Docther, docther!" pleaded Maggi. "It's the young lady that was here in a carriage this afternoon, wid the little girl. An' it's yerself wouldn't give me the chance to spake a word."

"Eh? What?" and Dr. Aylescroft jumped hurriedly up. "Why didn't you say so before, you idiot?" Miss Haven—Miss Haven, I beg your pardon, I am sure, for exposing you to such an absurd chapter of accidents! It was altogether a misunderstanding—it—"

"Do not let us interrupt your leisure, sir," said Miss Haven, with a stinging accent of scorn in her clear voice. "As you say, it would indeed be hard for me to bleed you further to-day. I will go on to Dr. Wilcox's."

And she swept out of the house like a tragedy actress, leaving the discomfited young physician to chew the cud of his own unsatisfactory meditations.

Dr. Aylescroft's "investment" was by no means a profitable one. The heiress never sent him cards to any of her receptions; and he had the very questionable gratification of knowing that he had only himself to thank for it.

"No Night There."

A little boy, named Knight, who recently entered the mission school at New London, was told by the teachers that he must be a good boy, and when he died he would go to heaven. The little boy was well pleased with the prospect, and promised to be the best kind of a boy. The next Sunday he appeared in his place looking sorrowfully; and the teacher asked him if he had been a good boy. "Yes, I've tried to be good; but it's no use. The boys say I can't go to heaven if I am ever so good." "Why do the boys say that?" asked the teacher. "They say there'll be no night there," replied the boy.

Simplicity of Dress.

Female loveliness never appears to so good advantage as when set off with simplicity of dress. No artist ever decks his angels with towering feathers and gaudy jewelry; and our dear human angels—if they would make good their title to that name—should carefully avoid ornaments which properly belong to Indian squaws and African princesses. These tinselries may serve to give effect on the stage or upon a ball room door, but in daily life there is no substitute for the charm of simplicity. A vulgar taste is not be disguised by gold and diamonds. The absence of a true taste and real refinement or delicacy, cannot be compensated for by the possession of the most princely fortune. Mind measures gold, but gold cannot measure mind. Through dress the mind may be read, as through the delicate tissue of the lettered page.—A modest woman will dress modestly; a really refined and intellectual woman will bear the marks of careful selection and faultless taste.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

☞ Anonymous communications are not published.

Wyman Abercrombie, Esq.

In our two last issues, we have mentioned that Wyman Abercrombie, Esq., was quite unwell, although not considered in a dangerous condition, and were in hopes soon to see him at his post of duty. But alas, how frail were our hopes. On Wednesday morning last our citizens were greatly shocked, to learn of his sudden departure from among us, after a brief illness of only three weeks. His funeral took place on Friday from his late residence, and although not a public one was largely attended by his numerous friends, who sincerely mourn the loss of one of our most estimable citizens.

Mr. Abercrombie came to this place about thirty years ago, and by patient industry, prudence and strict integrity, was soon enabled to set up in business. Throughout the entire course of his long and active life his honesty was never questioned; and he often rendered great aid to the poor. Few men live so much for others as did he. Almost literally, the whole town mourns his loss. His fellow citizens have frequently shown appreciation of his worth by electing him to fill important offices. He has served, at various times, as a representative to the General Court; as town Treasurer, which office he held for sixteen years, and as a member of the board of Selectmen, a position which he held at the time of his death. He was also an honored member of the Knights of Pythias, and of the Masonic fraternity. But perhaps he will nowhere be so keenly missed as in the religious Society with which he early identified himself.

In his death, the Universalist Society of Quincy sustains a great loss. In trial and danger he never faltered. Possessed of an unusual acute judgement, and of quiet ways, his words were like "apples of gold in pictures of silver." He freely gave his time and money whenever the interests of the Society demanded. Even the parsonage, of which the friends in Quincy are so justly proud, is almost a monument to his memory, since without him it had not been built. For more than twenty-one years he was Superintendent of the Sunday School, where he will be greatly mourned by those who have long and delightedly followed his loving guidance.

ROBBERIES. Thieves appear to be quite busy the present time, in all parts of the country, and this town, seems to have its share of plunderers. On Sunday morning the store of Mr. George Cahill, on Franklin street was entered by the bulkhead and theives obtained an entrance into the store by cutting a hole in a batten door with a jack-knife. They then helped themselves to about five hundred cigar and fifty pounds of tobacco.

On Tuesday night some rascals probably with a desire for travelling entered the two depots, in this town, but obtained only a small booty for their pains. At the Quincy depot, they abstracted some fifteen dollars, and at the Quincy Adams station only about four. If they should happen to get into the right hands their travelling expenses will be paid for a short excursion.

PERSONAL. We received a very pleasant visit, a few days since, from Mr. George Brackett, son of Mr. Joseph G. Brackett of this town. He has been absent in California over twenty years, still old Father Time has dealt with him kindly, and he looks nearly as young and vigorous as when he left his home, schoolmates and friends, for the distant west. He intends making only a short visit here, and will in a few weeks return to the bosom of his family on the far distant golden shores of the Pacific.

SICKNESS. The fall months have brought with them an unusual amount of sickness. Typhoid fever and influenza being the epidemics that have been the unwelcome guests in many families.—Among those afflicted with this fever, we are sorry to announce, is another of our town fathers, Mr. Willism A. Hodges, who has been quite sick during the week.

Mr. Walter Slade, the Fourth of July orator, is also sick at his brother's with the fever. We are in hopes that in our next issue we shall be able to announce their perfect restoration to health.

TOUR TO EUROPE. Among the passengers who sailed from Boston for Europe on Tuesday last, were the wife and son of Mr. H. A. Keith, Principal of the High School of this town.

TEMPERANCE LECTURES, BY DR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE. At the Town Hall to-morrow and Monday evening, Oct. 12th, and 13th, at 7 1-2 o'clock. They will present the subject in its scientific, moral and social aspects and will interlude the exercises with readings and songs,—original and selected. A collection will be taken each evening.

Their entertainments at the M. E. Church last Sunday and Monday evenings were attended by very large audiences and are said to be among the best ever given on the Point. Mrs. L. by far surpassed the expectations of her friends.

Snow fell for two hours, at Fonda, New York, on Tuesday last.

THREE IN ONE. Mr. R. L. Lee, one of our efficient and obliging expressmen, keeps a fine lot of fowls, which for size and productiveness, would be hard to beat in this town. Last week one of them was so reckless, as to try to out-do the whole flock, without reflecting on the near approach of Thanksgiving, when eggs will be scarce and high, deposited in the nest a whopper, which measured nine and seven-eights inches, by six and five-eighths inches, and on breaking the shell out popped three large, full yolks. If Mr. L. sold such eggs as these he certainly would not make it pay, for he could hardly expect to get as much for one egg, as he would for three. He must inform Miss Biddy, that she is not doing eggs-actly the fair thing by him.

LIVERY STOCK. Our citizens should not forget the large sale of livery stock at the Hancock House stable, on Thursday next.

JURORS. Messrs. Henry T. Horn, Henry Chubbuck and Charles H. Kimball, have been drawn to serve as Jurors at a session of the East Norfolk District Court.

FREE LECTURES. The first lectures of the free course will be given on Thursday evening next, by Rev. George H. Vibbert, and as the subject is a good moral one, we hope to see the Hall well filled with our young men, who certainly can listen to nothing that will be of greater benefit to their future welfare.—Read Notice.

CONVENTION. Don't fail to read the notice of a Republican Convention, to be held in the Town Hall, on Tuesday at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

☞ The vote on the annexation of Charlestown, West Roxbury, Brighton, and Brookline, to Boston, on Tuesday last, was strongly affirmative in all places except the last. That went "no" by a majority of four hundred. Boston voted to receive them all.

By the annexation of Charlestown West Roxbury and Brighton, Boston will double her Territory, and increase her population about 40,000; making her population with this addition about 300,000

☞ John Roach, the extensive shipbuilder, employs at the Morgan Iron Works, on the East River, New York, and at the ship-yards, at Chester, on the Delaware River, 2300 men, and has put in the water within eighteen months 27,400 tons of iron shipping.

Summary of News.

A horse chestnut tree in Staniford street, Boston, is in bloom for the second time this season.

There are now in the harbor of Zanzibar two Admirals and nine ships of war. Such a force has never been seen heretofore, and the Sultan is said to be convinced that England means to put down the slave trade.

Mr. Nathan Whiting of Abington has just succeeded in raising about a quart of strawberries on vines transplanted in July last, which had already borne one crop this season.

Mr. Baxter, the second keeper at Minot's Ledge Lighthouse, has resigned, after twelve years of service.

Troy, N. Y., has a baby with four teeth in its nose.

Mrs. Mary T. Dodge, a lady eighty-two years of age, recently ascended Mount Washington by cars. She is believed to be the oldest lady that ever stood upon the top of that mountain.

Hartford is to be hereafter the capitol of Connecticut.

By an unaccountable freak of the committee on swine at the Leominster cattle show last week, the premium for the best fat pig was awarded to a lamb.

The snow-balling season has already begun in parts of the Green Mountain region.

The pastor of the Methodist church in Westboro' is building a new house, and is doing most of the carpenters work himself.

It will cost $1000 each week to carry on the new Merchants' Exchange reading room, Boston.

An Ohio editor publishes marriages under the head of "Attachment Notices."

La Grange County, Ind., will have about 75,000 barrels of apples to sell this Autumn.

Money is worth thirty-three per cent. at the bank at Dallas, Texas.

An old minister of ninety, who lives at Spencer, Mo., has eleven sons who are ministers.

A strawberry plant in the open air in a Portland garden has now both blossoms and fruit.

A six year old girl appeared in a $600 dress at a Long Branch ball recently.

The Register says the cellar walls of the first house built in Yarmouth have been discovered. The house, is that of Andrew Hallett, was built in 1639.

The panic appears to have reduced the number of letter writers, as the sales of stamps in New York City have been $2000 a day less than usual since the panic began.

Suits have been commenced against 61 steamers for throwing ashes into New York Harbor.

Ladies hats, this season, consists chiefly of two bows of ribbon and a stiff ostrich feather.

Peoria has a musical locomotive whistle that kills its man every time that it goes off.

Louisville is anxious for a Thanksgiving day, and would like to have it a month before anybody else.

District Court of East Norfolk.

This has been one of the quiet weeks very little business having been before the court. Perhaps it may have been owing to the late panic, which caused so much tribulation in the large business circles all over the country, making money tight and the poor fellows who are apt to imbibe too freely could not raise funds enough to get tight on.

TUESDAY.

James D. Fox, of Randolph was tried for committing an assault on Deputy Sheriff Warren. The case was continued to November 18th, and the defendant was ordered to give sureties, in the sum of $600, to keep the peace, and for his appearance at Court at that time.

THURSDAY.

Michael J. McLaughlin, of Randolph, was before the Court, charged with keeping a liquor nuisance, second offence.—He was ordered to give $300 for his appearance before the Superior Court, at Dedham on the first Monday of December.

Edward Doyle, of Holbrook, for drunkenness, pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and costs.

Moses T. Holbrook of South Braintree for keeping illegally intoxicating liquors for sale. State Constables Furnald and Porter, made a raid on his boot factory on the 2d inst., and seized thirty-two gallons of whiskey thirty-five of wine, twenty of rum and one of brandy. He pleaded guilty and was ordered to pay a fine of $50 and costs.

Miles Cronin, of Quincy, was arrested for vagrancy. His case was continued till Friday morning.

FRIDAY.

This morning Miles Cronin and William Rudderham were before the Court, charged with entering and stealing from the store of George Cahill. They plead guilty to the charge, and were ordered to give sureties in $700 for their appearance at the Superior Court, on the 1st Monday in December.

The same boys were also charged with larceny from the Adams School house, but plead not guilty. They were ordered to give bonds in $300 for their appearance at Dedham, on the 1st Monday of December.

For the Quincy Patriot.

Neponset.

The discontinuance of the Post Office in this place, and the substitution of the letter carrier's system, does not suit our business men, who prefer to get their mail matter themselves, and know just the time when they can have it. We think our neighbors at North Quincy and Squantum, will feel the inconvenience more than we do here. This Post Office accommodated the inhabitants three miles in extent, from Squantum to Granite Bridge road in Dorchester. We think our school children will feel the dispointment for they always liked to get letters from the Post Office. We understand that several of our prominent clergymen in Dorchester, petitioned for this change. We fear the ministers will suffer for want of sufficient exercise. Saint Paul says "bodily exercise profiteth little," but we think a good walk to and from the Post Office twice a day was beneficial to their health. We hope our friends will continue to address our letters to Neponset, Mass., as usual. We shall probably get them next day after they are mailed, if the weather is favorable. B.

For the Patriot.

Disorderly Behavior.

The corner of Copeland and Water streets has recently become a resort for a set of loafers, who insult and annoy all those who have occasion to pass that way after dark. One night recently two young girls, who were on their way home were chased by two young men, who are well known. If they ever try this trick again, they will certainly be brought before the court, where perhaps they will learn a lesson that will be worth remembering. We certainly are in need of a Police to prevent these outrages.

CITIZENS.

Fall River is building three schoolhouses; one of granite and two of brick, which will cost $200,000 when completed.

CONCERT AND FAIR.

The new Catholic Church on School St., is now nearly completed, and will soon be ready to be occupied by its congregation. They intend to hold a fair in the upper part before putting in the pews.—It is intended to make this a successful affair, and the Rev. Pastor expects to have it liberally patronized by the citizens of every denomination, and to realize a handsome sum from the fair to help him to pay some of the bills incurred in the erection of the church, which will add so much to the beauty of the town. There will be a sacred concert held in the church on the Sunday evening before the fair. The following gentlemen are appointed as a Committee to make arrangements for the fair.

TO all persons interested in the Estate of

EDWARD FEGAN,

late of Quincy, in said County, deceased.

GREETING:

Whereas, Ellen M. Fegan, the Administratrix of the estate of said deceased, has presented for allowance the first account of her administration upon the estate of said deceased:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be holden at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the second Wednesday of November next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said Administratrix is ordered to serve this Citation by publishing the same once a week, in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed at Quincy, three successive weeks, the last publication to be two days at least, before said Court.

Witness, GEORGE WHITE, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighth day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

J. H. COBB, Register.
Oct. 11. 3w

To the Honorable the Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court:

REUBEN O. COLSON of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, respectfully libels and gives this Honorable Court to be informed that he was lawfully married to ELEANOR JANE CROWELL, at Frankfort, in the Commonwealth of Maine, on the twenty-fifth day of December, in the year 1863; that before and at the time of said marriage both he and said Eleanor were residents of Munroe, in the Commonwealth of Maine; and that thereafter he lived with her in Quincy, in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, as his wife; that he has always been faithful and true to her, and that he has always been ready to live with—as such; but that the said Eleanor neglecting her marriage vows and duty, since the time of said marriage, has on divers days between the first day of May, 1873 and the twenty-seventh day of August, 1873, both at Quincy aforesaid, and also at other places, committed the crime of adultery with a certain man, commonly known by the name of Thomas Sullivan, and that on the twenty-seventh day of August aforesaid, she wholly deserted him. Wherefore he prays, that a divorce from the bond of matrimony with the said Eleanor Jane, may be granted him, and for such other relief as justice may require.

REUBEN O. COLSON.

Filed, September 23, 1873.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, ss. SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

In Vacation, September 23, 1873.

Upon the filing of the foregoing Libel in the Clerk's office of this Court, it is ordered, That the Libellant give notice to the said Eleanor Jane Colson to appear before the Justices of this Court, next to be holden at Dedham, within and for said County, on the third Tuesday of February next, by publishing an attested copy of said Libel, and this order of Court thereon, once in a week, three weeks successively, in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed in Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, the last publication to be thirty days at least before the said third Tuesday of February next; and the said Eleanor Jane Colson may then and there show cause why the prayer of said Libel should not be granted.

ERASTUS WORTHINGTON, Clerk.

A true copy of said Libel, and of the order thereon.
Attest: ERASTUS WORTHINGTON, Clerk.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

To CHARLES NEWHALL supposed owner of the equity of redemption in the following described estate; to all attaching creditors of said Newhall, and to all persons interested:

BY virtue of and pursuant to the power of sale contained in a certain Mortgage Deed given by Charles Newhall to Benjamin B. Newhall, dated June 28th, 1871, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 411, fol. 162, and for breach of the conditions of said Mortgage Deed, will be sold at Public Auction, on the premises, on SATURDAY, the 1st of November, at four o'clock, P. M.,

All and singular the premises, conveyed, viz.: A certain parcel of land situated in West Roxbury, in the County of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, containing twenty-six acres, more or less, according to a survey made by T. B. Moses, Surveyor, dated June 7, 1870, being part of premises conveyed to me by George C. North, by deed dated June 15, 1870, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 394, fol. 267, and all that portion thereof lying South of a 40 foot street called Clarence Street, and shown on a plan of land of the West Roxbury Land Company, drawn by T. B. Moses, Surveyor, dated July 13, 1870; bounded and described as follows, to wit:—

Northeasterly by said Clarence Street, 467 8-10 feet; southeasterly by the Dedham Branch Railroad; southwesterly on a straight line by land now or late of Humphrey Smith, 623 4-10 feet; and by a brook 464 feet; westerly by Charles River, 334 feet; northwesterly again by land now or late of Joseph Hay, by a straight line, 398 feet; northeasterly again by a straight line on land now or late of George Morse and on land recently conveyed by James C. White to D. W. Humphrey, 477 feet; northwesterly again by an irregular line on said land of ——— to said Clarence street, with a right of way in common with others in, upon and over said Clarence Street and Belle Avenue, as shown by said plan of July 13, 1870: Being the premises described in the said Mortgage Deed, together with all benefit and equity of redemption of the said Charles Newhall, his heirs, administrators, and assigns therein.

Terms made known at the time and place of sale. By order of

F. W. PELTON,
Assignee of said Mortgage.

THE REGISTRY OF DEEDS. A few politicians are proclaiming throughout the county that Mr. Burdakin is a Democrat. The people care little for the politics of their County officers, and Mr. Burdakin can afford to stand upon his merits, but as the statement is false, it should be corrected. We are authorized to say that he has never been a Democrat, but has always been a Republican in principle and action, although never an active party man. On last year's check-list, used by the Town Clerk, after its supervision by a prominent Republican, Mr. B. is enrolled as a Republican. In the past few years he has two or three times been levied upon by the Republican Town Committee, and has paid his assessments. What further evidence is needed? Mr. Burdakin has several times from motives of personal friendship, voted for the Democratic candidate for Representative. This is the extent of his offence and the only foundation for the charge made against him. At the last Worcester Convention the right to bolt was defended and sustained.—Dedham Gazette.

They call me a cruel reaper
And say that I love to mow
The fariest and sweetest blossoms
And lay their young beauty low.
But oh, if you knew the heart aches
All who live long must know
Ye would hail me a welcome messenger,
Your friend and not your foe.

Oh! if ye but knew, sad mothers,
The sorrow my stroke may spare
Your babes,—I should bear the watchword
Of hopes and not despair;
Ah, yes! I'm a pitying angel of light,
On a mission of mercy sent;
And whene'er I see a smile too bright,
And a heart to innocent
Too tender and warm for these fields of ice,
I waft it away into paradise.

Thanks to Post 87.

So. BRAINTREE, SEPT. 30, 1873.

To the General Sylvanus Thayer Post 87, G. A. R.

As by many acts of interest and kindness you have manifested in your latea: socciate, H. B. Dyer, and in the most trying hours of sickness and death have shown yourselves true and faithful Comrades to him, whom an all wise Providence added to your brotherhood and whom now the Lord in mercy has taken to himself,—

We now here make known our sincere thanks for your repeated expressions of interest for his comfort and sympathy in our sorrow. Moreover we do pledge you a hearty co-operation in all your undertakings which are so noble and praiseworthy, and will always assist you as much as may be in our power.

Yours,
JACOB S. DYER,
In behalf of his family.

Voted,—That the foregoing communication be printed in the Weymouth Gazette and Quincy Patriot.

Poetry.

Speak Nae Ill.

Other people have their faults,
And so have ye as well,
But all ye chance to see or hear
Ye have no right to tell.
If ye canna speak o' good,
Take care, and see, and feel
Earth has all too much o' woe
And not enough of weal.

Be careful that ye make nae strife
Wi' meddling tongue and brain;
For ye will find enough to do
If ye but look at hame.
If ye canna speak o' good,
Oh, dinna speak at all,
For there is grief and woe enough
On this terrestrial ball.

If ye should feel like picking flaws,
Ye better go, I ween,
And read the book that tells ye all
About the mote and beam.

Dinna lend a ready ear
To gossip or to strife,
Or, perhaps, 'twill make for ye
Nae funny thing of life.

Oh, dinna add to others' woe,
Nor mock it with your mirth,
But give ye kindly sympathy
To suffering ones of earth.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Report of the Wheat Crop.

From the monthly report of the Department of Agriculture for August and September, we copy the following reports of the wheat crop for the United States, for 1873:

The average condition of the wheat crop for the entire country, according to the returns of the present month, is 95.

Reports were received from 844 counties, of which 246 were average, 185 above, and 413 below.

The wheat of Northern New England was injured by drought in June, and the quantity will be less than usual, while the quality is generally good. Massachusetts and Connecticut will have a full average yield upon an area too small to be of essential aid in the bread supply.

From counties representing the largest portion of the wheat are of the State of New York, 35 in number, only two give higher figures than 100.

The present has not been a good wheat year in the South. The average for Virginia is but 82, the deterioration being attributed to rain when wheat was in bloom, and to subsequent droughts while maturing.

The reports from North Carolina average 82 also, and those of South Carolina and Georgia 75, Alabama and Texas 85, and Mississippi 90, very few counties reporting wheat east of Texas. The reporter in Dallas County, in the latter State, claims an average yield of twenty bushels per acre. Arkansas and Tennessee have better crops than the Gulf-coast States, but not a full average.

A full crop has not been secured in West Virginia, the causes of the depreciation being the midge, smut, rust, and rain in the shock. In several counties the yield is better than was anticipated.—Kentucky falls 15 per cent. below average, as a whole, though some counties report one of the best crops ever obtained.

Ohio reports cover more than half the area in wheat and indicate a very nearly average yield, of about average quality.

Michigan has nearly a full crop of wheat of very good quality, well secured and generally exceeding the expectation in thrashing.

In Indiana this crop has suffered from winter-killing, chinchbug, and heavy rains in the shock, causes which indicate a depreciation of 16 per cent. In 43 counties of Illinois the average is 93.

Wisconsin makes very encouraging returns, in no case below 100, and averaging 107 upon an increased area.

Minnesota is the banner State of the year in wheat-production. A large increase in acreage in new and old counties was returned in June; and the average for condition is 109.

Returns from two-thirds of the wheat area of Iowa indicate an average yield upon an increased area. The quality is generally superior. Most of it was secured in good condition.

Missouri has secured an average crop mostly of good quality.

In Kansas the yield is nearly an average.

The crop of Nebraska is large and the quality excellent.

The crop of California is not so good as was expected; a large reduction from the yield of last year may be calculated upon. The average condition in 24 counties is 93.

In Oregon no county reports less than 100, the average being 107.

The reports from the Territories are generally favorable. It is claimed that the county of Walla-Walla in Washington, can export 500,000 bushels, and that the average yield is 35 bushels per acre; some large fields 67 bushels.

Anecdotes.

On the consummation of a recent marriage in an up town family, a visitor unwisely observed to the youngster. "You're a brother-in-law now, Tommy."

"Yes," said Tommy, puffing out his cheeks offensively, "but ma says I will be an uncle, by and by.

"I am glad," said a missionary to an Indian chief, that you do not drink whiskey; but it grieves me to find that your people use so much of it.

"Ah, yes," said the red man, and he fixed his eyes upon the preacher, which communicated the reproof before he uttered it, "we Indians use a great deal of whiskey, but we do not make it."

Adams Academy.

A PRIVATE CLASS in preparation for Adams Academy, will be formed in September next. It is designed to give thorough instruction in the Elementary English branches, and in French and Drawing. The Course will be extended over one, two, or three years, according to the age, ability, and attainments of the pupils.

By permission of the Supervisors, this Class will be, for the present, accommodated in the Academy building, and will be under the direction and supervision of the Master of the Academy.

Tuition will be one hundred dollars per annum, payable one-half at the beginning of the school year, and one-half on the first of February.

The number of pupils will be limited, and early application should be made to the Master.

WOLLASTON HOTEL,

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS,

QUINCY.

THIS new and commodious House is now open for the reception of guests. Its location renders it most desirable for boarders from the city, being situated only six and half miles from Boston on the Old Colony Railroad, and less than one minute from the Station, 16 trains each way daily. It is only about three minutes' by cars from the Centre of Quincy—the distance being less than one mile.

Visitors to this good old town, whether for business or for pleasure, will find the

Wollaston Hotel,

a pleasant and agreeable stopping place. Transient guests or permanent boarders will receive every attention. It will be kept as a strictly

TEMPERANCE HOUSE,

no intoxicating liquors of any name or nature will be sold or kept about the premises.

A fine LIVERY and BOARDING STABLE in connection with the House.

TERMS VERY REASONABLE.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For the relief and cure of all derangements in the stomach, liver, and bowels. They are a mild aperient, and an excellent purgative. Being purely vegetable, they contain no mercury or mineral whatever. Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

HURSELL'S PURITY!

— IS A —

Splendid Hair Dressing.

NO article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl or remain in any desired position. It prevents the hair having a harsh wiry look. It prevents an irritated, itching scalp-skin. It affords a beautifully rich lusture. Its effects will outlast any other preparation.

20 State Street, Boston.

Messrs. J. C. HURSELL & Co.

Gentlemen: I have analyzed HURSELL'S PURITY for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from Sulphur, Lead, Silver, Acids, Alkalies, and may be used with entire safety.

Iron in the Blood

PERUVIAN AN IRON TONIC SYRUP

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS,

QUINCY.

Ten Reasons for Selecting Wollaston Heights as a Home.

First. Land suitable for building purposes is cheaper than at any other place an equal distance from Boston.

Second. The quality of the dwellings now built is better than in any village in the Commonwealth, and the restrictions placed upon all will keep them so.

Third. The place can never be marred by cheap structures or objectionable population, the blot on many an otherwise fair spot.

Fourth. The character of the inhabitants is high in respect to morals and social and intellectual qualities, which renders any place desirable as a residence.

Fifth. The prospect both of land and sea is unsurpassed in any place around Boston.

Sixth. The domain borders on the Railroad nearly a mile and a half, consequently no part is very far away; three-fourths of the dwellings must be within seven minutes of the station.

Seventh Trains run very often and at convenient hours for the accommodation of the people, there being sixteen each way.

Eighth. The Adams Academy, Prof. Dimmock, Principal, has just been opened, and is designed to be one of the best in the country; it is about three-quarters of a mile from Wollaston, and is free to the resident children of the town.

Ninth. It is only about six miles from Boston, and has the advantage of so many trains, both Sabbath and week days, that one can easily attend lectures and religious services in Boston, day and evening, with more convenience and less time than in many parts of Boston itself.

Tenth. The Old Colony R. R. Co. give a FREE PASS FOR THREE YEARS to and from Boston, to every one who buys or builds a house and becomes a resident there.

For the Patriot.

Autumn.

Autumn's piercing winds, breathe a mournful song;
Of summer joys departed, forever gone.
The floor of earth is strewn with golden leaves,
Blown by each chill blast from off the trees.

The lily's sword, alas! is broken down;
The tulip robbed of its beautiful crown.
The leaves that rustle beneath our feet.
The change from youth to age they sadly speak.

And thus like the leaves we are all fading away;
It teaches a lesson, to rightly value each day.
And I thought as I saw them strewn on the ground,
How some from a glorious height, had fallen down.

While others on low bushes had not far to fall;
But now they mingle together, great and small.
Like many mortals, who for a season tower high;
But, alas! misfortune brings them down, with the poor to lie.

Then let no heart be frozen hard with pride,
For we all, like the leaves, must lie down side by side.
The same Eternal Spirit watches over all,
And every leaf is numbered at its fall.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

TO CLEAN BLACK CLOTH. Dissolve one ounce of bicarbonate of ammonia in one quart of water. With this liquid rub the cloth, using a piece of flannel or black cloth for the purpose. After the application of this solution clean the cloth well with clear water; dry and iron it, brushing the cloth from time to time in the direction of the fibre.

PASTE THAT WILL STICK. Take four pounds of fine wheat flour and make a batter with cold water; take out all lumps, then add boiling water till you have almost a pailful. This is a good paper-hanger's paste. To make it stick to painted walls, add one ounce of finely pulverized resin for each gallon of paste, and boil it, when too thick, add more water.

☞ "Why, uncle Dewlittle, how dew you dew? Come in and rest a little while dew. How does Hannah dew, and what is she dewing? Dew tell us all the news. Come, dew sit up to the table and dew as we dew; help yourself, dew talk some, and dew not make me dew all the talking, for I shan't dew it. Now, dew dew something, dew."

☞ Don't reserve all your good deeds, acts of courtesy, kind words, as you do your delicacies, until people are sick.

☞ Some young ladies must be given to dreamy speculations, they build such castles in the (h) air.

☞ "I live by my pen," said a poet, wishing to impress a young lady. "You look as if you lived in one," was the reply.

☞ Recently, in a church in N. York, it is asserted the parson, having several persons to marry, said, after entering the building, "all those who want to be married will please rise;" whereupon, every single lady present immediately rose from her seat.

☞ "These ladies are like birds that are on the wing," said a humorous clerk to his employer—Mr. Martin—as a bevy of shop damsels left the store. "Why so?" asked the proprietor. "Because it takes them a long time to settle upon their purchase" (perches), replied the clerk.

☞ A beautiful young lady who had allowed the tendrils of her heart to twine fondly around a strapping great conductor on a horse car, had her affectionate nature crushed by the discovery that he was taking fare from her and dead-heading another girl who lived on the same street.

☞ Good, kind, true, holy words dropped in conversation may be little thought of, but they are like seeds of flower or fruitful tree falling by the wayside, borne by some birds afar, haply thereafter to fringe with beauty some barren mountain side, or to make glad some lonely wilderness.

☞ A clergyman said the other day that modern young ladies were not the daughters of Shem and Ham, but the daughters of Hem and Sham!

☞ An Ohio lady sent back a book she had ordered, because the leaves were uncut. She thought it was an unfinished copy, and was right.

☞ A Paris shopkeeper lately fixed over his door a notice that as his daughter had "made a splendid match," he would sell goods at a reduction of twenty-five per cent. for a week.

☞ The dying words of a Delaware woman were: "Henry, if you marry again, remember that it only takes a cupful of sugar to sweeten a quart of gooseberries."

Miscellany.

Dolly's Husband.

"So this is the realization of my youth's brightest dreams!" said Martin Daleford to himself.

He had just returned from a six years' absence in the golden regions of California, for a brief visit to the home of his boyhood. He had gone away a crude, ambitious, vainly dreaming boy; he returned a grave, heavy-bearded man, with wrinkles between his brows and a something of sternness around his firm lips. Nor was he himself the only person who had passed through the relentless crucible of change during these six years.

Dolly Markham had altered too. She had been an innocent, fair-haired girl, with lips like dew-sprinkled roses and blue marvelling eyes when Martin Daleford went away. But she had passed a winter in Boston since, and learned city airs and graces; nor did Martin in his inmost soul regard the change as an improvement. She frizzed her golden hair now, and wore tawdry rings, on her fingers, and walked with the fashionable stoop, and lisped slightly, as she talked: and instead of the hearty kiss which he had expected, she had held out a limp hand with a sweeping courtesy when first he had entered after that long absence.

"Pshaw!" Martin had muttered underneath his heavy moustache; and Dolly had said something about its being a fine day for that season of the year, and then Mr. Markham had come in and the conversation had become general.

"I see the reason of it all now," said Daleford to himself an evening or two after when he sat in his chimney nook.—Old Farmer Markham loved a bright wood fire, although the October air was still full of golden softness, and the katydids chirped gleefully among the maple trees as yet untouched by the relentless fingers of frost, and listened to the easy current of small talk as it flowed from the lips of Mr. Octavius Wellington, who had come down to the country to spend a week or two, by way of relaxing his mind from too great mental strain.—"She's like the rest of her sex; she likes that scented puppy with his broadcloth clothes and shining boots better than one who only believes in common sense.—Pshaw! what does it amount to after all?"

"You're from California I understand sir?" said Mr. Wellington as he turned with patronizing politeness towards Daleford during a momentary pause in the conversation.

Martin nodded assent.

"A fine country, that," went on Mr. Wellington.

"Yes," was the brief reply.

"Climate quite delightful—harvest something wonderful eh?"

No answer. Mr. Daleford was staring hard into the fire.

"You're farming it, I suppose?" persisted the affable Mr. Wellington bent on putting the shy stranger at his ease.

"Your suppositions are quite erroneous, sir!"

"Ah! In the mines then!"

"Well—yes," said Martin, feeling of his great beard, somewhat to the envy of Mr. Octavius who with all the aid of Macassar oil and Tricopherous could only raise a feeble downy fringe upon his upper lip, "I have been in the mines."

"Curious life that, eh?"

"Not especially so."

"Going back to California soon."

"I do not know."

"I may be going on pretty soon," said Mr. Wellington affably. "I have some prospects of a clerkship, with a great firm in San Francisco, Saxon & Co. Maybe you've heard of 'em and if my introduction will be of any use in getting you into society—"

"Thank you," gruffly interrupted Martin Daleford, "but I don't want any better society than I have got already."

"Mr. Wellington pursued his remarks no further, but Martin could hear him utter sotto voice, when he followed Dolly into the other room:

"A fine specimen of the California bear, eh, Miss Dolly? ha! ha! But really the miners are some of 'em only half civilized!"

And Dolly's laugh was plainly audible both to Martin Daleford and to Miriam Allington, the little village seamstress who was in the corner setting new sleeves into Farmer Markham's everyday coat. Miriam's eyes took on a troubled look as she saw the momentary expression on Martin Daleford's face.

"Don't mind them, Mr. Daleford," she cried, speaking from the quick impulse in her heart, "Dolly was always thoughtless!"

And then she bent over her work, coloring scarlet, and covered with confusion.

"You are not thoughtless, at all events Miriam," said Daleford, using the name by which he had been won't to call her when she was a brown-faced elf, climbing the trees after nuts and berries and sprigs of mistletoe. "And as for Dolly—I suppose we can't expect the world to stand still while we are gone, be it six years or sixteen!

He sought a special interview with Dolly Markham the next day.

"Well Dolly," he said, "how is it; are you going back to California next month?"

Dolly looked down and hesitated,—looked up and twisted the corner of her apron into a hopeless knot.

"Well," persisted Daleford.

"You—you are very sudden," lisped Dolly.

"Sudden! Not at all," said Martin. I thought it had been settled for the last six years?"

"But I was such a child then!" pleaded Dolly.

"You are a woman now," coolly answered Martin Daleford, "and the matter is open for you to decide."

"One changes one's mind so with the course of years," stammered Dolly "and—"

"Have you changed yours?"

"Ye—es," hesitated Dolly."

"About me?"

"To tell the truth, spoke out the village maiden, forgetting for a time her lisp and even her "Grecian bend," I've promised to marry Octavius Wellington?"

"Oh! said Martin jerking fiercely at his moustache. "And you prefer him to me, do you!"

"Yes, I do!" answered Dolly, with the courage of desperation. "He's such a gentleman, and his prospects are so encouraging—"

"Clerk to Saxon & Co.," interpolated Martin, rather scornfully.

"But they are very great people out there, I've heard, with such an extensive business and Octavius will be sure to rise. And you may sue me for a breach of promise, if you like, but I shan't care."

"Oh, I shall do nothing of the sort," said Martin, with calm philosophy.—"Suit yourself, and you'll suit me. I hope you'll be very happy with Mr. Octavius Wellington."

And so saying, he went out for a long walk, whereby he might gain the opportunity of dispassionately surveying this new aspect of domestic affairs.

When he came back, there was no one in the sitting-room, but dove-eyed little Miriam Allington.

"Why Miriam, you have been crying!" he said impulsively. "What's the matter? Has any one been scolding you?"

"I think it's a shame," sobbed Miriam, sticking her needle energetically through the emery bag three or four times, "so I do."

"Think what is a shame."

"For Dolly to treat you so, after being engaged six years. And you're having to go back all alone, and—"

Martin Daleford sat down beside the little, slender, shrinking form, and looked into the brown eyes, shining duskily through the veil of tears.

"Miriam, would you go back with me if I asked you?"

That was all their courtship; but two weeks afterward, when Martin Daleford returned to his western home, he took with him a pretty young wife, whose maiden name had been Miriam Allington.

"Well," quoth the Widow Grands, "I wouldn't put up with another gal's leavin's!"

"I wouldn't marry a common miner," said Dolly, disdainfully.

"I dare say he'll make a good husband for Miriam," said Farmer Markham, "and you needn't to be sot up, daughter Dolly, for all you're goin' to marry a mercantile man. All of us can't have the same luck; some goes up, and some goes down."

"But Miriam can't expect me to visit her, if she settles in San Francisco," said Dolly. "Of course I shall have to study Octavius' interests, and I must be very careful whom I associate with."

Mr. Wellington married Dolly Markham with a great flourish of trumpets, and took his bride to San Francisco, where he established her in a showy boarding-house where they had silver forks, and a very little to eat with them, and proceeded straightway to report himself to Saxon & Co.

The marble palace of business was closed, but the head manager opined that it would be a good plan for the new clerk to call at the house of one of the heads, as they were rather particular about punctuality on the part of the employees, and Mr. Wellington was already a week behind time.

"Mr. Saxon is out of town," observed the white-headed "confidential man;" but Mr. Daleford—that's his partner—lives at No. —, Westerfield street."

"Daleford, eh?" thought Mr. Octavius as he entered the address in his memorandum-book: "that's the name of our grizzly bear friend. Ha! ha! ha! An odd coincidence! Well, I may as well go at once."

"No. —, Westerfield street," was a stately mansion, with plate-glass windows a broad flight of stone-steps, a delicious little conservatory nestling behind. A servant in plain black clothes admitted him to a drawing-room, where the soft light of shaded chandeliers fell upon damask draped furniture, moquette carpets and alabaster statuettes. A lady sat reading at one end of the room, her slight figure half buried in the depths of the easy chair, and the folds of her green moire-antique dress shining around her like the emerald billows of the sea.

"And you are Miriam!" ejeculated the new clerk; but before he had time to express his astonishment, any more circumstantially, the partner of the great firm of Saxon & Co., walked in, and Octavius found himself confronting Martin Daleford.

"I—I thought you were a miner!" he stammered.

"I am not responsible for what you thought," said Mr. Daleford, laughing "I never said that I was one.

"He is the richest man in the place," said Miriam, with admiring pride, "and was I silly enough to cry when I found it out. I did so want to help him along in the world with my little savings!"

"And how is Dolly?" said Mr. Daleford, as his wife slipped her arm fondly through his.

"You must bring her to see Miriam."

He had turned the tables now, and was unconsciously patronizing the dapper young salesman, as Mr. Octavius Wellington had patronized him in the kitchen of the New England farmhouse.

Dolly shut herself up in her room and cried all the morning after Miriam had called on her, in an open barouche, drawn by two stylish grays. For Octavius had just called her "a silly fool" for wanting a new silk dress, and the landlady was troublesome about her bills, and she had been so foolish to throw Martin Daleford over, and worse than all, she knew that she had only herself to thank for it.—Poor Dolly!

Do Not Ridicule Children.

Children often seem to say very absurd things, for which they are ridiculed and abashed. Nothing, however, can be cruelier than this: for the child has merely done what many a philosopher has done before him—jumped to a wrong conclusion; and if, instead of being ridiculed and made to distrust himself and avoid venturing his little speculations before us in future, we had been at the trouble of carefully examining his notions, we should have discovered how naturally perhaps the idea had arisen, or how ingeniously, through a lack of knowledge, the little mind had put together incongruous things.

Address to the Jury.

"Mr. Foreman and toder jurymen:—Hans peen tried for murder pefore you must pring in te verdict, but it must pe cordin ta law. De man he killed vash not killed at all as was proved; he is in ter chail at Morristown for stealing sheeps. I dinks derefore, Mr. Foreman, he petter pe hung next fourth of July, as dar militia ish going to drain in anoder county and dere will be notting going on here." Alas for the judge! some lawyer interfered, and the man was saved.

Came for Dinner.

A guest at a hotel in Belfast, Me., on being told that dinner was ready, stripped off his coat, and, accompanied by his wife entered the dining-room in his shirt sleeves. A waiter brought him a bill of fare, which he regarded curiously, and then laid it down. Pretty soon another bill of fare was placed in his plate.—Then he arose in his wrath, and exclaimed, "I didn't come here to read show bills, I came after some dinner."

A Noble Answer.

In a sermon preached at Wesley Chapel, recently, Rev. Thomas Sargent, of Baltimore, stated that at a slave-market in one of the Southern States, at which he was present, a smart, active colored boy was put up for sale. A kind master who pitied his condition, not wishing him to have a cruel owner, went up to him and said:

"If I buy you, will you be honest?"

The boy with a look that baffled description, replied:

"I will be honest, whether you buy me or not."

This would, as Mr. Sargent said, do honor to any person of any age.—Washington Republic.

☞ The mother of an unmanageable Irish boy living in Portland thus excused him to the police:

"Sure, Patsey isn't a bad boy at all, but he is troubled with a roosh of mind to the brain!"

Protection Against Fire.

Capt. Feltis had the Hose Company on duty a few hours on Wednesday afternoon, to attend to the filling of the reservoir at the junction of Hancock and School streets. It has been about half full since the fire at Lowe's harness shop and stable, and the engineers thought it a wise policy to have it filled, so as to be prepared for any large conflagration in that vicinity.

Mr. William Panton having purchased a large steam engine for carrying on the currying business, near his residence on Hancock street, and attached to it recently a pump for raising water from the brook, offered the Company the use of his engine in filling the reservoir, which they gladly accepted.

The trial of his engine and pump proved most successful. Water was forced through eleven hundred feet of hose and thrown over the residences of Francis Williams and others in that vicinity.

If a small pump could do such good work, it was thought that a large pump,—one costing about $550,—would be one of the best protections against fire the town has ever had. Steam is kept up constantly, night and day, by Mr. Panton and he offers to allow the town, the privilege of placing in a large pump free of charge. Hose could then be kept attached to it, ready for immediate use. Any house within a radius of quarter of a mile would then have a much better protection than ever offered before. Water could be carried easily to the Hancock House; to Washington street; Canal or School streets; Granite or Sea streets; and it would be something permanent and powerful. There would be no lack of water or steam. A safer protection for the centre of the town could not be had for ten times its cost.

Many of our real estate owners have already offered to give liberally; several as high as twenty-five dollars, to have the thing completed. We believe there will be no necessity of asking the town for an appropriation, as enough will freely be subscribed, as soon as a paper is started, to purchase a suitable pump for this grand position.

THIEVES. Although State Constables Furnald and Clifford succeeded in catching two hard "chaps" last week, who are now lodged in Dedham jail, after watching many long and dreary nights, still there appears to be a number of fruit thieves in our midst. Mr. Seth Spear, Wm. G. Prescott and others have lost considerable fruit the present week. We expect some morning soon to see the rascals with long faces, brought before Judge Bumpus; then they will curse the Constables for doing their duty and beg the Judge to make the sentence light.—But our word for it the Judge has got too clear a head on his shoulders to let such rogues out very easily.

CONCRETE. On a recent stroll through Franklin street, we were pleased to notice that Geo. H. Locke, Esq., had added greatly to the beauty of his handsome estate, by laying concrete on his walks and driveway. The work has been done in a very thorough manner, and without doubt if the place was thrown into the market, would greatly enhance its value. We hope that another year will see sidewalks, throughout the principal streets in the town all laid in concrete.

REMOVED. Our townsman, Mr. Isaiah White who has been located under Horticultural Hall, for several years, has removed the present month to No. 44 School street, Boston, where he will keep his usual choice assortment of jellies, fruits and confectionery. We hope our citizens will not fail to call on him at his new establishment.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS. There is nothing like music, to soothe the troubled heart. Even the little weary one is quieted by a lullaby, thus showing that music has charms. All parents know how important it is to procure a good teacher for a young musician, as they can then start on the right key. Mr. Orville M. Tilden, who has given instructions in this town several seasons, and is very highly recommended by some of the best talent, as a very competent instructor, is now prepared, as will be seen by an advertisement in our paper, to take a few new pupils. Orders left at this office will receive prompt attention.

REAL ESTATE SALES. Noah Cummings, sold at auction on Tuesday last, about 1-4 an acre of land, on Granite Place, Milton, to John Cross, for $617-50. Joseph W. Lombard, was auctioneer. Benjamin B. Newhall, sold three lots of land on Walker and Appleton streets in North Quincy, to Henry M. Snell, for $2500.

ROBBERY. G. Swaine Buckley of this town, of the Buckley's Serenaders was robbed of a number of valuable articles of clothing, while exhibiting at Fall River, on Tuesday last. Two young lads were arrested as participants in the theft.

SENATOR. The Republicans of the Third Norfolk Senatorial District talk of nominating J. White Belcher, of Randolph for Senator for that district. A better selection could not be made.

FREE LECTURES. The first of the course of free temperance lectures at the Town Hall, on Thursday evening, was a complete success. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. Every seat was occupied and many were obliged to stand throughout the exercises,—about two hours. The opening remarks of Mr. Faxon will be found in full in another column.

The lecture was delivered by the Rev. George H. Vibbert, of East Boston, and was a model temperance address, capable of doing much good. We are unable to find room to publish it, owing to its great length, but were pleased to witness the close attention given by the audience.

The singing by the Wollaston choir was excellent and added much to the interest of the occasion.

With such a beginning the people of Quincy may expect from the forth coming lecturer, Hon. Edward Carswell Esq., from Canada a rare and profitable entertainment. Mr. Carswell is a new and talented speaker before a Quincy audience, but stands deservedly high and popular as an able advocate in the great temperance reform. He is now laboring for a few weeks in this State under the auspices of the Grand Division, Sons of Temperance, of Mass., and soon leaves for Maine. When you hear him once, you will desire to hear him again.

A CHANGE. The old Hancock House is looking finely. A neat fence, concrete walks, handsome green blinds and two coats of paint rather improves its general appearance.

The sale of horses and carriages belonging to W. M. French Esq., at his stable on Thursday last, attracted a large crowd and the property brought good prices.

Mr. French is building a large stable near his residence on Washington street, and, we learn will move his remaining stock to his new quarters next week.

OBITUARY. Mr. William G. Swan, until quite recently a resident of Neponset, died in Abington, 15th instant, aged sixty-one years and eleven months. Mr. Swan was a respectable and industrious citizen, a veteran fireman. Forty years ago he was foreman of the Independent Engine Company at Neponset, and has been connected with the fire department most of the time since. When a boy he followed the Independent Engine to the great fire in Beacon street, July 1824, and was at the great fire in Boston, Nov. last. His remains will be brought to Neponset to-day at one o'clock, and conveyed to Cedar Grove Cemetery. The firemen of Neponset will follow the remains and attend services at the Cemetery.

CHRIST CHURCH. Services to-morrow at 10 30 A. M. Public services for the children of the Sunday School, with Infant Baptism at 4 P. M. Seats free.

PERSONAL. Mr. William A. Hodges, called at our office, on Thursday and we were quite pleased to see him looking so well, although still quite weak from his severe sufferings.

AN ITEM. Those of our readers who may be in want of an excellent cigar will find a choice assortment of these potent "soothers" at the Post Office store.—We do not write this as a "puff," but as an item of important news to gentlemen who are in search of the best brands of the "glorious Indian weed" done up in the most delectable form for smoking.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE. Miss Eleanor Clapp, formerly of this town, left her home in Dorchester, on Thursday last, in company with some friends, for a visit to her brother, Mr. Peter Clapp, who resides in Stockton, California. This visit will be one of surprise as well as pleasure, as her brother had not been informed of her anticipated jaunt, to his far distant home. May the pure mild air of the golden state restore her shattered health, and we hope after she has rested she will be able to give us a few jottings, of her pleasant trip.

EIGHTY HORSES BURNED. Early last Saturday morning, a fire was discovered in a large stable on Berkley street, Boston, where over one hundred horses were kept. The fire spread so rapidly that it was found impossible to save only a small number.

Poor Old Jack.

"There's a sweet litle cherub that sits up aloft,
To guard the life of poor Jack."—Dibdin.

Another noble dog has shuffled off his mortal collar. The "sweet little cherub" after having kept watch and ward over poor Jack for fifteen years and upward, concluded, doubtless, that he had fulfilled his mission in this breathing world, and that it was better for him not to run for another season. The retiracy of Jack from his busy, bustling sphere—the Square which contains one of Quincy's most prized institutions, the Town Pump—will leave a large vacancy, and his rotund corporation, shaggy sides, and clever countenance, will be missed with regret by the many daily visitors of that institution, and still more particularly by the "Deacon," to whom he was a trusty servant and a sincere and silent follower.

"My dog, the trustiest of his kind,
With gratitude inflames my mind;
I mark his true and faithful track,
And in my instinct copy Jack."—Cowper.

And in common with the boys and girls and children of a larger growth, the members of his own species—

"The little dogs and all—Tray, Blanche, and Sweetheart," will "bark and whine," at the demise of a genial companion, a jolly dog, and one whose life, if well written out, would "point a moral and adorn a tale."

District Court of East Norfolk.

SATURDAY.

Mary Gethron, of Quincy, for being drunk. Fined $3 and costs.

MONDAY.

The Court Room this morning was quite full. The first case before a jury in this Court came up for trial this morning. It appeared that Deputy Sheriff Warren attached the stock of Hale S. Howard, retail dealer of boots and shoes, and sold the same, together with fixtures which the plaintiff considered he had no right to do, as fixtures were exempt from attachment; therefore, he brought an action of tort against the Sheriff to recover the worth of the fixtures.

The jury in this case, were Henry Chubbuck, foreman, Charles H. Kimball and Henry T. Horn, of Quincy; Charles H. Pratt, 2d, Charles P. Hunt and Andrew J. Randall, of Weymouth; Mason Lovering and Rufus A. Thayer, of Randolph; R. Elmer Morrison and Richard M. Sanborn, of Braintree; Thomas Lincoln, Jr., of Cohasset; and Charles H. Belcher of Holbrook.

After patiently listening to the witnesses and a short plea by W. E. Jewell, Esq., for the plaintiff, the jury received the charge from Judge Bumpus and retired. After an absence of thirty minutes, returned with a verdict in favor of the defendant.

Lawrence Begadon, of Holbrook, for disturbing the peace. Pleaded not guilty and the case was continued one week.

Bryant O'Connors, of Weymouth, for illegally selling intoxicating liquors.—Found guilty and sentenced to 20 days in the House of Correction, and to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

Edward H. Pickard, of East Weymouth, was before the Court for an assault with a loaded pistol upon Joseph F. Burrell of Weymouth. He was bound over for trial before the Superior Court.

WEDNESDAY.

Michael Canty of East Weymouth, for being drunk. Fined $3 and costs.

THURSDAY.

John Cary of Randolph for drunkenness Fined $3 and costs. For non-payment was committed to the House of Correction.

Braintree.

Business is very lively in the building line. Quite a number of dwelling houses are being erected at the South, and also at the North part of the town, on the new street running from Washington street to the South depot, (Holbrook street.) Some four or five houses will soon be finished on Union street near the new Library which will soon be completed. Quite a show of houses are being made by Hollenbeck, Howard and others who are erecting very fine ones. But Mr. Joseph A. Arnold seems determined to distance all others in point of taste. He is erecting a very tasty dwelling, on Washington street near the late Gen. Sylvanus Thayer's. The model is an English cottage, and when finished will be without doubt, the most cosey and beautiful house in town.

We are soon to have what some call that necessary evil, a Fire Engine, in town. Arrangements are being made to organize a fire department, and to procure engines, hook and ladder, &c. A large well is nearly finished at the South, another is commenced at the North, and another is to be made at the East part of the town. We shall soon be able to pay some of the debts we owe our neighbors.

The Braintree Brass Band gave their last open air concert, last week, at the North part of the town. The citizens in that locality including the Proctor Bros., who have always given the Band a warm welcome returned their thanks by the presentation of some $75 or more. The people at the North know that a band will thrive, when their own townsmen will encourage them. D.

☞ Flowers and fruit for the Boston Hospitals may be left on Wednesday afternoon and evening of next week, at the house of Mrs. Rufus Foster, Sea Street.

PREJUDICE. "Old school" physicians do not permit advertising through the newspapers, and pronounce those who advertise themselves or their medicines as "quacks," and there is no doubt that many so called doctors who advertise, and many who do not advertise, are quacks, but we, all of us, know of some instances where great good has been done by those medicines which have been brought to the knowledge of the suffering sick through newspaper advertisements. We do not advise an indiscriminate use of everything we see advertised without first ascertaining the merits of the article, any more than we would employ a physician in our family without some knowledge of his qualifications, but we do accept the testimony, in both instances, of reliable people who, of their own knowledge, can recommend either doctor, or medicine.

Another prejudice, which is more foolish than the prohibition of advertising is that against the educating of women for the practice of medicine. Why, we cannot conceive how any husband or father can for one moment hesitate between the educated female practitioner and a man of equal talent and practice, when wife or daughter requires the services of a physician, especially when the disease is of that class so peculiar to women which requires more than usual delicacy. We have in mind at this moment a lady physician who advertise extensively, and yet we have the testimony of hundreds of the best known and most reliable ladies and gentlemen in New England that she is no "quack," and that her success in the treatment of female diseases, and especially in the cures of tumors and cancers, is something marvelous. We refer to Mrs. Secor, M. D., 159 Warren Avenue, Boston, and we publish her card with a few names of well known citizens as her vouchers; but don't take out word for it—investigate for yourself.—John H. Veazie keeps Mrs. Secor's medicines.

Henry H. Faxon's Address.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: We have met here to-night to hear one of a course of eight temperance lectures for the benefit of the several Sunday Schools of the town. The particulars relative to the same appeared, as you well know, in the columns of the Patriot on the 4th inst.

In proposing these lectures I had two objects in view. First, I wished to help the Sunday Schools, and I knew that the amount proposed to be distributed, two thousand dollars, would stimulate and encourage them. I presume there is no one here but who would say Amen to that.

My second object is, to promote the cause of temperance. I think the ladies of the town will approve any measures calculated to promote this reform, as indirectly in many instances they are the greatest sufferers from intemperance. By advancing the cause in this way, I do just what my strongest opponents advised me to do a few years ago. "Use" they said, "moral means and cultivate moral sentiment."

I am a strong advocate of reform by moral suasion, but on the question of temperance I want it well peppered with law. You know the poet says, "no rogue e'er felt the halter draw, with good opinion of the law." Many of you well remember that I used to partake of the social glass at pleasure parties, and you said that I was not consistent.

I thought myself that it would be better not to indulge, and therefore took up with your advice and in that way added one more example to fortify your position and mine, in this temperance reform.

Many of the kind friends alluded to were in favor of a license law: now I want them to be consistent as I have been.

The most of those friends are blessed with this world's goods, and have landed possessions; now suppose that parties should come to them and wish to purchase a piece of their land for a licensed grog shop and billiard saloon, what do you suppose they would say? Their answer would be: "No sir; we do not want any such demoralizing influences around us to tempt our children and bring them in contact with a class of disreputable people." But those very men will go to the polls and vote to license a grog shop at the next door to a poor man who has a family of children, and who cannot avoid it because he does not, and cannot own the surroundings.

Then, my friends, there is another thing to consider in this matter of license. Is the father or son any better, or do they commit less sin by getting intoxicated on licensed liquors? Does the court ask those who are brought before them for committing crimes while under the influence of intoxicants, if they drank licensed liquors? No; the crime is all the the same.

I well remember that one of my intimate friends, a gentleman whom I regard with the highest esteem, but who claims that there is no more liquor drank when it is handy, having a friend addicted to drinking, called upon a relative of his where this friend visited and requested him not to furnish any liquors when this young man was present; thus showing that he did not believe in his own doctrine when his friends were in danger.

Ladies and gentlemen, nine times out of ten the social glass, is where the evil commences that leads our young men to ruin.

A father in this town, who has always encouraged beer drinking and liquor saloons, finding that his son was in the habit of visiting one of these resorts, was going to annihilate the establishment, if the proprietor allowed his son to visit, play billiards and drink there.

Another gentleman who advocated the licensing of beer saloons, and who holds a prominent and responsible position, was looked upon with distrust by his employers because his son, who was a frequenter of various liquor and gambling saloons, used to occasionally take part in office duties with his father; thus showing that all business men shun and distrust those who spend their time in such places and mix with those they employ.

Many there are who condemn legislators who occasionally take a social glass, for voting for temperance measures in legislation.

Now my friends how is a man going to vote? Will he do as the fellow did that was chosen by liquor interest constituents, get drunk and rise in his seat and say? "Mr. Speaker: I am drunk, but I was sent here to represent the rum interests and I cannot do it in any other way." Or, should he say: "I was sent here by men whose appetite for strong drink gets the better of their judgment. I know it is wrong and my duty to my fellow-man is to vote and act on the side of temperance."

I pretend to say that no man is elected to responsible positions to represent his own vices and passions, but he is chosen to represent the people in any and every way that he deems beneficial to his fellow man, setting aside all selfish motives or vices of his own.

No one will deny but that it is better for all to practice what they preach in order to make their preaching fully effective.

A mother in this town, who had a son addicted to drinking, giving a party at which liquors were furnished, made her son promise her before the party was held, that he would not drink any liquor on the evening in question. Think of it; little did that mother take into consideration the feeling and position of other mothers, who had sons like her own that were present and who could not in safety take the lightest of intoxicants without great danger of disgracing themselves and their friends. Who was to blame; the son for drinking or the mother that set the example for others that would lead them to ruin and disgrace as it had her own son?

In less than two years from that time I saw that son drunk in the presence of his mother, and if a mother was ever to be pitied she was,— being obliged to bear the foolish speeches of that son in his maudlin condition.

Ladies and gentleman, it is not my personal friends that I am trying to help, and that have my sympathies; it is those who are the enemies of the cause of temperance;— it is those who in many cases are the slaves of strong drink,—those men who say at the polls, that I wish to deprive them of their liberties, and who while having a regular debauch commit some crime. Then they come to me, as four or five did in a short time and beg of me to use my influence to get them out of their difficulties, promising again and again not to touch another drop of liquor as long as they live. Yes; these are the poor fellows that talk about my taking away their liberties when I am trying to get temptation from their presence.

THANKSGIVING DAY. President Grant has appointed Thursday, the 27th day of November, as a day of Thanksgiving.

CONVENTIONS. The Republicans of Norfolk County, will hold a convention to nominate county officers, at Memorial Hall, Dedham, on Thursday next, at 11 o'clock, A. M. The Second Norfolk Senatorial convention, will be held at the same place the same day, at 12 o'clock.

The Virginia State election takes place on the first Monday of November.

ACCIDENT. A son of Mr. William S. Glover, living on Elm street, in this town, was accidently knocked down and run over by a passing team, on Thursday of last week, but fortunately escaped with only a few slight bruises.

MARY AND I.

'Twas evening in May, and the soft zephyr sighed
Through branches low bending above
My Mary and I, as we wandered along,
And whisper'd of beauty and love.
"We'll make us a nest like the birdlings," I said,
"And never shall part any more."
"Oh! yes," she replied, "and can furnish it nice,
At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"Fair creature, there's many a wealthier man
Would gladly have you for a bride,
But no one can love you more fondly than I,—
My treasure, my beauty, my pride!
Oh! had I a mansion with carpets of gold
And silver I'd cover the floor."
But, smiling, she said, "You can purchase the best
At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"I'll spread you a couch upon which to recline
When evening shall call us to rest,
Of the fleeciest down." But she said, with a sigh,
"I like a hair mattress the best."
"Then so shall it be, love; and tables inlaid,
And seats from some far distant shore."
"Oh, no!" she exclaimed, "they have elegant chairs
At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"But, Mary, alas! I must sadly confess,
My means are but slender as yet;
To furnish a house in the style you demand
Would hopelessly plunge me in debt;—
To ask you to share my poor lodgings and board
Is something that I should deplore."
She said, with a smile, "You may purchase on lease,
At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"To-morrow, then, love, let us journey along
To that palace on Washington street,—
('Tis number two hundred and ninety and six,)
Where lovers so happily meet.
How many fond souls might be severed for years
From those they so fondly adore,
Were't not for the system of payment they have
At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

We went. Happy day! can I ever forget
The pleasure that beamed in her face,
As she gazed at the marvels of beauty displayed
In Cunningham's wonderful place.
We furnished our nest in an elegant style;—
Been married a twelvemonth or more,
And Mary is singing this song to her babe,
Of CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

For the Quincy Patriot.

The Congregational Church.

EAST MILTON, Oct. 13th, 1873.

Our young English Clergyman is showing considerable activity in various ways. He has commenced a series of week evening lectures which are proving to be very interesting. The first was on "Town and Country," the last two were upon "Rev. Charles Spurgeon," and we understand he is preparing one on "The Old Country." We believe it is his intention to deliver these lectures elsewhere as opportunities present themselves.

In his lecture on Spurgeon, Mr. Bygrave defined a Congregational Church to be, a Church managing entirely its own affairs, asserted that the Orthodox Church practically sets aside one of the main doctrines of Protestantism, viz., freedom of speech, that the ministers of this Church submit to the authority not of one Pope but to a number of little popes in the shape of the County Councils, which Councils have the power to set aside any ministers elected by a Church after six, eight or ten months trial on doctrinal grounds simply. The Rev. gentleman mourned the fact that he had made the mistake to suppose that the Congregational Church here was like the sister Church in Great Britain. In New England it seems to be the Conservative Church, while in England it is the Liberal Church. Mr. Bygrave went on to say that it would be his aim to form either here or elsewhere a Free or Independent Church, where men of all shades of belief might worship God, and listen to a man, elected by themselves, expound the Scriptures according to his own light and knowledge. Mr. Bygrave is a thoroughly live, earnest—and as we believe, pious man. Certainly we never had such good attendance at Church as we are getting now. God speed him in his good work.

NORFOLK, SS. PROBATE COURT.

TO all persons interested in the Estate of

EDWARD FEGAN,

late of Quincy, in said County, deceased,
GREETING:

Whereas, Ellen M. Fegan, the Administratrix of the estate of said deceased, has presented for allowance the first account of her administration upon the estate of said deceased:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be holden at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the second Wednesday of November next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said Administratrix is ordered to serve this Citation by publishing the same once a week, in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed at Quincy, three successive weeks, the last publication to be two days at least, before said Court.

Witness, GEORGE WHITE, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighth day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.
J. H. COBB, Register.
Oct. 11. 3w

To the Honorable the Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court:

REUBEN O. COLSON of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, respectfully libels and gives this Honorable Court to be informed that he was lawfully married to ELEANOR JANE CROWELL, at Frankfort, in the Commonwealth of Maine, on the twenty-fifth day of December, in the year 1863; that before and at the time of said marriage both he and said Eleanor were residents of Munroe, in the Commonwealth of Maine; and that thereafter he lived with her in Quincy, in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, as his wife; that he has always been faithful and true to her, and that he has always been ready to live with—as such; but that the said Eleanor neglecting her marriage vows and duty, since the time of said marriage, has on divers days between the first day of May, 1873 and the twenty-seventh day of August, 1873, both at Quincy aforesaid, and also at other places, committed the crime of adultery with a certain man, commonly known by the name of Thomas Sullivan, and that on the twenty-seventh day of August aforesaid, she wholly deserted him. Wherefore he prays, that a divorce from the bond of matrimony with the said Eleanor Jane, may be granted him, and for such other relief as justice may require.
REUBEN O. COLSON.
Filed, September 23, 1873.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, SS. SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.
In Vacation, September 23, 1873.

Upon the filing of the foregoing Libel in the Clerk's Office of this Court, it is ordered, That the Libellant give notice to the said Eleanor Jane Colson to appear before the Justices of this Court, next to be holden at Dedham, within and for said County, on the third Tuesday of February next, by publishing an attested copy of said Libel, and this order of Court thereon, once in a week, three weeks successively, in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed at Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, the last publication to be thirty days at least before the said third Tuesday of February next; and the said Eleanor Jane Colson may then and there show cause why the prayer of said Libel should not be granted.
ERASTUS WORTHINGTON, Clerk.
A true copy of said Libel, and of the order thereon.
Attest: ERASTUS WORTHINGTON, Clerk.

Poetry.

For the Patriot.

Who Hath Woe?*

Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning,
That they may follow after strong fermented wine;
Who disregard the inspired prophets' faithful warning,
And prostitute the wholesome products of the vine;
Who mar the music of the social feast by drinking
That which defiles the body and destroys the brain;
Which captivates and kills the noblest powers of thinking,
Enthroning selfish lust with beastly greed of gain.

Woe to the mighty multitude dried up with thirsting,
Hungering for that which fails to nourish and sustain;
Which calls for more, while frenzied brains with wine are bursting,
And nature's low, sweet voice, calls out for help in vain.
Shame on the men of honor! legal men of learning!
False teachers, who for lack of knowledge lead astray;
The failing masses, who are faintly pleading, yearning,
For light to guide their weary feet in wisdom's way.

Woe unto them that call good evil, who defiling
God's dwelling place, the temple made for his abode;
Who break the law, pervert the sense, the taste beguiling,
With bitter things, which all the braver feelings goad.
Woe to the mighty men of strength, who strong drink mingle,
Influenced by wine they live to gratify their lust,
Devoid of love, like sounding brass or tinkling cymbal,
Their root shall die, their blossom shall go up as dust.

Therefore as the burning fire shall destroy the stubble,
And as the flame consumeth chaff before the wind,
So shall the wine-drinkers find reward in woe and trouble,
But temperance and purity bring peace of mind;
Their sons shall walk and not be weary, shall not stumble,
Nor shall they slumber as the stupid drunkards sleep;
They shall be fed with bounty, filled with spirits humble,
With love for all, malice for none, reward they reap.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Large Yield from One Potato.

Mr. Thaddeus Richardson procured in a lot of potatoes at Weymouth, last Spring, one of somewhat peculiar shape, long and narrow, which he cut in twelve pieces and planted in drills, on land of Mr. E. P. Dunbar. Last week he dug the product of that planting, which amounted to a bushel basket full, and which weighed 53 lbs. Many of the potatoes were of enormous size, and Mr. Richardson has retained all of them for seed.—Hingham Journal.

Tools and Machines.

Hunt up every implement that will be wanted for use on the farm, and see if it is in good order. If it is not so, it is a better time to have it repaired now than when the men and teams are waiting for it. If you have a bench and tools—and how can you get along without them?—you may be able to do the job yourself and thus save time in carrying it away and bringing it back, and save the money required to pay the mechanic. Besides this, as there are always broken tools, the mechanic may have so many on hand to repair that there may be a week of anxious suspense in waiting for them.

Treatment of Mowing.

Mr. Joseph Dunbar has tried a successful experiment in raising grass which deserves a few lines of comment. He has an acre of grass land which has not been broken with a plow for over twenty years, from which he has cut from ten to twelve hundred in a season. A year ago last spring he spread upon it about four cords of manure, and then sowed and brushed in clover and herds-grass seed. Last year he cut a ton of fine hay, and this season two tons, with a prospect of a good second crop. The land did not suffer from the drouth.—Taunton Gazette.

Anecdotes.

Conversation between an inquiring stranger and a steamboat pilot: "That is Black Mountain?"

"Yes, sir; highest mountain above Lake George."

"Any story or legend connected with that mountain?"

"Lots of 'em. Two lovers went up that mountain once and never came back again."

"Indeed—why: what became of them?"

"Went down on the other side."

Sweet William—"Oh! Angelina would that my breast was made of glass, that you might read my heart!"

Angelina's Youngest Brother Bob—"Say Billy, wouldn't a pane somewhere else do as well?"

"You are a coward!" said a low cockney to a poor countryman who had refused to fight.

"No, I bean't," said the countryman, "I have nothing to do with cows; I am a shepherd."

Adams Academy.

A PRIVATE CLASS in preparation for Adams Academy, will be formed in September next. It is designed to give thorough instruction in the Elementary English branches, and in French and Drawing. The Course will be extended over one, two, or three years, according to the age, ability, and attainments of the pupils.

By permission of the Supervisors, this Class will be, for the present, accommodated in the Academy building, and will be under the direction and supervision of the Master of the Academy.

Tuition will be one hundred dollars per annum, payable one-half at the beginning of the school year, and one-half on the first of February.

The number of pupils will be limited, and early application should be made to the Master.

HURSELL'S PURITY!

IS A

Splendid Hair Dressing.

NO article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl or remain in any desired position. It prevents the hair having a harsh wiry look. It prevents an irritated, itching scalp-skin. It affords a beautifully rich lusture. Its effects will outlast any other preparation.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

To CHARLES NEWHALL supposed owner of the equity of redemption in the following described estate; to all attaching creditors of said Newhall, and to all persons interested:

BY virtue of and pursuant to the power of sale contained in a certain Mortgage Deed given by Charles Newhall to Benjamin B. Newhall, dated June 28th, 1871, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 411, fol. 132, and for breach of the conditions of said Mortgage Deed, will be sold at Public Auction, on the premises, on SATURDAY, the 1st of November, at four o'clock, P. M.,

All and singular the premises conveyed, viz.: A certain parcel of land situated in West Roxbury, in the County of Nofolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, containing twenty-six acres, more or less, according to a survey made by T. B. Moses, Surveyor, dated June 7, 1870, being part of premises conveyed to me by George C. North, by deed dated June 15, 1870, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 394, fol. 267, and all that portion thereof lying South of a 40 foot street called Clarence Street, and shown on a plan of land of the West Roxbury Land Company, drawn by T. B. Moses, Surveyor, dated July 13, 1870; bounded and described as follows, to wit:—

Northeasterly by said Clarence Street, 467 3-10 feet; southeasterly by the Dedham Branch Railroad; southwesterly on a straight line by land now or late of Humphrey Smith, 623 4-10 feet; and by a brook 464 feet; westerly by Charles River, 334 feet; northwesterly again by land now or late of Joseph Hay, by a straight line, 398 feet; northeasterly again by a straight line on land now or late of George Morse and on land recently conveyed by James C. White to D. W. Humphrey, 477 feet; northwesterly again by an irregular line on said land of——to said Clarence street, with a right of way in common with others in, upon and over said Clarence Street and Belle Avenue, as shown by said plan of July 13, 1870: Being the premises described in the said Mortgage Deed, together with all benefit and equity of redemption of the said Charles Newhall, his heirs, administrators, and assigns therein.

Terms made known at the time and place of sale. By order of

F. W. PELTON, Assignee of said Mortgage.

Boston, Oct. 11, 1873.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

Pursuant to the power of sale contained in a certain Mortgage Deed given by John T. Pope to William H. Miller, dated September 23d, A. ☞ Real estate improvements continue in lively progress in the different villages of Weymouth, and the demand for dwellings is still unsupplied especially at East Weymouth, where parties have been for considerable length of time awaiting the appearance of a vacated tenement, without even a sign of relief. The liberal action of the town authorities and the people in opening and building new thoroughfares bears speedy fruit in the lines of handsome dwellings which begin to appear on every new avenue, enhancing the value of real estate and adding a satisfactory increase to the valuation of the town.—Weymouth Gazette.

☞ James Bailey of East Andover, N. H., says that he has a pair of boots that were made for him in 1827, or 46 years ago, which he were constantly for "handsome boots" until within a few days, when he appropriated them to "every day wear." They are still in good wearing condition having been half-soled but once.

☞ For a long time in the South, and now particularly, railroad tickets have been and are used as currency. Two hundred thousand dollars worth of these are in circulation in Georgia. Each one entitles the holder to so many miles of travel, or is taken in payment for a corresponding quantity of freight. These bills are received by the road in liquidation of all their claims.

COINAGE. The operative department of the mint at Philadelphia has been set to work, by direction from Washington for specific rates of coinage of ten million dollars in double eagles per month, until further orders. The California mint is running at its full capacity on gold coinage, and trade dollar bullion to the amount of three million dollars has been added to the fund of the assay office in New York to pay promptly all deposits of savings.

Marriages.

SILVER CHANGE COMING AGAIN.—The Washington correspondent to the Daily Advertiser says:—The Treasury department has notice that fifty thousand ounces of silver has been received at the mint in Philadelphia, from Chicago, with the request that it be coined and returned in half and quarter dollars and dimes.—It will furnish change to the amount of $62,500. Silver is now paid out to a limited extent for change in this city.—Dr. Linderman, director of the bureau of the mint, says silver will be in general circulation as currency on the 1st of Nov. All the mints in the county have been ordered to work to their full capacity in coining silver.

NORFOLK, SS. PROBATE COURT.

TO all persons interested in the Estate of
EDWARD FEGAN,
late of Quincy, in said County, deceased,
GREETING:

Whereas, Ellen M. Fegan, the Administratrix of the estate of said deceased, has presented for allowance the first account of her administration upon the estate of said deceased:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be holden at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the second Wednesday of November next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said Administratrix is ordered to serve this Citation by publishing the same once a week, in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed at Quincy, three successive weeks, the last publication to be two days at least, before said Court.

Witness, GEORGE WHITE, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighth day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Suprem Judicial Court:

REUBEN O. COLSON of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, respectfully libels and gives this Honorable Court to be informed that he was lawfully married to ELEANOR JANE CROWELL, at Frankfort, in the Commonwealth of Maine, on the twenty-fifth day of December, in the year 1863; that before and at the time of said marriage both he and said Eleanor were residents of Munroe, in the Commonwealth of Maine; and that thereafter he lived with her in Quincy, in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, as his wife; that he has always been faithful and true to her, and that he has always been ready to live with—as such; but that the said Eleanor neglecting her marriage vows and duty, since the time of said marriage, has on divers days between the first day of May, 1873 and the twenty-seventh day of August, 1873, both at Quincy aforesaid, and also at other places, committed the crime of adultery with a certain man, commonly known by the name of Thomas Sullivan, and that on the twenty-seventh day of August aforesaid, she wholly deserted him. Wherefore he prays, that a divorce from the bond of matrimony with the said Eleanor Jane, may be granted him, and for such other relief as justice may require.
REUBEN O. COLSON.
Filed, September 23, 1873.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

NORFOLK, SS. SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.
In Vacation, September 23, 1873.

Upon the filing of the foregoing Libel in the Clerk's Office of this Court, it is ordered, That the Libellant give notice to the said Eleanor Jane Colson to appear before the Justices of this Court, next to be holden at Dedham, within and for said County, on the third Tuesday of February next, by publishing an attested copy of said Libel, and this order of Court thereon, once in a week, three weeks successively, in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed in Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, the last publication to be thirty days at least before the said third Tuesday of February next; and the said Eleanor Jane Colson may then and there show cause why the prayer of said Libel should not be granted.
ERASTUS WORTHINGTON, Clerk.
A true copy of said Libel, and of the order thereon.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate.

To CHARLES NEWHALL supposed owner of the equity of redemption in the following described estate; to all attaching creditors of said Newhall, and to all persons interested:

BY virtue of and pursuant to the power of sale contained in a certain Mortgage Deed given by Charles Newhall to Benjamin B. Newhall, dated June 28th, 1871, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 411, fol. 162, and for breach of the conditions of said Mortgage Deed, will be sold at Public Auction, on the premises, on SATURDAY, the 1st of November, at four o'clock, P. M.,

All and singular the premises conveyed, viz.: A certain parcel of land situated in West Roxbury, in the County of Nofolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, containing twenty-six acres, more or less, according to a survey made by T. B. Moses, Surveyor, dated June 7, 1870, being part of premises conveyed to me by George C. North, by deed dated June 15, 1870, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 394, fol. 267, and all that portion thereof lying South of a 40 foot street called Clarence Street, and shown on a plan of land of the West Roxbury Land Company, drawn by T. B. Moses, Surveyor, dated July 13, 1870; bounded and described as follows, to wit:—

Northeasterly by said Clarence Street, 467 3-10 feet; southeasterly by the Dedham Branch Railroad; southwesterly on a straight line by land now or late of Humphrey Smith, 623 4-10 feet; and by a brook 464 feet; westerly by Charles River, 334 feet; northwesterly again by land now or late of Joseph Hay, by a straight line, 398 feet; northeasterly again by a straight line on land now or late of George Morse and on land recently conveyed by James C. White to D. W. Humphrey, 477 feet; northwesterly again by an irregular line on said land of——to said Clarence street, with a right of way in common with others in, upon and over said Clarence Street and Belle Avenue, as shown by said plan of July 13, 1870: Being the premises described in the said Mortgage Deed, together with all benefit and equity of redemption of the said Charles Newhall, his heirs, administrators, and assigns therein.

Terms made known at the time and place of sale. By order of
F. W. PELTON,
Assignee of said Mortgage.

MARY AND I.

'Twas evening in May, and the soft zephyr sighed
Through branches low bending above
My Mary and I, as we wandered along,
And whisper'd of beauty and love.
"We'll make us a nest like the birdlings," I said,
"And never shall part any more."
"Oh! yes," she replied, "and can furnish it nice.
At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"Fair creature, there's many a wealthier man
Would gladly have you for a bride,
But no one can love you more fondly than I,—
My treasure, my beauty, my pride!
Oh! had I a mansion with carpets of gold
And silver I'd cover the floor."
But, smiling, she said, "You can purchase the best
At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"I'll spread you a couch upon which to recline
When evening shall call us to rest,
Of the fleeciest down." But she said, with a sigh,
"I like a hair mattress the best."
"Then so shall it be, love; and tables inlaid,
And seats from some far distant shore."
"Oh, no!" she exclaimed, "they have elegant chairs
At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"But, Mary, alas! I must sadly confess,
My means are but slender as yet;
To furnish a house in the style you demand
Would hopelessly plunge me in debt;—
To ask you to share my poor lodgings and board
Is something that I should deplore."
She said, with a smile, "You may purchase on lease,
At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"To-morrow, then, love, let us journey along
To that palace on Washington street,—
('Tis number two hundred and ninety and six,)
Where lovers so happily meet.
How many fond souls might be severed for years
From those they so fondly adore,
Were't not for the system of payment they have
At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

We went. Happy day! can I ever forget
The pleasure that beamed in her face,
As she gazed at the marvels of beauty displayed
In Cunningham's wonderful place.
We furnished our nest in an elegant style;—
Been married a twelvemonth or more,
And Mary is singing this song to her babe,
Of CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

Poetry.

The Farmer's Festival.

The harvest moon is shining, high
  Above the forest and the field,
And laden vine and orchard bough,
  Are bending with their generous yield.
It is the farmer's festal time,
  The hour that crowns his year of toil;
And bids him take his honored place
  A monarch of the teeming soil.

For he, with patent, tireless zeal,
  Thro' chilling frost, and burning sun,
From Nature's storehouse, hidden deep,
  Her richest treasure-trove has won.
The sinews of the land are his;
  From brain and muscle he has wrought
The iron rail, the slender wire
  That bears its freight of living thought.

He fees the lawyer's eloquence,
  Though heedless of his words of strife,
And pays the parson's salary,
  Who breaks for all the bread of life;
And shall he calmly wait and see
  The profits of his labor wasted
Absorbed, by men who never yet
  The joys of honest toil have tasted?

Nay! farmer-folk, with you there rests
  The might and right to rule our land;
Close up, close up your severed ranks,
  Shoulder to shoulder take your stand,
And show the world a solid front
  Of frank, outspoken, honest men,
Who spurn all tricksters, and defy
  The politician's wily pen.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Keeping Cabbages.

We make a deep and wide "dead furrow" with a plow, in dry, sandy soil; and then lay the cabbages in it, packed close together, with the stalks up. Then throw the earth back on to the cabbages. The cabbages should be dry and the weather cold, and care should be taken that the furrow left on the side of the row of cabbages should be cleaned out, so as to carry off the water. If no water gets to the cabbages, and the heads are sound, large and hard when put in, we have never experienced any difficulty in keeping them perfectly until spring. And there is nothing that our sheep relish so much.—The only trouble about raising cabbages for stock is that they usually command so much more in market than they are worth to feed out, that it is difficult to resist the temptation to sell them.—Agricultural.

When to Manure Trees.

Inquiry is often made as to the frequency and amount of manuring or cultivation for trees. The answer must be, act according to circumstances. The question again recurs, how shall we know what our soil needs? The answer is, observe the results of growth. An examination or analysis of the soil will be of little use. But the trees will tell their own story. If the soil is so rich that they make annual shoots of two or three feet or more in length, without any cultivation or manuring at all, (which, however, is rarely the case,) then it will be needless to give additional care. The annual growth is the best guide to treatment. There are very few apple or other orchards which, after reaching a good bearing state, throw out annual shoots more than a foot and a half long, and many not half this length. The owner may lay it down as an unalterable rule, that when his trees do not grow one foot annually they need more manuring or cultivation, or both. By observing the growth he can answer all questions of the kind referred to without difficulty. —American Fruit Culturist.

ADVANTAGES OF UNDERDRAINING.—The Massachusetts Ploughman sensibly says: "One important advantage of the underdrain is, that it is at work when the top of the ground is frozen, when, of course, a surface or open drain is inactive; thus making the subsoil so dry and porous that when the frost comes out of the water it drops through at once and leaves the ground dry."

☞ George Woodward, of Sanbornton Square, New Hampshire, dug 51 bushels of potatoes from 19 square rods of land last week, which was at the rate of 430 bushels to the acre.

☞ Lewis Colby, of Henniker, New Hampshire has raised this year 300 bushels of sound ears of corn on two acres of land, which is a big yield.

Anecdotes.

An Irishman refused to pay his doctor's bill.

"Wat for shud I pay?" said he.—"Shure he didn't give me anything but emetics, and the niver a one could I kape on me stomach at all, at all."

Minister.—"John, I did not see you at church last Sunday!

John.—No sur, father sent I to t'other church and sez ef you wont lend us the wheelbarrow, I beant to go to your church agaun, never no moar.

A clergyman in a strange parish wishing to know what the people thought of his preaching, "interviewed" the sexton, and asked him what the people said of Mr. Jones, his predecessor.

"Oh," replied the sexton, "they say he isn't sound."

"Well, what do they say of the new minister?"

Oh, they say he's all sound."

In one of our largest cities, a short time ago, a Western editor was met by a friend, who, taking him by the hand exclaimed: "I am delighted to see you.—How long are you going to stay?"

"Why, I think," said the editor, "I shall stay while my money lasts."

"How disappointed I am!" said his friend; "I hoped you were going to stay a day or two."

HALL'S
RENEWER.
Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."
Sold by all Druggists, and Dealers in Medicines.
Price One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye.
FOR THE WHISKERS.
As our Renewer in many cases requires too long a time, and too much care, to restore gray or faded Whiskers, we have prepared this dye, in one preparation; which will quickly and effectually accomplish this result. It is easily applied, and produces a color which will neither rub nor wash off. Sold by all Druggists. Price Fifty Cents.

Ayer's
Cherry Pectoral,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are of more real value to mankind than this effectual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that CHERRY PECTORAL will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence: and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, CHERRY PECTORAL is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.
Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

CONSUMPTION
which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Poetry.

Don't Worry.

Don't worry yourself about people's affairs,
'Twill never make you happier;
A questioning here and a questioning there,
'Tis making you worry and making you care,
But never a bit the wiser.

Don't worry yourself if others have luck
And are quite determined to live;
Don't hurdle or crowd, or be jealous or proud
Or talk your dislikes so boldly and loud—
There's something better to give.

Don't worry—it never will move the world
Or make your brother better;
And it may be too, you have something to do,
And errors and follies not a few
That make you a miserable debtor.

Don't worry—there's plenty of room, you know,
And the world is broad and wide;
God gave all the right to live in his light,
But never to govern with all their might,
Or rule from center to side.

Don't worry—I preach and will practice, too,
Every word of this simple rhyme;
I've duties to do without watching you,
Or fretting to know if you are high or low,
Or whether you're worth a dime.

Don't worry—we've just one Judge, you know,
Who'll settle accounts by and by,
We are stewards to Him, and our lamps must trim,
And I'll pray take heed lest my own be dim,
When the gloom of death is nigh.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

FRUIT CAKE. One cup of butter; 2 cups sugar; 1 cup of molasses; 1 cup of coffee; 1 pound chopped raisins; three eggs; a dessert spoonful of each kind of spice; one nutmeg; teaspoonful of saleratus. Add flour enough to make it a little stiffer than pound cake. This cake will keep a long time. A little citron in very thin slices through the cake improves it, and currants may be substituted for part of the raisins.

CREAM TARTAR BISCUIT. One quart flour; one teaspoonful each salt and soda; two teaspoons cream tartar; mix well together; rub in a piece of butter and mix with new milk: bake quick.

IMPERFECTIONS. No human face is exactly the same in its lines on each side; no leaf perfect in its lobes; no branch in its symmetry. All admit of irregularity as they imply change; and to banish imperfections is to destroy expression, to check exertion, to paralyze vitality.

NEVER SATISFIED. Nobody is satisfied in this world. If a legacy is left a man he regrets it is not larger. If he finds a sum of money, he searches the spot for more. If he is elected to some high office, he wishes a better one. If he is rich and wants for nothing, he strives for more wealth. If he is a single man, he is looking out for a wife, and if married, for children. Man is never satisfied.

KNEW HER WANTS. A woman never realizes her necessities till she attends an auction sale. They tell of a woman in Baltimore who has provided herself with two hundred pairs of stockings, woolen and cotton. She is evidently intending to organize a hose company somewhere.

Miscellany.

The Mock Marriage.

"The best laid schemes of mice and men Gang aft agley."

The Parkhurst family consisted of two persons—namely, Mrs. Parkhurst and her daughter Susan. Susan had not yet obtained the right to write Mrs. before her name, although it must be confessed that this was not her fault, nor indeed that of her mother. The latter, by way of keeping up the idea of her daughter's juvenility, used constantly to speak to her as a child; but if the truth be spoken her age would place her about as near her second childhood as her first. It was a matter of surprise, certainly, that a young lady of Susan's personal attraction (which consisted principally of a pair of lackadaisical eyes, and about a dozen straw-colored ringlets) should not have wedded before. But without wasting time in such reflections, we must take things as we find them.

At last Mrs. Parkhurst conceived a brilliant idea. What it was will be developed in due time. Her first step was to put an advertisement of the following purport in the daily paper:—

"RARE OPPORTUNITY. A young man who can present unquestioned reference will be admitted to the advantages of companionship in a refined and cultivated family, who are influenced in admitting a boarder only by the desire of obtaining the presence and protection of a gentleman inmate. Application may be made to Mrs. Parkhurst, Honeysuckle Cottage."

I may as well say that the title Honeysuckle Cottage was a happy thought, and was entirely to be attributed to the brilliant imagination of the authoress of the advertisement, the fact being that there was not a honeysuckle within half a mile of the cottage.

About a week after the insertion of the advertisement, it attracted the attention of a young artist who was desirous of passing the summer in the country.

"A family of refinement and cultivation!" he soliloquized. "Certainly that will be much pleasanter than one ill-educated and coarse. I think that will be just the place for me. I am only afraid some one has got the start of me. However, there is no harm in presenting my claims. I will write on the instant."

He accordingly sat down and penned a note to Mrs. Parkhurst. The widow showed it to her daughter as soon as received.

"Shall we take him, Susie?" she said.

"I wish I knew whether he was young and handsome," said Susan.

"He must be the artist that I have heard the Kendricks speak of," said her mother.

"He was down here for a day last summer. If it is he, he is bothyoung and handsome. At any rate, we may not get another application, and I think we had better say, yes unless, indeed, we ask for a personal interview first."

"No, mother," said Susan, hastily, "for then he might not care to come. Perhaps he might not find things exactly as he expects."

"You are right child," said her mother, who was so much in the habit of calling her "child" in company that the habit clung to her when they were alone. "You are right. It will be decidedly the most polite thing to write a note of unconditional acceptance.

In pursuance of these wise plans, Charles Hammond was gratified by an assent to his proposal, and at once took measures to have his "traps" forwarded to Honeysuckle Cottage.

When the young man arrived at the two-story house, without a tree or shrub near it, which was dignified by that appellation—nay, when he was introduced to the portly Mrs. Parkhurst and "the child," he looked a little disappointed, although of course he did not see fit to express any such feeling. However, after a few days' residence, finding that, although his hostess and her daughter were not all he desired, yet the village was pretty and well adapted to his purpose, and contained a number of agreeable people, he concluded that after all he should enjoy the summer very well.

Certainly, Mrs. Parkhurst and Susan were very attentive to him, indeed, sometimes too attentive, as when Susan would volunteer to accompany him in his walks and chat and simper in a very girlish style, not a little to his disgust.

Probably Susan might have felt indignant if she had known the secret opinion which the young artist formed of her as a silly and weak-minded old maid. However, she knew nothing of this, and thought she was fast securing the young man's favor, although, beyond the common politeness which he would show to any acquaintance, he could not be said to have ventured.

So week after week passed without apparently bringing the young man to a declaration, although Susan had, on various occasions, given him an opportunity to declare his sentiments.

At length it only wanted two weeks to the first of October, the time at which Charles Hammond had announced his intentions of going back to the city. In that short time something must be done. Brief as was the opportunity afforded, Mrs. Parkhurst and Susan resolved that if it was within their power, Mr. Hammond should go back a married man, and Susan should go back with him.

"Mr. Hammond," said Mrs. Parkhurst, as she was pouring out his tea one evening, "shall you be at leisure next Thursday evening?"

"Yes, ma'am," was the reply.

"Then will you do us the pleasure to attend a party which my daughter intends to give to some of her young friends on that occasion? We shall try to have a pleasant time."

"I will accept your invitation with a great deal of pleasure, and have no doubt I shall enjoy myself on the occasion."

"I hope you will, Mr. Hammond, for to say the truth, I have got it up chiefly on your account."

"Indeed, madam, I am greatly indebted to you."

"Not at all. You have been with us so long that we expect to miss you a great deal when you go, and hope to make the remainder of your stay as pleasant as possible."

"Of course our hero made a suitable reply, and really looked forward to the party with considerable anticipation, as no doubt many of the agreeable people he had met in the village would be present. He felt quite indebted to Mrs. Parkhurst, and concluded that although she was not a liberal hostess, yet she was a very good sort of a woman after all.

The time slid by, and the time of the party came.

The rooms were well filled, and all seemed pleased.

Susan had got a blue dress expressly for the occasion, which served as rather a singular contrast to her yellowish hair. However, she seemed to be in the best of spirits, and was in a constant giggle.

"The child has such spirits," explained Mrs. Parkhurst to our hero. "She enters with such vivacity into the amusements of her age."

Our hero bowed, and said nothing.

At length there came a lull in the evening's entertainments.

"Good people," said Mrs. Parkhurst, "I have a plan by which to amuse you."

"What is it?" asked a dozen voices in chorus.

"It is no less than a mock marriage," said Mrs. Parkhurst. "I was present on one occasion when one was performed, and it created a great deal of amusement."

"O, it will be just the thing" exclaimed several. "But who will be the parties?"

"Perhaps Mr. Hammond will be so obliging as to serve as bridegroom," said Mrs. Parkhurst.

"O, certainly," said our hero, gaily.

"And Susan, you will consent to act the part of bride, won't you?"

"O, ma, how can you ask me?" said Susan deprecatingly.

"Perhaps," said Charles Hammond, relieved, "some other young lady will."

"Excuse me," said Susan, suddenly recovering herself; "I was at first startled, but will do anything to oblige."

"But if it would be disagreeable to you," said Charles Hammond, anxiously, "I am sure your mother will not insist upon it."

"Yes, she will," said Mrs. Parkhurst, decidedly. "Its only a foolish whim of the child. Mr. Bagley, will you perform the ceremony?"

Mr. Bagley, who was an elderly man of portly make, expressed himself as quite willing, and accordingly asked the regular questions prescribed by law, and wound up by a speech of becoming advice.

Everybody seemed to enjoy this scene, and it proved to be the most popular feature of the evening.

A week more passed, and Charles Hammond prepared to leave town. As he announced his purpose to Mrs. Parkhurst, the latter said with some asperity, and do you propose to leave your wife here?"

"My wife!" exclaimed the young man in profound astonishment.

"Certainly," said Mrs. Parkhurst, "you were married to Susan on the evening of the party."

"Oh!" said the young man, relieved and smiling, "you refer to the mock marriage."

"It was a genuine marriage," said Mrs. Parkhurst. "Mr. Bagley was a Justice of the Peace, and the law makes such a marriage a legal one."

"Good Heavens!" exclaimed the young man, thunderstruck. "You don't mean to say that you would urge such a claim?"

"We intend to do so," said the widow, coolly; "both my daughter and myself are resolved upon it."

In a state of dismay little to be imagined, the young man flew rather than walked to Mr. Bagley's office, and laid the case before him.

"The lady is right," said Mr. Bagley, "A marriage performed by a Justice of the Peace, under any circumstances, is legal."

"Then why did you consent to perform the ceremony?" asked the artist, indignantly.

"Because, my young friend," said Mr. Bagley, calmly, "my commission as Justice expired the day before the party."

"Saved! saved!" exclaimed the young man, overjoyed, seizing his hat and hastening back to Honeysuckle Cottage.

The disappointment and rage of Mrs. Parkhurst and Susan can hardly be imagined when they heard how all their machinations had failed. The coup d'etat on which they had so much depended had proved an utter failure.

As for Charles Hammond, he has since married a beautiful girl, but he shudders even now with afright when he thinks of the narrow chance he ran in the "Mock Marriage."

Bad Temper.

There are few things more productive of evil in domestic life than a thoroughly bad temper. It does not matter what form that temper may assume, whether it is of a sulky kind that maintains perfect silence, or the madly passionate, which vents itself in absolute violence.—Ill-temper at any age is a bad thing; it never does anybody any good, and those who indulge in it feel no better for it.—After the passions has passed away, one sees that he has been very foolish, and knows that others see it too. Bad temper in the aged is perhaps the most trying of all; it is indeed a pitiable sight to see the wrinkled cheek of an old person aflame with the fires of anger and passion. Since anger is useless, and an unspeakable misery to its victim, why should it be indulged in at all?

Forgot her Money.

The life of Dr. Raffles, of London, has the following: A young lady, the daughter of the owner of the horse, was addressed by a man, who, though agreeable to her, was disliked by her father. Of course, he would not consent to their union, and she determined to elope. The night was fixed, the hour came, and he placed the ladder in the window, and in a few minutes she was in his arms.—They mounted double horses, and were soon some distance from the house.—After a while the lady broke silence by saying. "Well, you see what a proof I have given you of my affections; I hope you will make me a good husband."

He was a surly fellow, and gruffly answered, "Perhaps I may and perhaps I may not."

She made no reply, but after a silence of some minutes, she suddenly exclaimed, "Oh, what shall I do? I left my money behind me in my room."

Then he said, "We must go back and fetch it."

They were soon at home, and the ladder was again raised, the lady remounted, while the ill-natured lover waited below. But she delayed to come, and so he gently called, "Are you coming?" when she looked out of the window and said, "Perhaps I may and perhaps I may not;" and then shut the window down and left him to return upon the double horse alone.

Merchant and Clerk.

"You are very late this morning, Mr. Jenks," was the gruff salutation of a city merchant to one of his clerks. "Do not let it happen again."

"Very sorry," said the clerk, humbly, "I met with a serious fall."

"Ah, indeed!" said the merchant relentingly. "How was that? Hurt you much?"

"Principally, sir, in your estimation," said the clerk respectfully.

"Oh, never mind that," said the merchant in a kind tone—"never mind that, I commiserate with you. We are all liable to accidents. How did you get your fall?"

"Well, you see, sir," said the clerk, "I was called quite early this morning; in fact, somewhat earlier than usual."

"Ah?"

"Yes, sir, but somehow or other I was unfortunate enough to fall asleep again, sir, and—"

"Mr. Jenks, you're a humbug!" said the merchant in a bantering tone, who, in spite of his gruffness was fond of a joke. "Go to your desk, sir, and when you try it again, do not fail to fall in this direction."

POSTAL. A post office decision has recently been made, to the effect that if a postmaster knows that a letter addressed to his office is intended for a person living within the delivery of another office, it is his duty to forward such letter (if it has been properly prepaid) without waiting for a request to do so, and without extra charge.

Temperance Lecture.

The third lecture of the course was held on Thursday evening last. Long before the hall doors were opened a large crowd gathered in front of the Town Hall anxious to get in to secure a good seat.—At a quarter to seven the portals swung open and a rush was made for seats, and in a few minutes the hall was nearly full, but still they came till there was room for no more, and many were obliged to turn on their heels and go away.

The audience was called to order by H. H. Faxon, Esq., who made a short address, touching the members of the new Club Room, recently opened in Adams' Block, several times with a sharp stick. He thought it would be better for the gentlemen if they had some ladies at their gathering, and he urged forty of the handsome misses before him to join, promising to pay their admittance fee, of five dollars, and the regular monthly assessment of two dollars, besides finding them all the yarn they could knit.

After prayer by the Rev. G. W. Whitney, the Rev. Dr. Miner, of Boston, the lecturer of the evening, was introduced.

He spoke ably and eloquently for about one hour, showing the misery and crime that rum was doing, and the immense amount of money squandered and wasted every year by the lovers of this demon. In conclusion he hoped the honest, industrious citizens of Quincy would attend the caucuses and see that a good prohibition gentleman was nominated to represent them in the next General Court.

The next lecture will be given by D. Banks McKenzie, Esq., of Boston, in behalf of the Baptist Society at Quincy Point, on Thursday evening next.

Political. The Democrats held a caucus at the Town Hall, last evening, as our paper was going to press, for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent this town in the next General Court. The name of John Q. Adams was prominent at the meeting, and probably he will be elected.

The Republicans hold their caucus this evening at the Town Hall. H. Farnam Smith, Esq., and Mr. Wm. G. Sheen are gentlemen whose names we have heard spoken of as candidates for a Representative. The former it is said is in favor of license, the latter of prohibition. It remains for the party to decide which of these issues shall prevail.

Runaway. Mr. Richard Dexter left his horse and buggy for a short time, near Mr. E. Fellows' shop, on Wednesday evening, and during his absence the horse became frightened and ran away, badly damaging the carriage.

Insurance Co. We would particularly invite the attention of the reader, to the advertisement of the Hartford Steam Boiler Insurance Company, for which Mr. W. S. Chamberlain, of this town is agent. Any information relative to the plans and operations of this company, will be cheerfully given by him.

Norfolk County. Samuel B. Noyes, says in the Commonwealth, in a communication on annexation of West Roxbury:—"There is evidently a want not only of land to the city, but also of men. For the past and present Mayors, Gaston and Pierce, are Norfolk County men; and the prosecuting Attorney May, is a Norfolk County man; and the Register of Deeds, Temple is a Norfolk county man." He might have added to the above names two Josiah Quincy, from Norfolk county. "It would seem that it is true of all pursuits of business and professions in the city, that they must be recruited from the country. Blood and brains and muscle, must be imported by the city. Just as they take in our gravel and sand hills to make land on which to build dwellings, stores, and churches. An old farm which would not yield hay enough to pay for the molasses and water, that the mowers drink while harvesting the crop; becomes a fortune when its sand hills have been carted into the city, and laid out into streets. The tendency of power is from the many to the few (as Fisher Ames once said) is no truer than that the tendency of power and influence in all departments of human, civil, moral and religious relations is from the country to the city." "Norfolk County never was a rustic region in her elder days; she had her Eustis, her Stoughton and Sumners, her Adamses and Ameses and Mortons, her Endicotts and Clapps and Capens, and Everetts and Holbrooks and Hobarts and Havens, her Fishers and Frenches and Voses and Drapers and Bullocks and Manns and Metcalfs—always her families of superior education, endowment and wealth all down the alphabet! Norfolk county can afford to give land to Suffolk County, as she has always given men and brains!"

Furniture. Messrs. Beal & Hooper of Boston, are now closing out a large stock of nice black walnut chamber and parlor sets, of their own manufacture, which they offer at very low prices.—They are an old and well known firm, and what is bought of them can be depended on as being of excellent quality and make.

Thanksgiving day in Connecticut, is the 27th of November.

District Court of East Norfolk.

Monday.

Edwin Foster of Sandwich, for being a vagrant at Quincy was found guilty and sentenced to the House of Correction for the term of four months.

Tuesday.

Lucius Thayer of Quincy was arraigned on the following complaint, to which he plead not guilty, viz., that on the first day of July A. D. 1873, and on divers other days to the present time, at Quincy unlawful did keep and maintain a certain common, ill-governed, and disorderly house for his own lucre and gain, whereby certain evil disposed persons, men as well as women, of evil name, fame and conversation, came together in the night as well as day, and there remained drinking, tippling, cursing swearing, quarrelling and otherwise misbehaving, and there unlawfully and knowingly did permit and suffer a common nuisance, to all the citizens there residing, and to those passing and re-passing.

There being probable cause to believe him guilty he was held in the sum of $500, to appear before the Grand Jury on the first Monday of Dec. next, and was committed to jail. Laurinda Thayer wife of said Lucius, for being a common drunkard was sent to the House of Correction for four months. Appealed and in default of bail was committed.

Wednesday.

William McCormish, of Braintree, was complained of for being drunk. Fined $5 and costs.

James Landick of Quincy, plead guilty of the charge of being drunk, and was fined $3 and costs.

Thursday.

David Tobin of Weymouth, was before the court this morning for committing an assault. He was ordered to pay the costs and give sureties in the sum of $100 to keep the peace for six months.

John Horrigan of Quincy, was arraigned for a second drunk, and sent to the House of Correction for two months.

Friday.

But one case was before the court this morning, that of Patrick Butler of Holbrook, charged with the larceny of a watch. He was discharged.

Western Correspondence

Red Rock, Lincoln Co., Kansas, Oct. 1st, 1873.

Our crops of wheat and other grains were abundant, and prices are consequently low. Spring wheat is sold for 30 to 50 cents per bushel, winter 75 cents to $1; corn 25 to 30 cents, and other grain in proportion.

Irish potatoes are scarce and high there being but a small crop on account of dry weather at the time of setting. Potatoes seldom do well here unless they are mulched; beans too are hard to raise. They usually grow all to vines, with but few beans.

There has been a large quantity of sorghum raised in this part of the country this season; this is said never to fail here, in yielding a good crop. It is now stripped and cut, and those who have mills make good wages converting it into syrup. They take one half the yield. I think it will soon be an important article of export from this part of the State.

Many farmers seem to have been experimenting this year. Some have raised patches of castor oil bean; one man has about two acres. The bean seems to do remarkably well, and may prove profitable. Others have raised tobacco, — I have no use for this weed and take little interest in its cultivation.

All vegetables that require a deep, rich soil will do well here; and for all kinds of grain this State is unsurpassed.

All agree that Kansas is the best stock raising State in the union. Thousands of cattle have been wintered here, with no feed at all, except what they got on their ranges and sheltered by the timber. This is a shiftless way and is found to pay poorly in the long run. Cattle wintered in this way come out poor in the spring requires more time to fatten for market. It costs but little to put up what hay is wanted for the coldest and stormy weather. Comfortable shelters can be made at small expense with poles and hay.

We seldom have rain here in the winter so that all that is needed is shelter from the cold north winds. In this way all can bring their stock through in good condition, at from 3 to 5 dollars per head. All native beeves sell now readily at fair prices. Two year old $28 to $35, three year old $35 to $45. Texas stock is not sought for, ever at low prices. The long horns will eventually run out with the Kansas farmer, and all others well posted in stock.

The sheep business seems to be increasing in this country several have over 1000 head, and there are many smaller flocks. Wool will finally be one of chief exports. Some are putting up hay now, and others have not commenced. This may do well enough this year, as the grass is still green, but usually, it should be all in the stack by the middle of September. C. C. P.

☞ A gentleman in one of our neighboring towns, while planting potatoes last spring, lost his wallet, containing about fifteen dollars. On harvesting his crop a short since he dug out of a potato hill his pocket book, with contents complete, without being diminished or increased.

☞ Of the children born in London, more than twice as many are raised to maturity now than were raised 100 years ago. Then more than one-half died under the age of five years; now only about one-quarter.

Address:

To the Alumni of the Quincy High School Association, Greeting:

As we are to have our seventh annual election of officers on Wednesday evening, Nov. 5th, your President deems it quite proper to urge upon you all, the extreme necessity of more interested and banded co-workers in this noble society, formed by so skilful hands — small in numbers, but full of scholarly devotion; and now with a full array of croakers, especially against some trivial shortcomings, would respectfully urge the importance of a large, full, enthusiastic meeting at the annual election. The annual assessments will be due November first — the by-laws and proper books being in the hands of the worthy treasurer, Miss S. Addie Souther. And in looking thoroughly over the Constitution and By-Laws, we find only 189 members have signed, while 225 are found on the Treasurer's ledger. Certainly a case of pure negligence.

And in furtherance of our glorious Constitution, would call to your consideration the necessity of every signature to the By-Laws as soon as possible, and to bring into our social and literary gatherings all the new graduates of our High School. In the words of our Constitution:—

Article 1. The primary object of the Association shall be to promote and perpetuate our mutual acquaintance and interest in one another, as schoolmates, and to that end, social gatherings or reunions of the members shall be held at least once every year.

Art. 2. All graduates of said school and all persons who shall have at any time been pupils therein, shall be entitled to become members, by signing the Constitution, and paying an initiation fee of one dollar; and to defray the necessary expenditures which may be required from year, to year, each member shall pay an annual assessment of fifty cents.

And, in closing, let me very earnestly request your particular attention to the addition of new, young members, so that the November 5th count will reach one hundred, instead of fifteen members present. Fraternally Yours,

JOHN P. BIGELW, President.

For the Patriot.

Henry H. Faxon Esq.

The recent liberal offer of our honored citizen, Henry H. Faxon, Esq., to the Sunday Schools of Quincy, together with similar benefactions in the past has given rise to many very caustic remarks with regard to the motives by which he is actuated. These comments, when reduced to their lowest terms, make office the sole object of his liberality. It is done only —so it is said—to conciliate the political patronage of his fellow citizens. This may be so. The General Superintendent has not favored me with a ticket of admission to his heart and therefore I cannot vouch for his motives. It seems to me, however, that the too common practice of aspering a man's motives in a good act, without the clearest tangible evidence, is the grossest personal injustice. To desire and seek office is neither criminal not disreputable. To give away money at the same time is, in itself, no evidence that it is done to secure political support although such may be the practical result. But, admitting that Mr. Faxon's motive is what has been represented—that his sole motive is to secure the votes of his fellow citizens for the Senatorship or other offices, then how does he stand in point of morals with the generality of political aspirants?

How are these ambitious aims generally pursued if not on the principle of the homely but significant aphorism "I'll scratch your back if you'll scratch mine?" A definite bargain is made, binding the parties by their word of honor, perhaps legal documents, so that whatever changes may occur to modify exigencies or consciencious opinions, the programme must be carried out. Conscience, judgment, manhood, soul and body are sold for a price, often much less than thirty pieces of silver,—perhaps a few glasses of rum, some petty office, the support of some local interest, some land enterprise, some railroad scheme, some liquor law or some other project supposed to be aided by the influence of the hireling.

Mr. Faxon gives his money for the public weal, hoping indeed, that the public may show their appreciation for the benefaction by helping him to the office he desires, but binding no one.

Others pay their money, or an equivalent, and their service to those who will use the same only for purposes of personal emolument and gratification regardless of public and social morals—for we can expect nothing very noble and beneficent of men who will sell their consciences or their vote for a mess of pottage—while Mr. Faxon gives his money for the moral and religious education of the people and the promotion of temperance and virture.

Granting then, that both parties are actuated by the same and a selfish motive which, considering the motive, act and fruits together, stands the higher in the scale of morality? which deserves better of all lovers of purity and good order?

We joyfully welcome any thought the slightest, improvement in the principles on which political contests are conducted. It would be an occasion for profound gratitude if Mr. Faxon's method, even it be purely selfish, could be made a substitute for the one in general prevalence. It would be a point gained in the right direction—a step of progress toward the still higher moral elevation on which only our political and civil institutions can hope for pernament security.

The church bell at Wollaston Heights, sounds sweetly and serves its purpose as well and the books and bibles of the Quincy Sunday Schools are as useful as if Bell and Books had been let down from heaven in a sheet.

Mr. Faxon's thousands that he is now investing in Sunday Schools and Temperance reforms would have procured him double the votes it it had been invested in the ordinary method of political traffic.

He is therefore, to be commended and honored for the use he makes of his money though he may contemplate, in so doing, political advantage; of which latter motive he alone of all finite beings is the proper judge. JUSTICE.

Summary of News.

The storms clear away with mild weather this fall, which is said to be indicative of warm winter.

Barnum is said to have paid $350,000 for a site for a museum in Philadelphia.

The progress in Hoosac Tunnel during the week ending Oct. 22 was 213 feet, and there remains 339 feet to be cut through.

LINES,

Addressed to George H. and Annie J. Newcomb, on the death of their child.

She has gone in her childish beauty,
Gone like the flowers of Spring,
Gone to live with the angels,
'Ere she had learned to sin.

She was a bud of promise,
Unfolding day by day,
But the spirit of your Gracie,
Longed to soar away.

There were many loved ones waiting,
To greet her on that shore,
Where Death's cold, icy fingers,
Can never chill her more.

But now she's sweetly sleeping
In her little narrow bed,
And the Autumn leaves are falling
Around her infant head.

The little birds will sing
A requiem o'er her grave,
And the grass, which now is withering,
Will gently o'er it wave.

Then weep not for your babe,
So early passed away,
For in those heavenly mansions
She waits the coming day,

When you will be united
On those eternal shores,
Where the weary shall find rest
And partings come no more.

Unlocking the Rocks. The great cost of silver and gold arises not so much from their scarcity in the earth, as the difficulty of extracting them from their stony combinations. Dr. J. C. Ayer, the well known chemist of Massachusetts, has cut this gordian knot. After having merited and received the gratitude of half mankind, by his remedies that cure their diseases, he is now winning the other half, by opening for them an easy road to the exhaustless treasures of the hills. He has discovered and published a chemical process, which renders at little cost, the hardest rocks and ores friable like chalk, so that the precious metals are loosed from their confinement, and easily gathered, Mines too poor to pay, may be worked at a profit now, and the yield of rich mines is largely increased, while the cost of extracting the metals from the ore, is diminished. Either is a great achievement, to enrich mankind, or cure their diseases. But we are informed our celebrated countryman adheres to the latter, as his speciality and chief ambition.—Buffalo Sentinel.

First Church. Sunday School at 9.20. New pupils always welcome; on entering they will report to the Superintendent, Mr. Wells, or to the Mr. C. A. Howland, Assistant Superintendent.—Adult Bible Class at 10; conducted by the Pastor; or in his absence, by Mr. C. H. Porter. New members gladly received.

Morning Service at 10.50. The Pastor will officiate to-morrow.

Vespers at 4.50. Mr. Wells will preach the second sermon of the Special Course, so admirably opened, last Sunday evening, by the Rev. Mr. Foote of Kings Chapel. Subject:—The Worship of the Madonna. The sermons in this course are designed to be of such a nature as shall interest and help young people, and even children; well as the older portion of the Congregation.

Telegraphy. It has been decided by the highest court in Illinois, that telegraph companies are bound to transmit messages correctly in the first instance, and that an additional charge for repeating to insure correctness is a fraud upon the public. A similiar decision has been made in Ohio, and it is very evident that, these conclusions are eminently just.—Lynn Reporter.

GREENLEAF STREET PRIVATE SCHOOL.

THIS SCHOOL is now in the second year of its existence. It is designed for Boys and Girls between the ages of five and fourteen, or npwards. It is divided into three departments, each of which is under the charge of a competent and successful teacher.

The Studies pursued are: Reading, (Monroe's and some of Hillard's); Spelling, (Swinton's Readers, Word-Book); Arithmetic (Hagar's Series); Geography, ("Our World" Series); Grammar, (Karl's Common School Grammar; also, Oral Grammar): History, (Barnes' History of the United States, and Anderson's General History); French, ("Beginning French," "Beginner's French Reader," Otto's Grammar, Otto's Reader); Natural Philosophy, &c. (Norton and Porter's First Book of Science). Regular instruction is also given in Drawing, Vocal Music and Sewing.

The Schoolrooms are of ample size, and are well-heated and well-ventilated. There is a large play-ground, and also a play-room in-doors, for rainy weather.

The School Year is divided into four terms, of ten working weeks each. Charges are made for single terms only, and pupils may enter at the beginning of any term. It is expected, however, that those who have once entered will remain during the remainder of the school year; and it is hoped that all pupils will complete the studies of the course. Any boy or girl of good disposition and average capacity, who faithfully follows out the entire course, may be reasonably certain of laying the foundation of a thorough practical education.

Terms — $8, $10, $12 and $15 a term, according to age and acquirements.

The Second Term of the current year, begins November 26th; and application for admission may now be made, to either of the teachers, or to STOKES SENTENCED. The Stokes trial ended on Wednesday, and the case was given to the jury at a quarter of five.—The court-house was crowded, many of the women bringing their lunch baskets determining to be present at the verdict. About half past ten at night, the jury returned to the court room, for instructions on the difference between murder and the degrees of manslaughter. Judge Davis read the law, and explained, on murder in the first degree, and man slaughter in the second, third and fourth degrees. The jury then retired for further deliberation. At twenty minutes past eleven they again entered the room and after the usual ceremony of polling the jury, they were asked again whether they had arrived at a verdict. To the astonishment of everybody the answer this time was "Yes." They stood up. "What say you, gentlemen," said the clerk, "is the prisoner guilty or not guilty?" "Guilty," replied the foreman "of manslaughter in the third degree." The judge after listening to an appeal from the prisoner's counsel, proceeded to sentence the prisoner to the full extent of the statue—four years at hard labor in the State Prison. The unexpected verdict is not well received even those who objected to hanging Stokes, say he should be much more severly punished.

THE EAGLE. We refer our readers to the advertisement of the Eagle Clothing Company. We are requested to state that they have reduced their prices and are giving bargains such as cannot be found elsewhere. There is no more reliable place to purchase articles in their line in Boston and their clothing is manufactured especially for their Retail Trade.

THE NEXT LEGISLATURE. The Springfield Republican asserts that the next Legislature, will be anti-probibitory and the Boston Transcript says:—"That would be a "consummation devoutly to be wished," as presaging the downfall of the reign of narrowness and hypocrisy. The Republican State Convention left this subject with the Legislature, and no occasion should be omitted to secure the election of members candid and courageous enough to adjust the statues on liquor-selling to the average public sentiment of the Commonwealth, and the practice of those who enact them.

☞ There are eighty Americans at present studying music at Milan. It is stated that in this one city the students from the States largely outnumber those from every other country, if not all the rest put together.

THE COUNTRY BANKS. Of the one hundred and sixty-four country bank in this State in charge of Col. Needham, Bank Commissioner, only nine suspended currency payment during the late panic, and these only for a brief period. All have since resumed. This indicates a financial strength of which Massachusetts bank managers may feel proud.—Lynn Reporter.

The stringency in the money market is being felt by thousands of laboring men throughout the country.

☞ The coinage act of 1873 provides that gold coins that have become reduced in weight by natural abrasion not more than one half per cent. below the standard weight, shall be received at the nominal value at the U. S. Treasury, customhouses, etc. This percentage, reduced to actual weight, is thirteen one-hundredths of a grain to a dollar, and the like proportion to each of the larger coin. Small as this loss seems for each coin, it is nevertheless found to be the average loss on pieces that have been in use for the term of twenty years. Coins that show a greater loss in weight are to be sent to the mint for re-coinage. Parties presenting these for paying duties, etc., will be credited for the value as ascertained at the mint. The new coinage act does not change the regulations concerning silver coin, which is still received in payment of duties, etc., in amounts of less than five dollars.

FOR SALE OR TO LET.

A LARGE TWO-STORY HOUSE, pleasantly situated on Hancock Street, Wollaston, with from one-half to three quarters of an acre of land, extending from the main street to Webster street, well stocked with fruit—within five minutes' walk of the depot.
For particulars, enquire of Miss H. M. RICHARDSON, the third house North of the Horse R. R. Station, Hancock street.
Quincy, May 10. tf

☞ In the southeastern part of Danby Vt., is a cavern which descends into solid rock, like a well, and down which persons have been let 150 feet without discovering the bottom. It is thought to communicate with the cave in Dorset, on the south end of the mountain, and a party are making arrangements to explore it.

☞ A blind man, a woman, a hand-organ and a little girl are a family group traveling a round the City of Detroit soliciting alms. The man holds out his hand, the woman turns the organ, and the little girl appeals as follows: "Won't you please give a few cents to a poor blind man who had his eyes blown up while he was firing a cannon on the Fourth of July and hain't got any home and has got to go round begging and is in poor health and has got the consumption and broke his arm the day before last Christmas and God loves a cheerful giver."

conduct an Agency for the reception of advertisements for American NEWSPAPERS—the most complete establishment of the kind in the world. Six thousand NEWSPAPERS kept regularly on file, open to inspection by customers. No reading-room, however complete receives one-twentieth of this number. Every Advertiement is taken at the home price of the paper, without any additional charge or commission, so that an advertiser, in dealing with the Agency, is saved trouble and correspondence, making one contract instead of a dozen, a hundred or a thousand. A Book of eighty pages, cotaining lists of best papers, largest circulation, religious papers, agricultural papers, class papers, political papers, daily papers, country papers, magazines and all publications, with some information about prices, is sent FREE to any address on application. Persons at a distance wishing to make contracts for advertising in any town, city, county, State or Territory of the United States, or any portion of the Dominion of Canada, may send a concise statement of what they want, together with a copy of the Advertisement they desire inserted, and will receive information by return mail which will enable them to decide whether to increase, reduce or forego the order. For such information there is no charge whatever. Publishers not only send their files free, but pay Messrs. GEO. P. ROWELL & Co. for their services. Orders are accepted for a single paper as well as for a larger list; for a single dollar as readily as for a larger sum. Address the American Newspaper Advertising Agency.

Poetry.

Leaf by Leaf, and Tear by Tear.

BY FRED. E. WEATHERBY.

Yonder where the garden-close
 Edges of the sea-cliff nears,
In her hand she holds a rose,
 Shedding leaf by leaf like tears.
White and pink, and pink and white,
 Falling 'gainst the sunlight there;
Like her soft cheek's peach bloom bright,
 Haloed with her sunny hair.
'Neath the rose-walk's gloom she stands,
 Love's sweet pleadings slyly hears,
Shedding from her trembling hands
 Leaf by leaf, like happy tears.

Yonder, where the barren sea
 Laps against the gray cold shore,
White, and worn, and old, sits she,
 Weeping, waiting, evermore.
Winter woods are waning fast,
 Snapt are all her love dreams gay,
Brave sweet hope has sunk at last,
 Dead and crushed beside the way.
One late rose within her hands,
 Bends she o'er Hope's quiet bier,
Dropping, where she lonely stands,
 Leaf by leaf, and tear by tear.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Sand in the Barn Cellar.

The practice has become somewhat common of carting large quantities of sand into the barn cellar and mixing it from time to time with the droppings of the cattle. It it a practice involving the outlay of a great deal of labor of both man and beast, and consequently of much expense. This is done under the supposition that the sand absorbs them or only prevents their escape by being in their way. Sand has little or no absorbing power, and only acts in this case by being in the way of the liquids. In the absence, then, of peat, the use of sand is economical just as far as it prevents the liquids from escaping. Beyond that, it seems to us to be lost labor to cart in and out again any quantity of sand. It adds nothing of value to the manure, or, if anything, in scarcely an appreciable degree, while every cord of it that is handled over two or three times must cost from $1 to $3, according to the distance which it is conveyed and the wages paid. The presence of sand in the manure heap acts as a divider, and in this way may be of some service; but it would be slight. At any rate, the same amount of labor expended in adding good peat to the manure heap, or charcoal dust, or almost any fine, dry vegetable matter, would probably be ten times as useful.

Late Chickens the Best Layers.

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman writes:—After repeated experiments during the past twenty-five years in hatching chickens, I am fully convinced that fowls hatched in the month of July make far better layers than those hatched at any other season of the year. Early hatched chicks commence laying in September, and continued until cold January weather, when they discontinue until spring. On the other hand, when hatched in July or August they begin laying in February and continue until October. I find July chickens will average fifty to seventy-five more eggs yearly than those hatched in March. My method, therefore, is to hatch 100 chicks in August for my own use. As soon as the cocks can be selected from the pullets, they are converted into potpie giving the pullets all the room. The pullets are then well fed, and are soon large enough to care for themselves.

To Keep Grapes for Home Use.

Gather the clusters carefully, removing all the grapes that are not perfect.—Then fasten the cluster to poles about eight feet long, and so stout that they will not bend under the weight. Suspend these poles by strings fastened to the ceiling of a wood loft or chamber, where there is a complete circulation of air, and let them remain until there is danger of a frost. Pack for winter in dry sawdust, in shallow boxes, and put them in a cool but dry cellar.

☞ The harvest of late-planted potatoes in Western Massachusetts promises to be abundant.

☞ Some 3000 bushels of onions have been raised on the Cape, this year.

Anecdotes.

A fop, wishing to excite the higher sentiments of his lady-love, and turn her mind to the contemplation of noble themes said:

"Maria, what do you suppose I was a hundred years ago?" To which Maria responded:

"Just what you are now—nothing at all!"

A little boy in Dover refusing to take a pill, his mother placed it in a piece of preserved pear and gave it to him. In a few minutes she said:

"Tom, have you eaten the pear?"

"He said, "Yes, mother; all but the seed."

"How one thing brings up another," said a lady, absorbed in a pleasing retrospection.

"Yes," replied the practical Dibbs; "an emetic, for instance."

A mother (over her children)—"Precious lambs!"

Father—"Lambs? hump! then what am I?"

"Jeff, why am you like de cedar?"

"I guvs it up, Sam; I can't tell."

"Case you is green de summer and winter bofe."

MARY AND I.

'Twas evening in May, and the soft zephyr sighed
 Through branches low bending above
My Mary and I, as we wandered along,
 And whisper'd of beauty and love.
"We'll make us a nest like the birdlings," I said,
 "And never shall part any more."
"Oh! yes," she replied, "and can furnish it nice.
 At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"Fair creature, there's many a wealthier man
 Would gladly have you for a bride,
But no one can love you more fondly than I,—
 My treasure, my beauty, my pride!
Oh! had I a mansion with carpets of gold
 And silver I'd cover the floor."
But, smiling, she said, "You can purchase the best
 At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"Ill spread you a couch upon which to recline
 When evening shall call us to rest,
Of the fleeciest down." But she said, with a sigh,
 "I like a hair mattress the best."
"Then so shall it be, love; and tables inlaid,
 And seats from some far distant shore."
"Oh, no!" she exclaimed, "they have elegant chairs
 At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"But, Mary, alas! I must sadly confess,
 My means are but slender as yet;
To furnish a house in the style you demand
 Would hopelessly plunge me in debt;—
To ask you to share my poor lodgings and board
 Is something that I should deplore."
She said, with a smile, "You may purchase on lease,
 At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

"To-morrow, then, love, let us journey along
 To that palace on Washington street,—
('Tis number two hundred and ninety and six,)
 Where lovers so happily meet.
How many fond souls might be severed for years
 From those they so fondly adore,
Were't not for the system of payment they have
 At CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

We went. Happy day! can I ever forget
 The pleasure that beamed in her face,
As she gazed at the marvels of beauty displayed
 In Cunningham's wonderful place.
We furnished our nest in an elegant style;—
 Been married a twelvemonth or more,
And Mary is singing this song to her babe,
 Of CUNNINGHAM'S FURNITURE STORE."

Ayer's
Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

Poetry.

If We Would.

If we would but check the speaker
When he spoils his neighbor's fame,
If we would but help the erring,
Ere we utter words of blame;
If we would how many might we
Turn from paths of sin and shame.

Ah, the wrongs that might be righted,
If we would but see the way!
Ah, the pains that might be lightened
Every hour and every day,
If we would but hear the pleadings
Of the hearts that go astray.

Let us step outside the stronghold
If we would but see the way!
Let us lift our fainting brothers,
Let us strengthen ere we chide:
Let us ere we blame the fallen,
Hold a light to cheer and guide.

Ah, how blessed—ah, how blessed
Earth would be if we'd but try
Thus to aid and right the weaker,
Thus to check each brother's sigh;
Thus to talk of duty's pathway
To our better life on high.

In each life, however lowly,
There are seeds of mighty good;
Still we shrink from souls appealing,
"With a timid "if we could;"
But God who judges all things,
Knows the truth is—"if we would.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

A VERY NICE PUDDING. Cut a pan of sponge cake through the centre.—Spread over the lower half jelly—currant or any other, according to what you pour over it. Blanch and cut in four or five pieces two or three dozen sweet almonds. Stick the upper half of the cake full of the almonds, and lay it upon the jelly.—Pour over the cake whipped cream, soft custard or foam sauce. To blanch almonds, pour boiling water over them, which removes the skin very easily, and then cut them.

TO PRESERVE AUTUMN LEAVES.—Iron them fresh, with a warm (not hot) iron on which some spermaceti has been lightly rubbed. The method preserves perfectly their lovely tints, and gives a waxy gloss which no other one secures. The process is very rapid and very agreeable, and nobody who has ever tried the tedious and uncertain experiment of pressing, will ever again return to it, after once trying this new and better way.

KEEP HOUSE PLANTS CLEAN. No matter how much sunlight or water is bestowed upon house plants, if they are not kept also clean by having the leaves frequently washed, to rid them of dust, they will not thrive.

THE BEST WAY OF ROASTING CHESTNUTS. In the South of France chestnuts are first put into a pan of cold water, placed on the fire, and boiled until nearly soft. They are then taken out, each chestnut receiving a small slit on the rind with a knife, after which they are put into a large flat pan (an ordinary frying pan would do) and tossed over a glowing fire until they become dry and mealy.—Dietetic Reformer.

☞ Punch thinks it would be a real blessing to mothers, if somebody could invent a soap that would enable mammas to get their daughters off their hands.

☞ An Arkansas temperance society has dissolved. It allowed ale as a beverage, but the members found it "bunglesome to their stomach," and fell back on whiskey.

☞ The most difficult thing to keep—a secret.

☞ "They do play such lovely sacred music at my daughter's," said a pious but deaf old lady. "There's one piece in particular that is so solemn and devotional—"The soul bereft will find me." What she really heard was, however, "The girl I left behind me."

"MY DEAL." A sleepy church warden, who often played at cards, hearing the minister use the words, "shuffle off this mortal coil," started up, rubbing his eyes, and exclaimed: "Hold on—it's my deal!"

☞ A card was hung out of a dirty little oyster shop in Sandusky, Ohio, while the State Sabbath School Convention was in session in that place, which read, "Oisters in every style cooked to order. Friends of the Redeemer please caul."

GOOD ADVICE. Have the courage to cut the most agreeable acquaintance you have when you are convinced he lacks principle. "A friend should bear with a friend's infirmities," and not his vices.

☞ The relation between the spiritual and the temporal body is like that which exists between a looking-glass and the dust and cobwebs which gather round it. The glass is always as bright and beautiful as ever; the cobwebs obscure it for a time but as soon as these are cleared away we have the mirror in its brilliancy once more.

☞ Girl loafers—Female bakers.

Miscellany.

Charity---Its Objects.

The Great Teacher, on being asked, "Who is my neighbor?" replied: "A man went down from Jerusalem to Jerico," and the parable which followed is the most beautiful which language has ever recorded. Story-telling, though often abused, is the medium by which truth can be most irresistibly conveyed to the majority of minds, and in the present instance we have a desire to portray, in some slight degree, the importance of charity in ever-day life.

A great deal has been said and written on the subject of indiscriminate giving, and many who have little sympathy with the needy or distressed, make the supposed unworthiness of the objects an excuse for withholding their alms; while others, who really possess a large proportion of the milk of human kindness, in awaiting great opportunities to do good, overlook all in their immediate pathway as beneath their notice. And yet it was the "widow's mite" which, amid the many rich gifts into the treasury, won the approval of the Searcher of hearts, and we have his assurance that a cup of cold water given in a proper spirit shall not lose its reward.

Our design in the present sketch is to call the attention of our sex to a subject which has, in too many instances escaped their attention; for our idea of charity embrace a wide field, and we hold that it should at all times be united with justice, when those less favored than ourselves are concerned.

"I do not intend hereafter to have washing done more than once in two weeks, said the rich Mrs. Percy in reply to an observation of her husband, who was standing at the window, looking at a woman who was up to her knees in snow, hanging clothes on a line in the yard. "I declare it is too bad to be paying that poky old thing a dollar a week for our wash and only six in the family. There she has been at it since seven o'clock this morning, and now it is almost four. It would require but two or three hours longer if I get her once a fortnight, and I shall save fifty cents a week by it."

"Where your own sex are concerned, you women are the closest beings," said Mr. P., laughing. "Do as you please, however," he continued, as he observed; a frown gathered on the brow of his wife "for my part I should be glad if washing days were blotted entirely from the calendar."

At this moment the washerwoman passed the window with her stiffened skirts and almost frozen hands and arms. Some emotions of pity stirring in his breast at the sight, he again asked, "Do you think it will be exactly right, my dear, to make old Phœbe do the same amount of labor for half the wages?"

"Of course it will," replied Mrs. Percy, decidedly; "we are bound to do the best we can for ourselves. If she objects, she can say so. There are plenty of poor I can get who will be glad to come, and by this arrangement I shall save twenty-six dollars a year.

"So much," returned Mr. P. carelessly; how these things do sum up!" Here the matter ended as far as they were concerned. Not so with "old Phœbe," as she was called. In reality, however, Phœbe was not yet forty; it was care and hardship which had seamed her once blooming face, and brought on prematurely the appearance of age. On going to Mrs. Percy in the evening after she had finished her wash, for the meagre sum she had earned, that lady had spoken somewhat harshly about her being so slow, and mentioned the new arrangement she intended to carry into effect, leaving it optional to the poor woman to accept or decline.

After a moment's hesitation, Phœbe, whose necessities allowed her no choice agreed to her proposal, and the lady, who had been fumbling in her purse, remarked:

"I have no change, nothing less than this three dollar bill. Suppose I pay you by the month hereafter; it will save me a great deal of trouble, and I will try to give you your two dollars a month regularly."

Phœbe's pale cheek waxed still more ghastly as Mrs. Percy spoke, but it was not within that lady's province to notice the color of a washerwoman face. She did, however, observe the lingering weary steps, as she proceeded through the yard, and conscience whispered some reproaches which were so unpleasant and unwelcome that she endeavored to dispel them by turning to the luxurious supper which was spread before her. And here I would pause to observe, that whatever method may be adopted to reconciliate the conscience to withholding money so justly due, so hardly earned, she disobeyed the positive injunction of that God who has left the time of payment optional with ourselves, but who has said, "The wages of him that is hired, shall not abide with thee all night until the morning." Leviticus 19 chapter 13 verse.

"The husband of Phœbe was a day laborer; when not intoxicated he was kind; but this was of rare occurrence for most of his earnings went for ardent spirits, and the labor of the poor wife and mother was the main support of herself and four children—the eldest nine years, the youngest only eighteen months old. As she neared the wretched hovel she had left early in the morning, she saw the faces of her four little ones pressed up against the window.

"Mother's coming, mother's coming!" they shouted, as they watched her approaching through the gloom, and as she unlocked the door, which she had been obliged to fasten to keep them from straying away, they all sprang to her arms at once.

"God bless you, my babes!" she exclaimed gathering them to her heart, you have not been a minute absent from my mind this day. And what have you suffered," she added, clasping the youngest, a sickly, attenuated-looking object to her breast. "Oh! it is hard, my little Mary, to leave you to the tender mercies of children hardly able to take care of themselves."

And as the baby nestled its head closer to her side, and lifted its pale, imploring face, the anguished mother's fortitude gave way, and she burst into an agony of tears and sobbings.

By-the-by, do some mothers, as they sit by the softly-lined cradles of their own beloved babes, ever think upon the sufferings of those helpless little ones, many times left with a scanty supply of food and no fire, on a cold winter day, while the parent is earning the pittance which is to preserve them from starvation? And lest some may suppose that we are drawing largely upon imagination, we will mention in this place, that we know of a child left under such circumstances, and half-perishing with cold, who was nearly burned to death by some hops (for there was no fuel to be found) which it scraped together in its ragged apron, and set on fire with a coal found in the ashes.

Phœbe did not long indulge in grief, however, she forgot her weary limbs, and bustling about soon made up a fire, and boiled some potatoes, which constituted their supper—after which she nursed the children, two at a time, for a while, and then put them tenderly to bed. Her husband had not come home, and as he was nearly always intoxicated, and sometimes ill-treated her sadly, she felt his absence a relief. Sitting over a handful of coals, she attempted to dry her feet, every bone in her body ached, for she was not naturally strong and, leaning her head on her hand, she allowed the big tears to course slowly down her cheeks, without making any attempt to wipe them away, while she murmured:

"Twenty-six dollars a year gone!—What is to become of us? I cannot get help from those authorized by law to assist the poor, unless I agree to put out my children, and I cannot live and see them abused and overworked at their tender age. And people think their father might support us; but how can I help it that he spends all his earnings for drink? And rich as Mrs. Percy is, she did not pay me my wages to-night, and now I cannot get the yarn for my baby's stockings, and her little limbs must remain cold awhile longer; and I must do without the flour, too, that I was going to make into bread, and the potatoes are almost gone."

Here Phœbe's emotions overcame her, and she ceased speaking. After a while she continued: "Mrs. Percy also blamed me for being so slow; she did not know I was up half the night, and my head has ached ready to split all day. Oh, dear! oh, dear! oh, dear if it were not for my babes I should yearn for the quiet of the grave."

And with a long, quivering sigh, such as one might hear at the rending of soul and body, Phœbe was silent.

Daughters of luxury, did it ever occur to you that we are are all children of one common Parent? O! look, hereafter, with pity on those faces when the records of their suffering are deeply graven and remembered. "Be ye warmed and filled,' will not suffice, unless the hand executes the promptings of the heart. After awhile as the fire died out, Phœbe crept to her miserable pallet, crushed with the prospect of the days of toil which were still before her, and haunted with the idea of sickness and death, brought on by overtaxation of her bodily powers, while in case of such an event, she was tortured by the reflection—"What is to become of my children?"

Ah, this anxiety is the true bitterness of death, to the friendless and poverty-stricken parent. In this way she passed the night, to renew, with the dawn, the toils and cares which were fast closing their work on her. We will not say what Phœbe, under other circumstances, might have been. She possessed every noble attribute common to woman without education or training, but she was not prepossessing in her appearance; and Mrs. Percy, who never studied characters, or sympathized with menials or strangers, would have laughed at the idea of dwelling with compassion on the lot of the washerwoman with a drunken husband. Yet her feelings sometimes became interested for the poor she heard of abroad the poor she read of, and she would now and then discant largely on the few cases of actual distress which had chanced to come under her notice, and the little opportunity she had of bestowing alms.—Superficial in her mode of thinking and observation, her idea of charity were limited, forgetful that to be true it must be a pervading principle of life, and can be exercised even in the bestowal of a gracious word or smile, which, under peculiar circumstances, may raise a brother from the dust, and thus win the approval of Him, who, although the Lord of angels, was pleased to say of her who brought but the "box of spikenards" with tears of love: "She hath done what she could."

A Dangerous Paper.

The green paper used to wrap about lozenges, sold in shops, railroad cars, and on the street corners, has long been suspected to contain arsenic, and with the view of ascertaining the facts by analysis, we recently purchased a roll of lozenges covered with this paper.

A qualitative examination of the paper afforded all the characteristic reactions for arsenic and copper. The wrapper contained 20 square inches of paper. Of this, 16 were taken for qualitative analysis. The result of the examination showed that this portion contained .1516 grains, or 2.34 grains of metallic arsenic. This is equivalent to 2.94 grains in the whole of the wrapper, a quantity sufficient to destroy the life of an adult person. Children in all parts of the country are allowed to purchase the lozenges covered with this poisonous paper, and the rolls are often put into the hands of infants, as a plaything. As everything goes into the mouth of young children, it is easy to see that no more dangerous substance can pass into a family, than these packages of confectionery. It is quite probable that instances of poisoning have occurred from this cause, which have been of a serious or fatal character. There should be laws prohibiting the use of pernicious papers for any purpose.—Journal of Chemistry.

Dyspepsia Remedy.

The Rural New Yorker of July 20th, 1872, contained the remedy below for dyspepsia, and in the number for Nov. 30th, a correspondent says he has tried it and was cured in six weeks. It was as follows:

"Sweet cream or sweet milk, the richer the better; use as often as convenient. Whenever any burning or sour sensation at the stomach appears, drink half a pint of sweet cream or milk, and relief is evident. Make free use of it at meals.—Total abstinence from the use of tobacco, coffee, strong drink, or anything very sour, must be strictly adhered to. Coffee is the worst of all things for dyspeptics."

Dyspeptics should also remember that as their troubles come from over-eating, or eating irregularly, or some abuse of the stomach, the matter of a limited diet of nourishing food, taken regularly, is quite as important as anything in the shape of a medicine.

Home Cheerfulness.

Many a child goes astray, not because there is a want of prayer or virtue at home but simply because home lacks sunshine. A child needs smiles as much as flowers needs sunbeams.—Children look little beyond the present moment. If a thing pleases they are apt to seek it; if it displeases they are prone to avoid it. If home is the place where faces are sour and words harsh, and fault-finding is ever in the ascendant, they will spend as many hours as possible elsewhere. Let every father and mother, then, try to be happy. Let them look happy. Let them talk to their children, especially the little ones, in such a way as to make them happy.

☞ A clergyman having a dispute concerning an interest in some coal mines, found it necessary to send for a lawyer to examine the title deed and view the premises. In one excursion, as the limb of the law was descending a deep shaft, by means of a rope which he held in his hand, he called out to the parson, who stood at the top:

"Doctor, as you have not confined your studies to theology, but know the things from the surface to the centre, pray how far is it from this pit to that of the infernal region?"

"I cannot say exactly what the distance is," replied the doctor, "but if you let go the rope you will be there in a minute."

SERIOUS ACCIDENT. Quite a serious accident, which at one time was feared might prove fatal to one of the ladies, happened to Mrs. C. Philip Tirrell and her sister Mrs. Quincy Tirrell, in Braintree, on Thursday about five o'clock in the afternoon. The ladies had been visiting their parents, at North Bridgewater, and were on their return home. Just as they were passing Strong Bates French's house, a horse belonging to Dr. Allen, of Randolph, which was fastened with a weight in a yard, became restive, and rushed out of the yard, colliding with the Mrs. Tirrells' carriage, making a complete wreck of both vehicles. The ladies were covered up with the debris, but fortunately for them their horse stopped at once or they must have all been fearfully mangled. Mrs. Quincy Tirrell was taken up in an unconscious state, having received quite severe injuries about the head, and remained in that condition all night, but we are pleased to learn that she was quite comfortable yesterday, and a few days of quiet will probably restore her to her usual health.

Mrs. C. Philip Tirrell and her little boy fortunately escaped with only some severe bruises. They were brought home the same evening.

LECTURE. The fourth lecture of the free Temperance Course was delivered on Thursday evening last, by D. Banks McKenzie, Superintendent of the Appleton Temporary Home, Boston. Mr. McKenzie is a reformed inebriate and he confined his remarks mostly to this unfortunate class of persons. He is not what would be called a popular lecturer, although many incidents, related by him as coming under his immediate attention, were very touching, and in some instances called forth tears. The lecture as a whole was excellent, and cannot help doing good.

A few remarks were then offered by Mr. Knights, of Cambridge, in a very pleasing manner, which called forth numerous applause.

The singing by the choir, and Messrs. Maynard and Hatton, was excellent, and added much to the exercises of the evening.

The next lecture of the course will be given by Rev. James B. Dunn, of Boston in behalf of the 2d Congregational society. As a lecturer Mr. Dunn is spoken of in the highest terms, and we doubt not, that his lecture will be a very entertaining and pleasing one.

TOWN MEETING. The election in this place on Tuesday last passed off very quietly, although considerable interest was felt among the voters as to who should represent this district in the next General Court. Teams were busy in carrying voters to and from the hall; and, as will be seen in another column, nearly one thousand votes were thrown; a larger number than in any other place in the County, and but a few towns in the State cast more votes. John Q. Adams, the democratic nominee was elected by seventy-six plurality. John H. Burdakin for Register of Deeds, received the whole number of votes cast,—950.

GRAND CONCERT. Our citizens will have the privilege of listening to some of the best musical talent, that can be found in the city, at the grand sacred concert to-morrow evening, at the new Catholic church. A splendid organ, which has just been built for the society, will discourse rich music, under the skilful touch of Mr. George E. Whiting. The Programme for the occasion will be found in our paper to-day. Go early to secure good seats. An invitation is cordially extended to all our readers in the neighboring towns, as a rich treat is expected.

REAL ESTATE SALES. Henry H. Faxon sold a two-story French roof house, on Linden place, in this town, to Warren G. Comey, for $4,750.

Columbus Lary sold land with buildings, on the northerly side of Copeland street, West Quincy, for $2,700.

Henry T. Bicknell sold six and a half acres of land with buildings, in Weymouth, for $2,750, to John W. Bartlett.

Henry T. Bicknell bought 9,322 feet of land with buildings; also, 12,512 feet of land with buildings, near the above, in Weymouth, of John W. Bartlett, for $2,500.

CHARITABLE SOCIETY. The Quincy Charitable Society have held their annual meeting, and chosen their officers for the ensuing year. An interesting article on the doings of the society the past year will be found on the next page.

PROBATE COURT. On Wednesday next, there will be a Probate Court held in this town, in the District Court room.

☞ Attention is directed to Mr. J. B. Stetson's new musical notice on this page. He has had fine success during the past year and with new inducements will doubtless be still more fortunate.—The idea of not charging for music is still retained and is quite a novelty. Mr. S. was last season appointed to teach singing in the High School.

☞ As we were putting our paper to press last evening the weather was cloudy and cold, and there was an indication of the "first snow storm of the season."

Quincy High School Association.

The annual meeting of the Quincy High School Association was held at the Lyceum Room, on Wednesday evening, the 5th inst., and the following officers were elected for the year 1874:

President—Samuel C. Gregg.

Vice President—Josiah B. Stetson.

Treasurer—Miss S. Addie Souther.

Corresponding Secretary — Mrs. W. L. Faxon.

Recording Secretary—Miss Lizzie E. Morse.

Directors—Mrs. H. M. Porter, Miss Elsie Russell, Miss M. E. Dinnegan, Miss M. L. Hardwick, Mrs. Henry Emery, Mr. J. H. Stetson, Mr. H. A. Keith, Mr. C. L. Hovey.

After considerable discussion, it was voted to accept the amendment to the eleventh by-law, so that it may now read as follows:

"Each member shall be subject to a yearly assessment of fifty cents, the payment of which shall entitle him to one ticket, admitting himself only, except in the case of musical members, when it shall admit both husband and wife."

It was then voted, that the above amendment should take effect from date.

The above amendment and vote, as well as a vote limiting the number of extra tickets to one hundred, were occasioned by the remarks of one or two of the older members, who expressed dissatisfaction at the manner in which previous reunions had been conducted, and who desired to make this re-union exclusively a social literary gathering of the alumni only.

Legislative Notes.

There is no change in the list of State officers. Governor Washburn is elected for his third term, Lieut. Gov. Talbot for his second term, Secretary of State Warner has been in office since 1858, Hon. Charles Adams Jr., is chosen for a fourth term, the legal limit of his office being five years, Hon. Charles Endicott for his fourth year, and Attorney General Train for his third year.

John Quincy Adams comes back to the House from Quincy. Mr. Adams' services in the Legislature have been intermittent, his temperament and character not fitting him to be a strict party man, on whichever side he may be nominally ranged; but he is always a highly useful member, and we congratulate the State that he is chosen. He was in the House in 1866, 1868 and 1871. He has been a prominent member of the Judiciary and Railroad Committees, and will undoubtedly be placed in responsible situations next winter. In politics Mr. Adams may be fairly reckoned an Independent. He became dissatisfied with the Republicans soon after Mr. Lincoln's death and went with Johnson; was taken up by the Democrats and nominated for Governor, and in 1867 received about 70,000 votes, but even in that "off year" was beaten by Gov. Bullock by 30,000. The Democrats was never quite satisfied with him; their relations became less and less intimate and finally pretty nearly ceased. The nomination of Mr. Greeley, whose notions of protection and other issues were so directly opposed to his own, prevented him from acting with the Democrats last year; and if he voted at all, he is likely to have voted for Grant.—His town, which has many times voted against him, has now again recognized his independence and usefulness.

The vote for Governor in 323 town stands, Washburn 70,686 Gaston 57,912. Last year the Republican strength was about 129,000 to 57,000 for the Democracy.

The Senate comprises 26 Republicans, 11 Democrats, 2 Independents, 1 Doubtful. The House has 158 Republicans and 60 Democrats, with 22 to hear from. —Boston Journal.

OYSTER SUPPER. The members of the Hook and Ladder Company, with the Selectmen and other invited guests, partook of an excellent oyster supper, on Tuesday evening. We return our thanks for the liberal supply sent us, and as the "proof of the pudding is in eating," we would say that stew was highly appreciated.

AUCTION. Joseph W. Lombard will sell at the hotel, in North Quincy, a large lot of household furniture, paintings, buggies and other fixings, belonging to the Hotel, on Tuesday next. The sale will be positive weather fair or foul. See advertisement.

CHRIST CHURCH. Service to-morrow at 10 30 A. M. Sunday School at 3 P. M. Service at 4 P. M. Seats free.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Sunday School at 9.20. Bible class at 10. Morning service at 10.50. Vespers at 4.50. Rev. Dr. Lothrop of Boston will officiate morning and afternoon.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS. Mr. Elbridge Clapp has in his store window a fine display of rich and beautiful vases, spoon holders, toilet sets and match safes which will be just the thing for presents for the holidays. They are certainly very attractive and we do not wonder that so many stop to admire them. Do not fail to secure one immediately as the holidays will soon be here.

JURORS. Messrs. James M. Beckford, Everett D. Newcomb, James W. Rideout, Franklin Curtis and William S. Pattee have been drawn to serve as a Sheriff Jury at Randolph.

A cargo of steel rails for the Old Colony Railroad has arrived at Fall River from Sheffield, England.

Paris has 115,000 paupers.

WOOD AUCTION. Mr. Joseph R. Frasier, will sell at auction on Thursday next at 9 o'clock all the wood standing on 5 acres of land of the late Dea. John Vining, on a street leading from South Braintree to Nash's Corner, in Weymouth.

LIQUOR SEIZURE. State Constables Furnald and Clifford made a seizure of some 36 bottles of Schiedam Schnapps, at the store of Messrs. Whitney & Nash, in this town, and the case was before Judge Bumpus on Thursday last, as will be seen by the Court record.

Mr. Whitney claims that the Schnapps came under the head of patent medicines, and wishes us to publish the following label on the bottles pertaining to their medicinal qualities:

Wolfe's Aromatic Schiedam Schnapps,

A Superlative Tonic, Diuretic, Anti-Dyspeptic, AND INVIGORATING CORDIAL.

This Medicinal Beverage is manufactured by the Proprietor, at Schiedam, in Holland, and is warranted not only pure from every injurious property and ingredient, but of the best possible quality.

Its extraordinary medicinal efficacy in Gravel, Gout, Chronic Rheumatism, Incipent Dropsy, Flatulence, Colic Pains in the Stomach and Bowels, whether in adults or infants; in all ordinary cases of Obstruction in the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Organs; in Dyspepsia, whether Acute or Chronic; in General Debility, Sluggish Circulation of the Blood, Inadequate Assimilation of Food, and Exhausted Vital Energy;—are acknowledged by the whole Medical Faculty and attested in their highest written authorities.

UDOLPHO WOLFE.

State Constable Furnald sent one bottle of the seized liquor to Messrs. Merrick & Gray, Analytical Chemists and Assayers, 59 Broad street, Boston, and received in return the following

CERTIFICATE:

This certifies that we have analyzed a sample of Schnapps, on wrapper marked "one bottle of Gin seized in lot of thirty-six bottles, from William F. Whitney and John W. Nash, Oct. 25, 1873, of Quincy, Mass.," submitted to us by N. B. Furnald, and find the amount of alcohol con tained therein to be 47 per cent.

[Signed] Merrick & Gray.

It appears from the certificate that the Gin contains 47 per cent. of Alcohol.—Which is within 3 per cent. as strong as New Rum, which contains 50 per cent.

District Court of East Norfolk.

MONDAY.

The first case in court this morning was a grave one. Frank E. Morrison, of North Weymouth, was charged with committing adultery with Carrie E. Stoddard, a girl of 15 years of age. Sufficient evidence was given to warrant the Judge in ordering the defendant to give sureties in the sum of $1000, for his appearance before the Superior Court, to be holden in Dedham, on the first Monday in December.

James N. Richards, of East Weymouth was complained of for drunkenness. By giving information of whom he procured the liquor and when and where, he was discharged.

Abiah Salisbury, of East Weymouth, for keeping open shop on the Lord's day, was discharged.

Robert Martin, of North Weymouth, was before the Court for keeping a common nuisance. He was ordered to give sureties in the sum of $300 for his appearance at the Superior Court.

WEDNESDAY.

James Hoyt and Robert Flannigan of Weymouth, for committing an assault on Patrick McGuire. Case was continued till Monday morning.

THURSDAY.

Thomas Guinn, of Weymouth for making an assault on James Hines, was fined $6 and costs.

William F. Whitney, of Quincy, was on trial this morning charged with keeping intoxicating liquors, with intent to sell. Case continued for the Judge's decision.

☞ On the 1st of December, 1830 it is said, dahlias and other autumnal plants were in full bloom.

GRAND LEVEE. The ladies of the South Parish Congregational society of Braintree, propose holding a levee at the Town Hall, commencing on Tuesday evening next, and ending on Thursday evening, at which there will be a variety of entertainments such as a bow festival music, tableaux, and an antiquarian supper. Young ladies desirous of securing beaux and gentlemen wishing to procure bows should not fail to be present.

SPORTING EXPEDITION. Mr. Wm. Reed, of Squantum, with two other young men, have started in a small yacht, of only seven tons burthen, thirty feet long and eleven feet beam, for a cruise down the coast, to Jacksonville, Florida where they intend to spend the season hunting game. They are fully provided with provisions and ammunition, and expect to be absent about six months.

CHANGED HANDS. Mr. R. L. Lee has sold his express route to Mr. Charles S. Coolidge, who, as will be seen by a notice in another column, intends to conduct all business entrusted to him, in a prompt and efficient manner, and by so doing he hopes to merit a share of public patronage.

GREENLEAF STREET PRIVATE SCHOOL.

THIS SCHOOL is now in the second year of its existence. It is designed for Boys and Girls between the ages of five and fourteen, or upwards. It is divided into three departments, each of which is under the charge of a competent and successful teacher.

The Studies pursued are: Reading, (Monroe's Readers, and some of Hillard's); Spelling, (Swinton's Word-Book); Arithmetic (Hagar's Series); Geography, ("Our World" Series); Grammar (Kerl's Common School Grammar; also, Oral Grammar): History, (Barnes' History of the United States, and Anderson's General History); French, ("Beginning French," "Beginner's French Reader." Otto's Grammar, Otto's Reader); Natural Philosophy, &c. (Norton and Porter's First Book of Science). Instruction is also given in Drawing, Writing, English Literature, Composition, Vocal Music, and Sewing.

The Schoolrooms are of ample size, and are well-heated and well-ventilated. There is a large play-ground, and also a play-room in-doors, for rainy weather.

The School Year is divided into four terms, of ten working weeks each. Charges are made for single terms only, and pupils may enter at the beginning of any term. It is expected, however, that those who have once entered will remain during the remainder of the school year; and it is hoped that all pupils will complete the studies of the course. Any boy or girl of good disposition and average capacity, who faithfully follows out the entire course, may be reasonably certain of laying the foundation of a thorough practical education.

TERMS — $8, $10, $12 and $15 a term, according to age and acquirements.

The Second Term of the current year begins November 26th; and application for admission may now be made, to either of the teachers, or to Quincy Charitable Society.

The Quincy Charitable Society was organized nearly fifty years ago, and has been in regular operation ever since.—Its object, as declared in its Constitution, is "to furnish food and fuel to such needy individuals and families resident in this town, as may have just claims upon our sympathy and charity." Its officers consist of a President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, and eight other Directors. Ladies become members of the Society by paying twenty-five cents a year, and gentlemen become members by paying one dollar a year. There is, at present, a membership of about two hundred. The funds of the Society have been materially increased, from year to year, by considerable donations. Mr. H. H. Faxon has in times past, been a generous contributor; and the Society annually receives a very handsome donation from the Estate of the late Lemuel Brackett, Esq.

During the past year three hundred and sixty-nine dollars ($369) have been expended; and thirty-three families assisted,—twenty-three of these being American, eight Irish, one Scotch, and one French.

The last Annual meeting was held on the 3d inst., and the following Officers and Directors were elected:—

President.—Rev. John D. Wells.
Vice President,—Rev. Geo. W. Whitney.
Secretary.—Miss M. J. Turner.
Treasurer,—Mrs. Nathan Brickett.
Directors,—Rev. R. E. Howe, Rev. Samuel Kelley, Mrs. Benjamin Curtis, Mrs. Eliza Hersey, Mrs. E. B. Taylor Miss A. E. Beale, Miss M. E. Faxon and Miss Anna Curtis.

Any ladies or gentlemen not already members of the Society, who desire to help on this good work are invited to send their contributions, with their names, to the Treasurer, or to either of the other members of the Board.

For the Directors,
M. J. Turner, Secretary,
John D. Wells, President.

Catholic Fair. A fair will open on Monday next in the new church on School street, where many rich and beautiful articles, useful as well as ornamental, will be displayed. The purchaser of a season ticket is entitled to a chance in a nice Melodeon. A beautiful Piano and some fine silver ware, are also to be drawn. There will be some novelties at this Fair, which have never before been offered in this town. The two most desirable will be a handsome gold watch to the most popular lady in town, and a handsome gold-headed cane to the most popular gentleman. See full particulars in another column.

The First of the Season. A ball given by the Mechanics Mutual Relief Association of West Quincy, on Monday evening, passed off in a very pleasant and agreeable manner. A large crowd was present to participate in the festivities of the evening, and all who joined the party, were much pleased, and will eagerly await the coming of the next ball, by this association.

Marriages.

In this town, Oct. 21st, by Rev. F. A. Friguglietti, Mr. Thomas Foley to Miss Kate Burke.

Oct. 22d, by Rev. Edward Norton, Mr. Samuel B. Doane to Miss Mary E. Bickford of Boston.

Oct. 26th, by Rev. F. A. Friguglietti Mr. William H. Fenton to Miss Nellie M. Garrity.

Nov. 2d, by the same, Mr. Peter Harrington to Miss Margaret Owens.

In East Boston, Nov. 3d by Rev. Warren H. Cudworth, Mr. George H. Jones of this town, to Miss Katie T. Brown of Boston.

Deaths.

In this town Nov. 4th, Mr. Patrick Reynolds, aged 75 years.

Nov. 6th, Mary Alice, daughter of Mr. William A. and Mrs. Annie M. Hodges, aged 6 months and 2 days.

Funeral to-morrow afternoon at 1 1-2 o'clock.

In Milton, Nov. 3d, Mrs. Fanny D., wife of the late Jabez Summer, aged 69 years and 5 months.

In Newton, Mrs. L. S. White, formerly of this town.

In the death of this estimable lady, gone out from so many friends who sincerely mourn her loss, it is fitting to give a few words of remembrance. Although to her beloved children her place can never be filled, and to the friends in whose home she was so long a loved, honored and cherished inmate, she leaves a deep void, yet her loving spirit chastened by long and severe suffering, and the patience with which she bore her afflictions, her cheerfulness, hopefulness and faith, will ever live in their memory as an example worthy of imitation by all.

Special Notices.

REGULAR CONVOCATIONS.

The Regular Convocations of St. Paul's Lodge, No. 37, will be held every WEDNESDAY EVENING, at 7 1-2 o'clock, at their new Hall.

Per order.
Thomas Magee.

Quincy, July 9. C. C

For the Patriot.

Maynard and Hatton.

Messrs. Maynard and Hatton graduates of the Perkins' institute, gave one of their popular concerts at Union Hall, Quincy Point, Monday evening last. To say that the house was packed would not express it at all, for those who were present will agree with me that they felt as though they were compressed. The concert we think was one of the best we ever attended, the variety of their programme did not fail to please all. Mr. Maynard's imitation of the fife and drum on the piano was perfect, and our citizens returned home feeling that they had been well repaid for their patronage. B.

Anniversary. On Monday next, the city of Boston will celebrate the anniversary of its great fire. At noon a procession headed by the city officials will be formed at the City Hall, and march through the streets in the burnt district, and the new buildings will be inspected and street widenings and other improvements noted. The route will end at the new square opposite the extension of the new post office on Congress street, where the inspector of buildings, Mr. Chamberlain, will present a report on the progress of work in the district, the number of new buildings erected, and other interesting statistics.

Arrival. The schooner Emeline McLain, Capt. W. L. Crowell, arrived at Quincy Point on Monday last, with Lyken's Valley Coal, consigned to D. Howard Bills.

☞ That singular phenomneon, the floating island at Lonsdale, R. I., has again been moved, the strong wind from the south that prevailed a few days ago having brought it back to its former position on the north side of Scott pond. conduct an Agency for the reception of advertisements for American Newspapers—the most complete establishment of the kind in the world. Six thousand Newspapers kept regularly on file, open to inspection by customers. No reading-room, however complete receives one-twentieth of this number. Every Advertisement is taken at the home price of the paper, without any additional charge or commission, so that an advertiser, in dealing with the Agency, is saved trouble and correspondence, making one contract instead of a dozen, a hundred or a thousand. A Book of eighty pages, containing lists of best papers, largest circulation, religious papers, agricultural papers, class papers, political papers, daily papers, country papers, magazines and all publications, with some information about prices, is sent FREE to any address on application. Persons at a distance wishing to make contracts for advertising in any town, city, county, State or Territory of the United States, or any portion of the Dominion of Canada, may send a concise statement of what they want, together with a copy of the Advertisement they desire inserted, and will receive information by return mail which will enable them to decide whether to increase, reduce or forego the order. For such information there is no charge whatever. Publishers not only send their files free, but pay Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. for their services. Orders are accepted for a single paper as well as for a larger list; for a single dollar as readily as for a larger sum. Address the American Newspaper Advertising Agency.

Poetry.

At Thy Feet.

Ah! rosy days, that have been dead,
For many and many a dreary year;
My feet grow weary when I tread
The grassy mold anear thy grave,
And from these eyes drop many a tear.

For Hope was warm within my breast,
And Joy-bells rung the whole day long:
And in my heart Love had found rest,
And life to me seemed then as sweet
As did the nightingale's clear song.

But now! Hope is no longer mine,
Dead Love lies bleeding at my feet;
The stars of heaven refuse to shine,
And life is very dark and drear,
Behold me, Father, at Thy feet.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Canker Worms.

A correspondent of the Ploughman desires to know how to prevent the ravages of the canker worm.

Begin immediately. No time to lose now, and we ought to have called attention a few days ago. Get some of the best quality of printer's ink, and some tarred paper. Tie the paper in strips of four to six inches wide around each tree. If the tree is old and rough scrape the bark a little so as to let the paper fit around the trunk. Dilute the ink with a little coal oil, so as to make it liquid enough to use freely with an old brush, and brush it on over the strips of paper on the trees.

Tar is equally effective if it is applied often enough, but in the cold weather of late fall it hardens quickly so that the grubs can walk over it. The best kind of ink treated in the way indicated will last longer, that is it need not be applied so often, and hence its economy as compared with tar. We have known many cases where the ink has been applied successfully, when it was followed up with proper care.

The grub in many seasons will begin to ascend the trees as early as the 20th of October, but as we had no hard frosts previous to that date they have not probably begun to run up much this year.—Follow up the application once in a week or ten days, according to the condition or stickiness of the ink or tar, till December or extreme cold weather, when the ground freezes. If there comes a continued warm spell in winter, put it on again, and begin in March to apply regularly as in November and continue till April.

The average cost per tree to treat an orchard in this way will be about ten or twelve cents.

November on the Farm.

The harvest must now be closed up as rapidly as possible. The root crop, the mangolds still ungathered, and the swedes must be lifted from the ground, and the quicker it is done the better. Mangolds ought, as a general rule, to be pulled the latter part of October. They stand the frost less completely than the swedes, and there is some risk of injury, though this fall has been so mild in this vicinity that they have stood it, probably, better than usual. The growth of mangolds has greatly increased the last few years, and there are few well managed farms where they are not raised. We are glad to see them better appreciated. Both mangolds and swedes grow rapidly through the autumn months, in fact they make the best part of their growth then, and if the weather is favorable it is good policy to let them stay in the ground as long as it is safe, but a hard freeze is liable to come now at any time and that will do them no good.—Mass. Ploughman

Pumpkins make an excellent good feed for stock through the month of November.

Mr. Calvin Young, of Hingham, has a hen which produced an egg, recently, weighing six ounces.

Anecdotes.

A self-possessed young man called at a house at Atlanta, Georgia, a few mornings ago and asked to see his wife.

"She is not here," replied the mistress of the house; "there is none here but the members of my own family."

"Well," replied he, "it's one of them I want to see, I married your eldest daughter last night."

"Any knives or scissors to grind?" asked a poor boy of the clerks in a Broadway store.

"Don't think we have," answered a spruce, young fellow, "but can't you sharpen wits?"

"I could if you had any," was the sharp reply, and the clerk had to stand the laugh.

The late Rev. Mr. Kidd, of Aberdeen, an eccentric but popular preacher, observed one Sunday, in church, a man sleeping whom he knew, and whose wife was sitting beside him. The doctor called out to the latter:

"Go home Betty, and bring John's night-cap."

A good lady, who on the death of her first husband married his brother, has a portrait of the former hanging in her dining-room. One day a visitor, remarking the painting, asked,

"Is that a member of your family?"

"Oh! that's my poor brother-in-law," was the ingenious reply.

"Do you want to buy a sewing machine?" asked an agent of a farmer.

"No," was the reply, "I always sow my wheat out of a bucket."

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,
For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a nasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so unsightly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If varied merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

Iron in the Blood
PERUVIAN SYRUP
AN IRON TONIC
MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and wasting, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For the relief and cure of all derangements in the stomach, liver, and bowels. They are a mild aperient, and an excellent purgative. Being purely vegetable, they contain no mercury or mineral whatever. Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.
Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—
For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.
For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice, Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.
For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.
For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.
For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.
For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.
As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.
An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

HURSELL'S
PURITY!
— IS A —
Splendid Hair Dressing.
NO article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl or remain in any desired position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents an irritated, itching scalp-skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other preparation.
20 State Street, Boston.
Messrs. J. C. HURSELL & Co.
Gentlemen: I have analyzed HURSELL'S PURITY for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from Sulphur, Lead, Silver, Acids, Alkalies, and may be used with entire safety.
Respectfully,
(Signed) S. DANA HAYES,

Poetry.

What Becomes of Editors.

What becomes of the Editors?
That's what we'd like to know;
They do a heap or good on earth,
And to heaven ought to go;
But something seems to tell us
They are a peculiar set,
And in the great hereafter
Will be "left out in the wet."

We've been thinking this question over,
And it troubles us a heap;
It comes to us in the daytime,
And with dreams disturbs our sleep;
But the more we conn the question
The deeper it seems to get,
And brings us to this conclusion—
They'll be "left out in the wet."

Now reason yourself a moment;
Would it do to let them in?
Wouldn't they go to interviewing,
And discussing everything?
Wouldn't they have two parties,
And a hobby, too, to pet?
That thing would never do up there!
They'll be "left out in the wet."

It's very well to smile, sir,
And say your head ain't level;
But did you ever know an Editor
That didn't keep a "devil?"
You don't suppose for a moment
That he in there could get,
And be a yelling "copy"—
They'll be "left out in the wet."

There's one more point we'll mention—
We hope you won't get offended—
But it's "currently reported"
That "the free list is suspended."
Nor did you ever know an Editor
That has "pulled his weasel" yet;
They're not agoing to do it there—
They'll stay "out in the wet."

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

BOSTON CAKE. One cup sugar; two eggs; two cups flour; half cup butter; one teaspoon cream tartar; half teaspoon soda.

DOUGHNUTS. Two eggs and one cup sugar, well beaten together; one and one-half cups sweet milk; two teaspoons cream tartar; one teaspoon of soda; one nutmeg; flour to knead soft.

GINGER COOKIES. Two cups of molasses, one cup of lard, one cup of sour milk, six tablespoonfuls of warm water, one tablespoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of soda.

☞ Responses admit of many interpretations; for instance, at a revival meeting a minister said:—"Brethren, I invited Brother S —— to preach but he declines." "Thank God!" roared out a man from the middle of the church.

☞ Speaking of theoretical farming, Josh Billings says that he once knew a man who wouldn't even set a gate post without having the ground analyzed to see if it possessed the proper ingredients for post holes.

☞ The world may shout at a victory that has slain thousands, and filled domestic life with "the fatherless and the widows;" but "there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."

☞ A Detroit lady complains that her husband has a fancy to "gaze lovingly upon her while holding her out at arm's length by the hair, caressing her cheeks in a way that lifts her clear across the parlor without a come down until she stopped for good."

☞ An exchange says: "Philadelphia has female undertakers:" What do they undertake? To get married?

ALL TORED. "I ain't a going to live long, mother," said a wo-begone looking youngster, one day, to his maternal parent. "Why not, pray?" "Because my pantaloons is all t'ored out behind," was the conclusive answer.

☞ A would-be wit asked his uncle if the tolling of a bell did not put him in mind of his approaching end. "No, sir," he replied, "but the rope puts me in mind of yours."

☞ A witness in the box, questioned by a lawyer as to the general reputation of another witness, was asked whether the individual was not a notorious liar.—"Why," said he, "not exactly that; but he is what I call an intermittent liar."

☞ What is the difference between an engine driver and a man who has lost the train? One is in front, and the other is left behind.

☞ There is a new song called "Father will settle the bill." Miss Jones considers it a fine composition, but her papa can't see it, and Miss Jones says it is because he is so dreadful deaf.

☞ A clergyman said, the other day, that modern young ladies were not the daughters of Shem and Ham, but the daughters of Hem and Sham.

☞ A girl must not get angry because every body else does not admire her lover. It is not the fashion for all to love one object.

☞ An Iowa woman advertises for a husband, "Money no object, must be healthy and willing to work.

Miscellany.

No Friends.

"Who cares?" said Martha Hutchings, setting down one dirty dish and taking up another. "Nobody ever did for me. I was bundled off to service before I was ten years old, because mother was dead and aunt wanted me out of the way.—Then I was knocked about from pillar to post—out of one place into another; might have broken my leg any day and nobody would have minded. That's what I almost always say—who cares?"

"God cares, said the grave, weak, voice of little Tom the errand boy—a sickly, frail little fellow, who somehow contrived to make will and skill supply the place of strength, and so succeeded in the great object of his ambition, and "kept his place."

"God?" said Martha: "how do you mean, Tom?"

"Why, He must care, you know.—Don't you care about things when you've made them yourself?"

"Sometimes I do, and sometimes I don't," said Martha. "Depends upon what they are."

"But if you could make something alive, you would get fond of that, wouldn't you?"

"I suppose so. But what rubbish you can talk, Tom, when you once give your mind to it!"

"Was it rubbish—all of it?" said Tom, not resenting the assertion. He was rather accustomed to finding himself out of his own depth, as well as other people's.

"Rubbish? I should think so!" said Martha. "But have you done master's boots?"

"Oh, no!—I forgot. I'll do them now. I suppose master would care about me if I didn't," said Tom, running off with a roguish laugh.

"Care! Yes; just as they would about the clock if it stopped. Just about as much feeling for one as the other."

Martha was in a dismal mood, there was no doubt about that. She was tired, and it was very hot, and Martha's kitchen was not exactly the place one would have chosen to cool one's self in. An uncomfortable, soreish feeling over the eyes made her glad to sit down and rest them by a five minutes' nap. But her head resting against the wall rubbed off the coloring, so she got up saying:

"However them footmen stand being powdered I can't think. Bother it! my head feels like a sand-martin."

Martha had no very definite notion as to whether a sand-martin was fish, flesh or fowl; but she picked up the word with a Londoner's relish for rural phrases, and suppose it must mean something sandy. Perhaps it was as well that just at that moment she was not tantalized by the thought of the cool, breezy life of the bird she had named.

"Oh, dear! I wish I was dead!" she said presently; but a sudden sharp pain through her temples reminded her of the near possibility of death, and, with a shiver, she turned her wishes into, "I wish I was a better girl; I wish I had learnt in my Bible, or something; I wish—oh, I wish—there was anybody in all the wide world to care if I was dead or alive!" Then she stopped suddenly; her throat seemed to dry up, and with a terrified sense of falling down unknown depths, she sank upon the floor. Poor Martha had a fever.

Many days and nights Martha lay unconscious. When she awoke she was in a white bed, cool and soft, with an unaccountable perfume of strawberries in the air.

"I suppose it's heaven," she thought, "or else a dream. Anyhow, I'll keep still, lest missus's bell should ring."

But some one said," "Won't you wake up dear?" The voice was a gentle, motherly voice; such a voice; as had never addressed Martha since she could remember.

"Yes," she thought again, "that's just the way I should talk in heaven; it's very nice. I wonder I was afraid today."

She spoke the last sentence aloud; and the motherly voice, this time with a shade of trouble in it, said: "Ah! she's a little lightheaded still, poor dear! But she'll soon come round. See," she continued to Martha, "only just look at what your friends have brought you!"

"'Tisn't me," said Martha; "I haven't got any friends."

"Well that's pretty!" said another voice—so cheery and so thin, it reminded her of Tom's grown older. "Not got any friends!" the voice went on, "when they've been and sent you this!"

"This" being put close to her, was so exceeding fragrant that Martha opened her eyes, and found out where the strawberry odor had come from. It was a round, deep basket of "British Queens," which a slight, pale woman, in a widow's cap, was holding toward her.

"Don't you know what to do with them, dearie?" said the motherly body whose clean precision of dress somehow, told Martha that she was an hospital nurse.

"Oh, yes," said Martha, with a sigh of delight as the first one melted in her mouth; "but I never saw such monsters."

"Yes," said the widow, looking pleased they wanted them to be first-rate, and, there's been plenty of time to get them."

"But such beauties!" said Martha again. "They must be rich people that sent them."

"Rich enough," said the widow with a curious smile and Martha feasted in silence; only now and then begging her two companions to take one, "to make them seem real."

When she had finished, the widow said: "You don't know me, do you? I'm Tom's mother. You remember little Tom?"

"Oh, yes," said Martha, with a glance of compunction at the empty basket. "I wish I'd saved him a strawberry."

"He's had his share, I fancy," said the widow smiling.

"How?" said Martha.

"In giving them to you. He bought them, his brother and he, purpose for you they've been saving up ever since you've been ill."

"But—how—ever— did—they— get the money?" said Martha.

"Oh, went messages and held horses, and things, in their meal times," said the widow.

"How good of them! oh, how good of them! said Martha, crying a little between weakness and pleasure.

"Yes, they are good children, especially Tom, it was thought."

A little dew of mother's pride and joy moistened the widow's eyes. The good nurse objected to tears on principle; but, as she said afterward, "she had not the heart to interfere," when Martha, half raising herself, drew the widow toward her and said, "Will you be my friend indeed? I've never had a friend in my life. Nobody cared for me since my mother died,"

"Somebody cares now, then" said the widow, with her voice still as clear and cheery as a little bird's; "you shall be to me instead of my daughter that died. It used to remind me of her when Tom was telling me about you."

"God bless you!" said Martha whose tears of joy would not let her say more.

But when the widow had gone, and the kind skillful nurse was arranging her for sleep Martha said, "God forgive me for despairing I'll never say again, Who cares?"

UNKIND WORDS.

BY DR. MCFOSSIL.

In this age of hurry and drive, of shoddy and work, and shallow thinking, when so large a proportion of the community seem absorbed in money getting, we are too apt to lose sight of the fact that the great warp and woof of life is made up of very little things;—simple, commonplace deeds; careless or thoughtless words have often an influence, for good or evil, for joy or sorrow, of greater extent than we ever dream of. As the glittering dew-drop holds in golden solution, myriads of sun-beams, and distils them in grateful benediction upon the thirsty fields, so we, by the glorious gift of language, have it in our power to plant in the great garden of humanity, sweet flowers, redolent with deeds of thoughtful kindness, with encouraging, loving, hopeful words, or poisonous with chilling influences, or heartless coldness.

I was impelled to write upon this topic by an experience, the most painful of all my life, and it is briefly this:

In early manhood, a love of adventure and a desire to see the world, led me to follow the sea; and while engaged in this pursuit, I formed the acquaintance of a young man about my own age. Affinity of temperament, and a mutual taste and love for books, music, poetry, travel, etc., soon drew us together in ties of the most intimate and endearing friendship. Isolated by our occupation from the enjoyment and the refining influences of female society, and surrounded by many uncongenial and disagreeable social elements, the ties which bound us were much stronger than an ordinary masculine friendship. I never had met one of my own sex before, I never shall again! whom I so entirely and ardently trusted and loved.

Three times during the perilous years of our voyaging, had God made this friend instrumental in leading me up from the very brink of the "River of Death." Twice we were shipwrecked, and he saved me from a watery grave.—Once during a malignant fever, in a foreign land, had he watched over and cared for me, with all the tender solicitude a wife or mother could have bestowed.

It was quite late one fall, that we set sail from Hampton Roads, bound for Havre. The first night out, the wind suddenly whipped round into the north-east, and in a few hours blew a living gale, and the sea commenced rolling at a tremendous rate. I was first mate, and in the "dog-watch," from six to eight, P. M., had hove the ship to under a storm stay-sail and double-reef spanker. At "eight bells," midnight, when my watch was called, I was called by my friend. Not arousing with alacrity, he repeated the call in abrupt and decisive tones.—Feeling sleepy and irritable, I answered shortly and rather insolently; when there followed a wordy altercation, in which some very bitter and unkind words were exchanged between us, and when we parted at the break of the quarter-deck, he to go forward and I to go aft, I said, "I don't care how soon we part forever."

It was a "wild tempestuous night;"—the huge white-capped billows sobbed and moaned like a funeral dirge; and the fierce blast screamed through the rigging like the wail of lost souls. We were drifting slowly towards the breakers of a lee shore, and could hear them booming in the distance.

I had ascended part way up the mizzen rigging, and was peering into the blackness of the storm, when suddenly the ship "broached to," and we shipped a huge sea, which swept everything fore and aft. As the vessel rose and shook herself free, there came from the top-gallant forecastle the startling cry,—"Man overboard!" and from the crest of a wave just under our lee, came the long, thrilling, despairing cry of a drowning man.—I gazed in the direction whence it came, and by the lurid light of a lightning flash, caught a farewell look of the face of the dearest, and truest friend I had ever known on earth! No words of tender farewell passed between us—no parting clasp of hands—only one look of mute agony, and the great ocean of eternity rolled between us!

No words of mine can paint the poignancy of remorse and grief that thrilled my heart. I would gladly have given worlds, had I possessed them, to recall those bitter, unkind parting words.—They can never be recalled!

Often, and often, as the years come and go, a vision of that fearful hour comes back to me. Again, amid the howling midnight storm, I gaze upon that cold, pale face, that never more will smile on me in kindness or in love. Again, from off the crests of sobbing seas, I hear that despairing, dying cry; and with tears of bitter remorse, I pledge myself that no circumstance, no provocation, shall ever tempt me to use unkind, or bitter words.

Reader, this is no fancy sketch, but the truthful details of an actual experience. As you value your usefulness here, and your hope of happiness hereafter, hold not friendship in light esteem. Cherish and use the divine gift of kind, loving words. Ruined cities may be rebuilt; plans and purposes in material life be changed; but unkind words, once spoken, can never be recalled; their impress and influence, like the eternal stars, roll on forever!

Mistook His Meaning.

One of our retired merchants hired a newly imported servant girl from the "owld dart," who was necessarily somewhat ignorant of English phrases. One morning, seeing her mistress about in a loose wrapper, Biddy asked another servant what style of dress that was, and was informed that it was called a "half undress." On a subsequent morning soon after, the merchant handed into the kitchen, fresh from the vines in his garden, some tomatoes, telling Biddy to serve them in an "undressed state"—meaning, of course, raw. Dinner time came and everything was on the table except the tomatoes. The bell was rung and on Biddy's appearance she was asked for them. She hastily retired and soon presented herself with nothing on but a single undergarment, saying, "Arra, sure I'm now in an undressed state as much as I mane to be, and begorra I'll not strip off another rag even if I get my discharge." She was told to dress herself and expect higher wages.

☞ The Titusville (Pa.) Herald says: A young lady whose "pa struck ile" a few years ago, and who has since been at a boarding school, recently returned, and a party was given for her benefit. Upon the bottom of her invitation cards she caused to be inscribed "R.S.V.P.," and one was sent to an illiterate rich fellow, who had made his money by borrowing. He did not come, but sent a card with the letters "D. S. C. C." Meeting him in the street, she asked him what the letters meant. "Tell me first what yours meant?" "Oh! mine was French for "Respond if you cannot accept." "Well, mine was English for "D—n sorry I can't come."

An Irishman who was found guilty of stealing a lot of coffee, was asked by the magistrate what he did with it.

"Made tay wid it," was his reply.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

☞ Anonymous communications are not published.

SHEET AND PILLOW-CASE PARTY.—Some forty or more of the neighbors and friends of Mr. Richard Newcomb, assembled on Thursday evening last, at the residence of Mr. Lewis Cain, dressed in disguise, and went in a body to the hospitable mansion of Mr. Newcomb, taking him completely by surprise. It was his sixtieth birthday, and the party after congratulating him on his young appearance, and performing numerous antics in their ghostly like costumes, threw off their masks and presented their smiling countenances, much to the enjoyment and mirth of all present. The merry peals of laughter from "Horace" caused the Deputy Sheriff to shake his corpulent sides fearfully on this occasion, but no doctor was called. After enjoying numerous games, a table was bountifully spread and an excellent supper was furnished. After supplying the inner wants the party returned to the sports of the evening, and gradually retired to their homes, after expressing a wish to be present at his seventieth birthday.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT. A two-horse team belonging to Mr. S. H. Little of South Hanson, was left standing for a short time in front of Messrs. George L. Baxter & Co.'s store, on Franklin street, last Wednesday forenoon, the horses became frightened, it is supposed by the cars, and started off at a Gilpin pace, turning two corners quite handsomely.—They looked rather desperate as they rushed through Hancock street but as they neared the town pump they sheered and passed between the trough and Robinson's building, and then turned towards Mr. Briesler's fence, which they jumped; the pole striking the stone post with such force as to throw one of the horses down, which put a stop to their mad career. The fence and gate were badly damaged, but fortunately the horses escaped any serious injuries.

The carriage was considerably broken and the bottles of essences and perfumery were somewhat mixed. Mr. Little sustained quite a serious loss by this mishap, in damages done to Mr. Briesler's fence, repairing carriage and other expenses.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE. The fifth lecture of the course was delivered by Rev. James B. Dunn to a very large audience. The speaker was not so eloquent as some of his predecessors, still his address was ably delivered and drew the close attention of the vast audience. He related many facts which had come under his own immediate sight, with such vividness, as to produce great impression upon his hearers. The evils and crimes of rum he showed to be immense, and no father or mother could feel that their child was safe while the town allowed a drinking saloon on every corner of the street.

The singing was of the congregational order, lead by H. B. Brown, Esq., and was much admired. Mr. Chas. T. Reed presided at the piano, and performed in his usual good style.

The sixth lecture will be given on Thursday evening next, by Rev. P. A. McKenna of Marlborough.

CENTENARY TEA PARTY. The ladies of the Universalist Society of this town are to hold a Tea Party on the afternoon and evening of Dec. the 16th, the one hundredth anniversary of the throwing of a cargo of tea into Boston harbor. Further particulars hereafter.

CONCERT. The Sacred Concert at St. John's Church, on Sunday evening was a rare and rich treat to our citizens. The singing and music was of a superior quality, and showed that the talent was of the highest order. The organ music was soft and melodious and the amateur playing by Mr. Whiting was highly appreciated by the delighted audience.—The "last rose of summer," with its sweet touching notes, was rendered by Mr. Farley in a most beautiful and feeling manner, and called forth loud encores.

VACCINATE. It will be seen by an advertisement, that Dr. Joseph Underwood has a supply of pure virus on hand, and is prepared to vaccinate at his residence, all who are desirous of using this preventive from the scourge which infested our town last winter. Read his notice.

TO BE LAUNCHED. The large ship which is now about completed at the ship yard of Dea. Thomas, at the Point, will be launched on Thursday forenoon. "As time and tide wait for no man," be on hand by 11 o'clock.

NEW STORE. We would invite the attention of the reader to the advertisement of Mr. John H. Veazie, who intends keeping a good assortment of family furnishing goods. Gentlemen can be supplied with nice underwear, shirts, ties, etc. Give him a call that you may see for yourself, that his prices are reasonable and his goods of excellent quality.

OLD COLONY RAILROAD. The annual meeting of the stockholders will be held in Boston on the 25th inst. For full particulars, see notice on next page.

John F. Dodge and others have been granted a license to construct a wharf on the easterly side of Neponset river, at Squantum.

EAST MILTON. Knowing that yourself and many of your readers take interest in the prosperity of our "Village," it may be pleasant to learn that under the charge of Rev. Mr. Bygraves the 2d Congregational Church is growing in numbers, and an increasing interest is taken in religious and social matters, by the people of the place."

Last Tuesday evening Rev. W. H. H. Murray delivered his lecture on "Civilized Heathen," to an appreciative audience. Wednesday evening following Rev. Mr. Bygraves, delivered an interesting and instructive lecture on "Brave Men and Women." Wednesday evening this week, an entertainment is to be given at the Church to consist of Readings from "Longfellow;" various members of the Society and village reading selections from the works of this poet.

Nov. 18th, Rev. Mr. Bygrave delivers a lecture. Nov. 25th, an entertainment is to be given of Reading; "Selections from Shakespere." Together with the Sunday services, these entertainments and lectures, are affording much intellectual instructions and pleasure to all who attend, and for this Mr. Bygraves has the sympathy and sincere thanks of his many friends. These lectures and entertainments are free to all. H. W. L.

Items About Town.

A riot for the People—The Pat-riot.

Green paper contains poison usually: not so the "Green" paper in this town.

The statue of Narcissus was recently seized in New Bedford, because it was not clothed sufficiently. Our store keepers, who sell China dolls in Cupid's costume, should take warning.

An unpopular General—General Debility.

The unsuited man was easily suit-ed by calling at C. A. Spear's.

The temperance lectures have been announced as free, but we had a Dunn at the last one, notwithstanding.

OCCASIONAL.

ERRATUM. The amendment of the eleventh by-law of the High School Association, should read except in case of married members, instead of musical members.

GREAT AUCTION SALE. It will be seen by an advertisement that J. W. Lombard will sell at auction on Thanksgiving forenoon at 9 o'clock, 20 valuable house-lots and an excellent granite quarry. The house lots offer rare inducements to those desiring to purchase land in good locations, as they are pleasantly situated, and must certainly become more valuable, each year. The terms offered are a great inducement to a young man, to secure a good homestead, and each year a little might be done to improve and increase its value until the necessary funds are earned to erect a "home sweet home," to be enjoyed and appreciated at a future day. Quincy village must soon spread herself, and homes will be built in the pastures and fields. Now will be the time to improve your chance as the terms are liberal.

Immediately after the sale of house-lots and quarry, 40 cords of wood, cut and corded in lots to suit purchasers, will be sold for cash.

SURPRISE DONATION PARTY. The Pastor of the Universalist Church, in this town, Rev. George W. Whitney, and his lady, were completely and pleasantly surprised, by the members of their parish and other friends, on Tuesday evening. A very agreeable and social time was passed, and highly enjoyed by all who participated in the festivities.

A purse, containing the neat little sum of $50, besides other presents, were bestowed upon the beloved pastor and his worthy lady. Mr. Ralph Lowe made the presentation speech in a pleasant and affective manner, which was responded to by Mr. Whitney in a very neat and pleasing address, thanking the donors kindly for their tokens of love and appreciation.

Such little acts as these, bind firmly together the hearts of pastor and people, and bring unity and love, to all connected with the society.

FREE CONCERT. On Monday evening Messrs. Maynard and Hatton, gave our citizens one of their pleasing and entertaining concerts, which was highly appreciated by an enthusiastic audience.—The singing was truly excellent, and highly enjoyed by a full house. The music on the piano, by Mr. Maynard, was beautifully rendered, and loudly applauded, especially the fife and drum piece. After the concert, tickets were sold for a social dance, and this entertainment was kept up till the wee small hours, by the lovers of Terpsichore. We learn that it is their intention to give these free concerts with the accompanying entertainments, at suitable intervals, during the winter.

PANIC PRICES. Read Miss C. S Hubbard's advertisement without fail.—Goods are offered at very reduced prices, and a large and nice stock to select from may be found on her counters.

FOR THE GOOD CAUSE. The subscription book, of the Massachusetts Temperance Alliance, on being started anew for the year ensuing, has been headed by Henry H. Faxon, Esq., with a contribution of $1000.

DANCING SCHOOL. We learn that a movement is on foot among our young folks to have a select class in the Town Hall, commencing soon, with Russ B. Walker as teacher. We hope to give particulars next week.

DEATH AND FUNERAL OF THE OLDEST MEMBER OF FATHER TAYLOR'S BETHEL. Mr. Andrew Newlands, seaman, aged 86 years, died at 126 Lexington street, East Boston, in the house of Mr. D. C. Craft, with whom he boarded, on Friday morning. His funeral services were conducted at the Bethel, North square, by the pastor, Rev. George S. Noyes, on Sunday afternoon, and his remains were interred in Mount Hope Cemetery. In 1819 he joined Father Taylor's church, then in its infancy, and has been a faithful member of it ever since. On the first Sunday of the present month he was present at the communion of the Lord's Supper in the enjoyment of his usual health, but on the Friday morning following, without any apparent pain, he fell gently asleep in Jesus. His life at sea was full of stirring incidents. Though a foreigner, he was impressed on board the British frigate Sybil, Captain Hopkins, and served in her three years, during which he participated in many cutting-out expeditions. Subsequently he was captured by the French, and saw the great Napoleon twice. He was on board the ship Dorchester, Capt. Caldwell when she was wrecked in mid-ocean by a tremendous sea which dismasted her. She had 400 passengers on board, all of whom were saved by the ship Rochester, Capt. Brittan, and taken to New York. Newlands was the last man to leave the wreck. A young mother, who was afraid to trust herself and her child in the boat, for the wind was blowing a gale and the sea rough, remained by him to the last. She did not want to be separated from her child, but Newlands persuaded her, and he remarked that the child laughed and clapped its little hands as he landed it safely in its mothers arms. That mother will never forget him. Capt. Caldwell spoke of his conduct in the highest terms when he arrived in Boston.

As a christian his faith knew no wavering; he believed the promises of the Gospel to the letter. When no longer able to follow the sea he found friends on the right hand and on the left, and never experienced want. For several years a benevolent lady, for whose husband he had sailed, provided liberally for him in every respect; and he enjoyed excellent health to the hour of his death.

His funeral services were numerously attended by seamen, and others, and Mr. Noyes conducted them with much feeling and earnestness. Mr. Duncan McLean, himself a seaman, who had known the deceased many years, and who was familiar with his history, made a few remarks on the occasion, setting forth in glowing terms his manly courage and skill as a seaman, and his child-like, trusting faith as a Christian. Rev. John W. F. Barnes formerly colleague of Father Taylor, and his son-in-law, also paid a warm tribute, to his memory. Mr. Newlands, though a common sailor, without a relative in this country to close his eyes in death or drop a tear over his remains, was nevertheless surrounded by many friends who loved him as their own. His life was a complete rounded success, and his death a triumphant entry into the home of his affections.

Quincy, Nov. 12th. The writer of the following takes pleasure in giving his testimony to the good qualities of Andrew Newlands, he was with him in the barque Prescott, one year and eight months, and visited, in the time, Matanzas, Cowes, Copenhagen, Stettin, Bordeaux, and Havana, and although a sailor, probably his character may compare favorably with some professors, presidents or cashiers. Quincy Charitable Society.

The notice of this Institution in your last issue revives some old memories, and I am glad to add somewhat to it.

It was originated by the Rev. Dr. Cutler, then the beloved Rector of Christ Chruch, and it still remains as a monument to him who never tired of doing good. It was intended to benefit the poor of all denominations and has ever been conducted on that principle. There was at that time but one other society in town, the Unitarian, under the charge of the Rev. Peter Whitney, and the personal relations of these two ministers were of the pleasantest kind, so also of the two societies, who met in each other's houses of worship four times a year,—the Congregationalists attending Church on Christmas and Easter, the Episcopalians going to the meeting-house Thanksgiving and Fast.

The best citizens of the town at once joined this Society, and from that time, to this, it has pursued its noiseless course like the gentle dew from heaven; it has blessed the givers and the receivers, and it is hoped that the change at the last annual meeting, whereby the clergy of nearly all of the numerous societies became directors will induce the members of each to see that their names are enrolled, and that their mite goes into the Treasury.

CHARITY.

Summary of News.

A very superior quality of champagne is now made with petroleum as the chief ingredient. The manufacturers claim that it is the best that has ever benzine.

Of the 55,000 inhabitants of Memphis it is estimated that 45,000 have left the city, leaving a population of some 10,000. No city in modern times has been so ravaged by disease.

When your pocket-book gets empty, and everybody knows it, you can put all your friends into it and it will not "bulge out worth a cent."

The newly opened granite quarry in Randolph is to furnish material for the edifice to be built for the Boston Museum of Art.

Clams are now abundant, and this is the season of the year when they are plump and fat, and healthy to eat.

The Weymouth Agricultural Society is out of debt and has $2000 at interest. Its receipts the past year have been $4478 and its expenses $2419.

The Abington Bank, with a capital stock of $150,000, has a surplus of $30,000, and individual deposits amounting to upwards of $32,000.

A rumor has been circulated that Henry Hall the rubber dealer of Boston has offered a prize of $300 for testing of his patent hose, the trial of engines to take place at Braintree.

The Bank of England is somewhat alarmed at the large shipments of specie to the United States.

Six hundred bales of cotton are being brought into New England daily by the steamers of the Atlantic coast line.

Ohio has had a smart snow storm. No one envies the Buckeye State her fame in that direction.

Massachusetts has presented to Austria a set of school reports for 1872.

☞ All persons who aspire to beauty or personal appearance should not neglect that natural accessory, the hair. By many it has been neglected 'until the hair has become thin, gray, or entirely fallen off. Messrs. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H., have produced an effectual remedy, called Sicilian Hair Renewer, which cures all diseases of the scalp.—This wonderful preparation acts upon the glands, which support and nourish the hair, restores gray hair to its original color, makes the scalp white and clear, removes and prevents the formation of drandruff and all cutaneous eruptions; and, by its tonic and nutritive properties restores the scalp to a healthy state, and creates a new growth. As a dressing, it is unsurpassed, giving the hair that brilliancy so much admired by all.—Boston Commercial.

20 VALUABLE HOUSELOTS!!
AND A
GRANITE QUARRY!
—AT—
AUCTION.

Will be sold at Public Auction, on
Thanksgiving Day,
November 27th, 1873,
At 9 o'clock, A. M., on the premises on Copeland Street, Quincy,
TWENTY VALUABLE HOUSE LOTS AND AN EXCELLENT GRANITE QUARRY.

The property consists of 10 Acres, more or less, situated in the Western part of the town, on Common, West, and Copeland Streets, between two thriving villages, near Churches, Stores, Schools, and within ten minutes' walk of two Railroad Depots.

The lots are very valuable for building purposes, and are sure to double in value in two or three years. As the terms of payment are very easy, this sale offers great inducements to Mechanics and Young Men who desire homes of their own.

At 10 o'clock, or immediately after the sale of House-lots, the QUARRY will be sold. It has 600 feet frontage on Copeland Street, the main avenue connecting Quincy and West Quincy.

The Stone has a splendid color, and the Quarry, with a small outlay, can be made one of the most valuable in Quincy, and is therefore worthy the attention of capitalists or of enterprising men, wishing to engage in the Quarrying business. As there is a great demand for stone on the line of the Old Colony R. R., the Quarry offers rare inducements, being within ten minutes' walk of Quincy Adams Station.

Terms easy. $10 at the time of sale and the balance of the first quarter when the deed is ready. The remainder can remain on mortgage, at 7 3-10 per cent. interest, and payable in three equal annual payments

The Saturday Evening Post.
A Beautiful Chromo to every Yearly Subscriber.
MAX ADELER, THE GREAT HUMORIST,
A Weekly Contributor.
THE SATURDAY EVENING POST has been the great Literary Weekly for half a century. It publishes Serial after Serial of Love and Adventure—yet does not neglect shorter stories and sketches.—It gives a short Historical Sketch weekly. Max Adeler (the great Humorist,) is a regular contributor.—"Zig," the spiciest of our lady writers, also contributes regularly. Olive King, Daisy Eyebright, Ella Wheeler, &c., &c., are frequent correspondents.
Our premium Chromo for the coming year, is entitled
"One of Life's Happy Hours."
It is a beauty — the work of Sinclair & Co., one of the oldest and most celebrated firms in the country. A copy of this Chromo will be given to every yearly subscriber for 1874.
REMEMBER! The price of THE POST is fifty cents lower to Club subscribers than the prices of the other first-class Weeklies, and yet we give them a Chromo besides!
TERMS—Always in Advance.—One copy (with Chromo,) $3.00. Four copies (and four Chromos,) $8.00. Six copies (and seven Chromos,) $12.00. Eight copies (and eight Chromos,) $16.00. The sender of this last club will be entitled to a copy of THE POST and the Chromo gratis.
One copy of THE POST, ($3.00) and one of ARTHUR'S HOME MAGAZINE ($2.50,) with the Premium Pictures of both perfodicals,) will be sent for $4.50.—Ten cents extra must be sent for mailing pictures.)
Ten cents must be sent for every Chromo ordered, to pay the expense of mailing, or 25 cents if the Chromo is desired mounted and on card-board or muslin. Sample numbers sent gratis.

CATARRH!
A Woman Having Catarrh
35 Years, Cured.
And Droppings in Throat, Chokings, Strangligs, Pains in the Side, Loins, Headache, Dizziness and General Weakness, Cured by less than Three Bottles of
CONSTITUTIONAL
CATARRH REMEDY.
To Messrs. Littlefield & Co., Proprietors of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, Manchester, N. H.:
I reside at Manchester, N. H., and previously resided at Henniker, and am a native of Weare, this State. I have had Catarrh twenty-five years, ever since I was 19 years old; had it bad all the time. It run all that period, and at nights it would fill up and drop down in my throat, causing a feeling of choking, so that I would spring up in bed to save myself from strangulation. It affected my head so that I felt confused, and was troubled with severe headache at intervals, for a week at a time. I also had bad pains in my shoulders, back, and kidneys, from which I suffered immensely. So bad were they, that a year ago last summer I was obliged to lie in bed most of the time for three months. I have tried all kinds of Snuff and Catarrh remedies with no particular benefit, and consulted physicians. I had a hacking cough. I began to take the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy last August. I began to grow better before finishing the first bottle. I am now on the third bottle. My Catarrh is cured; my health is restored. I have no pains, aches, or cough. My whole system is made over new. I know it is this medicine that has rescued me from intense suffering and almost the grave. I am now able to do the hardest work and bear the greatest exposure, and feel that I cannot say too much in favor of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.
MRS. E. J. FLANDERS.
Manchester, N. H., Feb. 1, 1871.
I am 52 years old, have had the Catarrh ever since I was eighteen years old, and headache all the time; have suffered beyond description with running at the nose, droppings in the throat, chokings and stranglings. Have tried any quantity of Catarrh Remedies, but have found no relief till I tried your Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, six months ago, I found immediate relief.
Catarrh and all its attendant evils have left, Headache, Pains in the loins and Back, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, and General Weakness. Less than three bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy have cured me. I have not been so well since I can remember now. I feel as if I could not say too much for the medicine, or thank God too heartily that through its instrumentality I have been restored to health.
MARY M. ABBOTT,
No. 17, Manchester Corporation.
Manchester, N. H., Jan. 27, 1872.
The above lady is my mother. I am a painter by trade, and am a member of the City Council of Manchester. Every word my mother states is true.
JACOB J. ABBOTT.
Hundreds of cases of a similar nature cured within the last year. Snuffs and Lotions are only temporary relief. The CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY strikes at the root, builds up the constitution, makes it new, and drives away Catarrh and all diseases of the mucous membranes and their attendant pains and aches, pertaining to head, back, shoulders, kidneys, and throat.
Price $1 per Bottle. Sold by all Druggists. A Pamphlet of 32 pages, giving a Treatise on Catarrh, and containing innumerable cases of cures, sent FREE, by addressing the Proprietors,

GREENLEAF STREET
PRIVATE SCHOOL.
THIS SCHOOL is now in the second year of its existence. It is designed for Boys and Girls between the ages of five and fourteen, or upwards. It is divided into three departments, each of which is under the charge of a competent and successful teacher.
The Studies pursued are: Reading, (Monroe's Readers, and some of Hillard's); Spelling, (Swinton's Word-Book); Arithmetic (Hagar's Series); Geography, ('Our World" Series); Grammar (Kerl's Common School Grammar; also, Our Grammar): History, (Barnes' History of the United States, and Anderson's General History); French, ("Beginning French," "Beginners' French Reader," Otto's Grammar, Otto's Reader); Natural Philosophy, &c. (Norton and Porter's First Book of Science). Instruction is also given in Drawing, Writing, English Literature, Composition, Vocal Music, and Sewing.
The Schoolrooms are of ample size, and are well-heated and well-ventilated. There is a large play-ground, and also a play-room in-doors, for rainy weather.
The School Year is divided into four terms, of ten working weeks each. Charges are made for single terms only, and pupils may enter at the beginning of any term. It is expected, however, that those who have once entered will remain during the remainder of the school year; and it is hoped that all pupils will complete the studies of the course. Any boy or girl of good disposition and average capacity, who faithfully follows out the entire course, may be reasonably certain of laying the foundation of a thorough practical education.
TERMS — $8, $10, $12 and $15 a term, according to age and acquirements.
The Second Term of the current year begins November 17th; and application for admission may now be made, to either of the teachers, or to

District Court of East Norfolk.

MONDAY.

In the case of William F. Whitney, who was tried on Thursday last, on the charge of keeping intoxicating liquors, with intent to sell and on which the judge reserved decision at the time was decided this morning. He was found guilty and fined $10 and costs.

Timothy Cronin of Quincy, was before the Court this morning charged with committing an assault on Constable Charles H. Curtis, on Sunday last. For this offence he was fined $15 and costs. For non-payment of fine and costs, he was sent to Dedham, for 90 days. By this sentence, the neighborhood has been relieved from a disagreeable nuisance, and peace and quietness restored to that pleasant locality.

Patrick O'Connell of Weymouth, was before the Court for committing an assault on Patrick Tracey. The plaintiff acknowledging satisfaction the defendant discharged on payment of costs.

James Hoyt, Robert Flannigan and Frank Quinlon who were arrested last week, and tried on Wednesday last, for committing an assault on Patrick McGuire, were discharged this morning on payment of costs.

Benjamin Sanderson of Braintree, was arraigned on the charge of keeping a liquor nuisance, and plead not guilty. But the evidence sustaining the complaint he was held in $300 for his appearance at the next term of the Superior Court, to be held at Dedham. J. Q. Adams Esq., counsel for defendant.

TUESDAY.

David Sanville of Quincy, was found guilty of illegally keeping the balm that exhilerates and intoxicates. He was fined $10 and costs. James E. Tirrell, Esq., appeared as counsel for defendant.

Michael Hartney, of Quincy, was arraigned for maintaining a liquor nuisance, plead not guilty. But the evidence sustaining the complaint, he was held in the sum of $300, for his appearance at the next term of the Superior Court, to be held at Dedham. J. Q. Adams, Esq. counsel for defendant.

THURSDAY.

Thomas Mulligan and Arthur Hickey, two large boys from East Braintree, were brought before Justice E. C. Bumps for committing an assault, in June last, on Mr. James E. Wheeler and James H. Thayer. Hickey was discharged on payment of $15 and costs. Mulligan was sent to the House of Correction for 3 months. J. Q. Adams was counsel for defendants.

A PARK FOR BOSTON. The Bussey Farm at West Roxbury has been suggested as a good estate to make into a grand park for Boston. It comprises about 400 acres of hill and valley and woodland. The estate was bequeathed to Harvard College as a foundation for an agricultural school, but it is not probable that it will ever be turned to this use, and the corporation would doubtless be glad to sell it for the purpose suggested.

STATE POLICE. During the nine months ending September 30, the State Police made 6121 liquor prosecutions, and other prosecutions enough to make the aggregate number 13,229. The fines and costs which were imposed have amounted to $159,322.16. The expenditures of the department during that period have been $110,953.72, leaving a balance of $48,368.44 in favor of the Commonwealth. The number committed to the House of Correction for violation of the liquor law was 175; number of gallons of malt liquor seized, 60,405; number of gallons of distilled liquor seized, 80,195. Amount paid into State Treasury on warrants $17,459.24.—Lynn Reporter.

☞ A proposition will be made in the next Congress that all United States Marine Hospitals shall henceforth be built of wood, and that these wooden hospitals shall be destroyed every ten years, by which time they will become infected with disease. It is claimed that this plan is both economical and healthful.

Five thousand workmen are on a strike in New York in opposition to reduction in wages.

GOLD DISCOVERED. As workmen were removing clay and soil from the farm of Mr. Samuel Briggs in Duxbury, recently, and putting the same on the road, all at once the bottom of the carts were found to be covered with shining atoms, which upon inspection were pronounced gold, as well as a large number of pieces mixed with some other metal. An old Californian who was present said he was sure it was gold. Specimens were sent to Boston Saturday, and pronounced to be gold, but the quality they could not then determine without still further examination. We understand that Mr. Briggs received a large offer for his farm, but won't sell at present.

WHEAT WANTED IN ENGLAND. It is estimated that ninety-six million bushels of wheat will be required in England from other countries. The reason of this unusual demand is the shortness of the grain crops, and the failure of the potato crop. The prospect for a large foreign demand is good, and the supply in the United States is abundantly sufficient for the emergency. There seems, therefore, no reason why the farmers should not reap a golden harvest as a reward for their hard toil. If money is only put in circulation so that the producers of cereals can move their crops, a season of unquestionable prosperity is in the immediate future.

A NEW WAY. A novel sale of horseflesh took place at St. Louis, Mo., last week. The trotter, Robert E. Lee, was offered at auction, and the bidding was at so much per pound, live weight. Mr. John McCaw, after some spirited bidding, had the stepper knocked down to him for 17 1-2 cents per pound. The horse weighed 1013 pounds, so his price was $176.75. It was about as poor an experiment for the seller as it was a good one for the purchaser.

PARDONS. President Grant has caused an order to be issued by the Secretary of War, to the effect that all soldiers who have deserted their colors, and who shall on or before the first day of January next surrender themselves at any military station, shall receive a full pardon, without trial or punishment, on condition that they serve the remainder of their enlistment.

Old Colony Railroad Company.

Annual Meeting of Stockholders.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Stockholders of the Old Colony Railroad Company, will be held in the Hall over the Passenger Station of said Company, in Boston, on TUESDAY, the 25th day of November, A. D. 1873, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, to act on the following business, viz:

1. To receive and act upon the Report of the Directors to the Stockholders.
2. To choose a Board of Directors for the ensuing year.
3. To act upon the matter of the purchase of the Middlesex and Taunton Railroad.
4. To act upon the matter of the purchase of the Fall River, Warren & Providence Railroad.
5. To provide for funding the outstanding bonds and indebtedness of the Company, as the same may become due.
6. To transact any other business that may properly come before the meeting.

By order of the Directors.
GEORGE MARSTON, Clerk.

conduct an Agency for the reception of advertisements for American NEWSPAPERS—the most complete establishment of the kind in the world. Six thousand NEWSPAPERS kept regularly on file, open to inspection by customers. No reading-room, however complete, receives one-twentieth of this number. Every Advertisement is taken at the home price of the paper, without any additional charge or commission, so that an advertiser, in dealing with the Agency, is saved trouble and correspondence, making one contract instead of a dozen, a hundred or a thousand. A Book of eighty pages, containing lists of best papers, largest circulation, religious papers, agricultural papers, class papers, political papers, daily papers, country papers, magazines and all publications, with some information about prices, is sent FREE to any address on application. Persons at a distance wishing to make contracts for advertising in any town, city, county, State or Territory of the United States, or any portion of the Dominion of Canada, may send a concise statement of what they want, together with a copy of the Advertisement they desire inserted, and will receive information by return mail which will enable them to decide whether to increase, reduce or forego the order. For such information there is no charge whatever. Publishers not only send their files free, but pay Messrs. GEO. P. ROWELL & Co. for their services. Orders are accepted for a single paper as well as for a larger list; for a single dollar as readily as for a larger sum. Address the American Newspaper Advertising Agency.

Poetry.

Live as You Ought to Live.

Live as you ought to live; not in seclusion,
Hiding yourself from your friend and your foe;
Shutting your doors against kindly intrusion,
Shutting your eyes to the evils below.

Live as you ought to live; not in derision,
Scorning your fellows, and slighting your kind;
Only for self making generous provision,
Only to selfish indulgence inclined.

Live as you ought to live; helping your brother
With kindness of charity, as be hast need:
Even the smile that's bestowed on another,
In value the whole of your wealth may exceed.

Live as you ought to live; this your endeavor
To live like a christian; not worshiping pelf,
Not slighting its uses: remembering ever,
That he is the hero who conquers himself.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Save the Leaves.

At this season of the year there is abundant opportunity to secure a good supply of leaves either directly from the forests or along the wood and pasture walls. Many farmers neglect this opportunity. They will rather hang around and do nothing than take the trouble to rake up together a few cartloads of leaves that are comparatively useless where they are, but of great value in the stable for bedding or in the compost heap for manure.

No farmer can be ignorant of the value of leaves. No one can be unmindful of the fact that all waste vegetable or animal matter, including leaves, straw, turnip tops, dead animals, bones, horses, &c., should be carefully served and composted. The trouble is laziness. That is the way of a great many useful jobs.—If in the forest, leaves can be rapidly gathered with a fork. If in the pasture, a long birch broom is very handy to rake them into winrows when they can be readily gathered in a cart. Lay in a good store of them.—Ploughman.

Fall Top Dressing.

Before the winter sets in for good it will be best to get out all the manure that can be spared for this purpose and spread it freely on the mowing lots as a top-dressing. If the land is not too hilly and uneven there is no danger of waste while a good covering protects the roots of grass, mellows the surface and promotes the growth of the crop next year.

A top dressing may be applied to advantage late in the fall, or immediately after the crop is taken off or in the spring just after the grass starts. In the latter case the rapid growth of the grass covers and protects it from the sun. But there is little or no loss by evaporation through the winter.

VEGETABLE CURIOSITY. The Old Colony Memorial says:—At Chandler's market may be seen a stalk which early in the season produced one large head of cabbage, which was cut off in due time, and marketed; and now in place of the one, there are fifteen perfect heads, fully matured, weighing together about eighteen pounds, making about twenty-five pounds of cabbage from the single stalk this season.

☞ All kinds of poultry and meat can be cooked quicker by adding to the water in which they are boiled, a little vinegar or a piece of lemon. By the use of an acid there will be a considerable saving of fuel, as well as shortening of time. Its action is beneficial on old, tough meats, rendering them quite tender and easy of digestion. Tainted meats and fowls will lose their bad taste and odor if cooked in this way, and if not used too freely, no taste of it will be acquired.—Household.

LARGE CABBAGE. William Bliss, Scott Co., Minn., says he raised, last year, one head of Marblehead Mammoth Cabbage that weighed 40 lbs. and five that weighed between 35 and 40 lbs. each, and asks if any one can beat it.

Anecdotes.

"James Jenkins," said a rational school master to his pupil, "what is an average?"

"A thing, sir," answered the scholar promptly, "that hens lay eggs upon."

"Why do you say that you silly boy?" replied the pedagogue.

"Because, sir," said the youth, "I heard a gentleman say the other day a hen would lay on an average, a hundred and twenty eggs a year!"

A minister asked a little boy who had been converted. "Does not the devil tell you that you are not a christian?"

"Yes sometimes."

"Well, what do you say to him?"

"I tell him," replied the boy, with something of Luther's spirit, "that, whether I am a christain or not, it is none of his business."

"Doctor," said a wealthy patient to his physician, "I want you to be thorough. Strike at the root of the disease."

"Well, I will," said the doctor, as he lifted his cane and brought it down hard enough to break into pieces a bottle and glasses which stood upon the side board. It was his last professional visit to that house.

A gentleman traveling in Ireland said to a very importunate beggar, "You have lost all your teeth."

The beggar quietly answered, "An it's time I parted with um, when I'd nothing for um to do."

They can be seen at her Office, and her MEDICINES are for sale by the leading Druggists throughout New England.

EVERY WOMAN
Should use MRS. DR. SECOR'S CINCHONA BITTERS and Alterative Syrup.

CINCHONA BITTERS
An Appetizer and Tonic.
Cures Dyspepsia and Debility.
Cures Indigestion and Biliousness.
Cures all Kidney Complaints.
Cures Inactivity of the Liver.
CINCHONA BITTERS are not a SOUR SLOP, but they are a Reliable Medicine and "not bad to take."
☞ Cinchona Bitters are what woman, married or single, require occasionally for a Stimulant Tonic—they are prepared scientifically of the best material known to Vegetable Materia Medica. Try them once and you will never be induced to try any other Stimulant.

ALTERATIVE SYRUP
Purifies the Blood.
Cleanses the System.
Is a sure cure for Scrofula.
Beautifies the Complexion.
Removes Pimples and Moth Patches,
Cures Salt Rheum and Erysipelas.
Gives Color to the Lips and Cheeks.
Sweetens the Breath and
Adds firmness to the Gums.
☞ ALL EXTERNAL APPLICATIONS will injure the Health. Beware of Cosmetics which contain lead poisons.
Ladies, Alterative will put the bloom of youth and health to your cheeks.

Cinchona Bitters retail at	$1.25 per bottle.
Alterative Syrup,	1.25 " "
Cholera Specific,	1.00 " "
Cough Syrup,	1.00 " "
Liniment (two sizes)	1.00 to 50 cts.
Salve,	50 cts per box.
Cathartic Pills (50 in a box)	50 " "
Nervous Pills,	1.00 " "

☞ Every disease requires its own specific remedy, and Mrs. Dr. SECOR prepares her medicines accordingly. It is impossible to compound any one medicine to cure every disease.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER
Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."
Sold by all Druggists, and Dealers in Medicines.
Price One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye.
FOR THE WHISKERS.
As our Renewer in many cases requires too long a time, and too much care, to restore gray or faded Whiskers, we have prepared this dye, in one preparation; which will quickly and effectually accomplish this result. It is easily applied, and produces a color which will neither rub nor wash off. Sold by all Druggists. Price Fifty Cents.
Manufactured by R. P. HALL, & CO.,
NASHUA, N.H.

WOLLASTON HOTEL,
WOLLASTON HEIGHTS,
QUINCY.

THIS new and commodious House is now open for the reception of guests. Its location renders it most desirable for boarders from the city, being situated only six and half miles from Boston on the Old Colony Railroad, and less than one minute from the Station, 16 trains each way daily. It is only about three minutes' by cars from the Centre of Quincy—the distance being less than one mile.
Visitors to this good old town, whether for business or for pleasure, will find the
Wollaston Hotel,
a pleasant and agreeable stopping place. Transient guests or permanent boarders will receive every attention. It will be kept as a strictly
TEMPERANCE HOUSE,
no intoxicating liquors of any name or nature will be sold or kept about the premises.
A fine LIVERY and BOARDING STABLE in connection with the House.
TERMS VERY REASONABLE.

Poetry.

Don't Promise too Much.

It is always your duty, you know,
To do just the best that you can,
Though your station be ever so low,
You can rise to the height of a man.
Be manly in morals and speech,
Give tone to whatever you touch;
And learn just how far you can reach,
For fear you may promise too much.

Don't promise, though often you feel
Your heart is with sympathy warm,
Your purpose you'd better conceal
Till sure that you've strength to perform.
Perchance some poor friend, whose weak arm
Has leaned on this treacherous crutch,
Has come to some desperate harm,
Because you have promised too much.

'Tis kindness that prompts you to say
The words that are sweet to the ear,
But cruel it is to delay
The help that you promised so near.
The deeds that are trifles to you,
By some are not reckoned as such;
So do what you've promised to do,
And be sure you don't promise too much.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

MOLASSES CANDY. One cup best molasses, one half cup sugar; one tablespoon vinegar; piece of butter size of half a nutmeg; boil ten minutes, stirring all the time; work and pull it till light colored, and form in sticks.

EXCELLENT DROP CAKES. Two cups sugar; one cup sour milk; three teaspoons soda; two eggs; one teaspoon cinnamon; one teaspoon cloves. Stir very thick and drop on buttered tins.

SUGAR COOKIES. One and a-half cups sugar; half a cup milk; a small half cup butter; one egg; one teaspoon cream tartar; half do. soda; half a teacup caraway seed. Mix pretty well, cut into small cakes and bake.

☞ It may not be true, but it is said that an Irishman after he had seen the numerous hills and mountain ranges of New Hampshire, exclaimed:—"Bedad, I niver was in a counthry before where they had so much land they had to stack it."

☞ The woman who never owned a Bible, supposed she was quoting it when she greeted her son, who came home to keep Thanksgiving, in the following words:—

"Here comes the fatted calf."

SAD MISTAKE. A Philadelphia surgeon was called the other day to a house up town to amputate the leg of a woman. He is a near-sighted man, and when he reached the house he got into the wrong room and calmly sawed off the limb of the servant girl, who was a German, who had come over two days before, and who thought it was one of the customs of the country.

☞ A Georgia newspaper recently informed its readers that it was not worth while for them to raise boys. The agonized editor insists that he wrote the word hogs.

☞ Jinks says that wedding-rings ought to be rechristened suffer-rings.—He has been married five years.

CANDID STATEMENT. An honest lady in the country, when told of her husbands death, exclaimed—

"Well, I do declare, our troubles never come alone! It ain't a week since I lost my best hen, and now Mr. Hooper has gone too, poor man!"

THE THREAD OF A JOKE. Old Mrs. Pilkins was reading the foreign news by a late arrival. "Cotton is declining!" exclaimed the old lady.

"Well, I thought as much—the last thread I used was remarkably feeble."

☞ True devotion does not consist in a long face, regulation sighs, and penitent words; it consists in devout deeds, in charitable words, in a sweet, tender, pure life that influences and betters every one who inhales the same atmosphere.

☞ An exchange says that a bull-dog with sound teeth, is the only thing a lightning-rod peddler will not tackle, and try to persuade into buying a rod.

☞ A Vermont paper says a young lady from the country called at a book store the other day and asked for "a deck of them new postal keerds — double-headers.

☞ He pulls with a long rope that waits for another's death.

☞ A gentleman made a sad mistake the other day in mentally deciding that a grass widow must necessarily be verdant. He acted upon that basis, and found that the emerald hue was all on his own side of the house. He has gone to grass to mourn.

☞ Pleasure is a rose near where there ever grows a thorn of evil. It is wisdom's work so carefully to pluck the rose as to avoid the thorn, and let its rich perfumes exhale to heaven, in gratitude and adoration to Him who gave the rose to blow.

☞ What is the difference between a girl and a night-cap? One is born to wed the other is worn to bed.

Miscellany.

My Kitchen Girl.

O, what a dear, cosy place it was! that little cottage just out of the great city, with its new, bright furniture and pleasant surroundings! My face beamed with happiness as I turned to thank my husband for his thoughtfulness and labor. We were just married, and, although rather ignorant of housekeeping, I insisted that we should not board, knowing how averse my husband was to such a life.

"And now," said Harry, with assumed gravity, "Mrs. Wilde, shall I conduct you to the realm of labor? You are going to have a great treasure there—no rough, raw Irish girl to frighten you to death with her blarney, nor a black cook to order you off your own premises, but a nice little American girl who will be able to help you in everything, and at the same time be a companion for you while I am down town."

"O, how glad I am!" I exclaimed.—"But where did you find her? Not in the Intelligence Office, surely?"

"O, no," said Harry, whistling a well known air, "I was telling Uncle Ned, the other night, what I wanted, and he said he knew a person that would just suit me. It seems this girl came there, a few months ago, to engage in sewing, and has been there since as seamstress; but her health is giving way, and she thought if she could do the work of some small family, just out of the city, it would be better for her than sewing. I have hardly had a glimpse of her yet, but Auntie Ri says she seems very sad, dresses in deep mourning, and appears like one who has just had some great sorrow."

"Poor thing!" I exclaimed, my sympathies immediately aroused. "But, Harry, will she know anything about cooking?"

"O, yes," said he, "for she has always lived in the country, and one day she told auntie that she had been through all kinds of housework; but her hands are very small and delicate."

"Why, I am getting quite anxious to see her; when will she be here, Harry?"

"O, next week," he replied, very indifferently, I thought, with some surprise, which increased as he said:

"And now my little wife, let us have tea. I want to see you officiate in your own home."

We descended to the dining room, I inwardly trembling, for I had never made a biscuit in my life, and didn't know whether to put a spoonful of tea in the tea pot, or a cupful; but, oh, what a surprise! There stood a nice, oval table, daintly set for two, elegant with its white damask, clear china service, and glittering silver. A bright fire burned in the grate—everything looked so cheerful and home like!

Just entering from the kitchen I beheld a graceful form, clad in deep mourning; her face was pale but strikingly beautiful, and as the gaslight flickered down upon her golden hair it gleamed like a crown of glory. She greeted us with a ladylike simplicity, saying, "I hope you have found everything in readiness; will you take tea now? You must be faint after your long ride."

"I sat down in bewildered silence, and after placing a call-bell by my plate, she withdrew.

"Why, Harry Wilde, you have made me wild in more than one sense! Am I dreaming? Is she to be my kitchen girl? Why I cannot treat her as such!"

To tell the truth Harry looked a little bewildered too.

"I declare," he said, "they told me she was refined, but this is a little more than I expected."

"But what a nice supper she has prepared, and how thoughtful of you to have her here to receive us."

"Why, did you think I would bring you to a desolate, uninhabited place? Would I let you soil your pretty hands at the outset? O, no, (another whistle.) "I did think of having a little party here to receive you, but concluded that I wanted you myself the first evening."

Harry has a way of talking nonsense, sometimes, that might sound silly to a third person, so I won't tell you any more of our conversation.

How bright the future looked to me! True, my husband was not wealthy, but I prefer an empty pocket to an empty head, and, after all, we had enough for a commencement, and I know there never was a happier bride in the wide world than I.

But this story isn't to be about myself, however, but of our kitchen girl. I was almost afraid of her at first, she seemed so far above me, although always quiet and polite. But finally diffidence wore off, and one morning donning a huge gingham apron, I went into the kitchen determined to take my first lessons in cooking. As I opened the door, a low sob greeted my ear, and advancing I beheld the poor girl bowed in an agony of grief, great sobs choking her whole frame.

"What is it, Mary?" I said coming towards her, and speaking as gently as possible; "what is it that troubles you? It grieves me, to see you sad for I am very happy, and I cannot bear to see any one suffer."

She reached out her white hand to me, and as I clasped it in mine I drew down the wealth of golden hair upon my shoulder and kissed the pale brow, passing my hand lightly over the temples, where the veins were swollen fearfully.

"Let me be your friend, Mary: we are nearly of an age; you must not weep so. There, now we shall be companions for each other, and you must tell me all that troubles you—will you not? You came here as a servant, but I cannot treat you as such, for you are my equal in every sense of the word. I am very much drawn towards you, and I long to win your trust and love."

"O, you are too kind," she sobbed.—"It is long since I have felt a caressing touch upon my brow, and your words of sympathy are very sweet. I do not want to cloud your sunny heart with my sorrows, and will try to be more cheerful."

"Now, now," said I playfully, "that will never do—"as a fresh burst of tears followed—"I've come down here to get you to give me some lessons in cooking, for I am a dreadful ignoramus; so we won't talk about it now, but some time I am going to win the whole story from you. And now, most august preceptress, what shall be my first lesson? Look at this mammoth bib. I made it on purpose for this momentous occasion!"

She laughed, half sadly, but it was a laugh, musical and rippling, and I hailed it as the omen of brighter hours. If I could cheer her poor heart I determined to do it.

Every morning after this I went down to the kitchen for my instructions, and would soon so Mary said "surpass my teacher." I discovered that the piano was no stranger to her and that she had a voice of rare quality, and after the work was done she would play and sing for me, or talk to me, with that magic power she always wielded in conversation. I succeeded in obtaining a few scholars for her, and her face gradually lost its careworn look, although there was a shade of sadness that never entirely disappeared, and sometimes she would start nervously at any unexpected sound or voice. It was the old, sad story of a happy home broken up by death and misfortune, and a penniless girl thrust out into the world. But there is One who notes even the sparrow's fall!

"But why did you go out alone, Mary to battle with the world?" I said. "Was there no one to help you?"

"Perhaps I did wrong," she said, "but oh, I was driven nearly wild by my sorrows, and I could not remain there, amid those suggestive scenes—and so I came away, without a word; and after all, there is no one that I care for."

Mary had been with us about a year, when one evening, Harry brought home an old college friend, who had become a surgeon of considerable skill. And now just returned from abroad, he was very entertaining. I was charmed with the grace and manner of his conversation and so absorbed did I become in the interesting accounts of his travels that our tea hour passed by without my observing it. Finally, I was reminded of the fact by my husband, who [said, "Is Mary away?"

"O, yes," I replied, "she went out to see one of her scholars this afternoon. I cannot think what detains her."

Thanks to Mary's instruction I could prepare a meal equal to hers, now, and we were soon gathered round our pleasant table. Suddenly, there was a confused sound of heavy feet, and Mary was brought in by a stalwart Irishman who said she had "slipped upon a bit of ice, and broken her arm." Womanlike, I began to cry; but Harry gathered her up in his great, strong arms, and carried her up to my room, where we all followed.

"Here Charlie, I give this case up to you," said he, as he deposited his burden upon the bed, and his friend approached saying, "She has fainted."

Suddenly he bowed his head upon his hands, but only for a moment; then he proceeded to set the broken limb as tenderly as a woman would touch a frail baby's. Once she spoke, incoherently, and her eyes opened in a stupid stare. I caught a word that sounded like "Charlie"—then the truth dawned upon me!

After he had done all that he could Charlie turned to us saying:—"My friends you have restored a great blessing to me. You may have noticed my emotion when I first saw her face; it is one that has been constantly before me for the last three years. I thought I had lost it, and have searched everywhere. Three years ago I met and loved this young lady, but just as I was about to declare my affection for her there came a summons urging my immediate presence abroad. I left a note for her which I have since discovered she never received, nor any letter I have since written. During my travels I could not forget her, and immediately on my return I sought her home, but it was in the possession of strangers, and no one could tell me her whereabouts. My search has been in vain until to-night; and now the shock is so great I can hardly master myself."

He was deathly pale, and I began to fear we would have two patients instead of one, but he soon rallied, and obtained his self-control. Wasn't I happy? "I knew there was a man in the case, somewhere!" I cried, wiping my red eyes, and it always puzzled me to know what there could be interesting in that little Charlie living down in the corner house, and why Mary took such a fancy to him—but, oh, to be sure, why it's because his name is Charlie." Then I had to jump up and congratulate him again, until Harry said, turning to his friend, "She is always telling me that it is I who made her wild, (Wilde) but I think you are the one, now.

How our Mary gathered strength each day, and how carefully the doctor attended to her wants, I shall not give you an account—nor how beautiful she looked in her white bridal robe, as she was led to the altar—nor of the pleasant reception she gave us in her elegant home.—It was all like a fairy tale;—and now it is over, and I am all alone in my little pleasant home, looking, but without success, for another "Kitchen Girl."

"Didn't Like to Answer."

Walter Savage Landor used to relate a story of an English judge before whom being on the circut, two old men were brought as witnesses, and, according to custom, he began to chat with them, among other things about their age, for the purpose of giving a moral lesson to the young barristers.

"Well, my good man, said he to the first witness, "how old may you be?"

"About eighty-seven, my lord."

"I daresay, now, you have lived a very sober life?"

"Yes, my lord: I haven't been tipsy for the last sixty years."

"There!" cried his lordship, turning to the gentlemen of the bar, "you see what a fine thing sobriety is! The witness looks as though he would live twenty years more."

The barristers nodded assent. In his turn another witness came forward, who looked particularly hale and robust.

"And how old are you, friend?" inquired the judge.

"Ninety-five, my lord," was the reply.

"Ninety-five! I'll answer for it, you have led a sober life—haven't you?"

Witness hung his head and answered: —"I don't like to answer afore all these gentlemen."

"Never mind; speak out."

"Well, then, my lord, I haven't gone to bed sober for the last twenty years."

At this his lordship looked rather blank, and the bar smiled. The judge then said:—"We still proceed with the case, gentlemen."

Pretty Good.

A Revolutionary soldier was running for Congress, and his opponent was a young man who had "never been to the wars," and it was a custom of the old soldier to tell of the hardships he had endured. Said he;

"Fellow citizens, I have fought and bled for my country, I have helped whip the British and the Indians. I have slept upon the field of battle with no other covering than the canopy of heaven. I have walked the frozen ground till every footstep was marked with blood."

Just about this time, one of the "sovereigns" who had become greatly interested in his tale of sufferings, walked up in front of the speaker, wiped the tears from his eyes with the extremity of his coat tail, and interrupted him with—

"Didn't you say you had fought the British and the Injuns?"

"Yes sir."

"Did you say you had slept on the ground while serving your country without any kiver?"

"I did."

"Did you say your feet covered the ground you walked with blood?"

"Yes," replied the speaker, exultingly.

"Well, then," said the tearful citizen, as he gave a sigh of pent-up emotions, "I guess I'll vote for t'other fellow, for I'll be darned if you hain't done enough for your country."

How the Panic Affects Butter.

"Thirty-two cents!" echoed a woman yesterday, when her grocer charged that sum for a pound of butter. "Yes, 'um," he replied, with a bland smile. "You see the grocers can't carry much of a reserve, and we can't turn out our collaterals at a sacrifice. If the government calls in the bonds due in 1874, and the imports of bullion tend to ease the money market a little, butter must find its level with everything else. Butter is very panicky just now, but I think the worst is over." She paid the money without further growling.

Short communications and items of news earnestly solicited from friends and patrons.

☞ Anonymous communications are not published.

☞ TAKE NOTICE. ☜

We shall print the PATRIOT on Wednesday morning, next week, as is our usual custom on Thanksgiving week.—Let all advertisers take notice, and hand in their favors as early as Tuesday noon.

LAUNCHED. The new and beautiful three deck ship, built the past season at Quincy Point, at the ship-yard of Deacon George Thomas, who is now in his seventy-eighth year, was very successfully launched on Thur-day last. There was a very large gathering of ladies and gentlemen, from Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, and other places to witness her first dive into the briny deep. Steam-tugs from Boston gave her a start and then she plowed nobly through the elements, nearly upsetting the little boats that had assisted her. The new ship was built upon the same model as the Northern Light; is called the "Modoc" and is owned by Messrs. Isaac Taylor and George Thomas. She is the largest vessel ever built at the Point, her measurement being about 23,000 tons.

LECTURE. The sixth lecture of the temperance course was delivered on Thursday evening, by Rev. P. A. McKenna, to a crowded audience. The lecturer was able and eloquent, and drew the careful attention of the vast audience. He considered the evils of drinking intoxicating liquors of immense magnitude. Ninety out of every hundred in the State Prison at Charlestown, and the State Reform school at Westboro', were carried there by the use, directly or indirectly of intoxicating liquors. He knew these facts to be true from frequent visits to these places. He considered it the duty of every good citizen to do all that lay in his power to stay the flood of young men who are being daily precipitated down the falls of drunkenness. He believed in moral suasion to do the greater part of the work; a little of prohibition might be good.

The singing by Mr. Maynard was excellent.

The next lecture of the course will be by Rev. J. D. Fulton, of New York city, and as Thursday next is Thanksgiving, it will take place on Thursday evening following, Dec. 4th. This lecture is to be in behalf of the Wollaston Society.

IRISH NATIONALITY. A public meeting will be held in Lombard's Hall, on Monday evening next, to consider the present condition of National affairs in Ireland, in connection with the home rule movement.

A GOOD TIME. On Thanksgiving evening the Tiger boys will have their annual ball. These hops always draw a large and pleasant party, and it will be seen by an advertisement that the public are cordially invited to participate in the festivities of the evening, at the Town Hall.

ACCIDENT. A dangerous accident, which might have proved a very serious one, occurred on Copeland street, where Common street crosses it, on Friday evening, of last week. It appears that Mr Richard W. Dexter, accompanied by his son, was driving leisurely along, and as they were passing the crossing a heavy peddler's team drove furiously out from Common street, running Mr. Dexter's buggy down, and making a complete wreck of it. The occupants of the carriage were fortunate in escaping with their lives. The driver of the team was not even man enough to stop and see if assistance was needed, but continued on towards Braintree. Mr. Dexter received some severe injuries about the shoulders and back, and also, an ugly gash on his head, but the boy fortunately escaped.

ON THE WING. Last Monday forenoon the wild geese were on the wing, some twenty-five flocks passing hurriedly over this town. The gunners saluted them on all sides, but they did not seem to care for the honor, but kept on their way, being anxious to get into warmer quarters.

NEW FACTORY. A large three story building, 40 by 100 feet, has recently been raised, boarded and shingled, at the north part of the town, near the "dualin factory" for the purpose of stamping table covers, piano covers, &c.

ACCIDENT. Mr. John B. Lunt, of Braintree, while hanging a sign, at 201 South street, Boston, on Tuesday afternoon, fell from the ladder and fractured his skull. He was conveyed to the City Hospital.

☞ The Bangor trains over the Eastern Railroad ran with snow ploughs on Tuesday, and the morning train was three hours late in Boston. On the Boston, Hartford and Erie Railroad the Southbridge train was two hours late Tuesday. At Webster it encountered a snow-drift three feet deep.

WOOD AUCTION. Mr. Ebenezer Adams will sell wood, at Sheep Rock pasture, on Friday next. Further particulars in next week's paper.

For the Patriot.

BRAINTREE.

The Levee held last week at the Town Hall, by the South Congregational Society passed off in a very satisfactory manner. The entertainments pleased and gratified large audiences and best of all the net proceeds of the Levee were $169. Pretty good for these times.

FIRE. About one o'clock Thursday morning, fire was discovered in the manufactory of S. S. Bradford in the south part of the town. The building with stable attached was entirely consumed.—The dwelling house of Mr. Bradford on the north side of the burnt building, and the new School House on the south side, were saved from the devouring element with slight damage, by the persistent efforts of determined men. No engines were present. Cause unknown.

MORE FIRE. About 10 o'clock, on the same morning the house of Mr. B. Franklin Dyer, on Washington street near the above was found to be on fire, owing to a defect in the chimney. The men who were barely rested from their efforts at the previous fire again assembled, and worked with a will. Two men were severely injured by the breaking of a ladder placed against the burning building. In falling, as the ladder broke, Mr. Charles Hammond had his arm broken, and Mr. Edward Mabury was otherwise severely injured.

Aid was sent for from Weymouth, East Braintree, and Quincy. The Amazon of Weymouth, the Tiger of Quincy, and the Union from East Braintree, responded, but the building was wholly consumed. Much credit is due the Tigers of Quincy for their efforts to subdue the flames. They were obliged to send to Quincy for the W. M. F. Hose as they could not borrow in Braintree.—But they were the last to leave. Success to them, Horace and all.

Query.—should not Braintree organize an efficient Fire Department immediately.

The loss at both fires cannot be less than 6 or 7 thousand dollars perhaps more, partly covered by insurance. D.

Failure.

Among the many failures which have lately agitated the public none has been more seriously felt than the failure of the Faxon Granite Temperance Alliance, of Quincy Point.

Assets:—One half dozen empty half pint flasks; one dozen empty one pint flasks; three empty quart flasks.

Portraits of Johnson, Baker and Warren; and the identical knife with which Old Smith's ram was stabbed.

Liabilities:—Contempt of 3000 people.

QUINCY POINT.

Boss Tweed Convicted.

New York, Nov. 19. At ten o'clock this morning the jury in the Tweed trial came into court and asked for further instructions on the 4th count. Judge Davis explained the charge to be misconduct in a place of trust by certifying to three warrants which he was bound to audit, and reviewed the evidence in support of the allegation, chiefly certificates of audit by the defendant and the sum of over a million dollars, passing it from the proceeds of the warrants to his account, and drawn from the bank, from May to September. After 10 minutes absence, the jury returned a verdict of guilty on all the counts. Tweed and his counsel were very much disappointed at the result, as they had confidently hoped that the jury could not agree upon a verdict.

THE CATHOLIC FAIR. Notwithstanding the dullness of the times, the Catholic Fair has been in a great degree a success. It has been attended and liberally patronized by a good many of our citizens. We understand that quite a lively interest is being created by the vote for the Goldheaded Cane. The voting for the Trumpet opened last evening, 100 votes being deposited for the Vulture, a good start for the Point boys. The Fair will be continued during Thanksgiving week.

☞ Hon. John P. Hale, died at his residence in Dover, N. H., on Wednesday evening.

SEIZURE. A small lot of ale was seized at the saloon of Mr. Charles A. French, on Friday last, by officers Furnald and Clifford. The case was tried on Monday as will be seen by the Court reports.

GREAT SALE. Don't forget the auction sale of houselots and quarry, on Thanksgiving day. For full particulars see advertisement and bills.

MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENTS. Considerable interest is manifested in the proposed musical entertainments, by first-class Boston artists, instrumental and vocal. One of our resident musicians will endeavor to arrange the matter, and to have the tickets, with a reserved seat, fifty cents each. We think all our music-loving citizens would subscribe to a course of six, say once a fortnight, and hope that the plan will be carried out.

SHIPWRECK. The Schooner Robert Raiks of Provincetown, Mass., went to pieces off Nahant, in the severe storm on Monday last. The saddest part of the story is the loss of life of all on board. Captain John Ellis of Provincetown, at which place he left a wife and two children. The mate was John Worth, also of Provincetown. He leaves a wife and three children. The third man was John Corbett and the fourth was John Muzzington. The schooner was built at Scituate, and was the property of E. K Cook of Provincetown. She was valued at $2000 and was not insured.

District Court of East Norfolk.

SATURDAY.

Michael L. Cushing of Weymouth was arraigned for a single sale of liquor, but the witness being too drunk at the time to know whether he paid for it, the defendant was discharged.

Gardner Crane, of Weymouth, on complaint of State Constable Hammond for a single sale of liquor. Pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

MONDAY.

Michael Handly of East Weymouth, was arrested by Constable S. M. Holbrook for being drunk. Plead guilty and paid a fine of $3 and costs.

Joseph Loud, of Randolph, also paid a fine of $3 and costs, for being drunk.

Bridget Breshnahan of Weymouth, was brought into court by State Constable Hammond for selling intoxicating liquors to James M. Richards. Mr. Richards not being present, the case was continued till next Monday morning.

Chas. A. French, of Quincy, was arrested by State Constable Furnald for illegally keeping ale for sale. Pleaded not guilty, but the Judge considered the evidence sufficient and fined him $10 and costs. From which decision he appealed, and was ordered to give sureties in the sum of $100 to appear before the Grand Jury. J. E. Tirrell for deft.

TUESDAY.

A strong extract of the essence of Bradley's Super-phosphate was in the Court room this morning. The perfume was of the purest x x x quality; nearly strong enough to knock a fellow over, and it required a considerable dilution with God's pure air to make it pleasant to the olfactory nerves. The windows were opened and a free breeze was allowed to circulate through the room, which soon revived the Judge sufficiently so that he proceeded with business. William Riley and Michael Howland two employes at Bradley's Works in Weymouth, appeared before the bar of Justice in their working suits for being drunk. Their trial was short, and a fine of $3 and cost was soon imposed on each. Being short of cash, they were sent to Judge Thomas' Headquarters for 30 days. Deputy Sheriff French took the men in charge and started for Dedham and what "Washington" sets out to do he usually accomplishes. But in this duty he wavered and staggered. The dose was too much for him, and on arriving in Boston, he gave his unfortunate individuals in charge of State Constable Furnald, and made tracks for an apothecary store. We learn the Deputy sufficiently recovered so as to be able to be in court the next morning. It is said that Constable Furnald, before leaving Boston, purchased a quart of cologne and two dozen linen handkerchiefs, and by constant labor with the bottle and handkerchiefs was enabled to keep near enough to his prisoners to prevent their escape.

James Martin, of Providence, R. I., was tried on complaint of being drunk in Quincy, Fined $3 and costs. For non-payment of fine and costs was committed to the House of Correction for 30 days.

The case of James D. Fox, of Randolph which had been continued for six weeks, was placed on file by payment of cost.

Thomas King, of Randolph, assault case. Placed on file, by payment of costs.

Winfield Scott Weathee, of Randolph. Arrested by Deputy Sheriff Warren for vagrancy. Sentenced to six months in the House of Correction.

FRIDAY.

James N. Olden of Braintree on complaint of Deputy Sheriff Warren for being a vagrant, and having no employment or visible means of support was sent to the House of Correction for the term of four months.

On complaint of Charles S. Williams for the larceny of one sail, one boom and one mast, the property of Charles H. Williams of Weymouth, Edward Bowye of Quincy was arraigned to which complaint he plead not guilty. Found guilty and sentenced to the House of Correction for six months. Hon. J. Q. Adams for Commonwealth, J. E. Keith for Defendant.

RETURNED A VERDICT. The jury which has been investigating the cause of the death of Mrs. Crie, of Savin Hill, who died last week in a dentist's chair, in Boston, returned a verdict on Thursday evening, that she came to her death by inhaling chloroform, and they take the occasion to caution the public against its use, as there is no safety in using it.

East Milton.

The reading on Wednesday evening in the Congregational Church by the Rev. H. Bygrave was well received and duly appreciated by those present. Mr. Bygrave will deliver his lecture "The Old Country" on Tuesday evening next at the Church. As Mr. Bygrave "knows whereof he affirms" the lecture will be richly worth the admission fee and we bespeak for him a good audience. W.

East Milton, Nov. 20th.

THE VIRGINIUS. The evidence already at hand in the matter of the Virginius has confirmed the opinion of some of the officers of the Government that the Virginius must be conceded to have been a filbuster, and that our flag could not protect her within the marine league of Cuba. It is stated that the Virginius carried both Venezuelan and Cuban colors after leaving this country, although having her original American papers.

Summary of News.

A house in Lenox, Mass., was robbed on Monday evening by three armed men, two of whom guarded the family while the other searched the house.

New York is said to have more idle people to-day than any four cities on the continent.

The Traveller says that this has been the coldest November which Boston people have experienced for twenty-five years.

A runaway horse dashed into a funeral procession, last Monday, in Providence R. I. The hearse was capsized, the coffin thrown out, and the corpse tumbled into the mud of the gutter.

The cow for which forty thousand dollars was paid by an Ehglish lord has been shipped to Liverpool. We should suppose that the lucky man who sold her would get the cream of that bargain.

Deposits of "conscience" money in the United States Treasury during the fiscal year amounts to $25,551.

The total imports of specie at New York last week were $1,276,000.

At a "division" meeting in East Abington last week it was stated that 1151 of the 2128 voter in the town have signed the petition in favor of division.

It is stated that the defalcations of Edwin K. Winship, the broker of New York City who dissappeared several days ago, will amount to fully $350,000.

P. T. Barnum's wife died in New York on the 19th inst. Her husband is in Germany. She was born in Fairfield, Conn., and is 65 years old.

☞ When a discoverer of any scientific subject, asks the co-operation of the learned in science, to test the merit and truth of his discovery by severe tests and practical results, and then to indorse and recommend it, it is fair to presume it is valuable for the purpose intended. Such has been the course pursued by Messrs. Hall & Co., proprietors of Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer. And all those who have tested it among whom we may mention Dr. A. A. Hayes and S. Dana Hayes, Chemists and State Assayers of Massachusetts; Walter Burnham, M. D. Prof. of Surgery in Penn.—University, Philadelphia; Geo. Gray, M. D., Professor of Anatomy and Physiology, asserts it is the best preparation in use for all cutaneous diseases of the scalp. Restores gary hair to its original color, prevents the hair from falling out, creates a new growth. It is certainly worthy of a trial.—Newburyport Herald of Gospel Liberty.

Decrease in the Revenues.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 18. The revenues still continue to fall off, and the recovery from the effects of the panic has not been as rapid as was expected. For the quarter ending September 30, the revenue exceeded the expenditures by six million dollars. During the month of October the revenue fell off three millions, and for this month the decrease will be even much greater than this—probably five millions. Since the first of October the expenditures have exceeded the receipts, and the ratio of this excess is increasing each day. At the same time the estimates of the receipts from customs and from the internal revenue will be less by several millions than last year, while the estimates from the departments will exceed those of last year by about ten millions. These facts are regarded at the Treasury as having a very pointed bearing upon the question of war with Spain, since even if the country remains at peace the annual expenditures must be cut down or taxation increased to meet the current expenses, and in case of war the burden of taxation, in view of the present financial condition of the country, must at once become oppressive.

20 VALUABLE HOUSELOTS!!
AND A
GRANITE QUARRY!
—AT—
AUCTION.
Will be sold at Public Auction, on
Thanksgiving Day,
November 27th, 1873,
At 9 o'clock, A. M., on the premises on Copeland Street, Quincy,
TWENTY VALUABLE HOUSE LOTS AND AN EXCELLENT GRANITE QUARRY.
The property consists of 10 Acres, more or less, situated in the Western part of the town, on Common, West, and Copeland Streets, between two thriving villages, near Churches, Stores, Schools, and within ten minutes' walk of two Railroad Depots.
The lots are very valuable for building purposes, and are sure to double in value in two or three years. As the terms of payment are very easy, this sale offers great inducements to Mechanics and Young Men who desire homes of their own.
At 10 o'clock, or immediately after the sale of House-lots, the QUARRY will be sold. It has 600 feet frontage on Copeland Street, the main avenue connecting Quincy and West Quincy.
The Stone has a splendid color, and the Quarry, with a small outlay, can be made one of the most valuable in Quincy, and is therefore worthy the attention of capitalists or of enterprising men, wishing to engage in the Quarrying business. As there is a great demand for stone on the line of the Old Colony R. R., the Quarry offers rare inducements, being within ten minutes' walk of Quincy Adams Station.
Terms easy. $10 at the time of sale and the balance of the first quarter when the deed is ready. The remainder can remain on mortgage, at 7 3-10 per cent. interest, and payable in three equal annual payments.

The Saturday Evening Post,
A Beautiful Chromo to every Yearly Subscriber.
MAX ADELER, THE GREAT HUMORIST,
A Weekly Contributor.
THE SATURDAY EVENING POST has been the great Literary Weekly for half a century. It publishes Serial after Serial of Love and Adventure—yet does not neglect shorter stories and sketches.—It gives a short Historical Sketch weekly. Max Adeler (the great Humorist,) is a regular contributor.—"Zig," the spiciest of our lady writers, also contributes regularly. Olive King, Daisy Eyebright, Ella Wheeler, &c., &c., are frequent correspondents.
Our premium Chromo for the coming year, is entitled
"One of Life's Happy Hours."
It is a beauty — the work of Sinclair & Co., one of the oldest and most celebrated firms in the country. A copy of this Chromo will be given to every yearly subscriber for 1874.
REMEMBER! The price of THE POST is fifty cents lower to Club subscribers than the prices of the other first-class Weeklies, and yet we give them a Chromo besides!
TERMS—Always in Advance. — One copy (with Chromo,) $3.00. Four copies (and four Chromos,) $8.00. Six copies (and seven Chromos,) $12.00. Eight copies (and eight Chromos,) $16.00. The sender of this last club will be entitled to a copy of THE POST and the Chromo gratis.
One copy of THE POST, ($3.00) and one of ARTHUR'S HOME MAGAZINE ($2.50,) with the Premium Pictures of both periodicals,) will be sent for $4.50.—Ten cents extra must be sent for mailing pictures.)
Ten cents must be sent for every Chromo ordered, to pay the expense of mailing, or 25 cents if the Chromo is desired mounted and on card-board or muslin. Sample numbers sent gratis.

DUXBURY AND COHASSET RAILWAY. The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Duxbury and Cohasset railway company, took place in Boston on Tuesday forenoon, and the old board of directors were continued in office. The road is seventeen and one half miles long and is soon to be extended from Duxbury to Kingston to intercept the Old Colony, has cost $388,530.31, and the proposed extension will be made at an expense of about $70,000; $40,000 of which the town of Plymouth will subscribe. During the year just closed the expenses of the road have been $38,082.83, and the income $36,083.70.

CONTRACTS BETWEEN HUSBAND AND WIFE. Anna B. Bassett, of Boston, sued her husband to recover six hundred and twenty dollars which she "loaned" him after their marriage in 1866, the parties having separated in 1869, but lost her case, as no contract between husband and wife for the payment of money has any validity in law.

THE SHAKERS. The Shakers originated in England about the year 1770, though now confined solely to the United States. They number between five and six thousand, and call themselves the "United Society of Believers in Christ's Second Appearing." They also believe that Christ has appeared, and the command to multiply has ceased.

☞ Some years ago Upper Egypt had only five or six rainy days in the course of a year; but the Pasha planted millions of trees, and the annual average is now forty-six days of rain, by which the country has been incalculably benefited.

A SAD STORY. The pathetic story contained in the old ballad, "The Mistletoe Bough," had somewhat a parallel at Cedar Rapids, Mich. A Mrs. Smith while visiting her mother in that city missed her infant son, about eighteen months old, when she prepared to depart. They searched the house and at last found the child dead in a trunk. Like the hapless bride in the old song the child had entered the trunk only to meet its death. The heavy lid had fallen upon its neck and had broken the spinal vertebrae. The unfortunate mother became almost insane over the event, and her condition at last accounts was precarious owing to the excess of her grief.

Marriages.

In this town, Nov. 17th, by the Rev. R. H. Howe, Mr. Edward Farmer to Miss Fanny E. Doherty, both of Quincy.

Nov. 20th, at the residence of Dr. Gilbert, by Rev. Edward Norton, Mr. Albert Francis Gilbert to Miss Arabella Everett Savage, both of Quincy.

Deaths.

In this town, Nov. 20th, Miss Lottie L. Packard, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Packard and the late George Packard, aged 22 years.

Funeral at the house of Mr. Asa Pope at 2 o'clock to-day. Relatives and friends are invited without further notice.

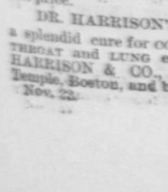

"Gone in the summer of her life,
Gone, in her purity to rest;
Gone from this world of pain and strife,
Gone to her home among the blest.
Angels will welcome her above,
Where sorrow shall enter nevermore:
Gone where an angel father's love
Shall greet her upon the golden shore.

Fold her white hands across her breast,
Smooth from her brow her waving hair:
Close the sweet eyes in silent rest,
Shut her cold lips with gentle care.
Gone to a home of joy above,
Where angels their vigils o'er her keep.—
Death is Eternal Life and Love,
Why then should mortals ever weep?

Nov. 16th, Clara M. daughter of Mr. Wm. E. and Mrs. Anna M. Cobbett, aged 5 months.

MR. J. B. STETSON

CAN receive a few more Quincy pupils, in addition to his large list already underway. — The WINTER TERM will begin on the 17th instant, and will be Twenty Lessons in length, as in Boston and elsewhere; and the price reduced to THIRTY DOLLARS. One or two lessons a week, as prefered. No charge for music. Classes of two or three can be formed by pupils themselves, at same rate, (an hour and a half then given.)—This plan should become popular, as it is far superior to the conservatory system.

One hour daily practice required.

Piano and Singing Lessons both given, if desired, and without extra charge.

☞ Pupils can begin at any time.

CATARRH!

A Woman Having Catar 35 Years, Cured.

And Droppings in Throat, Chokings, Stranglings, Pains in the Side, Loins, Headache, Dizziness and General Weakness, Cured by less than Three Bottles of

CONSTITUTIONAL

CATARRH REMEDY.

To Messrs. Littlefield & Co., Proprietors of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, Manchester, N. H.:

I reside at Manchester, N. H., and previously resided at Henniker, and am a native of Weare, this State. I have had Catarrh twenty-five years, ever since I was 19 years old; had it bad all the time. It run all that period, and at nights it would fill up and drop down in my throat, causing a feeling of choking, so that I would spring up in bed to save myself from strangulation. It affected my head so that I felt confused, and was troubled with severe headache at intervals, for a week at a time. I also had bad pains in my shoulders, back, and kidneys, from which I suffered immensely. So bad were they, that a year ago last summer I was obliged to lie in bed most of the time for three months. I have tried all kinds of Snuff and Catarrh remedies with no particular benefit, and consulted physicians. I had a hacking cough. I began to take the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy last August. I began to grow better before finishing the first bottle. I am now on the third bottle. My Catarrh is cured; my health is restored. I have no pains, aches, or cough. My whole system is made over new. I know it is this medicine that has rescued me from intense suffering and almost the grave. I am now able to do the hardest work and bear the greatest exposure, and feel that I cannot say too much in favor of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

MRS. E. J. FLANDERS.

Manchester, N. H., Feb. 1, 1871.

I am 52 years old, have had the Catarrh ever since I was eighteen years old, and headache all the time; have suffered beyond description with running at the nose, droppings in the throat, chokings and stranglings. Have tried any quantity of Catarrh Remedies, but have found no relief till I tried your Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, six months ago, I found immediate relief.

Catarrh and all its attendant evils have left, Headache, Pains in the loins and Back, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, and General Weakness. Less than three bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy have cured me. I have not been so well since I can remember as now. I feel as if I could not say too much for the medicine, or thank God too heartily that through its instrumentality I have been restored to health.

JACOB J. ABBOTT.

Hundreds of cases of a similar nature cured within the last year. Snuffs and Lotions are only temporary relief. The CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY strikes at the root, builds up the constitution, makes it new, and drives away Catarrh and all diseases of the mucous membranes and their attendant pains and aches, pertaining to head, back, shoulders, kidneys, and throat.

Price $1 per Bottle. Sold by all Druggists. A Pamphlet of 32 pages, giving a Treatise on Catarrh, and containing innumerable cases of cures, sent FREE, by addressing the Proprietors,

Poetry.

Lost and Found.

A roof so tight, and a heart so bright,
In the time of the rain and frost,
And a nice soft bed for his weary head—
Ah! these are what he has lost!

Neighbors and friends to make him amends,
When the sky with clouds was crossed,
And the honor and trust of the good and just—
Ah! these are what he has lost!

A wife whose love shone rubies above,
When his heart was torn and tossed:
And children whose ways reflected his praise—
Ah! those are what he has lost!

A purse without gold, a heart that is cold,
And a head that aches like a wound;
The signs of disgrace in his eyes and face—
Ah! these are what he has found!

A mind that is wrecked by his own neglect,
And a will evil habit has bound;
A tongue slow to speak and a hand that is weak—
Ah! these are what he has found!

Some ragged clothes, and a great red nose,
And the right to be called a sot;
A big brown jug, and a pewter pint mug—
Ah! these are what he has got!

Home, Farm and Garden.

Three Tons of Hay Per Acre.

Mr. George Geddes reports that he cut and drew eighty loads of timothy and clover hay from nineteen acres, and that an average load weighed 1,500 pounds; thus the whole field must have yielded three tons per acre. He also reports Mr. Swaby, of Seneca Falls, as having drawn forty loads from twelve acres of clover. These were certainly fine crops, but it must be remembered that hay as drawn from the field will shrink from ten to twenty per cent. and that these three tons will not weigh out more than two and one-half tons, at most, in winter.—Mr. Geddes also cut a second crop of clover seed of three to six bushels an acre. He thinks the land can stand this sort of cropping by making clover and timothy the principal crop to be fed out on the farm or pastured off year after year. He instances the fact that, probably, this crop on this nineteen acres is the largest that has ever been cut on it.

We doubt the soundness of this theory, whatever may be the fact of this particular piece of land. There must certainly be carried off in seed and flesh of animals much fertility, and this is not replaced by the manure returned. This land, by good cultivation, may have abundant fertility to supply crops for a life time, but the end must come unless the mineral constituents are returned, in some form, to the soil.—Rural Home.

Fruit in Our Rooms.

We should be chary of keeping ripe fruit in our sitting rooms, and especially beware of laying it about a sick chamber for any length of time. The complaint which some people make about a faint sensation in the presence of fruit is not fanciful, for two German chemists have shown that from the moment of plucking apples, cherries, currants, and other fruits, they are subject to incessant transformation. At first they absorb oxygen, thus robbing the surrounding air of its vital element. Then they envolve carbonic acid, and this in far greater volume than the purer gas is absorbed. Thus we have poison given us in place of pure air, with compound interest.—California Horticulturist.

Leather Bits for Horses.

Two years ago, the Rural New Yorker published an article urging farmers to substitute leather for metallic bits in winter as a matter of human treatment. A lady calls our attention again to the article and urges us to repeat the advice, and protect their horses from suffering, and the owners from a loss which results it the animal's mouth is made sore by frozen bits. We hope this will be all the reminder needed. The harness maker can make a leather bit for fifty cents that will in most cases serve the same purpose as an iron one; and every man with any regard for his horse will see to it that his animal is protected from suffering from frozen iron bits—Rural New Yorker.

☞ A man in Randolph claims to have raised a 3 3-4 pounds Davis seedling. This is a great year for vegetables, or a year for great vegetables, whichever way you please.

☞ Mr. William B. Seavey of Abington, has this season raised 310 pounds of potatoes from six pounds of seed, of the "Late Rose" variety. Beat this who can.

☞ California pays $1,000,000 a year to Scotland for wheat bags.

Anecdotes.

Parson Thomas, of Dayton, O., a D. D. of good repute and fine quality, had a son of sprightly parts and progressive ideas. This son had been visiting at the house of a female relation, where he took some primary lessons in the history of the American Revolution, and how the Americans whipped the Britishers. The lad returned home full of his new subject, and at the tea table said to his father:

"Pa, be you a Britisher?"

"Yes, my son; I was born in England?"

"Well, we whipped you!" retorted the youngster.

A sight-seer on horseback, meeting a negro lad not far from Petersburg, asked him, "Am I half way to Richmond?"

"Please, Massa," said the boy, "do you know where you cum frum?"

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are of greater real value to mankind than this effectual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that CHERRY PECTORAL will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power, and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, CHERRY PECTORAL is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Poetry.

For the Patriot.

Young America's Autumn Reverie

BY DR. MCFOSSIL.

See those blossoms faded,
On life's sultry plain;
Soon you'll wilt as they did,
Ne'er to bloom again.
Yonder rose decaying,
Though it has no tongue,
Seems as though 'twere saying,
"Go it while you're young!"

Bleak winds of November,
Autumn's falling leaf,
Warn us to remember,
Life at most is brief;
In their mournful sighing,
Requiem bells are rung,
Withered leaves seem crying,
"Go it while you're young!"

Hopes we fondly cherish,
Quickly fade away,
Friends and loved ones perish,
As a winter day;
Bitter disappointments,
All through life are flung,
Then improve the moments—
"Go it while you're young!"

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

SPICED APPLES. Eight pounds of apples, pared, four pounds of sugar, one quart of vinegar, one ounce stick cinnamon, half-ounce of cloves. Boil the sugar, vinegar, and spices together; put in the apples when boiling, and let them remain until tender, about twenty minutes. Take them out, and put them in a jar. Boil down the syrup until it is thick, and pour it over.

CAKE WITH ALMONDS. Pound two ounces of sweet blanched almonds with two ounces of fine white sugar. Mix in a bowl two ounces of sugar and four yolks of eggs. Mix the almond paste into the bowl little by little. The almonds may be blanched by being dipped in boiling water, when they peel easily.—The four whites beat to a stiff froth and mix in well with the rest. Mix in four ounces of flour, sifted, and dried in a gentle heat. Put all in a butter-greased mould. Put it in the oven. It need not be very quick.

CURE OF STAMMERING. Keep the teeth close together, and before attempting to speak, inspire deeply; then give time for quiet utterance, and after a very slight practice, the hesitation will be relieved. No spasmodic action of the lower jaw must be permitted to separate the teeth when speaking. This plan, regularly carried out for six months will insure success.

WAITING FOR A GIFT. Salesman ma'am; we are selling these goods less than cost, and if they are not all sold before the first of the month they will be given away." Sharp Customer—"Bedad, thin, I'll wait until afther the "fust" afore I make any purchases."

☞ It is very strange no one will be contented to take experience at second hand. They must buy it for themselves and sometimes pay very dear for it before they profit by its lessons.

☞ "It's a great blessing to possess what one wishes," said some one to an ancient philosopher, who replied: "It's a great blessing still, not to desire what one does not possess."

☞ He who, by his principles or practice, corrupt the manners and morals of the rising generation will reap a terrible harvest of woe. Better for such a man if he had never been born.

☞ Life has its thorns in every position, but the consciousness of having used one's powers, and through life endeavors to promote the happiness and good will of our fellow-beings, is a good comfort when we find the thorns lying thickly scattered around us.

☞ An old lady who pretends to "know all about it," says the only way to prevent steamboat explosions is to make the engineers "bile their water on shore." In her opinion, "all the bustin' is done by cooking the steam on board the boat."

☞ "Is your brother-in-law really such a lazy man?" asked one gentleman of another. "Lazy!" was the reply, "why he's so lazy that he has an artist employed by the month to draw his breath with a crayon."

☞ A widow, at Lynn, Mass., mortgaged her house and lot, invested $400 in a lottery, and didn't draw a cent. She is now making linen coats at forty cents each.

☞ A long tongue is even harder to conceal than a long nose.

☞ "Get out of my way—what are you good for?" said a cross old man to a little, bright-eyed urchin who happened to stand in the way. The little fellow, as he stepped one side, replied very gently: "They make men of such things as we are."

☞ If you break your arm, don't use a gin-sling.

Miscellany.

"Two Thanksgivings."

"To be or not to be, that is the question. Is Miss Lawyer to be my wife or am I to stand aside and allow this meek Richard Byrne to carry her off before my eyes? Ay! that is the question, and one that is easily answered. Byrne shall not win the heiress and I will!

"Now, how to do it? Get rid of Byrne? Ay! that is the plan, and I must be speedy about it or my chance will be gone, for I have watched too closely not to feel assured that Miss Lawyer sees his love for her and fancies she loves him in return. Let him but speak, and away go my hopes. 'Tis lucky that Byrne has so unsuspectingly asked my influence to secure him a situation, and still more lucky that my uncle is in urgent need of just such a man as he. But I must first administer a bitter pill to him, to insure his accepting the position. Ha! here he comes! The stars are propitious."

And the young man of whose soliloquy we have been unseen hearers, advanced with easy, self assured gait, to meet the new comer, whose busy thoughts had not as yet allowed him to discover the former's proximity.

"Hello! Byrne! wither away so fast! Wake up, my man. A penny for your thoughts! They must be important ones that could induce you to pass your friends by in this cavalier manner. Whither away, to the Lawyer mansion I presume?"

"Yes, you are right there, Carter," was the reply. "And I think I shall not come far from the truth if I surmise that such is also your destination."

"A shrewd guess, Byrne! yes, I received a pressing invitation from Mr. Lawyer to attend his daughter's Thanksgiving party to night. I had almost rather he had not asked me, for I had made another engagement, and I saw Miss Lawyer herself only this afternoon. Apropos of this subject my dear fellow let me whisper it in your ear as a secret, (for the present, at least,) that our fair hostess does not altogether despise the impression she has made upon my heart, and so—you see, Byrne,— under the circumstances, it is no less a duty than pleasure to accept Mr. Lawyer's invitation, for it well becomes a would-be son-in-law to keep in the good graces of his hoped-for father-in-law. Annie—Miss Lawyer, I should say—will never yield her hand, even though her heart has gone before it, unless her father approves her choice. Why what is the matter, Byrne, are you ill? You look as white as a ghost."

"I—I felt badly for an instant," answered his companion, in a low husky voice. "I think I will go back to my lodgings,—I feel better now, only a little shaken."

But Will Carter insisted upon accompanying his friend home, his face and lips bespeaking the deepest sympathy with his sufferings, while (alas! that such things can be) his heart was filled with a savage delight that his first blow had struck so deeply into the corner stone of his companion's future peace.

They looked much alike, these two—indeed there was a slight relationship between them—both possessed the same straight stalwart form, the same fine features, and dark luminous eyes that flashed or melted even as the heart should move them.

But widely different to the close observer was the abiding expression of those two countenances, the one close and subtle, never fully meeting your gaze, the other open and generous, with the clear eyes looking candidly into your own in fearless confidence.

"And now, Carter," said Byrne as he sank into a chair in his own cheerful room, "with thanks for your kindness, I must insist upon your leaving me at once.—Perhaps I will follow later in the evening."

"I will go then, as I see you are really better. Oh! by-the-way I had almost forgotton that I have a situation in view for you. I doubt if you will accept it, though. It is to go out to Bombay to look after the affairs of one of our large business houses. It is almost out of the world, an unhealthy place, and if you accepted you would have to sail to-morrow. You see the firm had an agent all ready to go out (as they thought) and of course made their arrangements accordingly; but now, just on the point of sailing, he has thrown up the situation. My Uncle Barber is the head of the firm, and he offers a most liberal salary if a suitable man can be found to go out in this fickle agent's stead. This, the large salary, is the only favorable point I see in the offer."

"I will take it!" exclaimed Richard Byrne, his face flushing with a sudden resolution. "Give me your uncle's address I will go at once to his house and tell him so. I have no ties to keep me here: no one will miss me. What matters it whether I go to India, or out of the world entirely! Not a word, Carter, I am resolved. Go you now to the Thanksgiving Party—you will be missed. I will follow and bid—them all farewell, after I have seen your uncle."

Two hours subsequently Byrne entered the rich broker's beautiful mansion, and wended his way towards the brilliantly lighted parlors.

As he paused an instant in the doorway, every eye in the room was turned upon him, and a laughing sprite of some ten summers advanced from the blazing grate around which were gathered about twenty young persons, dragging with her a half laughing, half embarrassed captive.

"Here, Mr. Byrne, take cousin Annie. She put a chicken bone over the door, and so she belongs to you. Here now, cousin, come along; don't make believe shy, or you'll make me tear my dress, and then I'll catch it! Come on you know you like Mr. Byrne, I heard you say so, when Uncle Peter asked you. Oh you needn't get so red, it's nothin' to be ashamed of! Why I like him too. There now, sir, you've got her, hold on tight! She's awful rickety."

A burst of laughter greeted this juvenile sally, under cover of which our young friend conducted his blushing hostess to a seat and then took his station at her side.

She was a winsome creature of slight delicate figure, with dark eyes, clustering brown ringlets, and a face ever attractive, but doubly so to-night, it seemed to Richard Byrne, as he gazed down upon her with a bitter, gnawing pain in his heart.

He had so hoped to win her sweet beauty and loving heart for his own—had almost suffered himself to believe that she was not wholly indifferent to him who had poured out upon her all the wealth of love of which his great nature was capable.

But she had chosen another, and he could only pray that she might be happy with him, as happy as he himself would have made her.

He gazed down upon her, and then, with a mighty effort, cast all thought from him, plunging into the evening's gayeties with an energy that rendered the gayest still more mirthful, and caused more than one to gaze on him with unmixed surprise.

What good fortune had befallen the young man, that his usual cheerful gravity was so entirely lost?

Good fortune? Ah, me! how blind are we! Reader, have you never watched a favorite flower, carefully, day by day? have you not rejoiced in its beauty, and then—have you not seen it fade and die? And when you examined into the cause of its blight, did you not find a hidden worm preying at its heart?

Thus is it often with man; the face may wear a smile, yet all the while grief lies hidden and anguish is fiercely burning within—all the more hotly, perchance, that it finds no outlet.

So was it now with the young man's unwonted mirth.

He scarcely addressed one word to his young hostess, certainly no more than politeness required; and not until he rose to depart—when all save himself had gone—did he refer to his swift-coming voyage.

Even then he hesitated, his trembling hand upon the door, but he braced himself for one more trial.

"Miss Lawyer," he said, in a low rapid tone, "I must bid you farewell for a long period—perhaps forever. I sail to-morrow for India. Farewell; and may God bless you! Do not totally forget me."

And then he turned and fled, fearful to trust his strength one instant longer.

He did not even pause for a single last glance into the face he loved so well; ah! had he but done so!

But it is ever thus; how oft is happiness within our grasp, and we knowing it not, let it slip from us, perchance forever.

Two years have passed away, and again we look in upon Annie Lawyer no longer the rich man's heiress, but "only a governess."

A strange freak of fortune, but, as the young girl had lately learned to believe, not wholly without its meed of good.

Two years since she had given her last Thanksgiving party—she, the heiress—and now it was Thanksgiving evening again, and she was a penniless orphan, while her beloved father lay sleeping quietly in his grave.

So now we find her established as governess in a beautiful country mansion, and while she sits thinking of these things in the solitude of her cheerful apartment, her young charges are in the full tide of glee over their merry games.

Early that morning they had borne a Thanksgiving dinner to a poor gypsy woman who lived close by, and in response to their eager inquiries, she had assured them that all "charms" worked as well on the evening of Thanksgiving day as at any other time.

So now we find the play-room all aglow with lights, and four young roguish faces brimful of fun, as they are playing tricks with raisins, paper and cold tea.

A glance at the clock told her that it was time for the young misses to retire, and Annie at once started for the play-room.

"Why, children! what are you doing?

And the young governess paused in the doorway, with a mixture of surprise and amusement expressed in her gentle features.

"Only trying charms said David."

"It is nearly nine o'clock, girls, and your mamma will think you ought to be in bed, I know."

"Oh! no, no, Miss Annie," pleaded Katie, we want to do just one thing more. Bridget has cooked us some eggs, (and if you'll let us,) we're going to eat them, and go down to the old oak tree by the gate, and then we've got to turn our backs to the gate, and look over our shoulders just as far behind us as we can."

"Well, and what will happen then?

"Why, we'll see the man we are to marry some day, (when we're grown up.) Oh! Miss Annie, can't we, and won't you go with us? We're just a leetle bit afraid, for the moon makes such queer shadows among the trees, see!

And Stine drew aside the curtain revealing a flood of pale light streaming down upon the woods and fields with which the house was surrounded.

"Very well, I will go with you.

Arrived at the destination, the children ranged themselves beneath the old oak tree, their backs towards the gate.

She was startled by a shrill scream from her young friends as they rushed in frantic haste towards the house.

"Miss Lawyer, Annie have I found you at last."

And ere Annie could speak, her hands were held in a firm grasp, and Richard Byrne was looking down into her agitated face.

"Do not send me away" he exclaimed passionately." Let me tell you my story first, and then do with me as you will! This night two years ago was the most bitter in all my life, for then I heard from the lips of William Carter that you favored his suit—in short, that your father's consent only was needed to insure your speedy union. Like cold steel those words struck into my heart, and in wild despair I accepted on the spot a situation which Carter, almost in the same breath, told me he had obtained for me, one which required me to sail for India on the following day.

At length I received a letter from Carter, written on his death-bed, confessing that the hope of securing you and your wealth for himself, had led to his duplicity towards me. Every word he had said concerning you was false. He implored my forgiveness, and in conclusion besought me to return to you, assuring me that I would not be unwelcome. Annie, I have travelled night and day to find you, and lay my heart at your feet.

Two weeks later there was a quiet wedding in the grand parlor of the rambling old mansion, and while David stood proudly by, as groomsman, the three little girls looked eagerly on.

"Wasn't Miss Annie lucky to catch a beau in real earnest on Thanksgiving evening," whispered Katie. "I wonder if I'll ever catch a real beau. I guess I will do like Miss Annie; I won't try to catch one, and then maybe I'll get him all the sooner. "The old gypsy woman told the truth, didn't she, about the charms working just as well on Thanksgiving Day as on Halloween? And better too, I think."

The Importance of Good Manners.

In illustration of the importance of good manners, a contemporary recalls an incident which occurred at a Scotch telegraph office some years ago. Lord Russell was the Minister in attendance upon her Majesty at Balmoral, and one evening there came a messenger to Aboyne—a little old man, buried in a great coat, with a telegram from his Lordship to one of his Ministerial colleagues in London. The message was handed to the clerk in charge, a peremptory person, who, seeing that it did not bear a signature—it was in the days of the old companies, when a signature was necessary—threw it contemptuously back, with the authoritative command, "Put your name to it; it's a pity your master doesn't know how to send a telegram!" The name was added and the message handed back. "Why, you can't write either!" cried the enraged clerk, after vainly endeavoring to make out the signature. "Here, let me do it. What's your name?" "My name," said the little old messenger, very deliberately, "is John Russell." It was the veritable Lord John Russell himself, and the unhappy clerk was removed from Aboyne forthwith.

☞ Official statistics show that more money was spent for tobacco in the United States during 1871, than for bread—the staff of life. $350,000,000 for tobacco in its various forms. $200,000,000 for flour within the year!

Thanksgiving.

The observance of this annual festival approaches rapidly, and in a few hours we shall have met together, families and friends and communities, to offer gratitude and praise to Almighty God for his goodness to us. The whole world does not afford a more affecting scene than a New England thanksgiving. Sons and daughters and brothers and sisters, who have been separated by toil and the common course of human life, gather together around the family hearth, with three or four generations, to feast upon the plenty of autumn, and thank God, with no ordinary emotion, that he has bestowed so many good things for the social, moral, and corporeal comfort of man. It is an institution of our pious Puritan fathers, which binds our people together by a common tie of brotherhood and love; which nourishes our devotional and charitable feelings, and leads us gently on, hand in hand, with kindred and countrymen, to virtue, peace and heaven. But another tendency of this institution is that it shows our dependence on a higher Being, and leads us to contemplate the wants of those brethren of the great human family and fellows of our own neighborhood, who have nothing of worldly goods and little of earthly comforts for which they can thank God.

There will be religious services in the Congregational Church at 11 o'clock. Sermon by the pastor, Rev. Edward Norton. At Christ Church at 10 1-2 o'clock.

We fail to learn of any rural sports, or out-of-door amusements to entertain "Young America" and even the good skating enjoyed on Saturday last by the boys, was nearly or quite destroyed by the snow and rain on Monday and Tuesday, but the indications now are that there will be a plenty of ice to-morrow.

DANCING SCHOOL. Some of the former pupils of Russ B. Walker, Esq. being desirous of enjoying the pleasures of a social dance, have persuaded him to visit this town, for the purpose of opening, one of his model schools for dancing and manners. Mr. Walker is so well known to our citizens, that he needs no introduction from us, but he invites his young friends to be on hand, on Friday evening, Nov. 28, when a general good time may be expected.

THE ANNEXATION CASES. The petitioners and respondents on the injunction case, on the annexation of Charlestown and West Roxbury have had a hearing before Judge Endicott.

The County of Norfolk appeared by Mr. Olney and A. A. French, and filed the answer of the Norfolk County Commissioners, which admits the averment of facts in the petition as true. They further answer that the population of Norfolk county is 90,000 and the valuation about ninety millions; that the population of West Roxbury is 9000, and its valuation about fifteen millions. They allege that the act is unconstitutional, and therefore protest that it should not be enforced, as far as the county of Norfolk is concerned.

Judge Abbott stated that in the Charlestown case the city substantially admitted all the facts both in the original petition and the amendment. The answer of the city of Charlestown admits the facts and denies the conclusion of the petition for an injunction.

The Chief Justice then came in and Judge Abbott stated the necessity for a postponement of the case, in order for the counsel to prepare their briefs and also the importance of its being heard at this term of the Court, inasmuch as a third of the population and half the property of the Commonwealth was interested in the decision of the case.

THE OLD COLONY RAILROAD. The annual report of the officers of the Old Colony Railroad was issued on the 15th, for the year ending Sept. 30, 1873. The following are the principal statistics:—

The gross receipts were $2,377,251-82; the expenses $1,665,213 03, leaving the net earnings $712,638 79. The amount of the income account, including previous year's balance is $1,059,761 21, and the present balance is $611,502 21. Number of passengers carried the past year, 4,256,840; number of tons of merchandise carried the past year, 625,252; number of miles run by passenger trains, 880,528; by freight trains, 396,972; by gravel trains, etc., 76,974; number of miles run one year to Sept. 30, 1873, 1,354,474; number run one year to Sept. 30, 1872, 1,321,359; increase in miles run, 33,115. The results of the purchase of the Cape Cod Railroad have been as satisfactory as was expected. Its cost, including the completion of the Wood's Hole Railroad and the extension to Provincetown, has somewhat exceeded the estimates, being in all about $2,100,000. The business shows a fair increase during the past year, and indicates a growing tendency in the community to occupy the lands of the Cape for Summer resorts. The road has been extended to Provincetown, about sixteen miles, at a cost of 304,423 80—estimated completion, $27,513. This portion of the railroad was opened to public travel in July, and while it has not yet affected to any great extent the earnings of the company, it is hoped that it will form a valuable addition to the property.

Town Meeting.

At the Town Meeting held on Monday last, John Quincy Adams, Esq., was elected Moderator.

It was voted, that the Selectmen and Engineers of the Fire Department be authorized to remove the Hose House to land of William Panton, on Hancock street, if they consider it advisable so to do, and if not advisable, to report some suitable location, for consideration, at some future town meeting.

Voted To authorize the Selectmen and Chief Engineer of the Fire Department to build two Reservoirs, of the capacity of the present ones,—one at the junction of Hancock and Adams streets, and one on Washington street, between the present Reservoir and the Canal.

Voted, To accept the report of the Selectmen, laying out a town-way from Hancock street to land of Jas. Edwards. The above is now known as Hancock Court, and is the street on which Mr. Wm. Parker and Mr. Joseph W. Lombard reside.

Voted, That this meeting be dissolved.

Statistics of Norfolk County.

From the returns made to the Secretary of the State, by the assessors of the different towns and cities, we glean the following statistics of Norfolk County, which shows an increase and gain in everything but personal estate and kine.—The figures are these:

Polls, 25,013, an increase of 1001; personal estate, $34,850,859, a decrease of $3 689,768; real estate, $77,320,976, an increase of $3,832,985; total, $112,956, an increase of $928,376; taxes collected, $1,350,029, an increase of $83,000; dwellings, 16,929, an increase of 666; horses, 9025, an increase of 528; cows, 9518, a decrease of 530; sheep, 296, and acres taxed, 241,081, a slight increase.—Milton pays $9 on $1000; West Roxbury, $8.60; Canton, $9.20 and Holbrook $10. The only towns that rise above $8 00 are Bellingham, Dover, Franklin, and Stoughton, the last being $18, and Foxborough and Medway $21. The taxes of Brookline are but little lower than those of Boston, as will be seen by the following statistics of the half-a-dozen towns having the heaviest total valuations:

	Polls.	Personal.	Real.	Rate.
Brookline,	1665	10,585,900	17,800,100	11.50
Dedham,	1579	2,206,029	3,751,956	13.50
Hyde Park,	1817	901,636	6,608,179	12.50
Milton,	718	3,249,800	2,981,600	9.00
Needham,	1138	962,770	3,310,456	12.50
W. Roxbury,	2315	5,894,259	16,254,350	8.60
Weymouth,	2684	1,974,583	3,555,610	14.00
Quincy,	2023	1,640,246	5,024,500	17.00

This shows a decrease in personal estate of a couple of millions, a large gain in real, and an increase of about 900 in polls. The real estate of Brookline was was nearly unchanged, but her personal estate decreased over a million. The taxes raised in Brookline were $330,804; Dedham, 83,591; Hyde Park 97,100; Milton, 857,518; Needham, $55,691; West Roxbury, $190,477; Weymouth, $85,469.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

With the advice and consent of the Council, THURSDAY, the 27th day of November, is hereby designated for observance by the people of this Commonwealth as a day of Thanksgiving to God the Creator and Preserver, for the favor shown unto us during the year. This public and united recognition and acknowledgement of human dependence upon Infinite power is such a proper and dutiful act that we ought to be grateful for the adoption by the nation of a custom established by the earliest settlers of our Massachusetts Colonies. As we gather in our homes and at our places of worship on the day appointed, let us specially remember with humble and hearty thanks—

That we have been given another year of opportunity for doing good, and that such a large degree of health has generally prevailed among our citizens:

That most of our industries have prospered, that our storehouses are filled with an abundant harvest, and that we have suffered so little from the great fire in our chief city;

That broader and more systematic efforts than hereto fore have been made to raise the fallen, comfort the distressed, succor the unfortunate, and rescue those who are pursuing careers of vice and crime;

That our country abides in the love of peace and concord, and there is a lively disposition among our people toward the reform of abuses, and that they manifest an enlarged purpose to secure the proper discharge of official trusts.

And as we offer up our thanksgivings, and petition that the stroke of financial disaster may fall lightly upon our heads let us not forget to give tangible evidence that we remember the suffering and the needy, whose numbers are not likely to decrease during the winter near at hand. Let us cultivate that beneficent spirit which has its origin in the fountain of all good, and promote Christian fellowship by ministering to those of our neighbors on whom the burdens of life lie heavily. With gratitude for the mercies of the past, let us seek wisdom from above to guide us in the future, that our feet may be kept in the paths of rectitude, and that our days may be a blessing to ourselves and those with whom we associate.

Wm. M. Tweed Sentenced.

Boss Tweed, the notorious rascal, who has been so closely allied with the large frauds and corruptions of New York city, has been found guilty, and was sentenced on Saturday last, by Judge Davis, to imprisoment for twelve years in the County jail, in Ludlow street, and a fine of $12.750.06.

The following is a synopsis of the

SENTENCE:

On the 4th specification, to one year's imprisonment and $250 fine; on the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th one year and $250 fine; on the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th, one year and $250 fine; on the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th, one year and $250 fine; on the 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th, one year and $250 fine; on the 21st, 22d, 23d and 24th, one year and $250 fine; on the 25th, 26th, 27th and 28th, one year and $250 fine; on the 29th, 30th, 31st and 32d, one year and $250 fine; on the 33d, 34th, 35th and 36th, one year and $250 fine; on the 213, 214th, 225th and 216th, one year and $250 fine; on the 37th, 38th, 39th and 40th, one year and $250 fine; on the 69th, 70th, 71st and 72d, one year and $250 fine; on each four specifications from the 41st to the 60th, $250 fine; on each four specfications from the 73d to the 128th, $250 fine; on each four specifications from the 73d to the 128th, $250 fine; on each four specifications from the 129th to the 200th, $250 fine; on the 65th, 66th, 67th and 68th, 250 fine; on the 1st, 2d and 3d, 6 cents fine.

The prisoner bore it all without flinching. His son daughter and niece, who sat by his side, sobbed aloud as each sentence fell upon their ears.

Fortunately for him many thoughtful steps have been taken to mitigate the hardships and to relieve the inevitable ennui even of a twelve years residence in Ludlow street jail. The unwilling dweller therein may have every luxury that he can buy, except liberty. Stokes enjoyed them all. The cell cannot only be the abode of a conscience free of offence, but it may be made a very comfortable apartment. Mr. Tweed has money,—the very same which he was audaciously accused of stealing,—and he can employ as much of it as he may desire, though excluded from the brilliant society which he has graced in time past.

Tweed is now sixty-six years of age. He will therefore be seventy-nine years old at the expiration of his punishment. Curiously enough the name "William M. Tweed" is already inscribed on a marble slab on the main gateway of the jail where it was placed years ago, when the Board of Supervisors, of which he was then a member, erected the building.

The "Boss" will not therefore be at the expense of a door-plate for his future residence.

☞ We have received several lengthy communications, but are obliged to omit them this week,

MAMMOTH CHEESE. Gass, Doe & Chapin exhibit at their stall, 61 and 63 Quincy market, an Ohio cheese, weighing 4081 pounds (sworn weight, City Scales), which is to be cut up for Christmas. Charles Gass, the head of the firm, was a boy raised in Quincy. The firm does a large business.

A NEW AND DESIRABLE BRANCH.—At the new store, next to Mr. Veazie's apothecary shop, you can get stamping for embroidering or braiding, done as well and cheap as in the city, which announcement the ladies of Quincy will be glad to hear; also, kid gloves and slippers can be cleaned, and feathers dyed and curled in a superior manner.

AUCTION. Joseph W. Lombard, Esq. will deliver a fine oration on Thanksgiving forenoon, on Copeland street.—Seats free. The public are invited.—Twenty house-lots and a quarry are the subject of the oration. See advertisement.

WEYMOUTH. At a town meeting in Weymouth recently a committee was appointed to concert measures for the celebration of the 250th anniversary of that town, and also to employ a competent person to prepare a history of the town. Weymouth has the honor of being the second oldest town in the State.

☞ Jeremiah Sweeney of Hyde Park was arrested and sent to Dedham jail, on Saturday last, for the non-payment of his poll-tax for 1872, by order of the Tax Collector of that town. He has been besieged by Jerry's neighbors, many of whom had neglected to square their accounts.

WORSTED WORK. A beautiful large picture of worsted work has been executed by Miss Mira Gurney, of South Abington. The picture represents Geo. Washington the father of his country as rehearsing one of his speeches, in nearly life size form. The work has been admirably executed and has elicited the praise of all who have had the pleasure of viewing it. This work of artistic skill has occupied over six months time in its execution and embraces upwards of 400,000 stitches,

For the Patriot.

A Failure.

In the last week's issue of the PATRIOT under the above heading, I noticed an article in which I wish to correct a few mistakes.

First of all, before the writer spreads himself on the temperance question, it would be well for him to learn the difference between the Mass. Temperance Alliance and a Division of the Sons of Temperance.

In regard to our assets, if any one has any just claims against the Division, if he will present them to the treasurer they will be paid in full. Perhaps our friend "Quincy Point" would oblige several by issuing a like call.

The flasks of which mention was made if they are among the assets of the Division, we are very sure were not charged to the town under the head of "Refreshments to the special police."

In regard to our liabilities,—the contempt of 3000 people,—we consider an honor instead of disgrace, as the most of them are members of the Quincy Social Club, or loafers and bummers around low grogshops, and when Saturday night comes God may know in what company they are, but their families do not, and we are satisfied with a knowledge of the fact that our Saviour also had the contempt of Devils when he cast them out, or said, "get thee hence Satan."

GRANITE DIVISION.

☞ We would call attention to the advertisement in our columns of W. B. Woodbridge. He is highly recommended as a teacher of music and will attend pupils at their houses.

PERSONAL. We learn that Hon. N. F. Safford, the Chairman of the County Commissioners, has been quite seriously indisposed of late, so much so as to be unable to attend the Commissioners meetings, but now is improving and we trust will soon be restored to health.

☞ A bell which was placed in the tower of the Union Congregational Church at South Weymouth, about two years ago, is now cracked. It was a very fine toned one, and the difference in its sound was quite noticeable on Sunday, when it rung for service.

20 VALUABLE HOUSELOTS!!
AND A
GRANITE QUARRY!
—AT—
AUCTION.
Will be sold at Public Auction, on
Thanksgiving Day,
November 27th, 1873,
At 9 o'clock, A. M., on the premises on Copeland Street, Quincy,
TWENTY VALUABLE HOUSE LOTS AND AN EXCELLENT GRANITE QUARRY.
The property consists of 10 Acres, more or less, situated in the Western part of the town, on Common, West, and Copeland Streets, between two thriving villages, near Churches, Stores, Schools, and within ten minutes' walk of two Railroad Depots.
The lots are very valuable for building purposes, and are sure to double in value in two or three years. As the terms of payment are very easy, this sale offers great inducements to Mechanics and Young Men who desire homes of their own.
At 10 o'clock, or immediately after the sale of House-lots, the QUARRY will be sold. It has 600 feet frontage on Copeland Street, the main avenue connecting Quincy and West Quincy.
The Stone has a splendid color, and the Quarry, with a small outlay, can be made one of the most valuable in Quincy, and is therefore worthy the attention of capitalists or of enterprising men, wishing to engage in the Quarrying business. As there is a great demand for stone on the line of the Old Colony R. R., the Quarry offers rare inducements, being within ten minutes' walk of Quincy Adams Station.
Terms easy. $10 at the time of sale and the balance of the first quarter when the deed is ready. The remainder can remain on mortgage, at 7 3-10 per cent. interest, and payable in three equal annual payments.
For further information, inquire of the Auct'r.

NORFOLK AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY. The Fall meeting of the Trustees was held at Hyde Park, on Thursday, Nov. 20th, the President, Col. Henry S. Russell, of Milton, in the chair.

The Premium List was amended in some particulars, and the several Committees for the ensuing year were elected. The following is the Committee of Arrangements:—Henry S. Russell, Milton; Wm. R. Mann, Sharon; Chauncey C. Churchill, and Henry O. Hildreth, Dedham; Charles F. Curtis and A. P. Calder, Dorchester William J. Stuart, Hyde Park; John D. Bradlee, Milton; Albert B. Balch, Medfield; Alfred W. Whitcomb, Randolph; Henry M. Mack, Dorchester; Abel F. Stevens, Needham.

It was unanimously voted to hold the next Exhibition of the Society on the last Thursday and Friday in the month of September, 1874.

A proposition to devote three days to the next Exhibition was, after some discussion, referred to the Committee of Arrangements.

MILTON. Hon. Edward L. Pierce, of Milton, Secretary of the Board of State Charities, arrived home recently from a six months' tour in Europe. Mr. Pierce devoted most of his time to the inspection of prisons, and of matters connected with public charities.

The schools are closed for two weeks, it being the annual Thanksgiving vacation. The reunion of the "Old Brick" scholars is to take place Friday evening, Dec. 15.

THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER. The Abington Journal says: "Notwithstanding the cold and dreary weather of the 17th of November, on which day the first flurry of snow was seen, and ice and snow were prevalent, a beautiful rose, together with a bud, was found on a bush in the garden of Mr. Dana Cobb.—The welcome little stranger was as fresh as the roses of June."

☞ At Brattleboro,' Vt., last week, a trunk suddenly exploded, "seriously burning and injuring a lady who stood near, upon her head," as an exchange says. It is probable that this calamity will teach her not to stand on her head any more.

☞ In Stoughton the measles prevail to such an extent, that most of the public schools will close on Friday of this week. They will, however, reopen on the first Monday in January.

☞ The value of imports into Boston from foreign countries during the week ending November 14 was $838,814; and for the year to the same date $55,016,446; being a decrease of $9,205,805 from the corresponding period of last year, and of $179,224 from the corresponding period of 1871.

Marriages.

In this town, Nov. 23d, by Rev. F. A. Frigulietti, Mr. William French to Miss Katie Fallen.

Deaths.

In this town, Nov. 21st, John E., son of Mr. Thomas L. and Mrs. Rhoda Pearce, aged 3 years, 2 months and 27 days.

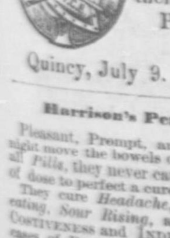

Nov. 22d, Jane, daughter of Mr. Edward and Mrs. Jane Murphy, aged 5 months.

Nov. 25th, Mrs. Sarah M., wife of Mr. John S. Lucas, aged 52 years and 7 months.

In Palmyra, Me., Nov. 22d, Mrs. Sarah Hanson, aged 67 years, 5 months and 14 days.

Agents Wanted.
I WISH AGENTS to sell three (3) New Books just published. One Agent writes that she is making from $12 to $16 a day. One new Agent in a town of 600 inhabitants made $22.40 in 2½ days last week. I wish a few MEN OF ABILITY to sell large books. I have one lawyer who is making $2500, and all expenses, per year. One clergyman, who had a salary of $800 a year, and who made, the first four weeks in my employ, more than $500. I am paying salaries as high as $3000 and all expenses. I will pay a salary to any man who can bring good recommendations, after a month's trial. I pay less commission than others, but have BETTER and CHEAPER Books, which induces people to buy freely.

NORFOLK, SS. PROBATE COURT.
TO the Heirs-at-Law and others interested in the estate of
ROBERT TISDALE,
late of Quincy, in said County deceased, GREETING:
Whereas, Wm. B. Duggan, Administrator of the estate of said deceased, has presented to said Court his petition for license to sell so much of the real estate of said deceased, as will raise the sum of one hundred and twenty-five dollars, for the payment of debts and charges of administration.
You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be holden at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the second Wednesday in December next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.
And the said petitioner is ordered to serve this Citation by publishing the same once a week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed at Quincy, the last publication to be two days at least, before said Court.
Witness, GEORGE WHITE, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this 12th day of November, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

Poetry.

Turkish Oad.

AIR — "Bruce's Address."

Turkeys, who for Thanksgiving bled!
Turkeys, who on corn have fed,
Welcome to us now you're dead,
And in the frost have hung.

"Now's the day and now's the hour;"
Through the market how we scour,
Buying turkeys to devour,
Turkeys old and young.

Who would be a turkey-hen,
Fed and fatted in a pen,
Killed and eat by hungry men,—
Can you tell, I pray?

Lay the proud old Turkeys low,
Let the young ones run and grow,
To market they're not fit to go,
'Till next Thanksgiving day.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Shrinkage of Grain.

The writer had a quantity carefully measured and put up in sacks. It remained in a cool barn in this way for three months. When the sacks were first filled, the mouths could be scarcely tied, they were so full. At the end of three months there was apparently plenty of room for more. For curiosity some of it was measured, and it was found two quarts per bushel had fallen away, which is a loss of about seven per cent. The place where the seed was kept was very unfavorable to waste. There was no heat or wind to dry it up, and it may be taken as the very lowest percentage of loss. Under other circumstances, the loss by saving six months may often reach as high as twenty per cent. These things should be considered by those who are inclined to hold on for a chance of a rise.

Another consideration strikes one here. People often complain that they get short weight or measure. No doubt that this is too often the case; but it is likely that in some instances the difference is as much in shrinkage as in intention.—Exchange.

Grain for Poultry.

There is no other grain that is relished so well by fowls as Indian corn. It must always continue to be, as now, the American poulterer's main reliance, for, although too fattening to use in certain cases, it possesses more nutriment for the price than any other grain, and is always to be obtained. Corn can be given ground and unground, raw and cooked. Oats we prefer ground fine, as otherwise the hulls are too harsh and bulky. With wheat bran and middlings, wheat in the kernel, barley and buckwheat, there need be no difficulty in avoiding monotony. Rye, though the poorest grain of all, may be given occasionally, and brewers' grains, if convenient.—The Poultry World.

THRIFTY OXEN. A correspondent sends us the following notice of a pair of oxen owned and raised by F. Wooley, in Grafton, Vt. They are five years old.—Last August they weighed 4250 pounds, and it is estimated that they will now tip the beam at some notch between 4400 to 4500 pounds.—Exchange.

☞ William H. Bardwell, of Shelburne, Mass., has a high grade Durham ox, ten years old, that weighs 3,030 lbs., which he is feeding for market. It was sired by Joseph Anderson's "Roan Duke."

A single firm in the Mystic Valley, Conn., imported and sold 30,000 bushels of corn in the year 1873, and this probably was not half the Western corn consumed in a population of 10,000 of which one-half are farmers.

Anecdotes.

A gray hair was found among the raven locks of a charming young lady a few days ago. "O, pray pull it out!" she exclaimed.

"If I pull it out ten will come to the funeral," replied the lady who made the unwelcome discovery.

"Pluck it out, nevertheless," said the dark haired damsel; "it's of no consequence how many come to the funeral, provided they all come in black."

A little boy asked a lady who made her teeth.

"My Creator," she replied.

"Well," said the youngster, "Dr. French made ma's, and they beat your'n clean out of sight."

"Prisoner, stand up! Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Faith, do you think I'd be doing the work of the jury for 'em when they are paid for it? Let them find out."

CAN A BODY EAT WITH 'EM. An elderly lady who was handling a pair of artificial plates in a dental office, and admiring the fluency with which the dentist described them, asked him—

"Can a body eat with these things?"

"My dear madam, mastication can be performed with a facility scarcely excelled by nature herself," responded the dentist.

"Yes, I know, but can a body eat with them?"

A fond husband boasted to a friend, "Tom, the old woman came near calling me honey last night."

"Did she, Bill? What did she say?"

"She said, 'Well, old Beeswax, come to supper.'"

Why is a dog with a broken leg like a boy at arithmetic? Because he puts down three and carries one.

CATARRH!
A Woman Having Catarrh
35 Years, Cured.
And Droppings in Throat, Chokings, Stranglings, Pains in the Side, Loins, Headache, Dizziness and General Weakness, Cured by less than Three Bottles of
CONSTITUTIONAL
CATARRH REMEDY.
To Messrs. Littlefield & Co., Proprietors of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, Manchester, N. H.:
I reside at Manchester, N. H., and previously resided at Henniker, and am a native of Weare, this State. I have had Catarrh twenty-five years, ever since I was 19 years old; had it bad all the time. It run all that period, and at nights it would fill up and drop down in my throat, causing a feeling of choking, so that I would spring up in bed to have myself from strangulation. It affected my head so that I felt confused, and was troubled with severe headaches at intervals, for a week at a time. I also had bad pains in my shoulders, back, and kidneys, from which I suffered immensely. So bad were they, that a year ago last summer I was obliged to lie in bed most of the time for three months. I have tried all kinds of Snuff and Catarrh remedies with no particular benefit, and consulted physicians. I had a hacking cough. I began to take the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy last August. I began to grow better before finishing the first bottle. I am now on the third bottle. My Catarrh is cured; my health is restored. I have no pains, aches, or cough. My whole system is made over new. I know it is this medicine that has rescued me from intense suffering and almost the grave. I am now able to do the hardest work and bear the greatest exposure, and feel that I cannot say too much in favor of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.
MRS. E. J. FLANDERS.
Manchester, N. H., Feb. 1, 1871.

I am 32 years old, have had the Catarrh ever since I was eighteen years old, and headache all the time; have suffered beyond description with running at the nose, droppings in the throat, chokings and stranglings. Have tried any quantity of Catarrh Remedies, but have found no relief till I tried your Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, six months ago. I found immediate relief.
Catarrh and all its attendant evils have left. Headache, Pains in the loins and Back, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, and General Weakness. Less than three bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy have cured me. I have not been so well since I can remember as now. I feel as if I could not say too much for the medicine, or thank God too heartily that through its instrumentality I have been restored to health.
MARY M. ABBOTT,
No. 17, Manchester Corporation.
Manchester, N. H., Jan. 27, 1872.
The above lady is my mother. I am a painter by trade, and am a member of the City Council of Manchester. Every word my mother states is true.
JACOB J. ABBOTT.
Hundreds of cases of a similar nature cured within the last year. Snuffs and Lotions are only temporary relief. The CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY strikes at the root, builds up the constitution, makes it new, and drives away Catarrh and all diseases of the mucous membranes and their attendant pains and aches, pertaining to head, back, shoulders, kidneys, and throat.
Price $1 per Bottle. Sold by all Druggists. A Pamphlet of 32 pages, giving a Treatise on Catarrh, and containing innumerable cases of cures, sent FREE, by addressing the Proprietors,

HURSELL'S
PURITY!
— IS A —
Splendid Hair Dressing.

NO article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl or remain in any desired position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents an irritated, itching scalp-skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other preparation.

20 State Street, Boston.

Messrs. J. C. HURSELL & CO. Gentlemen: I have analyzed HURSELL'S PURITY for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from Sulphur, Lead, Silver, Acids, Alkalies, and may be used with entire safety.

Respectfully,

Poetry.

The Aged.

Oh, pass ye by the aged
With gentle step and slow;
They have the burden of years to bear,
And the tide of their life is low.
Speak kindly as ye greet them,
For their world is dim and cold,
And a beaming look from a youthful heart,
Is the sunlight of the old.

And commune with the aged;
Ask them of days gone by;
You know not what a store they have
Of hoarded memory;
Of hopes, that like the rainbow shone,
Only to fade in tears;
And love and sorrow, change and death,
Bind their long scroll of years.

And learn ye from the aged
How with a tranquil eye
They look back on Life's stormy sea
And all its vanity;
The hope deferred, the dark despair,
The daily toil and strife,
They are buried all in the waves of time;
Of the aged ask of life!

And pray ye for the aged;
With tottering steps they stand
Upon the very borders
Of the Everlasting Land.
Ask for them strength in weakness,
And Faith's supporting rod;
And through Death's cold dark water
The strong right arm of God.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

SPONGE CAKE. One cup sugar; one egg; one-half cup butter; one cup sweet milk; one teaspoon soda, dissolved in the milk; two cups flour; two teaspoons cream tartar mixed in the flour.

QUAKING PLUM PUDDING. Take slices of light bread, thin with butter, and lay in a pudding dish layers of this bread and raisins, till within an inch of the top. Add five eggs well beaten, and a quart of milk, and pour over the pudding; salt and spice to taste. Bake it twenty-five minutes, and eat with liquid sauce. Before using the raisins boil them in a little water and put it all in.

HOW TO SWALLOW A PILL. The Chicago Medical Times is responsible for the following: "Put the pill under the tongue and behind the teeth, and let the patient immediately take a large swallow of water, and he will neither feel the pill nor taste it. In fact, he cannot tell where it has gone, and I have seen them look about the floor to see if they had not dropped it."

TO ROAST GEESE AND DUCKS.—Boiling water should be poured all over and inside of a goose, or duck, before you prepare them for cooking, to take out the strong oily taste. Let the fowl be picked clean, and wiped dry with a cloth inside and out; fill the body and crop with stuffing; if you prefer not to stuff it put an onion inside; put it down to the fire, and roast it brown. It will take about two hours and a half.

☞ In a town in Massachusetts there is a young man possessing fine talents who for years has been a cripple, paralytic, and so helpless that he would starve if left alone. As a friend was pitying his condition, he slowly raised his withered hand and said, "God makes no mistakes." How noble the sentiment!

☞ A man writes to say he only backed one horse in his life, and that was into a shop window.

☞ It is as impossible to get money out of a miser as to cut mutton-chops out of a battering ram.

A TRAVELLING PUSS. An English paper mentions an instance of recent occurrence, in which a cat that had been put into a sack, and carried from Innerleither to Edinburgh, a distance of thirty miles, over mountains and fields, succeeded, after a few weeks in finding her way back to her former residence.

☞ There is sacredness in tears.—They are not the mark of weakness, but of power. They speak more eloquently than ten thousand tongues. They are the messengers of overwhelming grief, of deep contrition and of unspeakable love.

☞ Our young ladies are never behind the fashions; but the fashions are very much behind the young ladies.

☞ A blessed old lady being asked if she ever had her ears pierced by the wail of distress, says she couldn't very well remember, but she believed it was done with a fork.

☞ "It's forty years, my old friend John, since we were boys together." "Is it? Well, don't speak so loud; there is a young widow in the next room!"

☞ An old lady read about the strike of the wire drawers in Worcester, Massachusetts. She says of all the new fandangled things she ever heard of, wire drawers are the queerest.

☞ The evening is the time for social delight. The fountains of pleasure, like many springs in nature which stop in the daytime, bubble up in the bosoms of companions at nightfall.

Miscellany.

One of a Thousand.

"I wish I had five hundred dollars," Graham Marsh said, as he looked up from the paper he had been reading.

"What would you do with it?" asked Alice Moore, smiling down into his face. She had laid aside her work, and had come to his side.

"I would buy a partnership in some reliable firm where a young and active partner is wanted," he replied.

"Would five hundred dollars do it?" she asked.

"Not five hundred in itself, but with what I could put with it I could easily get a chance to invest it as I proposed," he answered. "But the five hundred is what is needed, and without it there's no use talking."

"And if you had it—if you could buy into some firm what then?" she asked.

"What then? Why we could be married, and have a home of our own, that's all," he answered.

A soft light came into her eyes.

"Perhaps if we work a little harder, you and I, we can get it inside of a year," she said, resolutely.

"I don't want you to help get it," he answered. "You work hard enough over that everlasting scribbling of yours now. I want to get a home where I can take you, and let you give up this drudgery of writing for a living wholly."

"It isn't such very hard work," she said. I should like to help get a home. You ought to be willing to let me. I shall be the one to enjoy it most."

"I know, but you work hard enough now," he answered; a smile curving the lines about his mouth, as she let her hand fall caressingly on his hair. It was pleasant to feel her touch upon his head, and to know that she cared so much for him.

"I shouldn't mind a little extra work," she said, thoughtfully, "because I should all the time be looking forward to what the reward of it would be. You work hard; it's no more than fair that I should help you, if I can."

"Yes I know I work hard," he said. "That's a fact, Alice, I shouldn't work so hard if it wasn't for you.

"Well, then, since you work so hard for me, you ought to let me work a little for you," she said. It will only be an extra poem or story a week. In that way I can get something to help you in this plan of yours, perhaps.

"Well I don't mind your trying," he said at last, "but I don't like the idea of your working any harder than you do at present."

She smiled down into the handsome face of the man she had promised to marry. It was not a strong face. There were lines of weakness about the mouth, and of indecision in his features which a physiognomist would not have liked to see.

But to Alice Moore, who had so few friends, he was more than you can imagine, unless you are in circumstances similar to those which surrounded her. To her marriage with him she looked forward longingly, trustingly. Then she would have a home of her own. Then, when love sat down beside their own hearth-stone, they would smile at the world and have strong hearts to battle with it.

Alice wrote the "extra story" every week. It was a task sometimes to muster up ideas when ideas seemed nearly exhausted, but the impulse that prompted her to perform this extra labor kept her steadily to her determination, and the publisher who had consented to take the stories she proposed to furnish him each week, found them promptly on hand.

Any one who knows anything about "writing for a living" knows that it is a "hard living" that one gets in that way in nine cases out of ten. Alice found it kept her busy to write enough to keep herself in clothes and pay her board-bills, and afford the occasional recreations which she knew she must have, if she kept to her work. But every time she thought of the home she was going to have, and the love that would be hers in it, her fingers flew over the paper and it seemed to her that the stories which she wrote then were her best ones.

"I am laying up quite a little sum towards that five hundred dollars," she said to Graham Marsh, one evening, when he dropped in to chat an hour or two as he did quite often.

"I think I know where I can invest it," he said. "I heard of an opening yesterday. Lent told me about it."

The year went on slowly, it seemed to Alice Moore. She grew more and more weary of the life in Mrs. St. John's boarding-house. It was so different from what her ideal home-life was, so lackingly, otterly, in the thousand nameless things that make life what life ought to be.

By and by, as the year was drawing to a close, Graham Marsh's visits became less frequent. He pleaded press of business when she chided him for not coming oftener. But there was something in his manner that troubled Alice. A something—what, she could not tell—seemed to stretch itself between them. He was often thoughtful and preoccupied. He seemed ill at ease in her company. He spoke little of the future and not at all of the home about which they had talked so much.

By and by a rumor of the cause of this change in her lover came to her. He had met a fairer face than her own, and the gossips said that he went oftener to see this new fancy of his than he did to see the woman who wore his betrothal ring.

At first Alice could not believe it. She would not. But by and by she found out something that made her believe there was some truth in the story, in spite of her determination not to believe it.

When Graham Marsh came to her the first time after her discovery, she put the question to him fairly and squarely. Did he care for some one else more than he did for her?

He could not evade a direct answer, and she found out that the man she had loved so well was recreant to his promise.

"Ah, Graham!" she said, with reproach in her face and tone, "why couldn't you have told me this frankly and honestly before? Did you suppose I would keep you against your wishes?"

"I have not asked my freedom back," he said, fretfully. "I do not now."

"Do you imagine I would wear your ring another day, knowing what I do?" she asked. "You wrong me. I give it back to you now, and hope you may be happy," she added, earnestly.

He took his ring ashamed of himself thoroughly. There was something noble and lofty in Alice that commanded his admiration and respect. She had given him no reproaches for his conduct, only good wishes for his future happiness.

He married the woman who had won him away from Alice. Among his wedding gifts was a letter, and opening it, he drew out three hundred dollars, and a scrap of paper on which was written—

"Accept this from a friend. You need a home. Let this go toward buying you one, and may it be a home to you indeed."

There was no name: but he knew well enough who it came from. If he had been a strong, proud man he would not have accepted it. But he was a weak man in many things, and he accepted this money, telling himself that some time he could repay it. He needed it so much, he argued in his selfishness.

Alice is better off, I think, without Graham Marsh than she would have been with him. He was never worthy of her. She is infinitely above him in nobility of mind and soul. She would have chafed over his narrow selfishness, and his wavering vacillating purposes. Some time the happiness may come to her which she deserves; the happiness of home, and a heart worthy of her love. I trust it will.

Sleeping Under the Clothes.

Miss Nightingale gives the following advice:—There is reason to believe that not a few of the apparently unaccountable causes of scrofula among the children, proceed from the habit of sleeping with the head under the bed-clothes, and so inhaling air already breathed, which is further contaminated by exhalations from the skin. Patients are sometimes given to a similar habit; and it often happens that the bed-clothes are so disposed that the patient must necessarily breath air more or less contaminated by exhalation from the skin. A good nurse will be careful to attend to this. It is an important part, so to speak, of ventilation. It may be worth while to remark, that when there is any danger of bed-sores, a blanket should never be placed under the patient. It retains dampness and acts like a poultice. Never use anything but light Whitney blankets as bed covering for the sick. The heavy impervious cotton counterpane is bad, for the reason that it keeps the emanations from the sick person, while the blanket allows them to pass through. Weak patients are invariably distressed by a great weight of bed clothes, which often prevents their geting any sound sleep whatever.

The Difference.

A clergyman, passing a boy weeping bitterly, halted and asked, "What is the matter, my little fellow?"

The boy replied, "Before we could hardly get enough to eat, of anything, and now what shall we do? for now, there's another one come."

"Hush thy mourning and wipe off those tears," said the clergyman, "and remember that He never sends mouths without he sends victuals to put in them."

"I know that," said the boy, "but then he sends all the mouths to our house and the victuals to yours."

THE TIMES.

[The following letter was received too late for our last issue, but the allegations are so verified that we cannot refrain from giving it publication.—[ED.]

BOSTON, Nov. 25, 1873.

One of the results of the capture of the Virginius as felt by us has been beneficial. Sensational papers of the day teeming with the cry of "Panic" have discarded the same and substituted, "Cuba and War."

Our business men have proved that they stood on a solid financial basis by meeting their engagements through Sept. and October, business being nearly stagnant and every paper containing articles of dismal forebodings concerning our financial situation, such as to increase the feeling of insecurity and make every branch of trade suffer, except the sale of newspapers.

All that was requisite to stay the steady march of the "Panic," was confidence, that being restored, all savings banks now holding a large surplus preparatory for unusual demand, will at once place them where they will yield sure profit and all other parties holding funds, will transfer them to their former channels. Public attention now being diverted, money again appears to be circulating freely, with a prospect by the New Year of circulating at nearly the same rates but on better collateral. Wildcat securities and accommodation and suspicious paper will not have the ready purchasers as of old. So far so good, but if one should read all the legal, political and religious opinions in circulation relative to the Virginius, and the international law regarding the seizure and the executions following, they would be in as much of a maze as one would after listening to an elaborate report from the Secretary of the Treasury on our national finances and curreney. Our President has demanded five concessions from Spain: that the Virginius be delivered to the United States at one of her ports; an indemnity to the heirs of all executed; freedom to the remainder; trial and punishment of Gen. Burriel, the brutal commander at Santiago and his prominent abet; lastly that freedom be extended to the slaves on the island.

This appears to have been the prompt and unanimous opinion of our government. At home our statesmen are divided in opinion. Sumner, peace if possible that we may do naught to discourage a sister republic. Banks—for full concessions or War. Butler would paralize them with his sound expounding of international law, meanwhile preparing for war, that failing, would hope with a firm hand to gain reparation.

Amidst this diversity of opinion our wise President has caused active preparation to be made for war, both land and sea and calmly awaits the reply from Spain. The answer was originally required before the 27th inst., but the date has been extended, that the Spanish government might have time to obtain all the facts in the case and to act understandingly. President Castelar is not only a warm friend to the United States, but to republicanism generally, and there need be no fear but that he will do all in his power to make amends for insults and injuries done by his surbordinates without his knowledge or consent. There are three parties in Spain rampant for war. The two monarchical factious wish the forces of the republic to be engaged so they may be able to secure the crown for their leader; the mob who have nothing to lose and much to gain. In the United States there are very few who do not denounce in the strongest terms the executions and who do not sympathize with Cuban independence, but still the sober solid thought of the country, is not for war unless the Spanish government are not capable of controling their brutal surbordinates, and will be unable to make any reparation, or enforce in future human regulations; and then we are to make war only so much as to take and hold Cuba, which geographically speaking already belongs to us.

We need have but little apprehension of war. Spain will probably accede to all our demands except the first, when with the recent developments regarding the nativity and registering of the Virginius we may have to abandon that. Should these direct negotiations fail a willingness is manifested on our part, to submit the same to arbitration, and should Spain reject this offer or prove unwilling to accept the decision of the arbitrator, then let the gods of war loose and bid them not return until the flag of our nation floats from every town and city in free Cuba. A.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT. A fearful accident occurred about half past eleven o'clock, on Wednesday forenoon of last week, on the granite quarry of Mr. Jonathan Williams, of this town, which caused the death of one man and slightly injured two others. The accident was caused by an explosion of the remains of an old charge of powder, which Mr. Allison had been removing. He had been cautioned by Mr. Williams and also by the foreman, not to use a drill under any consideration while clearing out the hole. But during the temporary absence of the foreman, Mr. Allison took a drill and called on John Falvey and Anderson McDonald to strike for him, which almost instantly caused an explosion, throwing Mr. Allison backward, and blowing off his nose and chin, tearing out his eyes and breaking both arms, leaving him in a shockingly mangled condition. Death kindly relieved him from his dreadful sufferings, on Thursday morning about two o'clock.

Mr. Allison was an industrious and hard working man, and was greatly respected by his employer and his many associates. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his sudden and melancholy death. His family have the sympathies of the whole community, in this their severe affliction. John Falvey and Anderson McDonald, who were assisting Mr. Allison at the time of the accident, fortunately escaped with slight injuries, and were able to attend to their work as usual this week.

Mr. Williams has been in business the past ten years, and this is the first accident, with fatal result, that has ever occured at his place of business. It is a remarkable fact that very few accidents happen on these ledges, and when we consider the hundreds that are employed, it shows that great care and precaution is used.

REAL ESTATE SALES. A large auction sale took place on Thanksgiving forenoon, on Copeland street, when twenty valuable houselots, and about forty cords of wood were disposed of. This land was bought by Mr James Edwards, about four weeks ago, and laid out into lots. At that time he paid $2500 for it, and on Thursday of last week it brought its lucky possessor $4,850. The following are the names of some of the purchasers of these lots: Wilson Wildman, John Bigelow, P. H. Garvin, Chas. R. Mitchell, Columbus Lary, John Marshall, of Boston, James Devine, Michael Shea, J. McGrath, and Joseph Kendrick.—Several others bought lots but we were unable to learn their names.

If more land was to be had in that vicinity at the present time, it would command still higher prices.

We think Mr. Edwards was fortunate in his selection of auctioneer, as Mr. Lombard is a gentleman well adapted for the business, and was never more at home than on Thanksgiving day, when he made his excellent stump speech to a large crowd of eager spectators, and sold the estates to a good advantage, realizing for his employer a handsome profit.

The same gentleman sold the Keating estate, situated on the corner of Liberty and Summer streets to James Sullivan, for $1000.

FAMILY REUNION. The members of the family of the late Daniel French, assembled at their old homestead, the Hancock House, on Thanksgiving day, and partook of a sumptuous dinner, provided for the occasion by the youngest son, D. Fred French, the steward of the Academy boarding house. The privilege of holding this family reunion at this establishment, was kindly granted by the noble hearted gentleman who presides over the institution, Professor Dimmock.

Three generations, twenty-three persons all told consisting of mother, children and grand-children gathered around the festive board; grandmother presiding at the head of the table. The party did ample justice to the good things provided for this dinner. Many pleasant and happy jokes were cracked, which acted as a digestor for the rich and bounteous fare and every thing passed off as pleasantly

"As a marriage bell."

Having feasted to the heart's content the party adjourned to the parlor, and after congratula ing each other upon the pleasures of the meeting, and telling of the many changes old "Father Time" had wrought, they prepared to disperse to their homes, hoping soon to meet again under similar circumstances.

APPOINTMENT. Ebenezer Bent, Esq., of this town, has been commissioned by the Governor and Council, as a Justice of the Peace, in and for the County of Norfolk.

JURORS. Messrs Samuel Belcher and J. Mayhew Marsh have been drawn to serve as Jurors, at the Criminal Session of the December term, of the Superior Court, for Norfolk County.

LECTURE. The temperance lecture on Thursday by Rev. J. D. Fulton, of New York, was a very able and entertaining production, and was listened to by a very large audience considering the awful travelling. The singing was excellent. The next lecture will be given by Rev. James Healey of Boston.

A Tea Party.

Arrangements are being made in this town to celebrate in a social and pleasant manner the Centennial anniversary of the "Boston Tea Party," which was held in Boston harbor Dec. 16, 1773. It was a very motley crowd that "poured the tea" for old Ocean to drink, that night. Not a very well-dressed crowd, nor yet one that was much given to gossip or small talk; but a crowd which had an aspect of determination about it, and which dispersed without ceremony when the great "tea drink" was over. Every individual in it was so singularly arrayed that his own mother would have disowned him; and it would have been hard, the next morning, to find any one who had participated in the festivities of the night before.

It was a protest against tyranny more effectual than the weightiest and most numerously signed petition could have been. It was an appeal to patriotism more ardent and more eloquent than any spoken or written words; and it thrilled the then weak colonies with a new aspiration, and gave them new courage.—In Boston Harbor, on that memorable night, was born that spirit of patriotism which carried the colonies through the long struggle and gave them a being as the United States of America.

The centennial anniversaay of such an event is well worth celebrating, and we are gratified to learn that the ladies connected with the Universalist Society of this place, are making great efforts to celebrate the day in an appropriate and acceptable manner to our citizens.

The hall, handsomely decorated, will be open in the afternoon from 3 to 12 o'clock. The leading feature will be tea drinking. Those desiring to procure refreshments or supper will be accommodated. There will be a large number of useful and fancy articles for sale, and in the evening a rich musical treat will be offered to the gathering. Further particulars of this celebration will be given in our next issue.

High School Reunion.

The grand Reunion so long talked about, and eagerly longed for, took place last Wednesday evening at the Town Hall, with nearly four hundred and fifty present. The order of exercises was peculiarly neat, prettily printed, and as a truly successful literary treat is without its equal on any previous occasion. The hall, stage, and very brilliant audience, looked their very best, and Monk's excellent music was fully appreciated, as it always is, and as a truly beautiful and social gathering, ranks foremost with its predecessors. Mr. Mundy's finely delivered oration, although perhaps rather pointed and sweeping, yet it contains real merit and is a fit subject for great discussion and profit.

Miss Edith Randall's poem was a splendid success, both in delivery and composition and ranks high, with the very choicest yet written.

Great thanks are due the Executive Committee, for their admirable manner in which the whole affair was conducted, and I sincerely hope that the association so grand in its constitution, will ever hold its true position, as one of the best, noblest, purest organizations in the town, and trust its yearly accessions will make it one of the largest.

J. P. BIGELOW, President.

The Wiard Gun.

In the presence of some fifty gentlemen a remarkable successful test of heavy ordnance was made at Nut Island, near Great Hill in this town, on Friday of last week. The two guns used, one smooth and the other rifled, being fifteen inches calibre and weighing 46,000 pounds. They were mounted in the same manner and ranged side by side, 160 feet from two separate targets of rolled wrought iron, 15 inches thick, weighing 3000 pounds, imbedded in and backed by 100 tons of gravel in frozen strata. The first experiment was with the gun having the Wiard improvement. Both guns being cast under the same order from the Government, the only difference was in the patent. Mr. Wiard's invention is to transform smooth bores into rifled ordnance by the cutting of two grooves for the flanges of conical shot to travel in.

The discharge was made with one hundred and forty pounds of powder and a shot weighing four hundred and sixty pounds. The effect was wonderful, and never before equaled in this country or Europe. The shot bored through the fifteen inch target and buried itself deep into the sand beyond. It was more than "the theory of Norman Wiard" ever contemplated, and Captain Truxton, Inspector of Ordnance at the Charlestown Navy yard, declared it at once the greatest achievement of modern gunnery. The second test was with the smooth bore. This carried the weights of the first, but of course round solid shot was used.—The ball penetrated two-fifths of the target's thickness and was spent.

The other trials are to be made to test the relative accuracy and range of the guns, and if the rifle is as successful in the next as in this it is proposed to change six hundred of these guns on fortifications and shipboard according to Mr. Wiard's plan. The improvement, without detracting the qualities of the smooth-bore, it is claimed, gives increased power of penetration, endurance and range, and combines the powers of both classes. Prior to this trial the greatest success was in England, when a twenty three ton gun, with one hundred pounds of powder, sent a projectile through twelve inches of iron.

☞ John J. Richards, formerly of this town, died at Penrbyn, California. The cause of his death, being a premature explosion of a blast in a Granite Quarry.

The Temperance Alliance.

Statement of General James L. Bates, Chairman of the State Police Commissioners before the State Temperance Alliance at the monthly meeting held at Wesleyan Hall, Wednesday Nov. 26th. This was in answer to incorrect statements reflecting upon the Commissioners made by Dr. Miner, the President of the Alliance, at a former meeting.

Gen. James L. Bates who was invited to state to the Alliance the doings of the State force for the last ten months, on invitation of the chairman, gave an interesting and detailed statement of the affairs connected with the force. He briefly alluded, by way of introduction, to the charges made against the Commission, which were lately published, all of which he said were untrue and without foundation. Among others he mentioned the charge that the Chief Constable of the Commonwealth had explicit instructions from the Commissioners not to execute the law upon Parker's and Young's or other houses of their character. It has gone out to the whole State and country that that is the rule. Nothing, he said, could be further from the truth. It is not so. The Chief Constable never has had any such instructions. He has had general instructions to execute the law to the best of his ability everywhere impartially. Has it been done? The question is often asked. Why don't you execute at such a place, or at another place? Even the rumsellers have taken up the cry and say: "Why don't you execute the law at Parker's, or at Young's?" He continued: "I will tell why. There are about 3000 places in Boston, and we have in Boston sixteen officers to execute the law against them. You all know what we have passed through in getting rid of Boston officers. We had to appoint new men entirely because we had ascertained that the law could not be executed by the officers as they then were. We knew it would not be executed. They were not the servants of the Commission nor of the Commonwealth, but they were the servants of politicians who controlled them and whose bidding they would do in preference to the bidding of the Commonwealth and the Commissioners. Several of these men were discharged. It was necessary that the Commissioners should appoint new men to these offices. We brought those "bright eyed, sharp eyed officers from the country" that have been so often spoken of to take their places, and appointed new officers who were inexperienced, and had to be placed in a state of pupilage to these old officers from the country. They are now at work.

All I ask at your hands, at the hands of anybody, is simply justice, and that, gentlemen, I am going to have. (Applause.) I want to show you what these officers have done in the last ten months. The following is a statement;

Liquor prosecutions for ten months, 6946; general offences, 3538; liquor seizures, 4571; gaming seizures, 86; total 15,141. Number sentenced to the House of Correction, 440; number committed, 188; number of gallons of malt liquors seized, 72.799; of distilled liquors seized 33.488; total, 106.287. Fines paid, $124,019 94: costs, $53.876-95; total, $177,896 89. Expenditures of the Department, $123,226 63; amount paid the State Treasurer on warrants and precepts for nine months, $17,459 24; stolen property recovered and valued at for the nine months, $20,768 73; number of officers on duty in Boston, 17; in Worcester, 2; in Springfield, 3; in Lowell, 3; in Salem, 2; in Lynn,—; in Charlestown, 2; in Cambridge, 3; in Smerville, 1; in Fitchburg, 1; in Taunton 2; in Fall River, 2; in New Bedford, 2; in Newburyport, 2; in Chelsea, 1; in Lawrence, 2. Total, 47. Number of officers engaged in the prosecution of liquor offences, 88; out of which there are assigned to cities 47, and 41 for the towns giving each officer an average of about eight towns to look after.

The average is one officer for eight towns in the Commonwealth, and yet you expect they are going to execute the prohibitory law at once. Divide the officers, eighty-eight in all, among the population of Massachusetts, and you have one officer for 17,000 population.

And now do you want to know why the law is not executed? Give us the force and we will give the judges and courts more to do than ever they had before. There has got to be more frequent courts.

General Bates said that many officers are obliged to attend on Courts when trials are proceeding which occupy two or three days. They could be called into Court, he said, just as well on ten minutes' notice as to be obliged to hang around a court room and waste time needed in the execution of their duties. He continued; When we send officers out to do their duty, immunity is granted no one selling liquor. They go out about their business and shut up the worst places first, on the same principle that a city would cleanse the most filthy and unhealthy localities, when an epidemic is feared. The worst nuisances are removed first.

We regard the jug shops and open bars as being the greatest nuisances.—There are more than ten thousand cases of drunkenness proceeding from that species of liquor traffic in Boston yearly. The young men from the country come to this city and rush into these saloons the first thing they do. If they wish a bottle of liquor to carry into the country they procure it and take it from such places as those, not from the great hotels. No officer has had any instructions to let anybody go by. With regard to the seizure of liquors in wholesale stores, where there are bars, he said there have been a great many of these places accustomed heretofore to keep large quantities of liquor. Their proprietors have removed them to private warehouses, and of course the State Police cannot get into such warehouses. The officers are expected and supposed to be temperance men and honest. He said, "we have enough to do to look after them and see that they are so. There is no class of men more subjected to temptation, because the power at work againt them is money.—We have naturally misgivings with regard to our officers, but we give them our confidence and sustain them as long as we know they are right, but the very moment any individual will come to us and substantiate the fact that they are in the wrong in any particular, we will give them a candid hearing, and if the charge is substantiated, I will assure you gentlemen, he will not remain on the force."

General Bates said that Mr. Griffin has always approved of any measures taken by the Commissioners to enforce the prohibitory law.

Henry H. Faxon moved that Gen. Bates have the thanks of the Alliance for his able and straight forward address, which was unanimously carried.

John J. Glover.

We copy, by request of many of our readers, the following letter from the Banner of Light, purporting to have been sent by our departed and highly respected citizen, John J. Glover. Whether it is from him or some deceptive spirit on earth, we leave each and all our readers to decide. Certainly there are some things in it quite remarkable, if true.

I am John J. Glover, late of Quincy, Mass., now of Vinya Villa, Spring Garden City, Spirit World. I make this definite statement because I believe in making definite statements. If you live in heaven, give locality of that heaven, and class it if you can; if you live in hell, give the locality of that hell, and class it if you can—that's my idea. I have been pained to witness the feeling which has been exhibited by many who have taken it upon themselves to interfere with regard to the settling of my mortal affairs. I had expected what I witnessed from some persons on the earth, but I did not expect it from others who claim to have arisen out of the pale of prejudice, envy and bigotry. I did not expect it from them, and to them, I would say now, with reference to my marriage: I married to suit myself; I wooed and won the lady I married, as any other man would; I was not pressed into the ring, as you affirm, neither by the lady, nor by spirits in or out of the body. I did as I pleased; I was satisfied with what I did—it was my business, not yours. It would have been far more to your credit if you had been attending to your own business, than to have neglected it, as you have, to attend to mine.

To that portion from whom I should expect no better, this I have to say: Since I anticipated what might be done by you, I have provided against it, and if the laws of Massachusetts are justly administered I shall be satisfied with the results, and am thankful that you cannot help yourselves.

To those dear friends who may be expecting to have a definite word of cheer from me, I would say, cherish your beautiful faith; make it a part of your everyday lives, and let it bud and blossom and fruit to such an extent that it shall be an ever-present satisfaction to you. It is a truth, an immortal truth, a something as fixed as is the Infinite—and when your opponents talk of the death of Modern Spiritualism, laugh at them: they deserve to be laughed at: the sun himself shall die first. It cannot be; it is a child of the Infinite God, and therefore immortal.

To my wife: Have no fears. They who are for you, are far more than they who are against you. In the end you will be satisfied.

And now a word with reference to our homes in the spirit-world. I used to say to my friends who returned to me from the spirit-life: Can't you give us something more tangible? can't you tell something more definite about your homes? They used to tell me: If I did, you wouldn't understand. Well, perhaps I should not. I am going to make the experiment, whether I am understood or no. Now I prefaced my message by telling you where I dwelt in the land of souls. My abiding place is Vinya Villa. The villa takes its name from the numerous quantity of vines surrounding it. There is nothing exactly like it in all the city. It was constructed by an English horticulturist, and was his dwelling place for a long time until he went higher. Now, by some strange fatality, it has fallen to me, and I assure you that I appreciate it, for it is just what I admire.

I to-day visited the residence of your late friend and co-worker, Mr. William White. He has just become domiciled there. The structure is of a material that would correspond to your alabaster, perfectly pure, perfectly white. It is very symmetrical in its proportions;—indeed, a perfect symmetry exists everywhere: but it is very plain, very unostentatious, yet very beautiful. It is an exemplification of his earthly life—an humble, unostentatious harmonious, beautiful, pure life, all combined.—There is his dwelling, telling just what the man was when he was here. There's no mistaking it: every intelligent spirit knows what that indicates—who dwells there.

I have recently visited, also, the dwelling place of your late friend and co-worker, William Berry. That is a more pretentious dwelling, larger and of finer decorations. We find upon it all the various devices of music, and of the art of printing, all interwoven with what corresponds to your precious gems here in this life. It is a very imposing structure, and tells what the man's life was here—fitful, ardent, aspiring, daring, and ready to put his shoulder to any wheel that God Almighty saw fit to ask him to put his shoulder to. There was the strength, there was the will manifested in the decorations of gems; there was the ardor manifested in the color. The groundwork of the building is of light blue and white, indicating that the man here was struggling between purity and wisdom. He knew better than he always did; but, surmounting that, in the gems of various colors, we are told that he overcame many temptations and achieved many grand spiritual works. On one side of the building is a beautiful orange grove; on the other we find the most beautiful tropical flowers that the eye ever rested upon; in the rear of the building are fruits and flowers and grains all beautiful and useful. He was a man of large utility of purpose, as is displayed in the architecture of the building, in the laying out of his grounds, in the selection of his trees, his flowers. These things all tell you what the man is that abides in that building; and so it is with reference to all the dwellers in the spirit-life. There are, fortunately no outcasts, no homeless ones. There all have homes adequate to their needs, and homes just such as they have earned here in this life, and you know at once what the spiritual characteristics of the dweller in the building are, by looking at the building.

The dwelling-place of Mozart is an elaborate architecture of musical instruments and notes. All the various notes in the grand harmony of music are there represented, and elaborated upon. Every musical instrument known upon earth is there in objective reality, as well as every one known in the spirit-world.—Who dwells there, you need not ask. A musician—some one whose soul is thoroughly imbued or baptized with music.

Theodore Parker inhabits a villa in the suburbs of the city; not very large but very beautiful. There you will see growing in beauty all the beautiful flowers that delight the senses, and beautiful fruits; and every day troops of happy spirits go out there to hear him discourse upon some subject, or to ask him to elucidate some questions, or to hear from him some of the experiences of his earth-life. He stands out upon his vine-clad balcony with uncovered head and discourses there as he never did here; and yet you would know it was the plain Parker of your Music Hall. You could not be mistaken. Indeed, I will venture to assert that there is not a single one of his friends here in life who, if they were taken in-tantaneously to the spirit-world in front of his beautiful home, would not recognize it, and were you to ask them, "Who do you suppose lives there?" they would say, "It looks eminently Parkerish." When our frend and brother White was first taken there he didn't know who dwelt there; but his friends said to him: "Now tell us who you suppose would inhabit such a little bijou as that?" "Well," he says, "I don't know of anybody but Parker. It seems to me he would like it."

You will find this spirit-world is a real world—the real, of which this, your life, is but the shadow. You fancy that you are dwelling in a real life here, but the truth is that you are here in the shadow, while the real life is to come; and instead of that life being a ghostly one, and made up of conditions entirely inimical to human happiness, it is one that ministers unto the happiness of the soul continually. It would seem that the Infinite had taken into special consideration the needs of the risen soul, and had given each one just what they most needed.

Our dear friend and brother White said, when he was escorted to his new residence, "Oh, it is beautiful; and how well God knew what I most loved—plain, but beautiful! beautiful!" And there, upon the steps, he knelt in prayer; and while he was surrounded by listening thousands, he sent out a soul-prayer to the Author of all our blessings such as I never heard before and never expect to again, because such scenes do not repeat themselves.

And now, dear friends, see to it that you live such lives here as will bring you satisfaction in the hereafter. I have shown you one side of the picture.—There is another side: I have seen many who were dissatisfied with their surroundings, and yet they all admit that it is just—it is what they have earned. Now, if you wish for happiness in the life to come, be happy here: and there's no other way under God to do it than by doing right. Oct. 23.

PIGEON SHOOT. At the pigeon shoot at Blacks Woods on Thanksgiving morning, the following score was made, the weather being cold and unfavorable to good shooting.

One hundred birds shot at, 21 yards, viz., 80 yards boundary. Shot limited to 1 1-2 ounces. Thos. Curtis received the 1st prize, can of powder. Samuel H. Spear, 2d prize game bag, Geo. Monk 3d prize, bag of shot.

The village blacksmith excited the admiration of the spectators, by the ease with which he converted his muzzle-loading gun into a breachloader of the most approved pattern. In the excitement of firing on the ring, two persons were hit by shot. Mr. H. F. Milton, had his ear, neatly boared by a chance shot, and Mr. Warren Higgins received a shot in the eyelid barely missing the sight. We are happy to say that Mr. Higgins mishap has had no serious results.

SURPRISE PARTY. Mr. Seth Spear and family of this town, were quite pleasantly surprised on Tuesday evening last, by quite a large gathering of ladies and gentlemen, disguised in sheets and pillowcases, who came to spend a few hours at their pleasant residence. A delightful time was had and all felt pleased with their visit.

BURGLARY. We learn that a number of unoccupied houses at the north part of the town have recently been entered by rogues, and lead pipe and other articles taken therefrom. The full extent of the robberies we have been unable to learn. The Pratt residence, occupied the past summer by Master Brown, and several of the McKay houses have been visited.

APPOINTMENT. We learn that Thomas Gurney, Esq., of North Quincy, a highly respected citizen, has been selected as Post Master of the new Post Office recently established there. The appointment is an excellent one.

☞ A gentlemanly reporter from the office of the "Boston Journal of Commerce," was in town last week, collecting items of historical interest, which will soon appear in that large and interesting paper.

Summary of News.

At a recent tin wedding in Conn., one of the presents was a tin-bird pie and another a tin shirt-bosom and collar.

A single township of De Kalb County, Ill., has three cheese factories. Up to the middle of July, this season, they turned out 350,000 pounds of cheese.

New York is turning 10,000 laborers a week out of employment.

An Indianapolis man gives $100 weekly for charitable purposes.

The deed from John T. Ford, conveying for 100,000 to the United States the building in which President Lincoln was assassinated, was recorded in Washington last week.

About five hundred messages are daily transmitted across the Atlantic.

☞ At this season of the year, when so many of our people are suffering from colds, we call attention to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral as a sure cure not only for coughs and colds, but all affections of the lungs and throat. Having used it in our family for many years, we can speak from personal knowledge of its efficiency. There may be other remedies that are good, but in all our experiences this has proved to be by far the best. Its qualities are uniform and wholly reliable. It is pleasant to take and should be kept at command, by every family, as a protection against a class of complaints which seem harmless in the beginning, but become afflicting and dangerous if neglected.—N. H. Register.

District Court of East Norfolk.

FRIDAY.

William Savage of Quincy, was before the court on complaint of State Constable Furnald, for being a common seller of intoxicating liquors. He was found guilty and fined $50 and costs. Appealed.

Patrick McGuire of Weymouth was arrested by Constable Holbrook for committing an assault on Mrs. Maria Barton. He was found guilty of this offence, and sentenced to the House of Correction for three months.

Hiram P. Abbott of Quincy was before the court on complaint of State Constable Furnald, for illegally selling intoxicating liquors. Found guilty and fined $50 and costs.

CONCERT. We are gratified to learn that the ladies of the First Church (Unitarian) of this town, propose to repeat one of their delightful musical soirees next Wednesday evening, (10th inst.,) at the Town Hall, commencing at 7 1-4 o'clock. All lovers of music we think will be glad to embrace this opportunity of spending an evening of real enjoyment, as the programme will consist of pleasing selections from the best authors. Tickets are for sale at John O. Holden's.

PROBATE COURT. The Judge of Probate will hold a court in this town, on Wednesday next, at the District Court room. All probate matters can be attended to, and Judge White consulted on any matters relating to the settling of estates, &c.

HIS USUAL SUCCESS. Mr. Russ B. Walker, opened his dancing school quite successfully on Friday evening of last week, some thirty scholars being present. The graceful waltz seems to be the favorite this season, and the young folks are desirous of attaining the grace and elegance of friend Walker, as he glides through this dance.

LOST.

Old Folks' Concert. The Wollaston Choral Society, intend sometime during the present month to give an "Old Folks" concert, at the Town Hall, in the quaint costumes of ye olden times, for the benefit of the Methodist Society of that place. The director, Mr. A. C. Faunce, has been fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Barstow, of Bridgewater for this occasion, whose rich alto voice will blend in sweet harmony with the beautiful soprano of Mrs. H. S. Braden and Miss Mary Gove. Our citizens may expect a rich treat, and we hope to be able to give full particulars of when the concert takes place, in next week's paper.

Peoples Monthly. E. N. Beane, Esq., of South Weymouth, is canvassing this town, for the Peoples Monthly, a handsome pictorial paper, printed in excellent style. It contains many beautiful engravings and is throughout very attractive. It is published at Pittsburgh, Penn., by Chas. McKnight & Co., at $2.00 a year, including a beautiful chromo, 16 by 20 inches, representing an out-of-door scene at the commencement of the year, when all nature looks fresh and lovely. When Mr. Beane calls we would invite our citizens to examine the work and Chromo.

A Good Officer. A writer from Randolph to the Norfolk County Gazette says:—State Constable Hunter of North Adams, has been detailed for duty for this town, and has already taken up his abode at the Howard House. A few radical temperance people in our midst, think that a resident State constable will hasten the millenium, and they are "so glad." It remains to be seen whether an entire stranger can accomplish all they desire in this line, or whether the local officer, Deputy Sheriff Warren, has not done more to advance the interests of good morals in this town for the past five years, than any other officer that has ever been located here.

First Church. Communion Sunday. Sunday School at 9 20. Bible class. Morning Services at 10 50. The pastor will officiate. Vespers at 4 50. The Vesper Service to-morrow will be a Children's Service. Address by Rev. Mr. Waterhouse, of the "Children's Mission."

Congregational Church. Preaching on Sunday by the Pastor at 10 1-2 o'clock. Sabbath School at 12. Missionary Meeting at 7 o'clock, P. M.

Christ Church. Services with the Holy Communion to-morrow at 10.30 A. M. Sunday School at 3 P. M. The first evening service in the new Church at 7 o'clock. The public are cordially invited. Seats free.

Marriages.

In this town, Nov. 25th, by the Rev. J. W. Hamilton, Mr. Lewis H. Josselyn to Miss S. Lizzie Mason.

Nov. 26th, by the Rev. G. W. Whitney, Mr. William B. Sprague, to Miss Fannie M. Jones.

Poetry.

At Sea.

Still onward speeds the noble ship,
Its world asleep below,
While from the bridge the cry is borne,
"Now steady as you go."
Alas! that wrecks should strew the sea.
Alas! that ships go down.
Alas! for many hearts that grieve
In many a home and town.

What means that wild and piercing cry
That 'scapes from terror's lip?
What means that great and stunning shock
That shivers through the ship?
It means, alas! an awful thing,
It means—"Pray say not sunk!"
The Big Fat man in number 6
Has rolled out of his "bunk."

Home, Farm and Garden.

Tight Barns.

"W. B. J.," of Hardwick, Mass., who has kept cows for nearly thirty years, and who has tried both open and tight barns, writes to the Boston Cultivator that he finds the latter far preferable in our cold climate, but he would have the barn so constructed that it can be thoroughly ventilated at pleasure. He says, I feed good hay and regularly; keep my cows in the barn most of the time in cold weather; water twice a day in the barn; keep them well bedded, clean out the stable twice a day, and sometimes three times. I find farmers, not a few in this town, say their cows won't drink but once a day. I say to such, I guess you don't give them a chance; try a tight barn, and one that is warm. Farmers, when you begin to pinch your cows in drink, you bring leanness upon your cows, if not in your purses; you might as well pinch in feed as in drink, for either or both will cause that leanness of which farmers so much complain in these days.

I think if farmers will try tight barns with good hay with water twice a day and clean stables, with good warm bedding, that two-thirds of the feed used in an open barn will keep the cows in much better condition. I can direct you to a farmer in this town who kept his cows, some twelve or sixteen, in the barn all winter with plenty of water in the stable, and he told me that he did not feed two-thirds as much hay as when they were turned out to stand round and shiver in the cold, as was formerly done, and the cows were in much better condition than when left out in the cold.

☞ Cape Cod, in 1871, raised and marketed about 90,000 bushels of cranberries; in 1872 about 15,000 bushels; and this year about 75,000 bushels, which is the fair average from year to year.—It is supposed by many that the Cape Cod plantations produce more of these berries than any other locality in the States. This is a mistake. New Jersey plantations yield an average of upwards of 100,000 bushels yearly. The difficulties in their culture are great, and at the Cape, bogs are decreasing nearly every year developing some new cause of failure either by insect attack or peculiar disease until it has come to be regarded as a very uncertain crop.

☞ St. Andrews, N. B., should be named Turnipville, for 40,000 bushels of that useful vegetable were raised there this season—and all sold for thirty cents a bushel.

☞ A California farmer has just completed a fence around his 45,000 acre farm. It isn't painted yet.

Anecdotes.

Small coal-dealer.— Another penny my dear. They've riz. Ah, coals is coals nowadays."

Little Girl.—"I'm glad of that, sir. Mother said all the last lot were slates."

Salt Williams of Detroit, having been on a three days' bender in New York, strolled into an intelligence office and asked.

"Is this an intelligence office?"

"Yes," replied the keeper. "What's your fee?" inquired Salt; and upon being informed, threw down a dollar.

"Well," asked the proprietor," what do you want?"

"I want you to tell me," stuttered Salt, "where the d — l I've been for the last three days."

A man with some wit and a very long nose met a neighbor, one frosty morning who sang out, "Hallo, Smith; I met the end of your nose back here apiece, and saw it was completely frozen."

"No fault of mine," said the undisturbed Smith; "I rubbed it as far as I could reach."

"Unless you give me aid," said a beggar to a benevolent lady; "I am afraid I shall have to resort to something which I greatly dislike to do."

The lady handed him a dollar, and compassionately asked, "What is it poor man, that I have saved you from?"

"Work," was the mournful answer.

A smart little boy in New Orleans was reproved by his mother for telling a fib. He insisted it was only in fun, but his pious mother told him he must ask Divine pardon.

So the good little boy kneeled down and said, "O Lord, forgive me. I would'nt have done it, only I thought you could take a joke."

"Now, Willie, do have a little courage. When I have a powder to take I don't like it any more than you do; but I make up my mind that I will take it, and I do."

"And when I have a powder to take," replied Willie, "I make up my mind that I won't take it, and I don't."

Iron in the Blood

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

Sold by all Druggists, and Dealers in Medicines.

Price One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

As our Renewer in many cases requires too long a time, and too much care, to restore gray or faded Whiskers, we have prepared this dye, in one preparation; which will quickly and effectually accomplish this result. It is easily applied, and produces a color which will neither rub nor wash off. Sold by all Druggists. Price Fifty Cents.

Manufactured by R. P. HALL, & CO., NASHUA, N.H.

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield, to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

CATARRH!

A Woman Having Catarrh

35 Years, Cured.

And Droppings in Throat, Choking; Strugglings, Pains in the Side, Loins, Headache, Dizziness and General Weakness, Cured by less than Three Bottles of

CONSTITUTIONAL

CATARRH REMEDY.

To Messrs. Littlefield & Co., Proprietors of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, Manchester, N. H.:

I reside at Manchester, N. H., and previously resided at Henniker, and am a native of Weare, this State. I have had Catarrh twenty-five years, ever since I was 19 years old; had it bad all the time. It run all that period, and at nights it would fill up and drop down in my throat, causing a feeling of choking, so that I would spring up in bed to save myself from strangulation. It affected my head so that I felt confused, and was troubled with severe headache at intervals, for a week at a time. I also had bad pains in my shoulders, back, and kidneys, from which I suffered immensely. So bad were they, that a year ago last summer I was obliged to lie in bed most of the time for three months. I have tried all kinds of Snuff and Catarrh remedies with no particular benefit, and consulted physicians. I had a hacking cough. I began to take the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy last August. I began to grow better before finishing the first bottle. I am now on the third bottle. My Catarrh is cured; my health is restored. I have no pains, aches, or cough. My whole system is made over new. I know it is this medicine that has rescued me from intense suffering and almost the grave. I am now able to do the hardest work and bear the greatest exposure, and feel that I cannot say too much in favor of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

MRS. E. J. FLANDERS.

Manchester, N. H., Feb. 1, 1871.

I am 52 years old, have had the Catarrh ever since I was eighteen years old, and headache all the time; have suffered beyond description with running of the nose, hoppings in the throat, coughing, and strangliugs. Have tried any quantity of Catarrh Remedies, but have found no relief till I tried your Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, six months ago; I found immediate relief.

Catarrh and all its attendant evils have left. Headache, Pains in the loins and Back, Biliousness, Loss of Appetite, and General Weakness. Less than three bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy cured me. I have been so well since I can remember as now. I feel as if I could not say too much for the medicine, or thank God too heartily that through its instrumentality I have been restored to health.

MARY M. ABBOTT,

No. 17, Manchester Corporation.

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 27, 1872.

The above lady is my mother. I am a painter by trade, and am a member of the City Council of Manchester. Every word my mother states is true.

JACOB J. ABBOTT.

Hundreds of cases of a similar nature cured within the last year. Snuffs and Lotions are only temporary relief. The CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY strikes at the root, builds up the constitution, makes it new, and drives away Catarrh and all diseases of the mucous membranes and their attendant pains and aches, pertaining to head, back, stomach, kidneys, and throat.

Price $1 per Bottle. Sold by all Druggists. A Pamphlet of 32 pages, giving a Treatise on Catarrh, and containing innumerable cases of cures, sent FREE, by addressing the Proprietors,

HURSELL'S
PURITY!
— IS A —
Splendid Hair Dressing.
NO article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl or remain in any desired position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents an irritated, itching scalp-skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other preparation.
20 State Street, Boston.
Messrs. J. C. HURSELL & Co.
Gentlemen: I have analyzed HURSELL'S PURITY for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from Sulphur, Lead, Silver, Acids, Alkalies, and may be used with entire safety.

Poetry.

The Hand that Rocks the World.

Blessings on the hand of woman!
Angels guard its strength and grace,
In the palace, cottage, hovel,
O, no matter where the place!
Would that never storms assailed it,
Rainbows ever gently curled;
For the hand that rocks the cradle
Is the hand that rocks the world.

Infancy's the tender fountain,
Power may with beauty flow;
Mothers first to guide the streamlets;
From them souls unresting grow,
Grow on for the good or evil,
Sunshine streamed or darkness hurled,
For the hand that rocks the cradle
Is the hand that rocks the world.

Woman, how divine your mission,
Here upon our natal sod!
Keep, O keep the young soul open
Always to the breath of God!
All true trophies of the ages
Are from Mother Love impearled!
For the hand that rocks the cradle
Is the hand that rocks the world.

Darling girls, with Eden's music
Ringing yet in each young heart,
Learn and treasure household knowledge,
Precious in life's future part,
When you'll, too, exulting mothers,
Bravely boyed and gently girled,
Feel the hand that rocks the cradle
Is the hand that rocks the world.

Blessings on the hand or Woman!
Fathers, sons, and daughters cry,
And the sacred song is mingled
With the worship in the sky;
Mingles where no tempest darkens,
Rainbows evermore are curled,
For the hand that rocks the cradle
Is the hand that rocks the world.

Mix the bread and cream, add the figs, then the sugar, and lastly the milk. Pour the mixture into a mold, boil three hours. Eat with wine or hard sauce.

SOYER'S CHRISTMAS PUDDING. Eight ounces raisins; eight ounces currants; twelve ounces suet; two ounces powdered sugar; four ounces flour; four ounces bread crumbs; twelve bitter almonds; half nutmeg; two ounces candied citron; being prepared and weighed. Mix over night—break in six eggs; add half gill of brandy; next morning add half gill of milk; stir well. Slightly butter cloth; tie slack; put in half gallon water; boil four hours—adding water as it boils away.

OILED RAGS. One of the most experienced underwriters now in Boston, expresses the belief that oiled rags occasion more fires in this country than any other single cause—a fact not duly appreciated by those who daily use them, and suffer them to lie round loose and ignite, or throw them into a heap and thus increase the danger.

☞ That nervous youth in Louisville who recently, by mistake, slipped a nickel five-cent into the parson's hand, instead of a five-dollar gold piece, which he had ready in another pocket, after three weeks of wedded bliss thinks he paid pretty dear for his fun, after all, and regrets that that nickle was not a suspender button.

☞ A wife, asked her husband for a new dress. He replied, "Times are hard, my dear—so hard I can hardly keep my nose above water," whereupon she retorted: "You can keep your nose above water easy enough if you'd a mind to, but the trouble is that you keep it too much above brandy."

☞ A countryman visiting Shawano, Wis., was hit on the head by a block from one of the many buildings going up in that place. It must have hurt him some, for he said, "I'm too big to cry: but it hurts so bad that I can't laugh."

☞ An old proverb says: "An unkind word falls easily from the tongue, but a coach and six horses cannot bring it back."

☞ A young man in suburban town sent off his first postal card on Thursday morning. After writing a message on the back he enclosed it in an envelope, clapped on a three-cent stamp and dropped it into the post-office, remarking that it was a very handy arrangement, and should have been introduced years ago.

MECHANICS. They are the palace builders of the world; not a stick is hewn, not a stone is shaped in all the lordly dwellings of the rich, that does not owe its beauty and fitness to the skill of the mechanic. The towering spires that raise their giddy heads among the clouds, depend upon the mechanic's art for their strength and symmetry. Not an edifice for devotion, of business, or comfort, but bears the impress of their hands. How exalted is their vocation, how sublime their calling.

☞ A librarian arranging his books according to their subject matter, put "Irish Bulls" under the head of agricultural.

Miscellany.

A Wedding Excursion.

In the evening the ceremony was performed which made Tim an Rachel an unit, and after the company had liquored all round, Tim having previously "talked it up" with Rachel, boldly announced the desperate resolution of starting the next morning on a grand tour of observation.

"He had always been tu hum" he said "and never seen nuthin," and now he was goin' straight to G——, and before he came back he would see a steamboat if there was such a thing anyhow."

The village of G—— was about fifty miles distant, lying on the Ohio river, and a journey there from Tim's residence was deemed a great undertaking. Some of them thought Tim had taken leave of his senses, or certainly he was not in earnest but he assured them he was, and the next morning, tackling up "old gray," and putting in a supply of pork and beans for the journey, Tim and the now Mrs. Higgins started on their bridal tour. The second day the hopeful pair, without accident, arrived at G——. Just as they were entering the town, it so happened that the steamer Pennsylvania was rounding in to make a landing. Tim caught sight of her smoke-pipes, and in an ecstasy of wonder and delight cried out:

"There she comes now, by hokey! Look at her Rach! Je-ru-sa-lem! Just as Squire Stockley said—smokes like a burnin' chimney. She's commin' in to shore, tu! Je-mima! what a creek! further across than from our house to Shaddow's mill! aint it Rach? see they are tyin' up the varmint with a halter, wonder if it's skeery and pulls! Here's a post let's tie gray and go down to the critter."

"Thunder! what's that! how it snotrs!—You had better keep away from it, Tim," said Rachel, "it mought swaller you down like winkin."

"I ain't afeared," said Tim, "folks are comin' off on't now. She's good natured, only spirited."

By this time "grey" was made fast, and Tim and Rachel were moving cautiously in the direction of the boat.

"No baulkin, Rach, I am going on to slowly by Rachel, boldly walked up, and stood alongside of the engine.

"See how she sweats—they must have put her through," said Tim.

"I say old hoss" said Tim addressing the engine, "move her jest a little—I want to see how she travels."

"She'll move directly," replied the man of steam, "better keep out of her way."

Tim and Rachel now wended their way to the main deck and so completely were they absorbed in what they saw, that they did not observe the preparations made for her departure. At the last tap of the bell Tim thought there must be a meetin' somewhere, but had no idea it was anything which concerned him. At length, as Tim afterwards expressed it, "she began to breathe hard, and the water began to splash," and Tim for the first time observed that they were in the river.

"Hello here, old hoss!" screamed Tim: "I say, cap'n, what you 'bout?—where you going tu?"

They were now under full headway, and Tim saw the town and "old grey" dissappearing like magic.

"Thunder!—why don't you hold her in?" roared Tim; she's runnin' away.—What'll we do? Oh golly!—cuss the critter—can't she be brought tu?"

A wag, who comprehended poor Tim's predicament, observed:

"You are in for it now my friend—we don't stop till we get to Orleans."

"I told him to keep away from the blasted varmint," cried Rachel, "now what will become of us?"

Tim was in despair. At this moment the steamer's whistle uttered one of its sharpest notes, and Tim's hair stood on end.

"She's loose, squealin' and kickin'!" shrieked Tim. "Oh, golly, Rachel, we are lost! and in the absence of the knowledge of any prayer, he tried to repeat a part of the blessing he had heard Deacon Snivelly ask at the table.

By this time the Captain had heard of poor Tim's misfortune, and kindly ordered the boat to land, and Tim and Rachel once more stood on terra firma. Footing it back with all dispatch, they found "old gray" still fast to the post; and not many minutes elapsed before his head was turned homeward, with Tim and Rachel, who were perfectly satisfied with what they had seen of the world in general, and their experience in steamboating in particular.—Great West.

Doubtful.

A Baptist paper in Ohio was sent nine years to a subscriber who never paid a cent for it. The other day the newspaper was returned to the patient and long-suffering publisher with the affecting pencil note on its margin:—"Gone to a better world." The publisher is a very pious man, but it is reported that his faith is terribly shaken with regard to the accuracy of the information.

Astronomy.—No. 1.

BY LYSANDER S. RICHARDS.

Among all the planets of the solar system Venus is now commanding the greatest interest among astronomers, for in the year 1874, the transit of this planet takes place, that is, she crosses the sun's disk, or in other words she will be directly between the sun and us, and so much smaller is this planet than the sun, say some fourteen hundred thousand times less in volume, that when she crosses his face, she will appear as a small rounded dark speck moving slowly across it; dark of course to us because its illumined side is towards the sun, on which the latter shines, and the opposite side towards us not receiving any of the sun's light is black or darkened.—The transit of Venus occurs only twice in a century because it does not move directly in the plane of the earth's orbit, if it did, we should observe this phenomenon every time the planet passed between the sun and us, astronomically called its inferior conjunction. Like our moon, if the latter's path lay directly in the plane of our own orbit, when she passed between us and the sun, we should have monthly or thereabout the eclipse of the sun, but as the satellite moves a little one side of the plane, or the ecliptic, we have an eclipse only once in a while, when it meets the plane, and if Venus was as near to us as the moon we should have during its transit, a total eclipse of the sun, but its great distance from us prevents this phenomenon and we have a moving dot, so to speak, across the sun's disk instead. The rare occurrence then of the transit of Venus makes the event of great interest, for from observations made when crossing the sun's disk, astronomers will by their greatly improved instruments manufactured since the last transit, revise astronomical calculations in regard to the size and mass of the planets, their motions around the sun.

The first discovery of the transit of Venus was made about 234 year ago, by a young English man twenty-one or twenty-two years of age, bearing the name of Horrox. He predicted it would occur in 1637 and when the appointed day arrived he repaired to the observatory to find whether his predictions would prove true, for if so, he realized the fact that he would be the first discoverer of the transit of Venus, known in history since the world began, but unfortunately for his great piety, the appointed hour to make the observation came on Sunday, and about the time that church service was being held. The question then arose should he "serve God or mammon?" if he served the first by attending church in his worship, even for a moment, he might lose the only opportunity, verifying his prediction, for the transit would not occur again for a great many years and probably not during his life. Education however in the church had such a strong hold upon him that to forfeit the worship of the former in a temple built by man, he felt he would lose his soul, and hence risked the next greatest object of his life, the observation of the transit, and ran into church twice during the watch but luckily for his pious sincerity, he returned in time to observe the transit and his name was immortalized notwithstanding his compromise between God and mammon.

Venus is the twin star or planet of the earth. It is nearly the same size, its length of day about the same, and the difference in density scarcely perceptible. It is our morning and evening star, the brightest in all the heavens; it keeps within a near range of the sun, never more distant than 46 degrees, sometimes following and sometimes leading him. In the evening it follows him and is seen from one to three hours after the sun has set, never more than three hours, or one-half the distance between the horizon and zenith. Different than nearly all the stars observed which set earlier and and earlier every night, Venus sets later and later as it recedes from the sun, until it reaches said height of 46 degrees; and then on its return towards the solar mass, it begins to set later and later until it approaches so near apparently towards the sun, that it is lost in his bright rays, to the naked eye, and is not seen again as an evening star for several months, but it very soon is observed as a morning star, preceding the sun rise, and to an early riser, about two or three hours before the rising of the sun, situated about 46 degrees from the horizon, the appearance of Venus, is beautiful. Bright and resplendent it stands out in the crystal vault, the gem of our extended vision. Its mean distance from the sun is about 69,000,000 of miles, some 24,000,000 miles nearer his mass than the earth; its heat therefore received from the sun is supposed to be double that received by us, and as the poles of Venus are more inclined to the sun than the earth, the inclination being nearly 75 degrees while the earth is but 23 1-2 degrees, the torrid zone would extend in the summer, not very far from the pole. For instance any place in 42d degree of latitude, such as Boston, Chicago, &c., would experience a torrid heat, double that received at the equator of our own earth, and at winter when the sun sends its rays at the lower part of the globe, the climate is not only correspondingly cold, but the nights are very long, and some days the sun is never seen above the horizon. Rather a changeable climate for us Bostonians, even with the slight changes we are obliged to suffer upon our own shores. When Venus is nearest to us we see but little of its bright or illumined side and consequently the planet does not appear near as large as it otherwise would. It appears the largest and brightest when furtherest from us, in its superior conjunction or the opposite side of the sun, as we then see its whole illumined side. The earth to Venus on the contrary presents her bright side when nearest the latter, and the sight must be grand, for her size must appear as large as a small sized moon.

First Cost of a Man or Woman.

An economic journal enters into a curious calculation as to the actual cost, in dollars and cents, which a man or woman would cost the world and society by the time he or she got old enough to begin to "pay expenses," or return back to the country what thus far had been expended in rearing their population.

Every baby, it is fair to assume, when properly brought up, costs its parents at least fifty dollars a year, an expense which increases largely as feed, clothing, the shelter of a warm home, education and spending money are required for the growing child. The actual cost up to the fifteenth year, of each child in this Republic is not less than a thousand dollars. At that age its labor would be worth its subsistance. Not till it reaches the age of twenty-one does it begin to be productive. For every 100,000 children the Nation has to produce, six or eight millions of dollars is consumed without adding at all to production. To rear that number of children to a productive age certainly costs a hundred millions of dollars, without any profit whatever in return.

"Beauty Sleep."

Sleep obtained two hours before midnight, when the negative forces are in operation, is the rest which most recuperates the system, giving brightness to the eye and a glow to the cheek. The difference between the appearance of a person who habitually retires at ten and that of one who sits up until twelve is quite remarkable. The tone of the system, so evident in the complexion, the clearness and sparkle of the eye, and the softness of the lines of the features are, in a person of health, kept at "concert pitch" by taking regular rest two hours before twelve o'clock, and thereby obtaining the "beauty sleep" of the night.—There is a heaviness of the eye, a sallowness of the skin, and absence of that glow in the face which renders it fresh in expression and round in appearance that readily distinguishes the person who keeps late hours.

THE MYSTERY OF HARD TIMES. A Dayton, Ohio, journal endeavors to clear up this mystery a little by publishing some statistics that ought to be impressive. It shows that in that city of thirty thousand inhabitants there are 540 barrooms, which consume daily nine barrels of common whisky, 400 kegs of lager beer and as many of ale, to say nothing of the finer kinds of wines and liquors, which are used to a considerable extent. Besides the above, the local consumption of tobacco amounts to 15,000 cigars, 200 pounds of smoking, and 120 pounds of chewing tobacco daily.

The editor, after a careful study of the figures, ciphers out that a bar-keeper, at ten cents a drink, gets $300 for a barrel of whisky that cost forty. This does not mean hard times for him, certainly, whatever may be the case with those who give him the profit of $260 per barrel. The expenditure of Dayton for whiskey, malt liquors and tobacco is more than five times what it lays out for bread.—The figures of our foreign trade balances are not so important as these, to a great many people at least.—Boston Journal.

☞ As long as men pay $36 a pair for silk undershirts, $3 a pair for Balbriggan socks, and $7 apiece for lawn neckties a New York lady correspondent, thinks the talk about feminine extravagance a very impertinent masculine diversion.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT. A very painful accident occurred at the engine house on the quarry of Messrs. Charles H. and Franklin Hardwick, on Thursday morning, by which the engineer, Mr. George H. Hayden, lost three fingers and a part of the fourth on his right hand. This is a sad misfortune for the young man, and his many friends sympathize with him in this severe affliction. As every cloud has a silver lining, may the bright star of his future, soon shine out from the darkness that now surrounds him.

WILL YOU COME TO T. On Tuesday next the ladies connected with the Universalist Society of this town, will hold a Centennial Tea party, and they have extended an invitation to the whole town to come and take a social cup of tea. The Gurney Club from North Bridgewater will help enliven the entertainment in the evening with some choice music. For full particulars see advertisement.

HANDSOME PRESENT. The elegant Past Master's Jewel presented by the members of the Masonic Lodge, in this town, to Henry T Horne on the occasion of his retiring from the position of Master of the Lodge, will be on exhibition at the Post Office to-day and this evening. Call and see it.

OLD FOLKS' CONCERT. The Wollaston Choral Society offer our citizens a rich treat on Wednesday evening next at the Town Hall, when they will appear in the costume of ancient times, when grandfather sported a queue and knee buckles, and grandmother wore her hair much higher than the fashion of the present day. The music on this occasion will be of the days of "lang syne," and promises a feast of rich enjoyment to the lovers of sweet harmony. Read advertisement.

WEST QUINCY. A new drug store has been opened at the west part of the town, by Mr. John A. Davies, who brings with him the many desirable essentials for the business. Mr. Davies has been long and favorably known in this town, having been formerly employed by Mr. John H. Veazie, and more recently as chief manager of Appleton's Pharmacy. We should think that an Apothecary store rightly conducted in this place, might meet with success. As Mr. Davies is a professed druggist and understands the compounding of medicines, we trust the citizens of this part of the town will do all in their power to assist and maintain this new branch of business in their midst. By reading his advertisement it will be seen that he attends to the ... daytime or night.

THE LECTURE COURSE. The lecture on Thursday evening, by Rev. James A. Healey was largely attended, although the weather was not inviting. The speaker did nobly and was listened to with marked attention. This lecture closed the regular course by the religious societies. Still, they have been so successful, that Mr. Faxon proposes to have one more, which will be delivered on Thursday evening next by Mrs. Elizabeth K. Churchill of Providence. She is said to be a very able lecturer, and that her address will not fall much below her eminent predecessors.

We learn that Mr. Faxon intends on that evening, to announce to the audience the amount awarded to each society, for the very able temperance lectures which have so entertained and encouraged our citizens, during this course.

BRAINTREE. The ladies of the South Church, Braintree, will celebrate the anniversary of the destruction of tea, in Boston Harbor, in 1773, on Tuesday next, by giving a Tea Party at the Town Hall. A very pleasant and enjoyable time is expected while indulging in the pastime of sipping a delicious cup of Tea. The people of Rev. Dr. Storr's church propose to do likewise at the Lyceum Hall at the north part of the town.

CHOICE CONCERTS. It is almost definitely settled, we understand, that the people of Quincy are soon to have the rare privilege of hearing and seeing Mrs. Scott Siddons, the lovely actress and dramatic reader; Teresa Liebe the great violinist; and the wonderful boy pianist, Henry S. Walker, eleven years of age, whom Mrs. Siddons has lately been introducing to American audiences. They will appear in a couple of concerts in the Town Hall, on two Monday evenings, probably, and we anticipate a great treat. The lad has had very great success wherever he has played.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Preaching on Sunday by the Pastor at 10 1-2 o'clock, A. M. Sabbath School at 12. Praise Meeting at 7 o'clock, P. M.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH. Rev. Benton Smith of Boston, will preach to-morrow. Services at 2 1-2 o'clock, P. M.—Sunday School at 10 A. M.

CHRIST CHURCH. Service to-morrow at 10.30 A. M. Sunday School at 3 P. M. Service at 4 P. M. Seats free.

Masonic Ceremonies.

On Monday evening last, the gentlemen who had been elected as officers of Rural Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, for the ensuing MASONIC year, were duly installed, in the presence of a large number of the bretheren, who were accompanied by their wives and daughters.

Past Master Henry Horne officiated as installing officer, and performed his difficult duties in a manner to not only afford gratification to his many friends, but to show also that he was a particular bright mason.

He was assisted in his labors by Past Master Lucius W. Lovell, who acted as Marshal for the occasion. The following are the officers installed. W. M., E. W. H. Bass; S. W., Wm. G. Sheen; J. W., George A. Beard; T., Levi Stearns; S., Charles H. Porter; S. D. A. G. Olney; J. D., S. G. Abbott; S. S., J. D. Nutting; J. S., F. A. Massey; Marshal, Alonzo Glines; Tyler, John W. Hersey.

The services were made much more pleasant by the good music furnished by the Masonic Choir, assisted by their lady friends.

After the installation services were completed, the Marshal was instructed to present Most Worshipful Past Master Henry Horne, to the East, when in the name and on behalf of the Lodge, Worshipful Master Bass, presented him with an elegant and costly Past Master's jewel, as a token of their love and esteem for him as a mason, and in grateful recognition of his services as Master of the Lodge for the three years last past. The surprise of Brother Horne having been partially overcome, in a neat and feeling speech the gift was accepted with grateful thanks.

After the closing of the Lodge, the company were invited to partake of a bountiful collation, provided by their lady friends. After the wants of the inner man had been amply satisfied, (in which that wonderful infant Horace, bore a conspicous part,) interesting remarks were made by Brother Kelley, Sunderland, Jordan, and Foster; after which the company reassembled in the Lodge Room, and passed sometime in social intercourse and listening to well executed vocal music. Thus passed one more of those eminently pleasant masonic festivities.

THE WIARD GUN. Last Saturday afternoon a second experiment was tried with the heavy ordnance on Nut Island, the object being to show the difference in range between the Wiard gun and a smooth-bored gun. In all the trials a charge of fifty pounds of powder was used, but in the smooth bore the shot was spherical, while that used in the rifled piece was conical. The first fire was from the smooth bore gun at an elevation of ten degrees and gave a distance of 3030 yards, while the Wiard projectile at the same elevation, struck the water at a distance of 3500 yards or 470 yards beyond the point reached by the other.—The second trial, with all the conditions the same ... 3950 yards for the smooth bore and 4390 for the Wiard, which is 440 yards in favor of the latter.

District Court of East Norfolk.

SATURDAY.

The business before the court to-day, was all caused by the cup that steals away a man's brains. John Callahan, of Weymouth, was present to answer to the charge of being a common drunkard, and was sentenced to two months in the House of Correction.

Bridget Welch of Weymouth, also indulged too freely in the ardent critter, and having become a common drunkard, was given a free pass to the Stone House in Dedham, for the next three months. Sheriff Thomas will see that she quickly becomes a sober and better woman.

William Welsh, of Weymouth, was called upon to pay a fine of five and costs for drunkenness.

MONDAY.

Thomas Rafter, and Stephen Carey, were given homes in the House of Correction for two months, for being vagrants. One of them stated that he had a home, but did not want to go to it in his present condition, and preferred to be sent to the County House, as a vagrant.

The case of John Clark of Braintree, for committing an assault on John L. Hunnewell, of Boston, was continued one week.

TUESDAY.

Lorenzo Goodwin, of Abington, was brought into court, by Constable Cleverly of Weymouth, for attempting to defraud the town of Weymouth. For want of sufficient evidence he was discharged.

WEDNESDAY.

John Lynch and Michael Donnovan, both of Randolph, were charged with drunkenness and fined each $3 and costs.

THURSDAY.

John Kelley of Holbrook, was brought into Court by Constable W. H. Warren, Jr., for being a vagrant. He was sent to the House of Correction for two months.

James Forrest, of Randolph, was arrested by the same officer for the same offence, and sent to the House of Correction for 4 months.

Charles A. Ashton, was arrested in Braintree for the larceny of a watch, from the residence of Edward L. Curtis. It being proved that he made off with the time, he was marched to the House of Correction, to spend the next 4 months.

Patrick Goster of Weymouth, for evading fare on the Old Colony Railroad, between Quincy and Braintree, was fined $10 and costs. He might have rode sometime for that little sum, but will no doubt profit by the wisdom learned for the time to come.

New York, Dec. 3.

To the Publishers of the Patriot.

The chief topic of conversation for the last twenty-four hours, has been the frightful disaster to the steamship Ville du Havre of the French line. Not since the loss of the Artic, of the Collins line, has such a severe blow fallen on so many families, of the highest social distinction. The true cause of the collison seems to have been a misunderstanding of an order given to the man at the wheel, causing the steamer to turn in the wrong direction. Everybody is debating about the seven water-tight compartments, which the ship actually had, and any one of which was supposed equal to keeping her afloat, though the other six might be stove in. Various explanations may be heard among the busy groups of excited and eager listeners, on the street corners, and in all the hotels and news offices. One of the most plausible is, that the terrible force of the blow from the Loch Earn, ripping open the side of the steamer for a length of thirty or forty feet, and penetrating to a depth of twelve feet, was of itself sufficient to start and loosen most of the iron work and bolting on the whole of that side, causing her to plunge headlong into the ocean depths in twelve minutes after the terrific stab was given.

There is to be a most thorough investigation in Paris, but of course it will apply to the remaining officers and crew, as the steamer is a mile or more below by this time. Several of the highest families in Boston, are terribly stricken: the Sigourney family from 71 Beacon street, having all perished, husband, wife, three children and a nurse. Of Mr. Charles Mixters family of Newport, only two daughters were saved; he and his wife going down in the steamer. Mr. A. Binginger, the well known wine merchant here in New York, related the following remarkable incident to the Editor of one of the papers, the New York World, and was listened to with deep interest by the many gathered in the office, for news. Mr. B's daughter was saved while his wife was drowned.

"On the very night of the disaster, before he yet knew of it, he was sitting in his parlor with some friends, when his attention and theirs, was riveted to the mantel shelf; a vase of flowers which his wife had arranged the last thing before bidding him good bye, was actually moving back and forth on the shelf! He at once excitedly said 'something has happened surely to my wife.' Soon after the terrible news came, too true alas to be realized even yet in the full."

The ocean steamers continue to have full lists of passengers, and always will probably, for people will travel and take their chances. A number of instances where passengers were impressed with some dire disaster before embarking, are recorded in the papers. The old quotation "There are more things in heaven, and earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of" in our philosphy, comes forcibly to mind. Another reason to which great weight is given here is that the vessel just like a sharpened lead pencil in fact, and that she rolled over on the side, filling and sinking as did the Atlantic of the White Star line, a few months ago.

The weather has been beastly for the last two days, doing all it can to take the edge off my visit, but it cannot effect it, as I am quite independent of it, when I have my travellers on. You should have been with me last evening, when coming down Fifth Avenue in the cold northeast drizzle, and have stepped into the new "Hotel Windsor," the largest and most elegant in the world. A description of it, and also A. T. Stewart's palatial residence, I will give in my next.

CANTU.

A QUEER LETTER. We received one day this week through the politeness of Postmaster Bass, a letter directed in the following singular manner:

JOHN J. GLOVER,
Vinya Villa,
Spring Garden City,
Spirit World.

Care Quincy Patriot.

On the right hand upper corner of the envelope was a one cent stamp to pay Uncle Sam for his trouble. In the lower left hand corner there was a ten cent stamp to pay for its safe delivery to the Spirit World. We shall place the document in the careful hands of "our devil," hoping that it will reach its destination, and that Mr. Glover will give the writer the desired information.

Thinking that some of our readers might feel greatly interested in the contents we have taken the liberty to publish the same in our columns to-day.

BRAINTREE.

The boot business, although affected considerably by the panic, is now reviving, and soon we hope to see the usual activity amongst the workmen. In anticipation of this a new market has been opened on Central street, by Mr. W. Hinsman, who is prepared to supply the wants of all who may favor him with a call.

A town meeting was holden on Thursday afternoon, to see if the town would take measures to form a Fire Department. Some preliminary steps were taken and the meeting was adjourned to Dec. 29th. Sooner or later Braintree will have her Fire Department,—the present diversity of opinion notwithstanding, D.

EAGLE CLOTHING HOUSE. You can get suited when in Boston by calling at the Eagle Clothing House. Garments made at this establishment, are of the latest styles, excellent quality, and are offered at a low price. See advertisement.

John J. Glover, Esq.

DEAR SIR:

I am not a Spiritualist, but only a woman who sometimes visits in Quincy. I have never heard of you, or have never inquired into Spiritualism, but I have just read your long letter in the PATRIOT of Dec. 6. I wish to ask a few questions which can be answered in the Banner of Light if you ever receive them, and are able to give the answers. Do you and Mr. Parker and Mr. White live all alone in your houses waiting for your wives to come? That does not seem to me very pleasant, and you say you are so happy. What are your occupations? Mr. Parker preaches, you say, and without his hat, and Mozart probably produces the music of the future with new notes on new instruments, but what is your occupation? Are you with your departed relations? Do they visit you and help you eat the fruits you raise? What do you wear? Do clothes come on you, or do you have to make them? I hope there is no more sewing for women. What do the flowers and plants grow in? I believe the streets of the Heavenly city are of gold. Is the soil of the suburbs of gold dust? But the mention of any kind of dust reminds me of the sweeping and dusting of this world, and woman's perpetual struggle with dirt of some kind. I do hope we have nothing similar in the after life. But I must stop. So many questions arise that my mind becomes confused. If you wish to make a convert to your "beautiful faith," and so refresh a very tired soul, please answer at once to address P. M. C., Quincy P. O., and much oblige yours with great respect, a woman who longs for rest.

E. Milton Congregational Church.

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 4th, a large audience met in the Church to listen to an entertainment given by the members of the society. The programme consisted of Songs and Readings.—The choir made up of Mr. and Mrs. Howland, the Misses Tarbox and Mr. Andrews sang "Sweet Bird of Night," "Driven from Home" and "Beautiful Hills." The latter was finely rendered, and "Driven from Home," was sung as a solo by Miss Francis Tarbox was encored. Miss Alma Pierce read "The Minister's house keeper" with much spirit and naturalness, the reading being interrupted by bursts of laughter. Mr. Andrews met with a hearty reception, in "The Witch's Daughter" and "The Burial of Moses." Miss Lizzie Emerson gave "Betsey and I are out" and how Betsey and I made up: both pieces were read in the best of taste. Mr. G. Webster showed great sense of humor, and excellent powers of mimicry by reading "European Guides" and "The Land Slide," from Mark Twain.

NORFOLK COUNTY SALES. The following sales of real estate have taken place in this town and vicinity.

Mrs. Sarah B. Morton has sold land ... street, in this town, to John Fullerton, for $2000.

Susan, wife of William Chesley, sold five lots of land with buildings on Pond street, Milton, to Ellen Whalen, for $2000.

Eben F. Howard sold half an acre of land with buildings between Tremont and Franklin streets, Braintree, to Benj. F. Dyer, for $2900.

Francis A. Hobart sold land with buildings on the south side of Holbrook avenue, Braintree, to Joseph E. Holbrook, for $4000.

ACCOMMODATING. It will be seen by our advertising columns that Mr. C. S. Coolidge is a live, go-ahead gentleman, and that he is determined to give our citizens all the accommodations that with consistency they can ask. He is determined to make his Express business meet the wants of this community, both in convenience and promptness, and all he asks in return is a liberal share of their patronage.

FARMER'S ALMANAC. We are in receipt of the Old Farmer's Almanac, for 1874. This favorite annual has made its usual round of visits for the past eighty-two years, and is as fresh and reliable as in the days of old farmer Thomas who predicted so truthfully the changes in the weather, and always gave the careful readers some good suggestions, whereby they might profit. Who would be without an old Farmer's Almanac.—Souther has them at his Periodical store.

ARRIVAL. The schooner Martha Innis, Captain A. S. Higgins, arrived at Quincy Point on the 6th inst. with a cargo of Lykens Valley Coal consigned to D. Howard Bills. She sailed for Philadelphia on the 10th inst.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR DECEMBER. The second number of Scribner's new magazine for the young is as bright and as full of good things as the first issue—in fact, it contains more matter and pictures for it has eight additional pages. There are fourty-four pictures this month, and they include drawings by Moran, Stephens, Sheppard, Beard, and other American artists. There are six wonderfully funny pictures of learned cats, and the article which describes them is as lively as the cats. A curious picture of a giant examining a man through a microscope; one of a sailor dancing with white bears; and another of a courageous youth riding a whale into port, will excite the curiosity of every real boy and girl. "The Giant Whatabore" is a capital hit at certain follies, and will be appreciated by the older readers of the magazine; who will also enjoy Donald G. Mitchell's story of "How a Tinker Wrote a Novel." The page for little folks is very good this month; and "The Riddle Box" is crammed with good things.

Summary of News.

Maine has thirty million dollars in her savings banks, an increase of some three or four million dollars when compared with the year 1872.

Queen Victoria is sitting for her portrait, which is intended as a gift for the Emperor of Russia.

A new toy for boys is a bear about two feet high, which, upon being wound up growls and stands erect on his hind legs in true bear style. These toys are made in Munich.

The house in which Paul Revere was born is still standing in Canton.

St. John's Lodge, of Boston is the oldest Masonic Lodge in the United States.

The total number of Granges of the Patrons of Husbandry in the United States is 8574, the membership being 643,125.

The new uniforms for Gilmore's Band in New York will cost $5,000.

The entire Fire Department of Boston is ordered to sign the total abstinence pledge.

The Oriental Club of Springfield has an apple-dumpling feast once a week.

The State Teachers' Association meets in Worcester on Monday, Dec. 29.

Two young sons of Charles D. Parker of Orwell, Vt., are seriously ill from poison, received by eating colored candy.

America consumes annually 6,000,000 lbs. of Turkish figs in round figures.

The Southern planters and traders who were entirely destitute at the close of the war, have, by eight years of industry, realized a surplus which they have hoarded in greenbacks.

A Nashville, Tenn., belle, whose beau could not spare the time from his business, went and got the marriage license herself.

A span of horses was sold at Bennington, Vt., last week, for $9 and a single animal was transferred in consideration of $2.

Moses Dupont, a Frenchman living in Holyoke, has twenty-three brothers whose united offspring amounts to three hundred and twenty-two, or an average of fourteen children apiece.

☞ A grand funeral service was held at Havre last Sunday for those who lost their lives by the disaster of the Ville du Havre. Subscriptions for the survivors have been raised in France to the amount of nearly two hundred thousand dollars.

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

ON and after December 15th, 1873, a RAILROAD EXPRESS will run between

Quincy and Boston,

DAILY, leaving Quincy at 10.45 A. M., Returning, leave Boston at 2.30 P. M.

Orders will be taken from Boxes in Quincy, up to 10 o'clock, A. M. Orders may be left at the Depot, and at my Office, Hancock Street, rear of Wollaston Bank, up to the starting of the 10 47 train. More trains will be run to meet wants and wishes of the public early in Spring. It may be well to mention here the importance of sending in Orders as early as possible; Trains wait for no one, and more time is required to collect orders than many are aware of.—As I design, after a reasonable time, to make this Express second to none, I trust the public will bear this in mind.

Very respectfully,

Quincy, Dec. 13. PROPRIETOR. tf

NOTICE,
TO TAX PAYERS!

THE COLLECTOR will be at the Selectmen's Room, SATURDAY, the 13th and 20th from 1 to 4 P. M., to receive Taxes. All that are not paid will be collected with cost and interest at the rate of 7 3-10 per cent. per annum, from November 1st, and 20 cents for summons.

Amount of Taxes assessed at Wollaston, for 1873, $8,320.75; number of tax bills, 193; and 134 have paid. At the West District, 7 tax-payers have not paid.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, DEC. 13, 1873.

Single Copies 5 cents.

FOR SALE AT

The Old Colony & Newport Depot, Boston, E. H. Doble & Co.'s Store, West Quincy, Souther's Periodical Store, Quincy, and at The Patriot Office.

LOCAL CHANGES. The estate of the late Jonathan Cook, purchased several months since by Mrs. Charles A. Spear, has undergone extensive repairs. The house has been completely remodelled,—the change is so great that any one familiar with the old homestead would scarcely recognize the new French cottage now located on the spot. The work is so far completed that Mrs. Spear has moved in this week.

The grounds about the Universalist Church, and adjoining the Cook estate, have been regraded and beautified; trees and shrubbery have been set out. These changes add greatly to the attractiveness of the place.

Descending the hill, we find that the spirit of innovation has preceeded us. The heavy granite wall in front of Mr. Eben. Bent's residence has been lowered about one half, while some changes have been made in the grounds around the house. We see also, that his barn has been moved about twenty feet nearer his store. Changes of this kind add much to the general beauty and surroundings of the town and we hope to see more of them.

FIRST CHURCH. Sunday School at 9 20. Bible class. Morning service at 10 50. Vespers at 4 50. Rev. John B. Green of Chelsea will preach morning and afternoon. Mr. R. D. Chase will preside at the organ.

KEEP THE PIANOS IN TUNE. Mr. J. A. Littlefield, tuner of pianos and organs will attend to the tuning of any instrument entrusted to him, at short notice. Orders left at this office will be promptly attended to. See advertisement.

BOSTON JOURNAL. Read the advertisement of this excellent family paper to be found in our columns to-day. It is, without exception, one of the best in New England. The able and masterly manner in which it gathers all the news of the day, and furnishes it in so clear and concise a form is a wonder to Young America himself. We say to all who want a good daily paper subscribe for the Boston Journal.

☞ The indications of a better state of affairs in business circles increase every day, and there seems to be a general feeling that activity will soon be manifested on all sides. Confidence is returning, and when that is once more established the wheels of industry and commerce will move briskly. Boot business started on Monday last at the establishment of J. D. Whicher & Co., which has been closed for a short time.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS. E. B. Souther has one of the largest and handsomest collections of toys and presents for Christmas and New Year, that we have ever seen in Quincy. Let all of our citizens give him a call before going to Boston or elsewhere to purchase.

Marriages.

In this town, Dec. 10th, by Rev. S. Kelly, Mr. Francis Kemp to Miss Emma Williams both of Boston.

In North Weymouth, on Thanksgiving Eve., by Rev. G. W. Whitney, Mr. Walter H. Thayer, to Miss. Mary D. Stowell, both of North Weymouth.

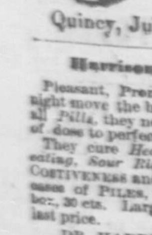

Deaths.

In East Braintree, Dec. 6th, Mr. Moses Long, aged 64 years, 5 months and 14 days.

In South Boston, Dec. 7th, Harvey White, Esq., formerly of East Braintree, aged 73 years.

FORTY-FIRST YEAR

BOSTON WEEKLY JOURNAL.

1874.

A NEW VOLUME.

Prepare Your Clubs.

The Cheapest Newspaper in New England.

The publishers of the Boston Weekly Journal invite the attention of the reading public to the attractions of a family newspaper, which for the past FORTY YEARS has received from the intelligent classes of New England a most cordial support. The thousands who rely upon the Weekly Journal for

News, General Reading and Information,

Will cheerfully indorse the fulness of its news, the truthfulness of its weekly compendium of general intelligence, and the reliability which may be placed upon its editorial comments.—The aim of the Publishers has always been, and will continue to be, to send out a weekly sheet which shall be free from all sensationalism, and shall present a large amount of reading matter which shall keep the readers fully posted up regarding

The Leading Events of the Hour,

While its pages shall not only reflect the substantial progress of opinion upon topics which are connected with the

Social and Political Interests

Of the people of New England, but shall also contain a large amount of matter which will instruct and edify the large circle which depends mainly upon its columns for their knowledge of what is going on in the great

Business Centres of the World.

The same features that have given the Weekly Journal its strong hold upon the people, and have caused its subscribers to renew their subscriptions year after year, will be retained. We do not propose to introduce any catch-penny novelties, for the field is already filled with such newspapers, but we do propose to fill its

THIRTY-SIX LONG COLUMNS

That every member of a household may find something which they shall read with pleasure and profit. There are papers which contain a larger amount of literary reading, but there is no paper published in New England which furnishes

So Large an Amount of Newsy Reading at Such a Moderate Price.

When it is remembered that by forming Clubs a paper like The Boston Weekly Journal can be secured fifty-two times each year for THREE CENTS PER WEEK, the statement would seem to warrant a circulation of a hundred thousand in the New England States. We confidently believe that an inspection of its columns will convince any one that the investment of such a trifling amount is the wisest expenditure that any man can make who desires a

FIRST CLASS FAMILY NEWSPAPER

Which he can place in the hands of the members of his family, confident that there is nothing objectionable in any of its many departments.

We shall be happy to send specimen copies free of expense. We invite the attention of Postmasters and Agents to our terms. There is no advance in prices, though the paper last year was greatly enlarged and improved

Poetry.

The Maiden's Choice.

Oh! give me the life of a farmer's wife,
In the fields and woods so bright,
Mong the singing birds and the lowing herds,
And the clover blossoms white;
The note of the morning's heavenward lark
Is the music sweet for me,
And the dewy flowers in the early hours
The gems I love to see.

Oh! give me the breeze from the waving trees,
The murmur of summer leaves.
And the swallow's song as he skips along,
Or twitters beneath the eaves;
The ploughman's shout, as he's turned out
His team at rise of sun,
Or his merry good-night by the firefly's light,
When his daily work is done.

And give me the root and the luscious fruit
My own hands rear for food,
And the bread so light and honey white,
And the milk so pure and good;
For sweet the bread of labor is,
When the heart is strong and true,
And a blessing will come to the hearth and home,
If our best we bravely do.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Grafting the Grape.

Take a vine in the spring, before the sap starts, saw it off two or three feet above the ground, then take melted rosin and tallow — simmering together—and apply hot to the stump of the vine to prevent its bleeding. Should the sap flow too freely, burn the top of the stump with a hot iron, and then apply the melted wax.

After the sap begins to circulate, as evinced by the swelling of the buds, with a gimlet near the size of the scions you wish to insert, bore one or more holes in the vine just above the collar. Measure the depth of the gimlet hole, and whittle the scion so that when pressed it will not quite reach the end of the hole, but will fit in tightly. Insert as many scions as the vine may require, and apply a little wax to their ends.

In the spring of 1872 we had a vine we thought of digging up and throwing away, but concluded to try an experiment in grafting. We put in one scion of two-year-old wood, and one of one year's growth. Both scions started, one got killed, the other grew vigorously, by the help of a ball of moist loam, and by rubbing off the buds or suckers, to encourage the new growing vine, at the height of two or three feet. In one week's time it grew over twenty-one inches, and during the season over twelve feet, besides the numerous side branches a growth from one bud that ought to satisfy any one.

I tried cleft-grafting, but never could succeed, because I could not confine the sap—it would all run to waste. By this new way I find that I control the sap, and compel it to flow into the scion that is held so firmly in the stock.—Am. Rural Home.

Save the Best Fowls for Breeding.

It is the worst possible policy to kill all the best and handsomest fowls, and save only the mean and scraggy ones to breed from. This is precisely the way to run out your stock, for like tends to breed like, and the result is, that by continually taking away the best birds, and using the eggs of the poorest, your flock will grow poorer and poorer every succeeding year.

It would seem as though this was too plain to be insisted upon, but, in fact, "line upon line" is needed. It is the crying want of the poultry upon the farms the country through,—this careful and intelligent selection of the best for breeding.

Nothing is lost by a little self-denial to start with. The extra pound or two of poultry flesh that you leave on its legs, instead of sending it to market, is as good seed, and will bring forth ten-fold and twenty-fold in your future broods. Save your best stock for breeding.—The Poultry World.

☞ An English scientist has discovered a fact important to farmers. It is that sulphite of lime appears to exercise a decided influence in arresting the spread of decay in potatoes affected by the potato disease. In one experiment the salt was dusted over some tubers, partly decayed from this cause, when they were stowed away. Some months afterwards the potatoes were found to have suffered no further injury.

☞ Clarence Maxfield picked twelve bushels of cranberries in twelve hours on the bog of Dr. C. Briggs, in North Rochester.

Anecdotes.

A resident of Germantown found something offensive in his last dozen of eggs, and took the dealer to task.

"What is the matter with them?" asked that individual.

"They are not good!" was the reply.

"Well that can't be wondered at," was the apologetic rejoinder. "The hens are so drove, now, they ain't expected to be as particular as usual!"

"Now, Johnnie," said a venerable lady to her six-year old nephew, who was persistently denying offenses of which she accused him, "I know you are not telling me the truth; I see it in your eye."

Pulling down the lower lid of the organ that so nearly betrayed his want of veracity, Johnnie exultingly replied:

"You can't tell anything about it, aunt, that eye was always that way."

"Waiter! Thim pitatees riddy!"

"Very sorry, sir. Cook's been a-b'ilin 'em these two hours."

"Two hours, is it? Faix, it's cold water she's been b'ilin' 'em in thin."

WOLLASTON HOTEL,
WOLLASTON HEIGHTS,
QUINCY.

THIS new and commodious House is now open for the reception of guests. Its location renders it most desirable for boarders from the city, being situated only six and half miles from Boston on the Old Colony Railroad, and less than one minute from the Station, 16 trains each way daily. It is only about three minutes' by cars from the Centre of Quincy—the distance being less than one mile.
Visitors to this good old town, whether for business or for pleasure, will find the
Wollaston Hotel,
a pleasant and agreeable stopping place. Transient guests or permanent boarders will receive every attention. It will be kept as a strictly
TEMPERANCE HOUSE,
no intoxicating liquors of any name or nature will be sold or kept about the premises.
A fine LIVERY and BOARDING STABLE in connection with the House.
TERMS VERY REASONABLE.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,
For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

LOWELL, MASS.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For the relief and cure of all derangements in the stomach, liver, and bowels. They are a mild aperient, and an excellent purgative. Being purely vegetable, they contain no mercury, mineral or other mineral whatever. Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. The agreeable coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.
Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—
For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.
For Liver Complaints and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.
For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.
For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.
For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.
For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.
As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.
An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous, where no serious derangement exists. One who feels lobarly well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

CATARRH!
A Woman Having Catarrh
35 Years, Cured.
And Droppings in Throat, Choking, Stranglings, Pains in the Side, Loss, Headache, Dizziness and General Weakness, Cured by less than Three Bottles of
CONSTITUTIONAL
CATARRH REMEDY.
To Messrs. Littlefield & Co., Proprietors of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, Manchester, N. H.:
I reside at Manchester, N. H., and previously resided at Henniker, and am a native of New Hampshire State. I have had Catarrh twenty-five years, ever since I was 10 years old; had it bad all the time. It run all that period, and at nights it would fill up and drop down in my throat, causing a feeling of choking, so that I would spring up in bed to save myself from strangulation. It affected my head so that I felt confused, and was troubled with severe headache at intervals, for a week at a time. I also had bad pains in my shoulders, back, and kidneys, from which I suffered immensely. So bad were they, that a year ago last summer I was obliged to lie in bed most of the time for three months. I have tried all kinds of Snuff and Catarrh remedies with no particular benefit, and consulted physicians, and had a hacking cough. I began to take the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy last August. I began to grow better before finishing the first bottle. I am now on the third bottle. My Catarrh is cured; my health is restored. I have no pains, aches, or cough. My whole system is made over new. I know it is this medicine that has rescued me from intense suffering and almost the grave. I am now able to do the hardest work and bear the greatest exposure, and feel that I cannot say too much in favor of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.
MRS. E. J. FLANDERS.
Manchester, N. H., Feb. 1, 1871.
I am 52 years old, have had the Catarrh ever since I was eighteen years old, and Headache all the time; have suffered beyond description with running in the nose, droppings in the throat, choking and strangulings. Have tried any quantity of Catarrh Remedies, but have found no relief till I tried your Constitutional Catarrh Remedy. six months ago, I found immediate relief.
Catarrh and all its attendant evils have left. Headache, Pains in the Loins and Back, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, and General Weakness. Less than three bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy have cured me. I have not been so well since I can remember as now. I feel as if I could never say too much for the medicine, or thank God too heartily that through its instrumentality I have been restored to health.

JACOB J. ABBOTT.
Hundreds of cases of a similar nature cured within the last year. Snuffs and Lotions are only temporary relief. The CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY strikes at the root, builds up the constitution, makes it new, and drives away Catarrh and all its attendant pains and aches, pertaining to head, back, shoulders, kidneys, and throat.
Price $1 per Bottle. Sold by all Druggists. A Pamphlet of 32 pages, giving a Treatise on Catarrh and containing innumerable cases of cures, sent FREE, by addressing the Proprietors.

HURSELL'S
PURITY!
— IS A —
Splendid Hair Dressing.
NO article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl or remain in any desired position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents an irritated, itching scalp-skin. It affords a beautifully rich lusture. Its effects will outlast any other preparation.
20 State Street, Boston.
Messrs. J. C. HURSELL & Co.
Gentlemen: I have analyzed HURSELL'S PURITY for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from Sulphur, Lead, Silver, Acids, Alkalies, and may be used with entire safety.

Of how they landed on a rock
At Plymouth, it was nice
That they for us, should stand the shock,
And break the ice.

Pierpont and Hemans wrote all down
The best reporters of that date;
There were no others in the town,
And they were late.

Even the vessel's name is dear—
It certainly is meet
That Mayflowers come now every year
And smell so sweet.

Men ignorant, but yet wellred,
They found with habits lax;
Careless about their beard and bed
And income tax.

Native Americans! a race
That was not born to stoop;
They danced, or fought, with changeless face,
And the war-whoop.

Some followed in their saintly track,
On whom they did not count,
And Morton many a joke did crack
At Merry Mount.

His Christmas, and his Easter tide,
His psalter and his song,
They wished upon the old world's side
With all things wrong.

So Standish, with his doughty men,
Marched, mindless of their scars;
The stages were uncertain then,
So were the cars.

Soon as Mount Wollaston he saw,
Fresh with the ocean's kiss,
With mighty oaths, in spite of law,
He swore it should be his.

Morton went home in irons bound,
Yielding at last to might,
But jurymen of England found
That he was right.

Those who baptized as St. John did,
Or kept St. Patrick's day,
The humble Quakers, all were bid
To flee away.

Now when the greaat indictment's read,
The Puritans to try;
It never can be truly plead,
'Tis useless to deny—

But that they stained what here they found
On Freedom's native sod,
For none but by their tenets bound
Were free to worship God.

Receipts, Wit & Humor.

BAKED BATTER PUDDING. Take two tablespoonfuls of flour, two eggs, and one pint of milk. Mix the flour with a very little milk. Whisk all well together. Simple as this may appear, as regards the pancakes or puddings being nice and light, all depends on whether the ingredients be well whisked or merely mixed together. Some think it is egg that makes a pudding light, but Betty tells them it is the whisk. Such batter must, however, be cooked briskly with a sharp and brisk fire.

ALICE CAKE. Five cups flour; one of sugar; one cup butter; half cup molasses; four eggs; one teaspoonful saleratus; nutmeg; beat sugar, molasses, saleratus and butter together, and eggs separately; raisins improve it.

CREAM CANDY. Take about three pounds of white sugar, one pint of water and an eighth of a teaspoon of cream of tartar; boil until, by trying in cold water, it will form a hard ball; then pour on a greased tin or slab of marble. As it cools, pull between the hand or with a hook, until very light and white. While pulling, flavor with extract of lemon or vanilla. Let it stand in a warm place for a few hours until it grains.

TIT FOR TAT. Slightly sarcastic was the clergyman who paused and addressed a man coming into church after the sermon had begun, with the remark:

"Glad to see you, sir; come in; always glad to see those here late, who can't come early."

Decidedly self-possessed was the man thus addressed, and in the presence of an astonished congregation, he responded:

"Thank you; would you favor me with the text?"

☞ A dry goods clerk in Springfield, Ill., was much mortified the other day, because a young lady who didn't agree about the price called him "a miserable, elongated tapeworm."

☞ One day when Mrs. Partington, heard the minister say there would be a knave in the new church, she observed that "she knew who the party was."

☞ An old lady recently visiting a prison, asked one of the attendants why the prisoners received such coarse food. He told her it was to keep their blood from becoming impure; and when asked what they would do if their blood was impure, he drily responded, "Break out!"

☞ A Michigan paper recently closed an obituary notice with the misquotations, "He is not dead, but squeaketh." The printer apparently wasn't minding his p's and q's.

☞ A leading article.—A locomotive.

THAT MAN.

"It is of no use for that man to come here to see our Lucy," said Mrs. Ebenezer Ruskin, emphasizing the declaration with a stamp of her slippered foot upon the neatly braided hearth-mat. "It is of no manner of use! He might better stay away."

"He is a very estimable young man," quietly remarked Mr. Ruskin, looking over his spectacles from the cosey corner where he sat reading the Daily Bulletin.

"Estimable! I don't esteem him! What business has he running after our Lucy?" cried Mrs. Ruskin plying her thread and needle with increasing swiftness as she warmed with her subject. "Mr. Knowles had no right to introduce him here. I don't thank him for it; and I wouldn't have thought you, Ebenezer Ruskin, would have asked him in, and sent that child into the parlor to see him alone!" Again the slippered foot stamped the mat with added vigor.

"How was he to become acquainted with our Lucy if he did not get a mutual friend to come and introduce him?" inquired Mr. Ebenezer, not noticing the gauntlet thrown at himself.

"What right has he to seek Lucy's acquaintance? I don't like him, and he shan't come here! there!"

"Who? Mr. Knowles?"

"No. That man."

"What man?"

"Ebenezer Ruskin! why will you provoke me with such senseless questions? It is provocation enough to think that he is poked up there in the parlor alone with our Lucy at this very minute, and you sit here as quiet as a dozing snail and won't so much as show him the door. If only I were master of the house!"

"Well, what then, Mrs. Ebenezer? I thought you always had been master of the house and always expected to be."

"Ebenezer! if I were a vulgar woman I would broomstick you."

"Or give me a dose of umbrella?"

"Yes, I would indeed. I could see you caned for allowing that man to visit our Lucy. But he shan't marry her.—You may rely on that, Mr. Ebenezer Ruskin!"

"What have you against him?"

"Everything; but first, and chiefly that he wants our Lucy."

"What do you know about him?"

"Nothing; and don't want to know anything about him. Neither he nor any other scapegrace need to come sneaking around after our Lucy. She is nothing but a child. The ridiculous idea of her having a beau!"

"Lucy is nearly twenty-one."

"What if she is? She is my youngest; she's my baby. All the others are married and gone: I mean to keep her at home to take comfort with."

"But by-and-by you and I may die and leave her very lonely."

"Nonsense! your family is long-lived; so is mine. At all events, live or die, our Lucy shan't have that man."

"He is in every way a suitable match for her—good principles—a proficient in his business. Do you know that despite his youth there is no better doctor for ten miles around than this same young Doctor Gilmore?"

"Shaw! I wouldn't employ him to doctor a sick chicken. For my own part I never would have a doctor in the house who wasn't an old married man with a family."

"If your greatest objection to Dr. Gilmore is that he has no wife, why should you stand in the way of his getting one?"

"Why he wants our Lucy; and he shan't have her. Of all men in the world I wouldn't have her marry a doctor; besides that she's my baby, and she shan't marry anybody.

This is the first time she has had an interview with him alone, and I mean it shall be the last time. If you don't go and show him the door I will and tell him, too, that the sooner he walks out of it the better I shall be pleased."

"I do not believe that you mean to do any such thing."

"Do you dare me to do it, Ebenezer Ruskin? If you do you shall see what a desperate woman can do. I'll go at once and give him a ticket-of-leave."

Mrs. Ebenezer Ruskin started immediately for the parlor, but alas! in her haste and anger she caught her foot in the edge of the mat and fell her full length upon the floor. Her face struck upon the sharp edge of the stove-hearth cutting her lip and causing the blood to flow profusely. Moreover, putting out her arm to save herself in falling, she broke it between the wrist and the elbow.

Mr. Ruskin ran and attempted to lift his wife; but his constitution was such that he always fainted at the sight of blood and no sooner did he get sight of the crimson fluid streaming from her pallid lips than his head began to swim, his strength oozed away at his elbows, and he sank to the floor in a swoon.

The occupants of the parlor were startled by strange noises in the kitchen. Lucy came running, followed by "that man," seeing her father and mother lying upon the floor, Lucy ran first to her mother and lifted her head. At sight of the flowing blood, horror seized her.—"Merciful Heaven!" she cried, "some one has murdered them," and staggering back she fell fainting.

"There was only "that man" to do anything, and he literally had his hands full. But presence of mind, promptness and efficiency marked his every movement. Mrs. Ruskin though badly hurt was not insensible. She knew when a strong arm lifted her and bore her to a lounge, that it was that man who laid her there so tenderly, who staunched the blood with his own spotless white handkerchief, there being nothing else at hand, and who gently inquired where and how badly she was hurt before he went to seek restoratives for Lucy and her father. Then it was he who in a trice found water and a towel on premises with which he was hitherto unacquainted, and made application thereof to the two insensible ones and speedily restoring them to consciousness. It was that man, also who set Mrs. Ruskin's arm and who healed up the ugly cut in her lip so skillfully that it scarcely showed a scar. It was that man who attended her in the capacity of physician until her arm was fully healed. And when, on Lucy Ruskin's twenty-first birthday, a wedding took place in the parlor of the Ruskins, it was the pretty Lucy who was the bride and that man was the happy bridegroom.

"It is a splendid thing to have such a doctor for a son-in-law," said Mrs. Ruskins to her husband in an undertone as she was cutting the handsome bride's cake.

"Ah, my dear!" whispered Mr. Ebenezer mischievously in her ear, "of all men in the world I wouldn't have our Lucy marry a doctor; and at all events, live or die, she shan't marry that man!"

Saturday Evening Post.

Letter from California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28, '73.

Editors Patriot:—The time has been so long since I wrote you, that you doubtless think I have forgotten you and the old folks at home; but I can assure you such is not the case. The only trouble is that it is a hard job for me to anchor myself to commence writing, but when the commencement is made, like all other little undertakings, the worst part of it is done. Still another thing is always in the way — that is, to shape a letter that will appear to be interesting to readers at a long distance away.—Many things are passing among us daily, of a local nature, that are of some magnitude to our own denizens, but which would be of no interest to you. San Francisco is on the march at double-quick time to greatness. Increase of population is out of all ordinary criterion, and should it continue, it will not be many years till we will class among the most populous cities of the world.—But, young as she is, and located as she is, in the centre of commerce, and surrounded by teeming valleys of grain, she has a full share of the ills of human life. There are hundreds of men you may meet on the streets from "early morn till dewy eve," without employment, and without the means to buy a meal's victuals. And instead of a likelihood of this state of things growing better, it would seem that the chances are favorable for them to be worse.

THE CHINESE.

The Chinese nuisance is felt heavier and heavier each day among the laboring white people. They have almost the full control of many branches of industry: boot and shoe manufactories, cigar making, waiters, operatives in woolen mills, machine shops, laundries, kitchens, and in fact you will find them filling all places from the counting-room to the stable. Their presence among us in such numbers as we have them, is the greatest curse with which the laboring classes have to contend, and unless a positive check can be put to their influx hither, it must lead to something—God knows what.

POLITICAL MATTERS.

In political matters we are on the move for something better or worse—and there is very little probability of bringing about any change for the worse.—The two old parties have proved so terribly corrupt that the people are sorely tired of them, and have determined that they will no longer submit to the behests of primary schemes for plunder, but will take matters in their own hands and go for the best men, regardless of party affiliations. Should they be deceived in some cases, and their confidence be misplaced, which is likely to be the case, why they can heave the base material overboard and supply the place with another, and so on till they have cleansed the Augean stable.

The impositions and exactions of the Central Pacific Railroad, and the general tendency of the old parties to foster monopolies to the detriment of the interests of the tax-paying population, are main springs of this new movement.

Our Legislature will assemble next Monday, and then we will be able to see at least the "cropping out" of what good may come "out of Nazareth."—The election of a Senator will show pretty nearly the tendency of things politically. Both the Independents and Democrats preponderate over the Republicans, but no party alone can elect a Senator. Some of the Republican newspapers are advocating a coalition of the Republicans and Democrats to beat what they derisively term the Dolly Vardens; but the gulf is too wide between the two plunder-fattened fogies to think of such a blending of extremes. Governor Booth is undoubtedly the choice of the people, if left to them. He is the man of the Dolly Vardens. I do not believe Casserley is the choice of the rank and file of even his own party. Gorham, the champion of monopolies and Chinese immigration, must take a back seat in the political synagogue.

THE WEATHER, ETC.

The weather in San Francisco during all the Fall season, with a few days exception, has been beautiful. But as this is the case with us every year at the same season, it is nothing new. So far we have had but two rains, one in October and the other in this month, but neither amounted to much. We may soon look for our regular winter rains.—The more copious our winter rains are, the better it is for California, and all look forward to a plentiful supply of wet with hopes and prayers. But as the time approaches, while it is a source of joy to our farmers and business men, it is looked to by thousands of the destitute and homeless with doubtful forebodings.—How many of them will survive the winter is a question.

Our hospitals and other charitable institutions are already occupied to almost their full capacity, and when there is no more room there for the sick and penniless and destitute, the unfortunates on the outside must suffer.

IMMIGRATION.

I notice by the newspapers that there is quite a movement among the people in the Eastern States towards emigrating to California. Now, I suppose that anything I could say, could have but little effect either way, but if I had a friend to advise, I would tell him to stay where he is, if he is making a living. California is a good country for a person with means at his command, but for a poor man, without money and without friends to assist him, it is the hardest State in the Union to get along in; and I say, without fear of contradiction, that there is more want and misery in California, in proportion to population, than in any other State in North America. I may give you the reasons for this opinion in a subsequent letter; at present, adios.

POCO TIEMPO.

Tripping at Trifles.

Recently, a gentleman in Brooklyn returned to his house in Montague street to find his wife sitting on the knee of the servant man, with her arms around his neck, and his arms around her waist.—Now this gentleman is passionate by nature, and he got so angry that he swore, discharged the servant, and told his wife that she musn't do so any more. This isn't the way old farmer Pettingill, who lived down in Connecticut, acted under similar circumstances. One day he went home and found his man hugging Mrs. P. Mr. P. said nothing, but went back to the field. As the hired man didn't come out to work for some time, the farmer went in search of him. He found him in his own room packing up his trunk.

"What's the matter, Zeb?" said Mr. P.

"N-o-o-th-ing!" said Zeb.

"What are you packing your trunk for, then?"

"I'm going away!"

"Going away! What for?"

"You know what you saw me doing this morning?"

"Don't be so foolish. If you and me can't hug the old woman enough, I'll hire another man."

A Parody.

A certain hostess, whose table is noted for its uniformity of dishes has a brisk daughter who electrifies her ma's boarders with the following parod sung to an accompaniment of a new fifty dollar piano: "While beefsteak and venison costs lots of cash, be it ever so gristly there's nothing like hash; the scraping and leaving of no use elsewhere, when mixed altogether make excellent fare.—Hash, hash, good meat hash! Be it ever so gristly there's nothing like hash! A stranger from home, hotels dazzle in vain; O give me cheap eating-house food that's more plain the waiter who gayly re-echoes my call for a nice plate of hash or a single fish-ball.—Hash, hash," etc.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

POST OFFICE APPOINTMENTS. The many friends of Mr. John B. Bass, will learn with pleasure of his re-appointment as post master of this town. Since the removal of the office to its present large and pleasant room, we think our citizens have had but little cause of complaint, as all business is attended to in a very prompt and accommodating manner.

Mr. Enoch H. Doble has been made post master of the new office at West Quincy. This is a very judicious appointment, and one that gives excellent satisfaction to the residents of that part of the town. Mr. Doble is well qualified for the place, having had considerable experience in the business, as a branch office had been kept at his store for some time.

Mr. Joseph T. Russell has received the appointment of post master at Wollaston.

Quincy is well provided with mail arrangements, having five offices, and it would seem that there need be no deficiencies with such a complete outfit, and such efficient and competent men to preside over them.

TEA PARTY. In years gone by it was fashionable for ladies to give tea parties, and invite their friends and neighbors to a social tea drinking and other fixings. The ladies of the Universalist society desirous of keeping up this old custom, celebrated the centennial tea party at the Town Hall, on Tuesday afternoon and evening, and extended a general invitation to the citizens. It was an occasion of pleasure and enjoyment and all who participated in the festival were highly pleased. The principal feature of the occasion was tea drinking, and all felt a desire to indulge in the social cup.—The tea was of excellent quality, and with the refreshments and ice creams, was well patronized. Some of the ladies indulged in several cups of the refreshing fluid, feeling no doubt something might detain them from attending the next centennial anniversary. The ladies who tended the tables, wore very neat and tasty caps, which gave them a very dignified look. A few donned the costume of the olden times.

The singing by the Gurney Club was of a high order, and the audience greatly enjoyed the soul-stirring strains of their fine music. Our lady singers did beautifully, and their selections were much admired by all. Capt. Glover sung a comic song appropriate to the occasion, which called out loud applause.

The orator of the evening, Mr. James Slade, kept the company in perfect good humor, while relating from his store of wit many pleasing stories and anecdotes which the delighted audience listened to with much pleasure.

THE OLD FOLKS' CONCERT. The Concert at the Town Hall, on Wednesday evening, by the Wollaston Choral Society, in costume of ancient days, was a rich treat. The musical talent displayed by our new neighbors, is of the highest order, and we should have been pleased to have seen them have a crowded house. We hope at some, not very distant day, they will repeat the programme, as they cannot fail to delight any audience, and will receive the warmest commendations from those who love sweet melody. The following are the names of the ladies and gentlemen who performed on this occasion.

Singers,—Mr. C. A. Faunce, Mr. Bailey and Mrs. Barstow of Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Braden, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Olney, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Russell, Mrs. Waterhouse, Miss M. Gove, Miss Fanny Lord, Mrs. Jones, Mr. Seeley, Mr. Preston, and Mr. J. Q Faunce, of Wollaston.

The pianist, was Miss Anna Lord of Wollaston. The other Musicians, were Messrs. Curtis, Phillips, Allen, Faunce and Bailey. Everything connected with the Concert, passed off in a very pleasant and successful manner, and by request they will repeat the entertainment, at the Baptist Chapel, Wollaston, on Tuesday evening, December 30th.

A JAM. The gathering that assembled at the Town Hall, on Thursday evening last, was the largest we have ever seen at any entertainment in this town. It is estimated that not less than fifteen hundred persons were present. Whether it was to hear Mrs. Churchill discourse on temperance, or to hear the ring of Henry H. Faxon's dollars, we cannot say. But one thing is certain, they had the pleasure, (those that were not disturbed by the noise,) of listening to a very fine lecture; one worthy the attention of all of our citizens. In many respects it surpassed those delivered by the popular and distinguished gentleman, who had preceded her.

At the close of her remarks, Mr. Faxon announced that he had decided to give each Society $300, believing it would give better satisfaction, than by any other plan he could adopt.

He also said that there was one gentleman who had not only had a good lecturer, but who had a decided interest in the good cause, had worked faithfully and earnestly to promote it. Wishing to encourage such men he should give that gentleman—Rev. Samuel Kelley—$200 extra.

Mr. Faxon has spent on this course of lectures, reckon the incidental expenses and gifts, about $3000; still he announced at the meeting that he should have four more lectures in February, if good speakers could be procured.

Another Napoleonic Raid.

The FRENCH Lion Beer-ded in his hole.

For some time past, State Constable Furnald has been convinced, that a considerable quantity of ale has been unlawfully vended, from the counter of the "Granite Saloon" in this town. "Where it was kept," and "how it was got in the place" were questions which he determined to have answered, and at the same time get possession of it. With this intent, armed with the proper papers, and with the assistance of Officers Eldridge, Porter and Clifford, he visited the Saloon on Saturday last. After thoroughly searching the place some half hour and overhauling boxes, pails and innumerable other traps, they succeeded in finding only a pail of Ale, sufficient to convince the officers that there was a supply somewhere in the place; it was not long before the eagle eye of Furnald, fell upon the object of their search, and he exclaimed in the words of the great Pythagoras, "I have found it." It was but the work of a few moments, to unearth one of the most ingenious devices yet discovered to hide the prohibited beverage. In the back part of the money drawer, a hole was discovered, which when the drawer was closed, fitted a screw head, which held a nicely arranged and finely fitted slide, behind which was a lead pipe, which ran down behind a post, inside the counter to the floor, thence underneath the floor, into the cellar of the well-known, most respectable and law abiding druggist, C. C. Johnson, where it was attached to a barrel of ale. How long this French invention has been in use, is known only to the inventor, but as nearly a dozen empty ale barrels were in the cellar, and as no one would even hint, that Mr. Johnson ever allowed anything of the kind sold on his premises, it is but fair to presume, that their contents were drawn through this pipe, to the French bar.

The thanks of all law abiding citizens, are due the Officers, for the thorough manner in which the search was conducted.

A LOOKER ON.

BRAINTREE.

The M. E. Mission, in South Braintree, was commenced March 2d, with a Sunday School of twenty-two members, since which time, they have purchased the house of worship formerly occupied by the Baptists.

The first Sabbath in October, Rev. Louis E. Charpiot, commenced laboring with them as their regular pastor, and now their Sunday School numbers seventy, and they have a large Congregation in attendance at all their services.

They are proposing to hold a "Grand Bazaar," in the Town Hall, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and evenings of next week, the proceeds of which are to shingle their house of worship and provide it with new pews and a pulpit.

They have already $100 deposited in the Bank for that purpose, and it is hoped they will succeed in raising all the funds they need.

We understand they are to have at their "Bazaar," all sorts of articles, for sale, both fancy and useful, and it will be well for any that wish to purchase Christmas presents, to visit it before they buy elsewhere.

A BIG BUSINESS. The following cases of State Constable Furnald, came before Judge Putnam, in the Supreme Court, at Dedham, the past week. C. T. Woodman, Dedham, common seller. Found guilty and fined $50. Costs $16.85, paid.

John McDonald, of West Roxbury, keeping liquor nuisance, — fined $100. Costs, $20.95.

Alexander Clough, of West Roxbury, keeping liquor nuisance, — fined $75.00. Costs, $7.00.

John Doyle, West Roxbury, keeping liquor nuisance,—fined $75. Costs, $7.

Catharine Rowell, of Quincy, keeping liquor nuisance, fined $50. Costs, $14.75.

Charles French, of Quincy, keeping liquor with intent to sell. Found guilty and fined $10. Costs, $29 80.

Thomas H. Hayes, of Quincy, keeping liquor with intent to sell. Found guilty and fined $10. Costs, $36 34. Twenty days to the House of Correction, at Dedham. Committed Dec. 16, 1873.

Total, fine and costs paid, $502.89.

William Rudderham, sent to State Prison for 3 years.

Lucius Thayer, 6 months House of Correction, at Dedham.

Lorinda Thayer, common drunkard, 7 months House of Correction.

Miles Cronin, State Reform School, till 21 years of age.

On Thursday, schooner Emeline McLaine, Capt. Wm. L. Crowell, loaded with coal for D. Howard Bills arrived at the same place.

Letter from New York,

In my letter last week I made mention of the new "Hotel Windsor," and there is no exaggeration in saying, that it is the largest and most elegant in the world. It is just completed and will accommodate about 1500 guests. The furniture and decorations (by A. T. Stewart & Co.,) alone, cost $500,000, and what charmed me most, was the refined and elegant taste displayed everywhere about the building. For richness and splendor it would indeed be difficult to surpass this noble pile. It is the pride of New York.

Coming down the avenue to 34th St., we go into A. T. Stewart's magnificent private house, the finest mansion in the world, it is said, and we must confess, it far exceeded the many descriptions even that have been published from time to time.

It is entirely of white marble inside and out, is four stories in height, with a superb mansard roof, and all the immense windows are of two panes of the finest French-plate glass. Ringing the bell, the old porter appeared, and crediting our few words of explanation, very kindly showed us around the principal rooms, hall, and courts; a rare privilege, certainly, and granted to very few people even among New Yorkers themselves. (I refer to strangers, calling from curiosity.) The interior is of white marble, moulding-, mop boards, sills, floors, columns, stair-cases and balustrades. The grand stair case is a marvel of construction, and of most elegant design, self-supporting apparently, and winding gracefully to the top of the house.

All the wood used for the doors, is the finest rosewood, and to enumerate the elegant furniture, the statuary, the superb picture gallery, (an immense room) and the many articles of virtu, with which the mantels and tables are filled, would require too much space. I believe the house cost a million and a half of dollars, or thereabouts; and the family moved in last April. The house is surrounded by a massive white marble wall and railing, solid and costly.

Mr. Stewart is indeed a remarkable man; an early riser, he goes down town to business every morning by 9 o'clock the year round, and works more hours a day than any of his clerks. He is worth one hundred millions now, and in ten years time, his wealth will double again, so shrewd, prosperous and gigantic in his business.

This evening I stepped into Steinway Hall, to hear the wonderful pianist, blind Tom, about whom I had heard such wonderful accounts. It was the greatest musical treat of my life thus far, exceeding all my expectations, high as they were. I never was so impressed before by piano music, and the whole audience likewise, judging from the deafening applause, and the many encores demanded and given. How is it, that this blind, idiotic booby, who never took a lesson in his life, and knows nothing except to spin round on either foot, make grimaces and ludicrous contortions, can sit down and play in the most masterly way, the highest grade of difficult musical compositions, without his notes?

At the request of his manager, anybody might come to the platform and play a selection for Blind Tom to imitate. I went up and played Chopin's polonaise in C sharp minor, one of that piano poets finest compositions, and Blind Tom sat down immediately and played it bar for bar, never having heard it before, and this really seemed so, for he did not get some of the notes right, although those little changes of his, were harmonious, and he grasped the whole sense of the composition, then, at a single hearing. What explanation has ever been given of his wonderful performances, by the press of America or Great Britain? They have mostly ridiculed him, and said he did not, and could not do these things; one or two of them have hit the mark, and thousands among the people understand the matter. It matters not who it is, or what it is, that plays with such wondrous power on this chosen instrument, suffice it for me, that I can go and listen with the same reverence and respect as when hearing a Rubenstein or a Gottschalk.

Mrs. Scott Siddons, and Master Harry Walker the young English pianist, eleven years of age, have lately given a couple of their unique entertainments in Boston, and this week in New York, before crowded and delighted audiences. The lad is indeed a true genius, a second Mozart in very truth on the piano, his chosen instrument. They will have a hearty reception when they return to Boston. Mlle. Teresa Lieb the finest lady violinist, (far superior to Camilla Urso,) has joined them, making a most delightful and refined entertainment. They are sure of great success.

CANTU.

☞ In this age of scepticism, facts are required to inspire confidence in the minds of the people; but, with good indorsers, they are willing to test any article claiming extraordinary merit. The proprietors of Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer offer the following indorsement of the merits claimed by them for their preparation, by the Pittsburg, Pa., "Christian Advocate;" viz, "The public have so often been deceived by the use of worthless preparations for the hair, that an article of this kind, to gain their favor and secure their patronage, must possess real merit. We are glad to assure our readers that Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is meeting with the success which its merits so justly deserve; and we have reliable evidence that it will perform all that is claimed for it, in restoring gray hair to its natural color, and, as a permanent dressing, is unsurpassed.

MONDAY.

David B. Lincoln, of Cohasset, was before the Court this morning for a single sale of intoxicating liquors. Pleaded guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

Gardner Cram, of East Weymouth, for illegally keeping intoxicating liquors, with intent to sell. Found guilty and fined $10 and costs.

TUESDAY.

The case of John Clark, of Quincy, for an assault on John L. Hunnewell of Boston, was continued this morning. He was found guilty and fined $3 and costs.

SEIZURES. On Saturday last State Constable Furnald, assisted by State Constable Clifford, visited French's Saloon corner of Granite street, and seized one barrel of ale.

On Sunday, State Constable Porter and Furnald visited the establishment of Benjaman Sanderson of Braintree, where they seized a quantity of rum, gin, whisky and brandy. A lot of whisky was also seized by the same officers, at the establishment of Patrick McCarty, of Braintree, on Sunday last.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS. We invite the readers' attention to the advertisements of Holiday Presents, in this paper. Extensive preparations have been made by our merchants that our citizens might have a good stock to select from.

A CHANGE. It will be seen by an advertisement in to-days paper, that the hours for receiving and sending mails have been changed, and also an extra mail has been added, which now gives us all the facilities which we desire.

It is confidently hoped that the mills in Fall River will run on full time again by the first of January.

Summary of News.

A gentleman in Uxbridge picked a cluster of violets in his garden on the 12th of December.

Gloucester is arrogant over a huge clam which has a girth of ten inches, and might be the source of many chowders.

Andrew S. Doe, of New Market, has an orchard of 365 apple trees, the last one of which was set June 17, 1775, the day of the battle of Bunker Hill.

Forty thousand bushels of Virginia oysters reached Boston on Monday.

There is a messenger on duty in the Boston Custom House who has served in that position during the past twenty-one years.

Tweed is the first ex-Congressman ever sent to the Penitentiary for a crime.

It is thought that the mills in Fall River, Mass., will be in full operation again by the first of next month.

There are one hundred and three car manufacturing companies in the United States and Canada.

Eight millions of brick were made in Danvers last year.

A CARD. At a meeting of the Ladies connected with the late Tea Party, a resolution was unanimously passed, thanking Mr. James H. Slade for his very entertaining and acceptable Address; Mr. Glover for his fine humorous songs, and the Gurney Club of North Bridgewater, assisted by the Misses Tirrell and Gurney, for the exceedingly choice musical entertainment which they furnished. A resolution was also passed, returning thanks to many others who helped in getting up the entertainment.

Per order.

Quincy, Dec. 20. 1t

VOTE OF THANKS. At a meeting of delegates from eight different Sunday Schools, in the town of Quincy, held on Monday evening, Dec. 15, 1873. It was unanimously voted, "that the cordial thanks of the Societies thus represented, be tendered to H. H. Faxon, Esq., for his interest and generosity in providing, (at an expense of Two Thousand Four Hundred dollars, divided equally among the Schools, for Libraries, etc.,) a course of Free Temperance Lectures, in the Town Hall, for the citizens of Quincy and vicinity." To the Public.

THE undersigned takes this opportunity to return his sincere thanks to the people of Quincy for the patronage extended to him since he established his Family Medicine, Drug and Prescription Store in their midst. Owing to a press of business elsewhere, I have disposed of my business to Mr. THREADWAY, who I take pleasure in recommending to the inhabitants of Quincy and vicinity as a reliable Pharmacist, having a thorough knowledge of the mysteries of the drug business, and who will endeavor, by a personal attention to the store, to merit a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed on me.

Yours, respectfully,

H. K. APPLETON, JR.

NOTICE.

THE subscriber having purchased the Store lately occupied by H. K APPLETON, JR., as a Family Medicine, Drug and Prescription Store, would take this method of informing the public that he shall endeavor to keep constantly on hand the BEST

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

ON and after December 15th, 1873, a RAILROAD EXPRESS will run between

Quincy and Boston,

DAILY, leaving Quincy at 10 45 A. M., Returning, leave Boston at 2 30 P. M.

Orders will be taken from Boxes in Quincy, up to 10 o'clock, A. M. Orders may be left at the Depot, and at my Office, Hancock Street, rear of Wollaston Bank, up to the starting of the 10 47 train. More trains will be run to meet wants and wishes of the public early in Spring. It may be well to mention here the importance of sending in Orders as early as possible; Trains wait for no one, and more time is required to collect orders than many are aware of.—As I design, after a reasonable time, to make this Express second to none, I trust the public will bear this in mind, and thereby assist an earnest worker in serving the public faithfully.

Very respectfully,

C. S. COOLIDGE,
PROPRIETOR.

BASE BALL. The Quincy Base Ball Club, has just concluded its sixth season of playing. It was organized in May, 1868, under the name of Flyaways, with the following members of the present nine as officers: Geo. Curtis, Captain; George Penniman, Secretary; John Bates, Treasurer. Now they have a club which bids defiance to all rivals as will be seen by the following score of the past season. Below is a brief review of the season of 1873.

Number of games played	19
" " " won,	13
" " " lost,	6

Highest score made in a single game was with the Eagles of Quincy, July 29. Score, Quincys 45, Eagles 33.

Highest score by opponent was made by the Young Americas of Braintree, May 1st. Score, Quincys 25, Young Americas 42.

Lowest score was made by the Quincys with the Washingtons of Braintree, July 29th. Score, Quincys 13, Washingtons 9. Lowest score made by opponent was in a game with the Excelsiors of Braintree, July 25th. Score, Quincys 40, Excelsiors 7.

REAL ESTATE SALES. Benjaman C. Barlow, sold 5000 feet of land with buildings, at the junction of Brooks and Farrington streets, Wollaston, to Stephen G. and John T. Abbott, for $4800.

Thomas Crockett and John A. Courtney sold ten acres of land on the northwesterly side of Washington street, Braintree, to Joseph E. Riley for $7000.

FIRST CHURCH. Sunday School at 9.20 A. M. Bible class. Morning service at 10.50 A. M. The Pastor will officiate. Vespers at 4.50 P. M. Rev. Geo. A. Thayer, of South Boston, will address the young people on "Experience."

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Preaching by the pastor 10 1-2 A. M. Christmas Sermon,—a Plea for the Children. Sabbath School at 12 A. M. Sabbath School Concert at 7 P. M. Theme appropriate to Christmas.

☞ Frederick Dent, the father of Mrs. Grant died suddenly at Washington on Monday night at the age of 88 years. He complained of being unwell during the day, but no alarming symptoms were apparent until a short time before his death.

TRIED AND CONVICTED. Loring G. White alias William Ellis of Weymouth, Mass., who was arrested in New York last Feburary and taken to Cleaveland, Ohio, on requisition to be tried for forgery, has been found guilty of passing forged Union Pacific Railroad income bonds, to the amount of $15,000 on the bank of J. V. Painter of Cleaveland.

HINGHAM. The railroad stations in Hingham and West Hingham were entered by burglars on Thursday night, and several tickets and a small amount of money secured by them. Three men have been arrested on suspicion of being concerned in other robberies in the town, and have been held for examination.

In olden times, 'twas royal sport
When Boney with the French held Court;
But times are changed with men and Boney,
The Court now holds the French's money.

HARPER'S. The January number of HARPER'S MAGAZINE could not easily be surpassed in the variety of its reading-matter or wealth of pictorial illustrations. Half of its contents are illustrated, there being Sixty-nine Engravings. Its illustrated articles treat of the Island of Martinique—the birth-place of the Empress Josephine and of Sultana Validi; of the remarkable financial career of the Rothschilds; and of Washington News-gatherers, &c., &c.

One of the most attractive features of this Number is the first installment of "My Mother and I: A Love-Story for Girls," by Miss MULOCK, beautifully illustrated. Professor DE MILLE's serial story, "The Living Link," is continued; and there are also two excellent short stories.

The editorial departments are instructive and entertaining as usual. For sale at Souther's Periodical Store, Quincy.

Deaths.

In this town, Dec. 17th, after a lingering illness, Mr. Cyrus Dole, formerly of Acton, Mass., aged 63 years and 10 months.

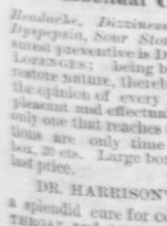

Dec. 14th, Mr. Frederick H. Mullen, aged 32 years and 2 mos.

Dec. 14th, Ellen Rebecca, daughter of the late Mr. John and Mrs. Mary McGann, aged 18 years and 26 days.

In East Milton, Dec. 16th, Mr. Chas. G. West, aged 42 years and 2 mos.

☞ A crusty old bachelor suggests to the lady who wrote a reply to John J. Glover's letter, that may be the reason why Messrs. White, Parker and himself are so happy, is because their wives are not present.

WEST QUINCY DRUG STORE.

THE subscriber, (formerly at Appleton's Quincy Pharmacy,) having bought the stock, &c., of the store lately occupied by Billings & Oxley, Druggists, and refitted it as a FIRST CLASS

Drug, Medicine & Prescription Store,

would most respectfully solicit a share of the public patronage. He keeps constantly on hand

THE BEST
Drugs and Chemicals,
— AND ALL THE — Popular Patent Medicines
OF THE DAY.

☞ Physicians' Prescriptions carefully compounded, and put up neatly, at all hours of the day and night.

THE FINEST
SOAPS, HAIR OILS, HAIR BRUSHES, TOOTH BRUSHES, COMBS, PERFUMERY, POMADES, TOILET POWDER, HAIR DYES,
Cigars and Fancy Articles.

Any article in the line, not on hand, will be procured at short notice and at lowest prices.

WINES AND LIQUORS
FOR MEDICINAL USE,
And sold only under a Physicians' Presription.

I would call particular attention to my manner of dispensing Physicians Prescriptions, only pure drugs and Chemicals being used, and compounded by the subscriber himself. I would invite all to call at my store and examine my stock of carefully selected, pure and fresh MEDICINES, of Foreign and American manfacture.

My FLUID EXTRACT, TINCTURE and SYRUP, &c., &c., are all manufactured at my store, and warranted to be of full strength.

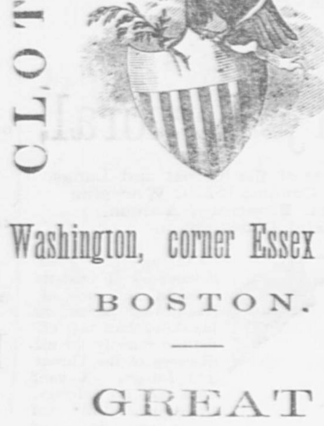

Thanking the public for their past generous support, and trusting that in the future, by careful attention to business and the wants of my patrons, to merit their full approbation.

THE
BOSTON DAILY ADVERTISER
For 1874.

PROSPECTUS:

THE DAILY ADVERTISER has no new promises to make for the coming year. While referring with confidence to the past for indications of its general character and policy, its purpose will be, now as heretofore, to meet the new demands that may be made upon it, and to give an accurate and faithful transcript of the times. A large and gratifying increase of circulation during the current year, in spite of the unusual depression in many branches of business, and the addition of new and improved presses end machinery, enable us to give the latest intelligence possible in the most attractive form, and to answer in all respects the requirements of A LEADING MORNING NEWSPAPER. To this end every edition will contain:

I

THE LATEST AND MOST VALUABLE INTELLIGENCE from all parts of the world.

II.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES AND CORRESPONDENCE from all points of special interest, at home and abroad.

III.

A COMPLETE RESUME OF LOCAL EVENTS, including reports of public gatherings, the legislature and the courts, societies devoted to trade, literature, philanthropy and religion.

IV.

MUSICAL, DRAMATIC, ART and LITERARY CRITICISM.

V.

EDITORIAL DISCUSSIONS of subjects of general interest and importance, comprising the judgement of experts and the results of actual experience, as far as possible, and treated in all cases with an honest purpose to arrive at the truth.

VI.

Market Reports, Prices Current, Stock Quotations, Financial, Commercial and Marine Intelligence — departments in which the Daily Advertiser has long been unrivalled, and intends to continue so.

VII.

Miscellaneous and News Selections, gathered from a very large list of exchanges and the best available sources.

To these regular and routine departments, special features will be added from time to time, as events may call for them; and no pains or labor will be spared to make the DAILY ADVERTISER as welcome and interesting to family and social circles as it is indispensable to the business community. In political matters, so far as parties are now divided on national questions, the DAILY ADVERTISER is warmly and consistently Republican; but recognizes no party obligation to defend or apologize for public men and measures simply because they bear that name. The Republican party has great vitality and a capacity for usefulness not yet seriously impared. But in the course of a long succession of triumphs it has become tolerant of convenient abuses which ought to be swept away. The party itself stands in need of wholesome and independent criticism and we hold it to be the business of journals indentified with its history, and in full sympathy with its general policy, to administer it without malice, and at the same time without fear. To its literary department the DAILY ADVERTISER will give a wider scope than ever before, keeping not merely a record of new books with which our publishing houses are now overflowing, but also a record of the current events of literary or scientific interest at home and abroad, including letters from the most approved writers, extracts from new books, reports of the investigations of scholars, and intelligent and honest criticism of books as they appear. In the closely related department of musical and dramatic criticism, the DAILY ADVERTISER will continue to have the benefit of accomplished writers and critics wholly in sympathy with the public desire and the public need of the best the modern concert room and stage afford. With regard to the general interests of the community,—we aim to keep in mind and to advocate whatever tends to promote its welfare,—temperance, good morals, sound principles, wise legislation,—and above all a healthy hatred of shams always, on the watch for places of influence and repute to which they are not entitled by ability, character or by public or private services.

TERMS:

The subscription price of the DAILY ADVERTISER is $12 per annum. To clubs of five and under twenty, to one address, the price is $9.50 per copy. To clubs of twenty and upwards, the price is $9 per copy.

The subscription price of the SEMI-WEEKLY ADVERTISER is $4 per year, and is made up with special reference to the wants of our more distant subscribers.

The subscription price of the WEEKLY ADVERTISER is $2 per year. To clubs of 10 and upwards the price is $1 50 per copy.

Harper's Magazine.

Notices of the Press.

The ever-increasing circulation of this excellent monthly proves its continued adaptation to popular desires and needs. Indeed, when we think into how many homes it penetrates every month, we must consider it as one of the educators as well as entertainers of the public mind, for its vast popularity has been won by no appeal to stupid prejudices or depraved tastes.—Boston Globe.

The character of this Magazine possesses for variety, enterprise, artistic wealth, and literary culture that has kept pace with, if it has not led the times, should cause its conductors to regard it with justifiable complacency. It also entitles them to a great claim upon the public gratitude. The Magazine has done good and not evil all the days of its life.—Brooklyn Eagle.

FORTY-FIRST YEAR

BOSTON WEEKLY JOURNAL.
1874.
A NEW VOLUME.
Prepare Your Clubs.
The Cheapest Newspaper in New England.

The publishers of the Boston Weekly Journal invite the attention of the reading public to the attractions of a family newspaper, which for the past FORTY YEARS has received from the intelligent classes of New England a most cordial support. The thousands who rely upon the Weekly Journal for

News, General Reading and Information,

Will cheerfully indorse the fulness of its news, the truthfulness of its weekly compendium of general intelligence, and the reliability which may be placed upon its editorial comments.—The aim of the Publishers has always been, and will continue to be, to send out a weekly sheet which shall be free from all sensationalism, and shall present a large amount of reading matter which shall keep the readers fully posted up regarding

The Leading Events of the Hour,

While its pages shall not only reflect the substantial progress of opinion upon topics which are connected with the

Social and Political Interests

Of the people of New England, but shall also contain a large amount of matter which will instruct and edify the large circle which depends mainly upon its columns for their knowledge of what is going on in the great

Business Centres of the World.

The same features that have given the Weekly Journal its strong hold upon the people, and have caused its subscribers to renew their subscriptions year after year, will be retained. We do not propose to introduce any catch-penny novelties, for the field is already filled with such newspapers, but we do propose to fill its

THIRTY-SIX LONG COLUMNS

That every member of a household may find something which they shall read with pleasure and profit. There are papers which contain a larger amount of literary reading, but there is no paper published in New England which furnishes

So Large an Amount of Newsy Reading at Such a Moderate Price.

When it is remembered that by forming Clubs a paper like The Boston Weekly Journal can be secured fifty-two times each year for THREE CENTS PER WEEK, the statement would seem to warrant a circulation of a hundred thousand in the New England States. We confidently believe that an inspection of its columns will convince any one that the investment of such a trifling amount is the wisest expenditure that any man can make who desires a

FIRST CLASS FAMILY NEWSPAPER

Which he can place in the hands of the members of his family, confident that there is nothing objectionable in any of its many departments.

We shall be happy to send specimen copies free of expense. We invite the attention of Postmasters and Agents to our terms. There is no advance in prices, though the paper last year was greatly enlarged and improved

Poetry.

Little Things.

Great events, we often find,
On little things depend,
And very small beginnings
Have oft a mighty end.

What volumes may be written
With little drops of ink!
How small a leak, unnoticed,
A mighty ship will sink!

A tiny insect's labor
Makes the coral strand,
And mighty seas are girdled
With grains of golden sand.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Skimmed milk for Fowls.

The editor of the Poultry World, finding that a neighbor whom he had furnished with milk had beaten him in eggs, inquired into the cause and gives the following explanation. To this we may add that any kind of sour milk or butter milk thickened with bran is very excellent food for all kinds of poultry: "They commenced laying in October and have been at it ever since, to the astonishment of not the envy of the neighbors of the fortunate owner, who has been selling eggs for the past four months for forty-five cents per dozen and upwards. Not one particle of meat or scraps is given, and but the veriest trifle of vegetable food in the shape of a few boiled potatoes about once a week. An abundance of grain is allowed of various sorts, ground and unground but never cooked, and plenty of unburnt oyster shells pounded are at all times accessible. They have a plentiful supply of skimmed milk every day, so that they can help themselves to what they want, no other drink being provided. Skimmed milk and the white of an egg are very much alike, though the cream has been separated; undoubtedly the full allowance of Indian corn supplies the oily constituents of the yolk.—Some farmers think they cannot afford to give milk to hens, but must save it for the pigs. But if skimmed milk is worth one and a half cents per quart to feed to swine, as some claim, it is worth three cents for poultry, if by its use winter eggs can be obtained and sold at high prices.

To Make Screws Hold.

When screws are driven into soft wood, subjected to considerable strain, they are very likely to work loose and many times it is very difficult to make them hold. In every case we have always found the use of glue profitable. Prepare the glue thick; immerse a stick about the size of the screw and drive it home as soon as possible. When there is some article of furniture to be repaired and no glue handy, insert the stick, then fill the rest of the cavity with pulverized rosin, then heat the screw sufficient to melt the rosin as it is driven in. Chairs, tables, lounges, etc., are continually getting out of order in every house; and the time to repair the break is when first noticed. If neglected the matter grows still worse, and finally results in the laying by of the article of furniture as worthless. Where screws are driven into the wood for temporary purposes, they can be removed much easier by dipping them in oil before inserting. When buying screws, notice what you are getting, for there are poor as well as good kinds. See that the heads are sound and well cut; that there are no flaws in the body or thread part and that they have good gimblet points. A screw of one make will drive into oak as easy as others into pine, and endure having twice the force brought against it.

Ohio Farmer.

☞ The greatest herdsmen in the world is the title claimed for Samuel W. Allen of Texas, who owns 225,000 cattle. He has one ranch eighty miles long and forty wide between the Nevada and Colorado rivers.

Anecdotes.

A lady had her dress trimmed with bugles, before going to a ball.

Her little daughter wanted to know if the bugles would blow when she danced.

"Oh, no," said the mother, "papa will do that when he sees the bill."

"Madam, a good many persons were very much disturbed at the concert last night by the crying of your baby."

"Well, I do wonder that such people will go to concerts."

"My dear Murphy," said an Irishman to his friend, "why did you betray the secret I told you?"

"Is it betraying you call it? Sure when I found I wan't able to keep it myself, didn't I do well to tell it to somebody in whose ability I had more confidence than in my own?"

An English gentleman informed his steward that he was to have a company of clergymen to dine.

"Be they High church or be they Low?" said the steward.

"What has that to do with it?" was the reply.

"Wery much," was the answer if they be High church we want more wine—if they be Low church we want more wittels."

A good mother was trying to explain to a young hopeful, the other day, about fighting against the devil. After telling the little fellow who the devil was and how hard he was to successfully resist he turned around and said:—

"Mamma, I'd be scared of the old devil; but if I was to come across one of the little devils, I'd knock the stuffing out of him."

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

WOLLASTON HOTEL,
WOLLASTON HEIGHTS,
QUINCY.

THIS new and commodious House is now open for the reception of guests. Its location renders it most desirable for boarders from the city, being situated only six and half miles from Boston on the Old Colony Railroad, and less than one minute from the Station, 16 trains each way daily. It is only about three minutes' by cars from the Centre of Quincy—the distance being less than one mile.
Visitors to this good old town, whether for business or for pleasure, will find the
Wollaston Hotel,
a pleasant and agreeable stopping place. Transient guests or permanent boarders will receive every attention. It will be kept as a strictly
TEMPERANCE HOUSE,
no intoxicating liquors of any name or nature will be sold or kept about the premises.
A fine LIVERY and BOARDING STABLE in connection with the House.
TERMS VERY REASONABLE.

Ayer's
Cherry Pectoral,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are of more real value to mankind than this effectual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that CHERRY PECTORAL will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first but which become incurable, and too often fatal if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, CHERRY PECTORAL is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, arresting sound and healthcreating sleep. No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.
Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as unanswerable as the greatest it has ever effected.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

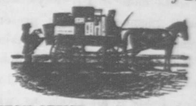

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."
Sold by all Druggists, and Dealers in Medicines.
Price One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye.
FOR THE WHISKERS.
As our Renewer in many cases requires too long a time, and too much care, to restore gray or faded Whiskers, we have prepared this dye, in one preparation; which will quickly and effectually accomplish this result. It is easily applied, and produces a color which will neither rub nor wash off. Sold by all Druggists. Price Fifty Cents.

CATARRH!
A Woman Having Catarrh 35 Years, Cured.
And Droppings in Throat, Choking, Strangling, Pains in the Side, Loss, Headache, Dizziness and General Weakness, Cured by less than Three Bottles of
— THE —
CONSTITUTIONAL
CATARRH REMEDY.
To Messrs. Littlefield & Co., Proprietors of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, Manchester, N. H.:
I reside at Manchester, N. H., and previously resided at Henniker, and am a native of Weare, this State. I have had Catarrh twenty-five years, ever since I was 19 years old; had it bad all the time. It run all that period, and at nights it would fill up and drop down in my throat, causing a feeling of choking, so that I would spring up in bed to save myself from strangulation. It affected my head so that I felt confused, and was troubled with severe headache at intervals, for a week at a time. I also had bad pains in my shoulders, back, and kidneys, from which I suffered immensely. So bad were they, that a year ago last summer I was obliged to lie in bed most of the time for three months. I have tried all kinds of Catarrh and Catarrh remedies with no particular benefit, and consulted physicians. I had a hacking cough. I began to take the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy last August. I began to grow better before finishing the first bottle. I am now on the third bottle. My Catarrh is cured; my health is restored. I have no pains, aches, or cough. My whole system is made over new. I know it is this medicine that has rescued me from intense suffering and almost the grave. I am now able to do the hardest work and bear the greatest exposure, and feel that I cannot say too much in favor of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.
MRS. E. J. FLANDERS.
Manchester, N. H., Feb. 1, 1871.
I am 52 years old, have had the Catarrh ever since I was eighteen years old, and headache all the time; have suffered beyond description with running at the nose, droppings in the throat, choking and strangulings. Have tried any quantity of Catarrh Remedies, but have found no relief till I tried your Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, six months ago, I found immediate relief.
Catarrh and all its attendant evils have left. Headache, Pains in the loins and Back, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, and General Weakness. Less than three bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy have cured me. I have not been so well since I can remember as I am now. I feel as if I could not say too much for the medicine, or thank God too heartily that through its instrumentality I have been restored to health.

HURSELL'S
PURITY!
— IS A —
Splendid Hair Dressing.
NO article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl or remain in any desired position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other preparation.

Kisses.

Of kisses, how many of different degrees,
Some given to pleasure, some given to tease,
Some ardent and warm, some chilling to freeze;
The kiss of politeness, altho' not amiss,
I hardly deserving the name of a kiss.

The kiss of a Judas—not common we hope—
The kiss of an image; the toe of a Pope;
The young lady's kiss, who with Tom would elope;—
The kisses of friendship, the kiss of good will,
The kiss of affection—ah, that's better still.

And is there another that's better than this?
Yes — far, far more precious is love's honied kiss,
Where souls are united and heart to heart beats,
A love-kiss is sweetest of all the known sweets.
A love-kiss—how rare, underneath the great sun,
How few can say truly, they ever had one!

How many are married and boast of their bliss,
Who never yet tasted an honest love-kiss.
A youth lured by beauty, and Miss in her teens,
May kiss, and yet neither may know what love means.
No passion so gen'rous, so lasting, and strong,
Love thinketh no evil, love doeth no wrong;
Tho' not all unselfish, real lovers would give
Their all, even life, that their loved ones might live.

Tho' hundreds of kisses your mem'ry recall,
One love-kiss remembered outvalues them all;
So, 'mongst the acquaintance you have on your list,
Some dozens, perhaps, you've been kiss'd by or kiss'd,
You count them all friends, but tried in the long run,
You'll th ink yourself lucky if you have found one;
And so 'tis with kisses, tho' many you get,
A love-kiss, perhaps, you have not tasted yet.

THE FRIGHTENING BUSINESS. A pious old lady at New Bedford boasted in prayer-meeting that she wasn't afraid of the devil. A young chap present, with a view of testing her faith and courage followed her home, and in a lonely, secluded spot crept up behind her and whispered, "I am the devil."—But the good woman never heeded him, and again and again he introduced himself in the same style. Finally finding the thing was getting monotonous, she turned to him with the ejaculation, "Well, nobody denies it." That young man don't follow the frighten business any more.

Miscellany.

A Christmas Story.

It was one of those bitter nights when '72 was almost giving place to '73, that a man, scantily dressed, whose threadbare coat seemed to have shrunk too small for his poor thin form, battled against the freezing wind.

"No Sir: not if I know it!" said, or rather grumbled, John Allen, as he hastily turned out of a bright city thoroughfare into a dull, back street towards his home.

"It's hard, it's too hard on a fellow to treat him so. It's all very fine to call Christmas jolly; so it may be for rich folks. Poor Molly! It's not so much for myself I care: I did want to make her a bit more comfortable this winter."

While we leave him to give vent to his feelings, we will quickly trace over a part of his history. Ever since John Allen married Mary Frances, five years ago, his life had been one scene of trouble and poverty; all the world, he thought, turned a cold shoulder to him. No one knew him or loved him excepting his good little wife. Yet he was a good honest man, unselfish and kind, having but one object in life,—"to make a better home for his wife." For many years he had been the only salesman in a small city store. His employer was a wealthy but mean man. For months John had intended asking for an addition to his trivial salary, but courage failed him at every effort.

"To-night, thought he, "I will; perhaps he will feel more charitiable at this time." And so he did, and was met with the harsh reply, "What do you mean, you idiot? you're not worth what I give you now." This was more than John could bear. He caught up his hat, threw on his cost, and with an unuttered speech upon his lips, quickly left the store, with the intention of never more re-entering. "No, sir; not if I know it; I'll not do another day's work for you," he repeated as he turned the last corner.

Now, let us take a peep at his little wife in her humble home. She, too, is talking to herself, but in a widely different strain. "Let me see: two plates, two cups and saucers, two spoons, and two knives and forks—that's all. And now what shall my dear old John have to eat? Why, what a lovely supper it is to-night: we will be jolly. It's the last Saturday before Christmas, so it is. Well, here's the pie and the hash, potatoes and brown bread to warm. There, it's all ready, the coffee's made, and John will soon be here. How cold he must be; but it won't be for much longer, so far as a coat is concerned. Only three days more; how nice he will look! how he will wonder where I got the money! Fifty cents a weeks for six months is $12, and $3 for four day's sewing for Wm. Eliot, that's $15. If that won't buy him a coat, I don't know what will;" and she rubbed her hands with delightful satisfaction. Halloa! a knock at the door—who's that? and she jumped up to open it.

Mrs. Eliot sent you up these hot biscuits, Mrs. Allen. She baked a lot for tea, and thought may be you would like a few."

"Oh, thank you, Jane. Tell Mrs. Eliot I am very much obliged to her, indeed."

Into the oven they went, with the rest of the things, to keep warm. "How kind every one is; what should we do without Christmas? Only three minutes more to wait!" she said, as she placed a well-worn pair of slippers close to the stove to warm; then, tying on a clean white apron, she sat down and softly sung that good old hymn, "While shepherds watched their Flocks by Night." "How happy I am," she thought; "only sometimes I wish I could give John better meals." But the half-audible words, "Glory be to God on high, peace on earth, good-will towards men," came right from her heart, as she rose to open the oven door, for fear the biscuits might burn.

"Oh, here you are!" and she sprang forward to greet her husband, and then such a volley of ejaculations escaped her, that she did not notice anything unusual in John's face.

"Oh, you dear, poor thing! how cold you are. Real Christmas weather, isn't it, John? But never mind, you'll soon get warm; everything is so bright and comfortable. And she carried away the old coat. "I never felt so happy since baby went, as I do to-night, John."

He was silent, but something wet fell upon the slipper, as he stooped to put it on. "God bless her!" he murmured, as her cheerful face came in again.

"Those Eliots are so kind to me, John! you don't know how good they are;" and she showed him the smoking biscuits. "I'm sure I don't see how people can help forgiving their enemies, if they have any, at Christmas time. I know I would, if I had any."

"Would you, Molly?"

"Yes, dear, I hope I should."

And not till then, when she looked into his face, did she see that something was wrong. Stepping up to his side, she said: "What is it, John? what is the matter? I fear something troubles you."

"Yes, something does. I was mad; I was rash, perhaps wrong. Don't think I have committed a crime, Molly," he said, as he glanced at her frightened face.

"I've tried, and tried so hard to make my way, and there's no chance for me. I hate Miller, and now I've left him, I almost feel I have done wrong."

"Left the store, John?"

"Left the store for good; and he won't take me back, either. I can't help it: he insulted me, the hard brute, and I got mad, so that's an end of it. And what I'm going to do for a living, is more than I know.

Molly, certainly looked relieved when the end did come, to find it no worse. "What made him insult you, John?"

"Simply because I asked him to add a little to my salary."

"Well, dear, we both know you are worth more than he gives you, but then we are very happy as we are. It's better than nothing, John; and just think how long you have been there. I always thought he was kind in other ways. I pity mean people; they can't be happy. But don't forget, if it had not been for Mr. Miller, I should never have known you. I think you'll be sorry you left him."

"I only done it for you, Molly," he said, as he rose, and began walking up and down the room. It's enough to make one mad. There's James Carter has a nice pretty house, and lives like a king; and it seems like yesterday he was an office boy."

"I don't believe he is half so happy as we are, John," put in his wife, "with all their fine things, I would not exchange places with them."

He felt the truth in this, and said nothing, but continued to pace up and down. Presently he came up to his wife.

"If you were me, Molly, would you forgive Miller?"

"Yes, dear."

"Would you go back there?"

"I would."

"Then I'll forgive him. But the going back is dreadful hard; that means asking him to take me. It's horrid, I tell you: I don't believe I can."

"Yes, you can, John, but you don't know if you will have to ask him. Do it for me, won't you?"

He made no reply, but she knew he would, and so ended the subject.

"To-morrow is the last Sunday before Christmas; let's go to church."

"All right; Molly, anything you like."

Monday came cold as ever, and as Molly gave her husband a good-bye kiss, she said, "Are you going there?"

And the short answer "I am," satisfied her.

"Holloa!" thought John, as he opened the shop door. What's up? Not here yet, old fellow? That's a rare case. He is a hard-working man, after all, though he is mean. I suppose there's some good in every one. He may think he is right." 9, 10, 11 o'clock—no Miller.

"Why, something must be the matter! I never knew him to be so late before." This must have been said aloud; an answer came before one was expected.

"He will never come again, it's my belief," said a man, entering at the same moment; "Miller is dead."

"Dead!" cried John.

"Yes, surely; died of heart disease last night, poor man. Well, there are few to mourn him. So we go: first one, then another. By the way, I hear he has left a large amount; wonder who'll have it? He hasn't a blessed relation. Good morning, Allen: wish you luck;" and the door closed behind him.

John sat thinking, pondering, the rest of the day.

"I'm glad I forgave him in my heart last night, very glad. What will become of me?" So saying he rose to go. All the way home the sermon of the day before kept running in his mind—"We all fade as the leaf."

Molly was much grieved to hear the sad news. "We must take it for the best, John; we know he is better off there," she said.

Late that evening, Mr. Miller's lawyer and nearest friend called, and requested that the store be kept closed till further notice. He also invited John to the funeral on the following Wednesday, being Christmas day.

The sad ceremony over, which hid forever that familiar face, John turned homeward. Presently a voice came from behind.

"Good morning, Mr. Allen. Stop a moment, if you please; I've some good news for you."

It was Mr. Lawrence, the lawyer.

He briefly stated that Mr. Miller had left all his property, amounting to $200,000, to John. He was so stunned at first, he was speechless.

"Are you sure there is no mistake?" he said.

"None, whatever," replied Mr. Lawrence, and he drew from his pocket a paper, on which John read with his own eyes the well-known handwriting of his former employer.

"Yes, this is Christmas day," he repeated on his way. A man met him, bearing evergreen wreaths and mottoes. One caught his eye on which were the words, "Glory be to God on high, peace on earth, good will toward men," and something made him say "Amen!" when the man had passed.

* * * *

The other day, a little wagon load of simple household furniture might have been seen unloading at a fine stone dwelling. Molly would have everything taken to the new home, so that she could look at them sometimes; for, although she felt truly thankful for the great boon bestowed upon them, she told John she could never be happier than she had been all along, should they move into a palace of gold and diamonds.

Poor Little Dan.

A Detroit newspaper tells this pretty little story: A boy about ten years of age, leading a lively little dog, called at the central station and asked if that was the place where they shot dogs. Being answered in the affirmative, he said: "Well, please shoot my poor little Dan. He's an awful good dog, and he plays with the baby all day, but father's deaf and mother's sick, and I can't raise money to get a license." Then turning to the dog the boy lifted him up tenderly and stroked him saying: "Poor Dan! how Bill will cry when I tell him you are dead!" Great big tears rolled down the boy's face, and in a little time those around him made up a purse sufficient to save his dog, and a person went with him after the license. The boy's eyes fairly sparkled at his unexpected luck, and speaking to the dog, he cried out: "You're saved; let's go right home to Billy."

No such thing as Money left.

Mr. Richard B. Kimball begins an article in the Galaxy, on the panic, with the following good story:

"There's no such thing as money in this country!" was the exclamation of an Englishman a few years ago after a brief sojourn in New York.

It happened in this way:

The Englishman, in the course of his business, found it necessary to obtain an advance on some merchandise. He made the usual arrangement with a large commercial house to accommodate him. On going to consummate it and receive the cash, he was a good deal surprised when, in lieu of it, the senior member tendered to him the acceptance of the firm payable at ninety days' date.

"What am I to do with this?" he inquired.

"Take it to B. B. & Co.," (naming some well known bankers), was the reply. "They will give you the money at the legal rate."

The Englishman did as directed. He met with no difficulty. The paper was acceptable, and although our hero did not touch the cash, he received a check for the proper amount on a neighboring bank. Thither he repaired in the full confidence of having something tangible. He was mistaken. The individual at the bank to whom he presented the check for payment seized it nervously, and in a rapid, incoherent manner scrawled some hyeroglyphics on its face, and thrust it back into the hands of the astonished owner, motioning him at the same time to stand aside for the next comer. The check had been duly "certified." That was what the scrawl across its face meant. In a state of suspense and anxiety the Englishman betook himself to the person to whom he was indebted, and timidly exhibited what he had to offer. To his surprise his friend's countenance brightened.

"Many thanks!" he exclaimed. "By the way, this amount is too large; there will be something over a hundred dollars coming to you," and he proceeded to fill a check for it.

The Englishman groaned in spirit.—It was only another "piece of paper." And then it was he exclaimed, "There is no such thing as money in this country!"

☞ A conceited young parson once said: "This morning I preached to a congregation of donkeys." "I thought so," retorted a lady, "when you called them your beloved brethren."

☞ A few days since a rat by some means took up his quarters in a new piano in the house of one of the citizens of West Boylston, and before he was discovered had made complete havoc of all the inside that he could master with his teeth, and then had gnawed a hole through to the outside and escaped.

CHRISTMAS AND ITS FESTIVALS. Christmas in this town, passed off in a very pleasant and agreeable manner, notwithstanding the dull appearance of the day. Sports of various kinds were participated in, showing that our people were alive for a good time, and the late panic had not disturbed their feelings for enjoyment. An old fashioned game of foot-ball, was played in the square, with zeal and vigor, by a large number of our young men. Pigeon shooting, and other out-door sports were the order of the day. In the evening a Christmas tree, at the Universalist Church, and a free Concert, at the Town Hall, by Messrs. Maynard and Hatton, drew out large crowds.

The Unitarian Society, enjoyed a Christmas festival, on Wednesday evening. After a short service in the Church, the assembly passed to the Town Hall, where the pastor, Rev. Mr. Wells, read a pretty fairy story, and as he closed his remarks, the curtain on the stage was drawn, displaying a pretty tableau of a shepherd and fairies, which with the two handsome and well loaded trees, drew the admiring gaze of the audience, transporting the little ones almost to fairy land. Some rich and beautiful gifts were the fruits of this tree, and all the scholars came in for a share of its buds, blossoms and fruit. Happiness beamed on every countenance.

The Universalist Church was crowded on Christmas evening by our citizens, who were anxious to get a peep at the presents, and to listen to the amusing and appropriate exercises of the occasion. The first hour was occupied principally by the little ones, who spoke and sung beautifully,—giving great satisfaction.

Then came in Old Santa Claus, dressed in furs, with a long white beard, which made him look quite old, although he appeared as spry as a kitten. He seemed very happy to see so many children, and, after relating many amusing stories, he commenced distributing with a liberal hand, the bountiful supply of presents hung upon the trees.

Mr. James H. Slade played the part of Santa Claus to perfection; causing not only a hearty laugh from the little folks, but often a broad grin from those of a larger growth.

It was a happy and pleasant gathering that assembled in the new Episcopal church. The older members of the society, felt truly pleased and grateful to find themselves once more in their own house of worship. The church was tastefully trimmed with evergreen, and when illuminated looked beautifully.—But the centre of attraction was the handsome and well-loaded tree, in front of the pulpit, whose branches were well filled with nice gifts for pastor, teacher and scholars. The society was also remembered by a present of one hundred dollars for their church. Rev. Mr. Howe read a pleasing story in poetry, entitled Annie and Willie's prayer, which was listened to with earnest attention by the young people.

The Sunday School connected with the Congregational Church held their Christmas Festival on Tuesday evening at their chapel. The attendance of the children and their parents was large, and the entertainment, consisting of humorous Readings by Prof. Blish, excellent music by an Orchestra, refreshments, &c., was greatly enjoyed by all.

A COSTLY CANE. Among the many rich and valuable articles, at the Catholic Fair was a handsome ebony cane, with a gold head, which was to be disposed of by votes to the most popular man, and brought between two and three hundred dollars. At the opening of the Fair there were three contestants, Mr. Peter Butler and Mr. John Kirk of this town, and Mr. John Cavanaugh of Braintree, The last named gentleman, received the most votes, and to him it was awarded. On receiving the cane, Mr. Cavanaugh made a few pleasing remarks, thanking his friends kindly for their votes, and closed his speech by saying, that he was glad he had the opportunity of presenting the cane to one of their friends, a gentleman of Quincy, who was universally respected, Mr. John Kirk, as a testimonial of his esteem and regard.

NEW DRUG STORE. Mr. E. H. Treadway has purchased of Mr. H. K. Appleton, the entire stock kept in the family drug store, on Sea street, and he intends keeping the best of drugs and chemicals. A full line of patent medicines and toilet articles can always be found. Physicians' prescriptions will be carefully compounded both day and night. Everything in the establishment is kept in the best of taste, and courtesy is extended to all who may have occasion to visit the store. We bespeak for him a share of public patronage.

FANCY DRESS BALL. The course of social assemblies given under the directions of Mr. Watson, on Tuesday evenings at Lombard's Hall, in this place, is very largely attended, and many grand good times have been had. By request of many it was decided to have a fancy dress ball, on Tuesday last, and it was quite amusing to witness the costumes. Mr. Watson understands the art of having a good school, and therefore meets with good success. The dancers had a grand time, and a merrier company is not often found.

WOLLASTON. It will be seen by an advertisement in our columns, that "An Old Folks Concert," by the Wollaston Choral Society, will be given at the Baptist Chapel, Wollaston Heights, next Tuesday evening. All who are desirous of listening to a grand entertainment should not fail to be present, and as the proceeds are for the two societies in that vicinity, we hope that a full house will greet them.

WOOD AUCTIONS. On Tuesday next, E. F. E. Thayer, will sell at Auction, in Braintree, near the Quincy line, a lot of standing wood, adjoining Bryant's Swamp. For full particulars, see advertisement.

Joseph R. Frasier, will sell on the same day, at 9 o'clock, a lot of Wood belonging to Dr. W. M. Babbitt, on Peach street, Braintree.

THE FRENCH SEIZURE. A correspondent, who gave our readers last week, a description of a seizure of ale at French's Saloon, made a bad blunder, to say the least, when he stated that the ale was found in Dr. Johnson's cellar. We have visited the premises the present week, and find that the liquor was not in the Doctor's cellar, but was in a part of the cellar hired and used by Mr. French, and separated by a tight board partition from the one occupied by Mr. Johnson.

We hope all persons writing for our columns, will be more particular and state nothing but what is true; particularly when it reflects in the least upon the character or reputation of a neighbor or townsman.

It is not good taste to hint at a neighbor's wrongs, even if there are strong suspicions, unless it is done in a kind and gentlemanly spirit; and with a hope of making that man better. But the idea of stating things for facts without there being any truth in them, is an evil which all writers for the press should take more heed. It not only injures the community generally, but the free press in particular.

GRAND CONCERT. The first of the series of musical entertainments by Mr. J. B. Stetson, will occur on Tuesday evening, the 30th, inst., at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Scott-Siddons and the wonderful boy pianist Harry S. Walker, will appear in a choice programme, assisted by Mlle. Teresa Liebe, with violin. Seats, reserved and numbered, at 75 cents each, now for sale at J. O. Holden's and at the door, on the 30th. We anticipate a great treat, on this occasion, and it is through Mr. Stetson's long acquaintance with the lad, that we are enabled to hear him and his other artists without going to Boston and paying double.

NO SLEIGHING. The merry jingling of sleigh bells, have not been heard in our streets this season, up to this date. Our friends in Maine and New Hampshire, have enjoyed fine sleighing, having had an abundance of snow. This has been a pleasant December for the poor, as they have been able to get along with little fuel. The winter will certainly be a short one.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH. Sunday School at 10 o'clock A. M. Preaching at 2 30 P. M. by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Whitney. At 7 P. M there will be a Christmas Praise Meeting. The public are cordially invited.

WE WISH HIM SUCCESS. Mr. Edward Richardson, for many years foreman of Mr. William A. Hodges' large bakery, in this town, has formed a partnership with a Mr. Ransom of Plymouth, and the gentlemen have purchased an establishment at Sandwich, where they intend carrying on the baking business. Mr. R. is a gentleman who thoroughly understands his business, and in his new enterprise carries with him the best wishes of his numerous friends for his future success.

SEVERE LOSS. Mr. James N. Blake lost a very valuable mare, on Friday night of last week. Sometime Thursday night, she got loose from her stall, and finding the corn bin open, indulged too freely, and like many human beings paid the penalty by death from gormandizing. It is quite a loss to friend Blake, and we hope his misfortunes will be few and far between in the future.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH. Preaching by the Pastor at 10 1-2 A. M. Sabbath School at 12 o'clock. Social Meeting at 7 o'clock P. M.

FIRST CHURCH. Sunday School at 9 20. Bible Class. Morning Service at 10 50. Vespers at 4 50. The Pastor will officiate all day.

☞ Frank Lawry, a convict in the Charlestown State Prison, has just completed what he calls the "World's curiosity." It consists of steamboats, rowboats and figures of man and beast in innumerable attitudes. There is a circus with spectators in a circle, in the center of which the "show" is going on. It contains altogether 2175 images, of which 112 are horses. It was made in his cell at odd hours, after a day's work in the shop, and nearly all of it was made with a common jack-knife. Lawry is in for killing a man.

☞ What is likely to prove the richest gold deposit in the known world is the mine recently discovered at the southwestern Colorado. Many specimens taken at random from various parts of the vein just as they lay on the surface, and which were thought of little value, assayed at the mint in Denver as high as $36,000 per ton.

The Temperance Lectures and the First Church.

To the Editors of the Patriot:

My attention has been called to an extract from a recent issue of the Boston Traveller, containing a report of the speech delivered by Mr. Henry H. Faxon, at the close of the course of Free Temperance Lectures which he has so generously furnished to the citizens of Quincy.

Certain statements in that report so far misrepresent the position both of my Society and of my Sunday School that they assuredly never could have been intended by a fair-minded and honorable gentleman: and I deem it no less an act of justice to Mr. Faxon himself than to others concerned to beg the use of your columns for a brief explanation.

First, then, allow me to remark that, in the report referred to, the Sunday Schools and the Societies are confounded together. Mr. Faxon is made to say "The plan I devised to forward these Lectures was submitted to all the Societies in Quincy," &c. What he must have said,—as indeed is stated at the beginning of the report,—was that his plan was submitted to all the Sunday Schools. The Religious Societies, as such, had no voice or share in the matter.

Again, the impression is conveyed that the Sunday School of the First Church unnecessarily delayed an answer to the proposition. With reference to this point, I desire to say that the proposition was submitted to our School during its summer vacation, and at the time of my own absence from Quincy. At the earliest practicable moment after my return, I called a meeting of the officers and teachers, for the express purpose of considering Mr. Faxon's offer, and the plan of the Lectures. Two meetings were held in quick succession, at which the plan was fully and fairly discussed, and the appended Preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted. It will be observed that our proposed method is precisely the one which was afterwards adopted by the Sunday Schools which united in supporting the Lectures.

One further correction. Mr. Faxon could never have meant to say or to imply that because men and women do not attend temperance lectures they do not therefore believe in temperance.—He could not have meant to say that because a Christian minister is not accustomed to make frequent mention of the evils of intoxication in his sermons, he is not alive to them. There are a considerable number of my Sunday School teachers who entertain serious doubts whether temperance lectures materially promote the cause of temperance. But they would be justly indignant with any one who should suppose them blind to the evils of drunkenness, or unwilling to labor in their own way, and according to their own convictions, for its suppression. And to speak for myself, I hold myself second to no one in my abhorrence of the vice under consideration; and while I do not often take it upon myself to say in so many words: "Drunkenness is a bad thing; keep clear of it," because it seems to me the utterance of a self evident proposition, and moreover because it is not my way of meeting the difficulty; I can truly affirm that I never go into my pulpit without preaching and praying, after my own method, for the overthrow of this as of every other evil that vexes humanity, and stands in the way of the progress of truth and virtue, and the building up of the Kingdom of Christ.

I do not quarrel with the methods of my generous parishioner. If by these methods he can make men more temperate, I have no word to utter—what word can I have to utter—but God speed! He may make his mistakes,—we all make mistakes,—but if in all this winter he can save one single individual from the curse of inebriety, his liberal giving and all his earnest efforts will not have been in vain.

The resolutions are as follows:

"Whereas, we are aware that no plan should remain untried for the suppression of the unfortunate and evil habit of intemperance, and are ready to second every earnest effort in this direction,

And Whereas we recognize the generous intention of Mr. H. H. Faxon in offering the sum of two thousand dollars to be distributed among the different Sunday Schools of this town; therefore,

"Resolved,—That we, the officers and teachers of the Sunday School of the First Congregational Society, hereby declare our general acceptance of Mr. Faxon's plan.

"Resolved,—That we disapprove of so much of the scheme as relates to the distribution of prizes, and decline, for our part, to enter into it.

"Resolved,—That, on the receipt of our proportion of the two thousand dollars, we will arrange for one free temperance lecture, to be delivered by an able and popular speaker, at the Town Hall, at some time during the coming winter.

"Resolved,—That Mr. E. H. Dewson be our representative at the meeting to be called by Mr. Faxon, in promotion of his design, and also our delegate, with full authority to transact any business growing out of the plan under consideration.

"Resolved,—That the Secretary is instructed to send a copy of these Resolutions to Mr. Faxon."

PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN-KILLER. This medicine has been before the world so long, and its virtues have been so thoroughly tested, that a commendation of it would seem superfluous. Almost every family in the land has used it, and have had occasion to thank Mr. Davis for giving them, in so cheap and convenient a form, such a powerful pain antidote. It is a household remedy. Always keep a bottle of the Pain-Killer in your house. —Fla. Baptist.

District Court of East Norfolk.

SATURDAY.

David B. Lincoln, of Cohasset, was arraigned for the illegal keeping of intoxicating liquor. Was convicted and paid $10 and costs.

Peter Sullivan, of Weymouth, for a similar offence, was fined $10 and costs. From which sentence he appealed, but finally withdrew his appeal and paid up.

Morris Kennedy, of Weymouth, for a similar offence. Plead not guilty, but was fined $10 and costs.

John Collopy, of Weymouth, for same offence. Discharged.

David B. Lincoln, of Cohasset, for same offence. The evidence not sustaining the complaint he was discharged.

MONDAY.

Frank Juno, of Quincy, for an assault on Wm. E. Everson of said Quincy.—Plead not guilty, but was fined $5 and costs.

Reuben D. Burrill of Weymouth, for keeping a billiard table without a license, was fined $10 and costs.

Lysander Alden, of Randolph, for drunkenness was fined $3 and costs. In default of payment was committed.

Michael Crowley, of Randolph, for drunkenness was fined $3 and costs.

Patrick Gill, of Randolph, for an assault on Moses F. McCaughey, was fined $15 and costs.

Jeremiah Coffee, of Weymouth, for keeping intoxicating liquor for sale.—Discharged.

George Payne, Emery W. S. Shaw, George Vadell, Eldrew Bates, Charles E. Raymond and Lester G. Willet, of Weymouth, for being present and taking part in a game at cards, on Saturday evening were ordered to pay the costs and were discharged.

These six young men were enjoying a simple game of cards, at a private residence. There was no gambling, no drinking, no swearing; in fact nothing to justify their arrest, except violating an old puritanic law, enacted a score of years ago, when our forefathers believed that Saturday evening was a part of God's holy day. But that belief is among the things that were, and how one of our State Constables could belittle himself so much as to have the face to bring these innocent youths before the bar of justice we could not, and do not understand.

The noble hearted Judge could not fine them, and ordered their discharge on payment of cost, although they pleaded guilty of violating the old law.

GENEROSITY. We were informed that a gentleman in this town, gave all of his tenants a turkey for their Christmas dinner. His tenants will increase fearfully if he persists in doing such deeds.

CHRIST CHURCH. Service to-morrow, at 10.30 A. M. Sunday School at 3 P. M. Service at 4 P. M. Seats free.

PAIN-KILLER.
FOR OVER THIRTY YEARS
Perry Davis' Vegetable Pain Killer!
HAS BEEN TESTED IN EVERY VARIETY OF CLIMATE, AND BY ALMOST EVERY NATION KNOWN TO AMERICANS.

It is the constant companion and estimable friend of the missionary and the traveler, on sea and land, and no one should travel on our Lakes or Rivers without it.

It has been before the public over thirty years, and probably has a wider and better reputation, than any other proprietary medicine of the present day. At this period there are but few unacquainted with the merits of the Pain-Killer: but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally, while others use it internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and it stands to-day, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of family medicines. It is sufficient evidence of its virtues as a standard medicine, to know that it is now used in all parts of the world, and that its sale is constantly increasing. No curative agent has had such wide spread sale or given such universal satisfaction. It is a purely vegetable compound, and perfectly safe in unskillful hands.

After thirty years, trial, is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues, from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Physicians of the first respectability, recommend it as a most effectual preparation for the extinction of pain. It is not only the best remedy ever known for Bruises, Cuts, Burns, &c., but for Dysentery, or Cholera or any sort of bowel complaint, it is a remedy unsurpassed for efficiency and rapidity of action. In the great cities of India, and other hot climates, it has become the Standard Medicine for all such complaints, as well as for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, and other kindred disorders. For Coughs and Colds, Canker, Asthma, and Rheumatic difficulties, it has been proved by the most abundant and convincing testimony to be an invaluable medicine.

Beware of all Imitations.

The Pain-Killer is sold by all respectable druggists throughout the United States and foreign countries.

PRICES—25 cents, 50 cents and $1 per bottle.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, DEC. 27, 1873.

Single Copies 5 cents.
FOR SALE AT
The Old Colony & Newport Depot, Boston, E. H. Doble & Co.'s Store, West Quincy, Souther's Periodical Store, Quincy, and at The Patriot Office.

Presents. In a recent stroll through the Square, we noticed that our store keepers have made extensive preparations for the Holidays. A very fine display of pretty and ornamental gifts, may be seen at the stores of Souther, Post Office and Clapp. The little ones gaze on the numerous dolls and toys displayed at these places and are anxiously waiting for a present. For those who intend gifts of nice clothing, boots, shoes, gloves, umbrellas, and other outfits, at Spear's, Saville's and Stetson's may be found a general assortment. But for the rich and costly souvenirs, don't fail to drop into Holden's: here you can find elegant presents, both useful and ornamental.

Co-operative Laundry. A new laundry has recently been constructed in Waltham, on the co-operative plan, under the direction of Miss A. H. C. Phelps. Let there be one in every town, is the anxious wish of hundreds of ladies, who find it an impossibility to procure a good washerwoman.

China. Many people have only a limited knowledge of the Chinese and the country they came from. It covers an area of five million square miles; it is divided into eighteen hundred provinces or states; containing seventeen hundred walled cities and five hundred millions of people. Its government is cheaper and more prosperous than that of the United States. That is, there are fewer bankruptcies, fewer failures and more unity of the people of China than of this country. Some of the business men are worth more than the combined wealth of three of the richest men in the United States, and transact business, the amount of which would stagger belief. In that country, when they come across the Credit Mobilier and salary-grabbing Congressmen, they cut off their heads and hang them up for the birds to peck at.—This treatment is not as merciful as that practiced in the United States, but much more efficacious.

Money not a Blessing. The San Francisco almshouse contains a man who has about $20,000 in gold, but is so devoid of friends that he has no safety outside of that institution. He is perfectly sane and enjoys his residence there very much, notwithstanding. But at Green Bay, Wisconsin, in the almshouse there, they have a wealthy resident who is more of a puzzle but less happy than the isolated Californian. Nobody knows his name. He was found in the woods, evidently insane, carrying about with great care a small tin box, only a few inches in extent. The people who found him, noticing the care with which he guarded his box, at once took it from him with usual humane consideration, and broke it open. They found within $1200 in money, $2200 in notes secured by mortgages, and $2500 in notes not so secured. The names of the notes are various, and it is said to be impossible to tell who the man is.

☞ The town records of Walpole are being thoroughly searched by a party who expects to find therein some evidence of a certain marriage which, if proved will bring to the heirs a fortune of $103,000,000 now in the Bank of England, and subject to their order as soon as the legality of the claim can be shown.

Marriages.

In this town, Dec. 23d, by Rev. Edward Norton, Mr. James Thompson to Miss Lydia A. Ford.

On the 24th, by Rev. S. Kelley Mr. Henry A. Monk to Miss Emma J. Tilley both of Braintree.

Deaths.

In this town, Dec. 21, Mrs. S. Augusta, wife of Mr. Horace W. French, aged 36 years, 9 months and 23 days.

Dec. 23d, Mr. Charles E. Miller, aged 54 years and 3 months.

Dec. 19th, James P. son of Mr. Daniel J. and Mrs. Annie Hayes, aged 2 years and 5 months.

Special Notices.

Thanks for a Present. Through the columns of the Patriot I wish to return my heartfelt thanks to Mr. John Cavanaugh, of Braintree, for his very valuable and handsome present, an ebony cane with gold head. Sir; it shall ever be a staff to lean on, when the infirmities of increasing age overpower me, and when depending on it for support, I shall think of the giver with gratitude and respect.
John Kirk.

Habitual Costiveness causes
Headache, Dizziness, Worms, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, &c. The surest preventive is Dr. Harrison's Peristaltic Lozenges; being both Tonic and Laxative, they restore nature, thereby curing a costive habit. In the opinion of every Druggist, they are the most pleasant and effectual remedy for the Piles, and the only one that reaches the cause, as outward applications are only time and money wasted. Trial box, 30 cts. Large box, 60 cents, mailed free for this last price.

DR. HARRISON'S ICELAND BALSAM, a splendid cure for COUGHS, HOARSENESS, and all THROAT and LUNG complaints. For sale by E. S. HARRISON & CO., Proprietors, No. 1 Tremont Temple, Boston, and by all Druggists.

☞ "Old" Norfolk county was eighty years ago a part of Suffolk county. The original Norfolk county of Massachusetts colony included the present state of New Hampshire and continued so till it became a separate commonwealth.

☞ The yield of gold from the California mines has decreased from $57,000,000 in 1863 to $20,000,000, the present average production. Fortunately, however, California has other resources, commercial industrial and agricultural, which have maintained a healthy and steady growth.

Good News for Legislators. A dead-head, while riding on a railroad in Indiana, met with an accident and sued the company for damages. The plea was put in that the injured party was traveling on a pass, but the jury gave him eight thousand dollars, notwithstanding.

A Good Suggestion. The New York Times suggests that the children should be taught the story of Tweed, and that Judge Davis's manly and searching address to the prisoner on pronouncing sentence should be incorporated into the reading books, in order to have the young folks imbued with the idea that a thief is a thief, and crime nothing less than crime, under all circumstances.

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

ON and after December 18th, 1873, a RAILROAD EXPRESS will run between

Quincy and Boston,

DAILY, leaving Quincy at 10.45 A. M., Returning, leave Boston at 2.30 P. M.

Orders will be taken from Boxes in Quincy, up to 10 o'clock, A. M. Orders may be left at the Depot, and at my Office, Hancock Street, rear of Wollaston Bank, up to the starting of the 10 47 train. More trains will be run to meet wants and wishes of the public early in Spring. It may be well to mention here the importance of sending in Orders as early as possible; Trains wait for no one, and more time is required to collect orders than many are aware of.—As I design, after a reasonable time, to make this Express second to none, I trust the public will bear this in mind, and thereby assist an earnest worker in serving the public faithfully.
Very respectfully,
C. S. COOLIDGE,
Proprietor.

THE BEST PAPER! TRY IT!!

Beautifully Illustrated.

The SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN now in its 29th year, enjoys the widest circulation of any weekly newspaper of the kind in the world. A new volume commences January 3, 1874.

Its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial Mechanical, and Scientific Progress in the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts.

The Scientific American is the cheapest and best illustrated weekly paper published. Every number contains from 10 to 15 original engravings of new machinery and novel inventions.

Engravings, illustrating Improvements, Discoveries and Important Works, pertaining to Civil and Mechanical Engineering Milling, and Metallurgy; Records of the latest progress in the Applications of Steam, Steam Engineering, Railways, Ship-Building, Navigation, Telegraphy, Telegraph Engineering, Electricity, Magnetism, Light and Heat.

Farmers, Mechanics Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, Teachers, Clergymen, Lawyers, and People of all Professions, will find the Scientific American useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office, and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College, Academy, or School.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. Terms $3 a year by mail. Discount to Clubs. Specimens sent free. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the Scientific American Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. All patents are published in the Scientific American the week they issue. Send for Pamphlet, 110 pages, containing laws and full directions for obtaining Patents.

Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, N. Y. Branch Office, cor. F and 7th. Sts., Washington, D. C.

Harper's Bazar.

Notices of the Press.

The Bazar is edited with a contribution of tact and talent that we seldom find in any journal; and the journal itself is the organ of the great world of fashion.—Boston Traveller.

The Bazar commends itself to every member of the household — to the children by droll and pretty pictures, to the young ladies by its fashion-plates in endless variety, to the provident matron by its patterns for the children's clothes to paterfamilias by its tasteful designs for embroidered slippers and luxurious dressing-gowns. But the reading-matter of the Bazar is uniformly of great excellence. The paper has acquired a wide popularity for the fireside enjoyment it affords.—N. Y. Evening Post.

Prospectus for 1874—Seventh Year.

THE ALDINE,

An Illustrated Monthly Journal, universally admitted to be the Handsomest Periodical in the World. A Representative and Champion of American Taste.

Not for Sale in Book or News Stores.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it has been bound up, at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then, there are the Chromos, besides!

Art Department.

The illustrations of THE ALDINE have won a world-wide reputation, and in the art centres of Europe it is an admitted fact that its wood cuts are examples of the highest perfection ever attained. The common prejudice in favor of "steel plates," is rapidly yielding to a more educated and discriminating taste which recognizes the advantages of superior artistic quality with greater facility of production. The wood-cuts of THE ALDINE possess all the delicacy and elaborate finish of the most costly steel plate, while they afford a better rendering of the artist's original.

To fully realize the wonderful work which THE ALDINE is doing for the cause of art culture in America, it is only necessary to consider the cost to the people of any other decent representations of the productions of great painters.

In addition to designs by the members of the National Academy, and other noted American artists, THE ALDINE will reproduce examples of the best foreign masters, selected with a view to the highest artistic success and greatest general interest. Thus the subscriber to THE ALDINE will, at a trifling cost, enjoy in his own home the pleasures and refining influences of true art.

The quarterly tinted plates for 1874 will be by Thos. Moran and J. D. Woodward.

The Christmas issue for 1874, will contain special designs appropriate to the season, by our best artists, and will surpass in attractions any of its predecessors.

Premium for 1874.

Every subscriber to THE ALDINE for the year 1874 will receive a pair of chromos. The original pictures were painted in oil for the publishers of THE ALDINE, by Thomas Moran, whose great Colorado picture was purchased by Congress for ten thousand dollars. The subjects were chosen to represent "The East" and "The West." One is a view in the White Mountains, New Hampshire; the other gives the Cliffs of Green River, Wyoming Territory. The difference in the nature of the scenes themselves is a pleasing contrast, and affords a good display of the artist's scope and coloring. The chromos are each worked from thirty distinct plates, and are in size (12x16) and appearance exact fac-similes of the originals. The presentation of a worthy example of America's greatest landscape painter to the subscribers of THE ALDINE was a bold but peculiarly happy idea, and its successful realization is attested by the following testimonial, over the signature of Mr. Moran himself.

Newark, N. J. Sept. 20th, 1873.

Messrs. James Sutton & Co.

Gentlemen.—I am delighted with the proofs in color of your Chromos. They are wonderfully successful representations by mechanical process of the original paintings.
Very respectfully,
(Signed,) THOS. MORAN.

These chromos are in every sense American. They are by an original American process, with material of American manufacture, from designs of American scenery by an American painter, and presented to subscribers to the first successful American Art Journal. If no better because of all this, they will certainly possess interest no foreign production can inspire, and neither are they any the worse if by reason of peculiar facilities of production they cost the publishers only a trifle, while equal in every respect to other chromos that are sold singly for double the Subscription price of THE ALDINE. Persons of taste will prize these pictures for themselves—not for the price they did or did not cost, and will appreciate the enterprize that renders their distribution possible.

If any subscriber should indicate a preference for a figure subject, the publishers will send "Thoughts of Home," a new and beautiful chromo, 14x20 inches, representing a little Italian exile whose speaking eyes betray the longings of his heart.

TERMS.

$5 per annum, in advance, with Oil Chromos free.

For 50 cents extra the Chromos will be sent, mounted, varnished, and prepaid by mail.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rate; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fac simile signature of James Sutton & Co.

Fourth Grand Gift Concert!!
FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE Public Library of Ky.,
OVER A MILLION IN BANK!
SUCCESS ASSURED.
A Full Drawing Certain,
On Tuesday, 31st of March Next.

In order to meet the general wish and expectation of the public and the ticket-holders for the full payment of the magnificent gifts announced for the Fourth Grand Gift Concert of the Public Library of Kentucky, the management have determined to postpone the Concert and Drawing until

TUESDAY, March 31st, 1874,

They have already realized

Over a Million Dollars,

and have a great many agents yet to hear from. No doubt is entertained of the sale of every ticket before the Drawing; but whether all are sold or not, the Concert and drawing will positively and unequivocally take place on the day now fixed, and if any remain unsold they will be cancelled, and the prizes will be reduced in proportion to the unsold tickets.

Only 60,000 tickets have been issued, and 12,000 CASH GIFTS.

$1,500.000

will be distributed among the ticket-holders.

The tickets are printed in coupons, of tenths, and all fractional parts will be represented in the drawing just as whole tickets are,

Poetry.

Be Cheery.

Be more cheerful, do not worry,
There is time enough to do
Every day the daily duties
That the Father sendeth you;
And to find some little moments
For heart-music fresh and new.

Learn a lesson from the robin
Nestling in the leafless tree,
Joyous roundelays he singeth
While he works right busily—
Building for the coming birdlings—
For the nestling yet to be.

Many things he has to vex him,
Frost and famine, wreck and wrong;
The half-bui ided nest may shatter
As the north wind sweeps along;
Yet he keeps his merry chirping
And his ever welcome song.

Ye who build up fame and fortune,
Working for your children's weal,
While they learn from you the lessons
Of endeavor, truth and zeal,
Teach them to make life a poem,
Whose glad rythm all may feel.

Home, Farm and Garden.

Hard and Soft Water.

The Journal of Applied Chemistry remarks upon the popular prejudice that hard water is dangerous to the health, and on that account we are constantly warned by physicians to beware of it; but in England, one of the leading authorities on this subject, Dr. Letherby, after devoting many years to an investigation into the properties of water introduced into English cities, and to a study of the sanitary reports on the subject, comes to the conclusion that moderately hard water is safer and more healthful than soft. Hard water is not only clearer, colder, more free from air, and consequently more agreeable to the eye and to the taste than soft water, but is less likely to absorb organic substances, to sustain the life of zymotic organisms, or to exert solvent properties upon salts of iron or upon leaden conducting pipes. The lime salts exert a beneficial influence upon the animal economy, and even protect the system from dangerous influences.

Dr. Wilson, of Edinburgh, has also collected much valuable material on the subject, and comes to the same conclusion as Dr. Letherby. He takes the ground that the human body requires for its nourishment and support a supply of certain mineral salts, among which carbonate and phosphate of lime play an important part in building up the compactness of the bones and in other functions. We usually obtain phospate of lime in our animal and vegetable food, but not from the water we drink. Carbonate of lime, however, is not contained in adequate quantity in our solid food, but generally obtained in spring and well water.

It has been incontestably shown that in mountainous districts, where the water is more or less hard, the inhabitants exhibit the best physical development. On the other hand, it is believed that in large cities the mortality is inversely as the hardness of water supplied to the inhabitants. A water which contains about six grains of carbonate of lime to the gallon is suitable for use in all household purposes. As a drink and for cooking food, such a water offers the necessary carbonate of lime for the support of life in the simplest, most natural, and most easily digested form, and is at the same time more agreeable, fresh and sparkling. It is evident that our preconceived popular notions on the subject of hard water need revising, and that it may be better to use such water than to have recourse to rain or ice water.

The Garden.

Was your table plentifully supplied last summer and fall, with the small fruits which make children love their home, and which promote both health and economy? With such fruits, the contents of the pork barrel, and plenty of fresh, juicy vegetables, the farmer need not pay out much for fresh meat during the hot weather. An early chicken, a lamb from his own flock, or a well fatted veal, will be likely to supply all deficiencies in the meat diet.

This winter is a good time to talk the matter over with wife and children, and arrange for a larger variety of fruits, vegetables and flowers. The ground occupied by them may be a small piece, but no weeds and high culture will bring a large supply.

Anecdotes.

"Why do they call the people that live in some of the South Sea Islands cannibals?" asked an old man of a sailor.

"Because they live on other people," answered the sailor.

"Then" said the old man, pensively, "my sons-in-law must be cannibals, for they live on me."

"Conductor, why didn't you wake me up as I asked you? Here I am, miles beyond my station."

"Conductor—"I did try, sir, but all I could get out of you was "All right, Maria; get the children their breakfast, and I'll be down in a minute."

"Pay me that six-and-eightpence you owe me, Mr. Tulrooney," said a village attorney."

"For what?"

"For the opinion you had of me."

"Faith, I never had any opinion of you in all my life."

Punch tells of a light-hearted sea-captain, who, when he had the misfortune to run his vessel on the Isle of Wight, poking his first officer in the ribs, cheerily observed:

"We have struck ile!"

THE
BOSTON DAILY ADVERTISER
For 1874.

PROSPECTUS:

THE DAILY ADVERTISER has no new promises to make for the coming year. While referring with confidence to the past for indications of its general character and policy, its purpose will be, now as heretofore, to meet the new demands that may be made upon it, and to give an accurate and faithful transcript of the times. A large and gratifying increase of circulation during the current year, in spite of the unusual depression in many branches of business, and the addition of new and improved presses and machinery, enable us to give the latest intelligence possible in the most attractive form, and to answer in all respects the requirements of A LEADING MORNING NEWSPAPER. To this end every edition will contain:

I
THE LATEST AND MOST VALUABLE INTELLIGENCE from all parts of the world.

II.
SPECIAL DESPATCHES AND CORRESPONDENCE from all points of special interest, at home and abroad.

III.
A COMPLETE RESUME OF LOCAL EVENTS, including reports of public gatherings, the legislature and the courts, societies devoted to trade, literature, philanthropy and religion.

IV.
MUSICAL, DRAMATIC, ART and LITERARY CRITICISM.

V.
EDITORIAL DISCUSSIONS of subjects of general interest and importance, comprising the judgement of experts and the results of actual experience, as far as possible, and treated in all cases with an honest purpose to arrive at the truth.

VI.
Market Reports, Prices Current, Stock Quotations, Financial, Commercial and Marine Intelligence—departments in which the Daily Advertiser has long been unrivalled, and intends to continue so.

VII.
Miscellaneous and News Selections, gathered from a very large list of exchanges and the best available sources.

To these regular and routine departments, special features will be added from time to time, as events may call for them; and no pains or labor will be spared to make the DAILY ADVERTISER as welcome and interesting to family and social circles as it is indispensable to the business community. In political matters, so far as parties are now divided on national questions, the DAILY ADVERTISER is warmly and consistently Republican; but recognizes no party obligation to defend or apologize for public men and measures simply because they bear that name. The Republican party has great vitality and a capacity for usefulness not yet seriously impaired. But in the course of a long succession of triumphs it has become tolerant of convenient abuses which ought to be swept away. The party itself stands in need of wholesome and independent criticism and we hold it to be the business of journals indentified with its history, and in full sympathy with its general policy, to administer it without malice, and at the same time without fear. To its literary department the DAILY ADVERTISER will give a wider scope than ever before, keeping not merely a record of new books with which our publishing houses are now overflowing, but also a record of the current events of literary or scientific interest at home and abroad, including letters from the most approved writers, extracts from new books, reports of the investigations of scholars, and intelligent and honest criticism of books as they appear. In the closely related department of musical and dramatic criticism, the DAILY ADVERTISER will continue to have the benefit of accomplished writers and critics wholly in sympathy with the public desire and the public need of the best the modern concert room and stage afford. With regard to the general interests of the community,—we aim to keep in mind and to advocate whatever tends to promote its welfare,—temperance, good morals, sound principles, Wise legislation,—and above all a healthy hatred of shams and frauds, on the watch for places of influence and repute to which they are not entitled by ability, character or by public or private services.

TERMS:

The subscription price of the DAILY ADVERTISER is $12 per annum. To clubs of five and under twenty, to one address, the price is $9.50 per copy. To clubs of twenty and upwards, the price is $9 per copy.

The subscription price of the SEMI-WEEKLY ADVERTISER is $4 per year, and is made up with special reference to the wants of our more distant subscribers.

The subscription price of the WEEKLY ADVERTISER is $2 per year. To clubs of 10 and upwards the price is $1.50 per copy.

The ever-increasing circulation of this excellent monthly proves its continued adaptation to popular desires and needs. Indeed, when we think into how many homes it penetrates every month, we must consider it as one of the educators as well as entertainers of the public mind, for its vast popularity has been won by no appeal to stupid prejudices or depraved tastes.—Boston Globe.

The character of this Magazine possesses for variety, enterprise, artistic wealth, and literary culture that has kept pace with, if it has not led the times, should cause its conductors to regard it with justifiable complacency. It also entitles them to a great claim upon the public gratitude. The Magazine has done good and not evil all the days of its life.—Brooklyn Eagle.
